IN SWIFT VERDICT

Jury Votes Death For Ruby's Action

DALLAS (AP) — Jack Ruby, his pallid face devoid of the tiniest trace of emotion, was condemned to death Saturday in a jury's swift verdict of murder with malice.

It took the panel of four women and eight men only two hours and 19 minutes to order the maximum penalty against Ruby for the Nov. 24 slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

PLEA REJECTED

The jury flatly rejected the plea of Ruby, 52, operator of a Dallas strip tease joint, that he was temporarily insane when he shot Oswald.

Mildred McCollum, one of the 12 jurors, said afterwards they had agreed not to disclose how many ballots they took. But she added: "We did take more than one."

Ruby's conviction was an aftermath to a stark sequence of American tragedy that began just 70 yards from the courthouse where he was condemned. That was the spot where an assassin's bullets struck Kennedy.

Chief defense attorney Melvin M. Belli, known as an outstanding civil court trial lawyer, but a loser in the biggest criminal case of his career, told newsmen after the verdict that one juror, whom he did not identify, had boasted to his employer that if he got on the Ruby panel he would vote the death penalty.

In reply, Judge Joe B. Brown said: "I heard something about that, but I didn't know when, where or under what circumstances it occurred. It was hearsay to me. All sorts of rumors go around. Mr. Belli has a right to his opinion."

"Unquestionably they had their minds made up," Belli said of the jurors. He conducted a long, futile fight to have the trial transferred outside of Dal-

Viet Troops Fight Reds Near Border

U.S. Backed Force Hits Guerrillas By Land, Sea, Air

HONG NHU, South Viet Nam (UPI) — American-supported Vietnamese forces attacked Communist guerrilla positions along the Cambodian border by land, sea and air Saturday. Two U.S. Army soldiers were wounded in the large-scale, sweeping operation.

One of the American casualties was an enlisted man assigned to a U.S. Army Special Forces team accompanying a Vietnamese strike force. He was wounded in the leg when a Vietnamese soldier accidentally triggered a Communist booby trap.

The other was believed to have been hit by gunfire aboard a U.S. Army helicopter providing air support for the assault.

Neither was identified, pending notification of their relatives.

A third American, identified as an Army pilot, was reported to have been wounded Friday in a separate operation in the Communist - infested Mekong River delta south of Saigon.

DAWN ATTACK

The Cambodian border attack, under the command of Vietnamese Third Army Corps Brig. Gen. Lam Van Phat, began shortly after daybreak at this village 90 miles west of Saigon. It continued through the day and into the night.

By nightfall, government forces claimed to have killed three Viet Cong guerrillas, captured 19 others and seized 26 suspected Communist rebels. Four Vietnamese troops were wounded.

A later report from U. S. military sources in Saigon said 500 suspected Viet Cong were captured in the operation. Reports here, however, indicated that some may have been villagers fleeing the scene of firefights between government forces and guerrillas.

The Vietnamese defense ministry in Saigon reported that 47 other Communists were killed and eight captured in a series of scattered engagements elsewhere during the day. Eight government soldiers were killed and 26 wounded in those actions.

TOY GUN HOLD UP

Atomic Bomb Pilot Jailed Eighth Time

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI) — Claude R. Eatherly, whose guilt feelings from the World War II bombings of Hiroshima have driven him repeatedly to jail and mental hospitals, was held under $10,000 bond Saturday charged with robbing a grocery with a toy pistol.

The balding, graying, 6-foot-tall Eatherly, 45-year-old former Air Force major, surrendered meekly to police who went to his home after D. P. Rogers' grocery was held up Friday night.

He was charged with robbery by assault with firearms. Even though the pistol was a toy, the charge applies because the victim had reason to believe it was a real gun, police said.

Eatherly was put under bond pending preliminary hearing Monday before Judge James L. McKenna.

The amount of loot taken from the grocery was not determined. Police said they found $100 in small bills in Eatherly's possession and a toy pistol under the seat of his auto at his home.

Eatherly has had problems since he cleared the way for the first atom bomb attack on Hiroshima. As pilot of the Straight Flush, the B29 that cleared the target for bombing, Eatherly gave the signal that sealed Hiroshima's doom.

Another B29, the Enola Gay piloted by Col. Paul Tibbets, dropped he bomb. Since the war, Eatherly has contributed his military pension to the Japanese, officers said.

Eatherly has been in jail seven times and in mental hospitals 10 times since then. He dreams of boiling fires and children running with their clothes in flames.

Hoffa Loses Effort For New Trial

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa, convicted on jury-tampering charges, lost a bid Saturday for a new trial.

Even before the judge acted, Hoffa had announced he would appeal to the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals, and if necessary, the U.S. Supreme Court.

U. S. Dist. Judge Frank Wilson, who sentenced Hoffa to eight years in prison and fined him $10,000 Thursday, formally overruled motions for a new trial by Hoffa and three others convicted with him.

ANOTHER TAMPERER

At the same time, Wilson said he will go to Nashville on March 30 for the trial of Lawrence Medlin, Nashville sandwich shop operator. Medlin is charged with having a part in the jury-tampering effort for which Hoffa and the three others were convicted.

Sentenced to three years each were Thomas E. Parks of Nashville; his nephew, Detroit Teamsters business agent Larry Campbell, and Ewing King, former Nashville Teamsters president. Two other defendants were acquitted.

All four defendants were convicted at the end of the seven-week trial here on charges of trying to fix the federal jury in Nashville which heard Hoffa's conspiracy trial in 1962. That case ended in a mistrial when the jury was deadlocked.

The defendants, all of whom have said they will appeal, have until March 24 to file notices with the 6th Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati. They are free on bond pending appeal.

Medlin was not tried here with the other defendants because he did not request a change of venue from Nashville to Chattanooga. The appellate court upheld his right to be tried in his home district.

He is charged with offering Nashville insurance agent J. C. Tippens $10,000 while Tippens was on the Nashville jury.

Hoffa was accused with Medlin in the original indictment, but Judge Wilson dismissed the charges against the Teamsters president.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Finland and Sweden troops left Saturday for a U.N. peace-keeping force in troubled Cyprus, leaving the force only about 1,000 short of its goal of 7,000 men.

The new battalions were expected to add about 700 men each to the 1,150 Canada had already started sending to Cyprus in what Ottawa called "Operation Snow Goose." That made a total of about 2,250 troops in prospect.

U. N. Secretary - General U Thant aimed to raise 3,500 from six or eight countries to replace half the 7,000 British troops trying to keep peace between Greek and Turkish Cypriots. Ireland has pledged 500 men.

Shooting Death Of Area Child Reported Here

WINNSBORO (Special) — Susan Dianne Smith, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde A. (Chubby) Smith, was accidentally shot to death at her home Saturday morning in Winnsboro.

The shooting occurred shortly after 10 a.m. According to Dr. Brashear Earle, Franklin Parish coroner, the accident occurred when the child and her 10-year-old brother, David, were playing with a single-shot .22-cal. rifle. The coroner ruled the shooting was accidental.

Susan was struck in the right chest by the shot. The coroner said the girl died minutes after arrivnig at Winnsboro's Rogers' clinic where she was rushed for treatment.

The child's parents were in New Orleans to visit Smith's brother-in-law who is hospitalized there with injuries sustained in an accident. The children were staying with their grandmother, Mrs. H. D. Davis Sr., who lived about one block from the Smith residence.

Miss Gussie B. Davis, an aunt, had planned to take the children fishing and the pair had returned home Saturday morning to change clothes in order to go with her, when the accident occurred.

Investigating sheriff's deputies stated the shooting took place in the living room, and the child ran to the kitchen before she fell. An older brother had been cleaning the gun earlier and left it in a closet where the smaller children found it.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete, but will be under direction of First National Funeral Home of Winnsboro.

Survivors, other than the parents and grandmother, include three brothers, David, Gary and Michael Smith, all of Winnsboro; and a number of aunts and uncles.

FEARFUL CONSTITUTENTS

Rights Mail Flow Stirs Up Senator

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, (R) N.Y., charged Saturday that "hate mongering" is being spread among people in his state and elsewhere by foes of the House passed civil rights bill.

"They are being deluged with propaganda and misinformation," he told the Senate when it met in an unusual Saturday session to continue debate on a motion to take the bill up for consideration. Keating said such tactics are bringing him heavy mail from fearful constituents.

Southern opponents are resisting this preliminary motion in protest against a leadership attempt to bring the measure up for action without first referring it to the Judiciary Committee for hearings.

Sen. Olin D. Johnston, D-S.C., described the bill as "monstrous" and said that to take it up without committee hearings amounted to "mob violence" in which the constitutional right of petition would be lynched.

Keating kicked off the debate with a speech protesting that various organizations are circulating information that gives a distorted view of the legislation.

"I don't intend to sit still while fears are instilled, lies are spread, and threats are made," he said.

The bill is aimed at eliminating racial discrimination in voting, in places of public accommodation, in schools, in employment, and in federal aid programs.

Keating said he has received thousands of letters from New Yorkers about the measure, with his mail about equally divided for and against it. In the first three weeks of February, he said, it was 10 to 7 against the bill.

"This may come as a surprise to many civil rights supporters, as it did to me," he said, observing that New York has been a leader in enacting civil rights

Ruby Remains Quiet, Relaxed After Verdict

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — "When Jack came into the cell, he was very calm. He was very quiet and relaxed," chief defense counsel Melvin M. Belli said.

Belli had just returned from visiting Jack Ruby in a special jail cell Saturday after a Dallas jury had sentenced him to death.

"Jack told me to tell every one how nice he'd been treated in the jail," Belli said.

Belli said he did not think Ruby yet realized the extent of what had happened.

"Jack didn't ask to see anybody. And he didn't ask for anything. He seemed calmer today than he has for a long time," Belli said.

Jet Crashes Near Minden, Kills Pilot

MINDEN, La. (AP)—A stubby-winged Marine jet aircraft plunged to earth about 13 miles north of Dixie Inn in Webster Parish shortly after 11 a.m. Saturday, killing the lone occupant.

Military authorities withheld the name of the dead pilot, a Marine lieutenant, pending notification of next of kin.

NO NEWSMEN

Military spokesmen and state police troopers refused to allow newsmen to visit the crash scene.

Witnesses said the plane broke through the clouds and dived at a steep angle into a pasture one-fourth mile northeast of state highway 7.

Wreckage was scattered in a very small area about 200 feet in radius from the crash crater. Ambulances and crash equipment were dispatched to the scene from Barksdale Air Force Base.

"I was walking up the road when I heard it," said Don Rachel, 17, who lived nearby. "I looked up and saw it come through the clouds from the southwest. He was really roaring. Just before he hit I heard a loud explosion."

Mrs. J. A. Morgan, housewife, said:

"I was sitting down at my kitchen table to have a sandwich when I heard this awful roar and something that sounded like one of those sonic booms."

LBJ To Begin Poverty War

WASHINGTON (AP)—After a month's delay because of internal differences and the touchy question of lowering the draft registration age, President Johnson's poverty message will go to Congress Monday.

The White House announced this firm date Saturday but gave no hint on how the delaying problems have been resolved. Likeliest guesses seem to be that the division-of-powers conflict will be compromised and lowering of the draft registration age will be shelved, at least temporarily.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON
. . . War On Poverty

Johnson has indicated he will ask about $1 billion for the program but probably will request only about a third of it for this year.

What a Labor Department source described earlier this week as "internal skirmishing" has centered around who is going to do what in Johnson's war on the poverty which he says afflicts as much as 20 per cent of Americans.

Like the Labor Department, the Welfare Department is intimately concerned with the battle plans because it has several programs aimed at helping those with substandard incomes and opportunities.

Both departments reportedly have been resisting a fullscale takeover of their anti - poverty functions by Sargent Shriver, named by Johnson to direct the war on poverty as a special presidential assistant.

Shriver is the director of the highly successful Peace Corps and is to retain that post at least temporarily while coordinating the anti-poverty drive.

Ill health and lack of education condemn many youths to an economic fate like that of their poverty-stricken parents. As one means of striking at this, Shriver has favored lowering the draft registration age, the idea being to disclose health and educational deficiencies earlier and to try correcting them through government program.

The sponsors insist that the sole aim is to prepare ailing and ill-educated youth for productive lives which would be impossible without correction of their handicaps.

There is no thought of bringing earlier inductions into military service, sponsors of this move insist. To support this, they note that nearly all inductions now are in the 22-23-year bracket.

But some administration officials are doubtful that the public would understand or accept this thesis and see grave political perils in such a step.

Even before the judge acted, Hoffa had announced he would appeal to the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals, and if necessary, the U.S. Supreme Court.

At the same time, Wilson said he will go to Nashville on March 30 for the trial of Lawrence Medlin, Nashville sandwich shop operator. Medlin is charged with having a part in the jury-tampering effort for which Hoffa and the three others were convicted.

Sentenced to three years each were Thomas E. Parks of Nashville; his nephew, Detroit Teamsters business agent Larry Campbell, and Ewing King, former Nashville Teamsters president. Two other defendants were acquitted.

All four defendants were convicted at the end of the seven-week trial here on charges of trying to fix the federal jury in Nashville which heard Hoffa's conspiracy trial in 1962. That case ended in a mistrial when the jury was deadlocked.

Medlin was not tried here with the other defendants because he did not request a change of venue from Nashville to Chattanooga. The appellate court upheld his right to be tried in his home district.

He is charged with offering Nashville insurance agent J. C. Tippens $10,000 while Tippens was on the Nashville jury.

Hoffa was accused with Medlin in the original indictment, but Judge Wilson dismissed the charges against the Teamsters president.

Investigating sheriff's deputies stated the shooting took place in the living room, and the child ran to the kitchen before she fell. An older brother had been cleaning the gun earlier and left it in a closet where the smaller children found it.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete, but will be under direction of First National Funeral Home of Winnsboro.

Survivors, other than the parents and grandmother, include three brothers, David, Gary and Michael Smith, all of Winnsboro; and a number of aunts and uncles.

Searchers Find Jet's Wreckage

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Searchers identified wreckage pulled from Lake Pontchartrain's muddy waters Saturday as that of a jetliner that crashed 20 days ago. They said it's the biggest bottom find yet, but they're not sure they have located the fuselage.

"We have hopes it is the main wreckage," said William Lamb of the Civil Aeronautics Board. "However, we will have to consider it as we recover more wreckage."

FEARFUL CONSTITUTENTS

Rights Mail Flow Stirs Up Senator

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, (R) N.Y., charged Saturday that "hate mongering" is being spread among people in his state and elsewhere by foes of the House passed civil rights bill.

"They are being deluged with propaganda and misinformation," he told the Senate when it met in an unusual Saturday session to continue debate on a motion to take the bill up for consideration. Keating said such tactics are bringing him heavy mail from fearful constituents.

Southern opponents are resisting this preliminary motion in protest against a leadership attempt to bring the measure up for action without first referring it to the Judiciary Committee for hearings.

Sen. Olin D. Johnston, D-S.C., described the bill as "monstrous" and said that to take it up without committee hearings amounted to "mob violence" in which the constitutional right of petition would be lynched.

Keating kicked off the debate with a speech protesting that various organizations are circulating information that gives a distorted view of the legislation.

"I don't intend to sit still while fears are instilled, lies are spread, and threats are made," he said.

The bill is aimed at eliminating racial discrimination in voting, in places of public accommodation, in schools, in employment, and in federal aid programs.

Keating said he has received thousands of letters from New Yorkers about the measure, with his mail about equally divided for and against it. In the first three weeks of February, he said, it was 10 to 7 against the bill.

"This may come as a surprise to many civil rights supporters, as it did to me," he said, observing that New York has been a leader in enacting civil rights

Ruby Remains Quiet, Relaxed After Verdict

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — "When Jack came into the cell, he was very calm. He was very quiet and relaxed," chief defense counsel Melvin M. Belli said.

Belli had just returned from visiting Jack Ruby in a special jail cell Saturday after a Dallas jury had sentenced him to death.

"Jack told me to tell every one how nice he'd been treated in the jail," Belli said.

Belli said he did not think Ruby yet realized the extent of what had happened.

"Jack didn't ask to see anybody. And he didn't ask for anything. He seemed calmer today than he has for a long time," Belli said.

Jet Crashes Near Minden, Kills Pilot

MINDEN, La. (AP)—A stubby-winged Marine jet aircraft plunged to earth about 13 miles north of Dixie Inn in Webster Parish shortly after 11 a.m. Saturday, killing the lone occupant.

Military authorities withheld the name of the dead pilot, a Marine lieutenant, pending notification of next of kin.

NO NEWSMEN

Military spokesmen and state police troopers refused to allow newsmen to visit the crash scene.

Witnesses said the plane broke through the clouds and dived at a steep angle into a pasture one-fourth mile northeast of state highway 7.

Wreckage was scattered in a very small area about 200 feet in radius from the crash crater. Ambulances and crash equipment were dispatched to the scene from Barksdale Air Force Base.

"I was walking up the road when I heard it," said Don Rachel, 17, who lived nearby. "I looked up and saw it come through the clouds from the southwest. He was really roaring. Just before he hit I heard a loud explosion."

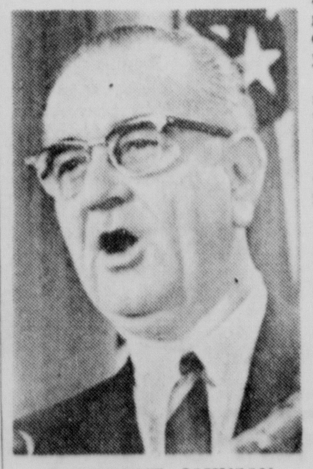

Mrs. J. A. Morgan, housewife, said:

"I was sitting down at my kitchen table to have a sandwich when I heard this awful roar and something that sounded like one of those sonic booms."

LBJ To Begin Poverty War

WASHINGTON (AP)—After a month's delay because of internal differences and the touchy question of lowering the draft registration age, President Johnson's poverty message will go to Congress Monday.

The White House announced this firm date Saturday but gave no hint on how the delaying problems have been resolved. Likeliest guesses seem to be that the division-of-powers conflict will be compromised and lowering of the draft registration age will be shelved, at least temporarily.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON . . . War On Poverty

Johnson has indicated he will ask about $1 billion for the program but probably will request only about a third of it for this year.

What a Labor Department source described earlier this week as "internal skirmishing" has centered around who is going to do what in Johnson's war on the poverty which he says afflicts as much as 20 per cent of Americans.

Like the Labor Department, the Welfare Department is intimately concerned with the battle plans because it has several programs aimed at helping those with substandard incomes and opportunities.

Both departments reportedly have been resisting a fullscale takeover of their anti - poverty functions by Sargent Shriver, named by Johnson to direct the war on poverty as a special presidential assistant.

Shriver is the director of the highly successful Peace Corps and is to retain that post at least temporarily while coordinating the anti-poverty drive.

Ill health and lack of education condemn many youths to an economic fate like that of their poverty-stricken parents. As one means of striking at this, Shriver has favored lowering the draft registration age, the idea being to disclose health and educational deficiencies earlier and to try correcting them through government program.

The sponsors insist that the sole aim is to prepare ailing and ill-educated youth for productive lives which would be impossible without correction of their handicaps.

There is no thought of bringing earlier inductions into military service, sponsors of this move insist. To support this, they note that nearly all inductions now are in the 22-23-year bracket.

But some administration officials are doubtful that the public would understand or accept this thesis and see grave political perils in such a step.

African Violet People Are Special Variety Of Own

By DOROTHY BURNS
World Society Editor

African violet people seem to be of a very special variety all their own, with an enthusiasm and passion for the magnificent little indoor plants they tend and nurture that is surely unsurpassed with any other type of flower or plant.

The growing popularity of African violets in this country and in this area specifically will be shown next Thursday afternoon and evening, when members of Monroe's La-Violette club put forth their very finest and most beautiful plants for their fourth annual African Violet show.

A theme of "Violets In The Spring" will be carried out for the show, which will be open to the public from 12 noon until 8:30 p.m., March 19, in the Louis Locke Room of the Ouachita Parish Public Library, 1800 Stubbs Avenue.

Show chairman, Mrs. J. E. Hart, promises an even finer show than in years past with more special features and a greater number of varieties on display. She and her committee, comprised of LaViolette club president, Mrs. F. E. McCarty, Mrs. H. A. Genung, who organized the club just over four years ago, Mrs. Bert Gambrell and Mrs. Alice Davidson, are putting together an exhibit they feel will attract visitors from miles around.

LOVING CARE

What is so special about African Violets? Why do people become almost addicted to their care, in watching for each new bloom, for each new rooting to take effect, in experimenting with the various methods of growing, lights and shade and feeding and temperatures? Perhaps it is because African violets add a touch of beauty to the life and surroundings of their owners, giving so much happiness and contentment in return for simple loving care. Perhaps it is because no other plant reaches so many people of so many ages in so many walks of life. Or perhaps it is because African violets are exquisite whether in a small group on a bedside table, gracing glass shelves in the kitchen, lining the windows of a living room or grown in mass profusion in the scientific surroundings of a greenhouse.

Variety is the keyword for the African violet grower. No member of LaViolette club numbers her plants by the dozens but rather by the hundreds, always seeking new varieties to add to her collection. While most growers experiment with the creation of new plants by pollination and grafting, new varieties are another matter. Before a new variety can be registered and named, a seedling must go through three generations to establish its habits and coloring before it is accepted by national.

SHOW

And what is so special about an African Violet show? Besides the fact that it is probably the most beautiful and unique flower exhibit put on in the Twin Cities each year, the show is non competitive with only the most perfect examples of the many varieties shown, without thought or jealousies as to whose plant was accorded the best placement.

Presenting the show as a public service to acquaint people of the area with African violets and interest more in growing them as a hobby, the committee this year will transform the showroom into a veritable spring garden.

Mrs. Gambrell is bringing the garden furniture and summer house from her own lovely yard to the library for a garden scene, in which she will create a rock garden effect from ironstone rocks, nestled with violets in a myriad of colors and varieties. No flower will be used in this scene other than African violets and related plants that are members of the same family. The plants used will come from the greenhouses and homes of all the club members, using those most heavily in flower, most perfect in size, shape and coloring.

FEATURES

For the first time, this year's African Violet show will offer an exhibit of Gesnesrids, which are the related plants or "kissing cousins" to the violets, requiring the same care and feeding. Examples of these are the Lipstick vine, gloxinia and epescia and they should make a most interesting display.

Other special exhibits will include one of miniature plants, another of variegated plants, which are the result of special hybridizing and are quite new in the African Violet world, a display of plants in unusual containers, and a table of new varieties created and registered during 1963.

Of great interest also will be the exhibit of the one hundred best varieties as listed by the African Violet Society of America. These varieties are selected on the basis of information sent in to the National society by Violet Club members throughout the country, listing the twenty-five best varieties in their individual collections. From these votes, the hundred best list is formed. Again all members of the club will be called upon to find the best example at this time of the hundred varieties to be displayed. Special notice will also be given to those varieties on the Honor Roll, those which have been on the hundred best list for five consecutive years.

Perhaps the most breathtaking array will be the steps or tiered display of hundreds of plants in every conceivable African violet color. Other plants will be exhibited on trees and in carts throughout the library room, creating a fantasy of violets for all to see.

African violet growers and fanciers are invited to come and browse to their heart's delight and enjoy the refreshments which will be served under the chairmanship of Mrs. A. M. Guerriero and Mrs. Louis Rolleigh. Assisting the show committee with arrangements for Thursday exhibit are Mrs. W. H. Pogue and Mrs. J. Floyd Stone.

Contributing their loveliest plants to the African violet show will be the members of LaViolette club, who are Mrs. V. S. Augspurger, Mrs. Fritz G. Becker, Mrs. L. F. Bewick, Mrs. F. E. Black, Mrs. Philip R. Bogel, Mrs. Henson Coon, Mrs. M. H. Collet, Mrs. Alice Davidson, Mrs. J. S. Drew, Mrs. Bert Gambrell, Mrs. H. A. Genung, Mrs. A. M. Guerriero, Mrs. J. E. Hart, Mrs. Julius Irving, Mrs. R. M. Kettenring, Mrs. F. E. McCarty, Mrs. W. H. Pogue, Mrs. W. C. Renwick, Mrs. Louis Rolleigh, Mrs. J. Floyd Stone, Mrs. W. W. Stevens, and Mrs. J. B. Young. Honorary members of the group are Mrs. Wood Brown and Mrs. W. R. Mitchell.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Several Fiction Books Available

By FRANCIS FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

This week there are a number of new books of fiction to offer the patrons of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. "The Enchantress" by Guy Bolton is a novel which might have been written thirty years ago. It is faintly reminiscent of the Graustark novels of George Barr McCutcheon. It is a story of international intrigue and will appeal to all who enjoy a story written about pleasant people in elegant surroundings. "Fool-Be Still" by Fannie Hurst is a very slight and shallow novel which will appeal to some women readers. It is excellent as a time - killer and does not come up to the mark of her better known "Back Streets". "The Big Brass Ring" by Don Tracy is a novel which some readers will like and others will find most objectionable. It is the story of two men, college friends, World War II buddies and the crack - up of one of them, after the death of the other. It is well-written and gives a true picture of the thirties, forties and fifties. There are some passages which are unforgettable.

"The Mercenary" by Charles Durbin paints an unforgettable picture of life in Italy during the period of the Renaissance and is one which will be long remembered. John Brick has written an excellent novel of border warfare during the years immediately following the American Revolution called "Captives of the Senecas." It paints the Indians in a most realistic manner and gives a very good idea of what life was like at that time and place. "Bridge and Sand" by Frank Gruber is a fast - paced story of international intrigue and will be popular with readers who enjoy this type of story. "Looking For the General" by Warren Miller comes under the category of science fiction and will interest all those who believe that intelligent beings live on other planets and make contact with earth people.

The field of non - fiction again offers an interesting variety of material. "American Journalism," by Frank Luther Mott is a new edition of the definitive history of this field and covers the newspapers of this country from 1690 to 1960. "The Meaning of the Qumran Scrolls for the Bible" is another book on the subject of the so called Dead Sea Scrolls and is devoted to a study of their connection with the book of Isaih. "Teaching Machines" by Benjamin Fine should be read by all educators. An interesting book for those who like American folklore is "The Bear Went Over The Mountain" edited by R. B. Downs. It is a collection of tall tales of American animals.

There are two new books in the field of science, "The Atoms Within Us" by Ernest Borek is an interesting book of biology, while "The World of Animals" by Joseph Wood Kruch adds much to our knowledge of nature and the habits of wild animals. There has been so much discussion of the U. S. Government report on "Smoking and Health" that we ordered copies of this report for each Library and they are now availble for our patrons. A delightful book of cartoons, by Charles Schulz (creator of Peanuts) is "Security is a Thumb and a Blanket". It will provide entertainment to many readers.

In the field of fine arts there are several new books, which will strengthen this field "Surrealism" by Patrick Waldberg is a good explanation of this type of painting. "Gilbert Stuart" by Charles Merrill Mount is a biography of one of the outstanding early American painters. "Understanding Music" by William S. Newman will be invaluable to the average listener, while "Introduction to Contemporary Music" by Joseph Machlis, will appeal to both the listener and the student. "Harmony' 'by Walter Piston is intended for the student. "Curtains" by Kenneth Tynam is an excellent book of dramatic criticism.

There are several excellent books in the literature section. "Contemporaries" by Alfred Kazin discusses a number of contemporary writers. "Thornton Wilder" by Rex Burbank and "Tennessee Williams" by Signi Falk are excellent books of literary criticism. We are also happy that we were able to add a complete set of the works of George Bernard Shaw to our collection.

Books of archaeology are always popular and the latest one is "Angkor" written by George Coedes. "The Decline of Pleasure" by Walter Kerr is a witty and penetrating appraisal of American life today. "The Anschluss" by Gordon Shepherd adds new light to the Nazi conquest of Europe. A book which will interest many of our readers is "History of the Choctaw, Chickasaw and Natchez Indians" written by H. B. Cushman. "The Forest People" by Colin M. Turnbull is a most interesting book about certain African tribes. "Cooper's Creek" by Alan Moorehead is a very well-written book about pioneer days in Australia. "Ozona Country" by Allan R. Bosworth is the story of a certain town in Texas and will interest many readers.

A new book about our late President, which will interest many readers is "A Day in the Life of President Kennedy" written by Jim Bishop. This reporter finished his interviews with the President just before he left on his fatal trip to Texas and he has written the book, just as he would have if the assassination had not occurred. It will be in great demand.

Polio Foundation Report Is Given

Significant gains were made by the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation during the past year in its program to utilize its facilities to care for patients disabled by strokes, arthritis, spinal cord injuries and other crippling disorders.

In its annual report for the year ended Sept. 30, 1963, released Saturday, the foundation revealed that 54 per cent of all patients treated during the year were admitted with diagnoses other than polio, the crippling disease which led Franklin D. Roosevelt to establish the Warm Springs institution in 1927.

Since the advent of the Salk vaccine in 1955, the foundation has applied the skills gained in 36 years of caring for polio patients to a wide range of other types of physical handicap.

The Warm Springs Foundation attracted patients from 31 states and 13 foreign countries. 6,590 examinations were made by Foundation physicians during the year and 694 patients were admitted for physical medicine or surgery, according to Basil O'Connor, president.

The Georgia institution, long noted as a center for advanced training in physical medicine, orthopedic surgery, therapy and rehabilitation nursing, continued to attract graduate students from many parts of the world. Graduate training for these students was made possible by a grant from the National Foundation March of Dimes.

The Georgia Rehabilitation Center, now under construction by the State of Georgia on land given to the State by the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation last year, is nearing completion and it is anticipated that the new center will be open in the early part of this year.

Polio Foundation Report Is Given

Significant gains were made by the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation during the past year in its program to utilize its facilities to care for patients disabled by strokes, arthritis, spinal cord injuries and other crippling disorders.

In its annual report for the year ended Sept. 30, 1963, released Saturday, the foundation revealed that 54 per cent of all patients treated during the year were admitted with diagnoses other than polio, the crippling disease which led Franklin D. Roosevelt to establish the Warm Springs institution in 1927.

Since the advent of the Salk vaccine in 1955, the foundation has applied the skills gained in 36 years of caring for polio patients to a wide range of other types of physical handicap.

The Warm Springs Foundation attracted patients from 31 states and 13 foreign countries. 6,590 examinations were made by Foundation physicians during the year and 694 patients were admitted for physical medicine or surgery, according to Basil O'Connor, president.

Rights Mail Flow Stirs Up Senator

measures.

Keating asked why there is so much opposition among New Yorkers and said the answer could be summed up in just two words — "misinformation and hysteria."

"Both have been engendered by racist propaganda which has been widely distributed in northern states," he said, referring particularly to the Coordinating Committee for Fundamental American Freedoms, Inc.

He said this is "really a front group for the Mississippi State Sovereignty Commission, an organization created by and financed by the Mississippi State Legislature."

Reading excerpts from his mail, Keating cited charges that the bill is Communist-inspired, would destroy union security and seniority systems, force persons to sell their homes to Negroes, interfere with private social activities, and cut off veterans pensions and Social Security payments if state officials engaged in any discriminatory action.

Keating called these allegations "patently false" and described them as nonsense and claptrap. He said "the hatemongers and the smear specialists are at work again."

Johnston, chief speaker for the Dixie forces, attacked the bill as "a legislative hydrogen bomb capable of destroying freedom."

"It contains dictatorial authority for the president and the multi-armed branches of the federal government," he said in urging that the measure be subjected to Judiciary Committee hearings.

Bus Plunge Fatal

PASTO, Colombia (AP) — A bus loaded with about 40 school children headed for a three-day outing plunged down a 300-foot cliff into a river Friday and authorities Saturday listed 33 dead.

Two of the dead were said to have been teachers accompanying the group, from a school in the Ecuadorean border in the town of Ipiales.

The bus which crashed, one of three making the journey, apparently suffered some sort of mechanical failure 25 miles south of this capital of the state of Marino.

Jury Votes Death For Ruby's Action

A portly, gray-haired San Francisco attorney, Belli was beside himself with rage in the courtroom in the instant after the verdict was returned at 12:22 p.m. He sprang to his feet. His face reddened. Judge Brown tried vainly to quiet him. But he shouted:

"This is a victory for bigotry. We'll appeal this to a court where we can get due justice and law."

Then as Ruby, still seemingly uncomprehending, was led past him in the custody of a phalanx of burly sheriff's deputies, the defense chief cried:

"Don't worry Jack! We'll appeal this and take it out of Texas."

The packed courtroom was thrown into wild confusion immediately after the verdict, although Judge Brown had warned against any demonstrations. Network television cameras, admitted to the room for the verdict by a last-minute decision of the court, recorded the scene. It was believed to be the first time in the history of major American criminal trials that such a scene was televised.

Dist. Atty. Henry M. Wade, 50, a blunt-faced, gray-haired prosecutor who 24 times before has sent a defendant to the chair, said he anticipated it would be at least two years before Ruby can be executed, assuming the verdict stands. He said the appeal process would probably take at least that long.

Ruby was returned to the Dallas County Jail where he has been held without bond since the day he killed Oswald. Sheriff Bill Decker said he will remain there until his last appeal is exhausted. Then the actual date for execution would be set by Judge Brown.

Ruby, a paunchy, slight man with a few wisps of dark hair across a nearly bald head, stepped from a crowd in the basement of Dallas police headquarters at 11:21 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 24. With a single bullet, he cut down the 24-year-old Oswald, a loner, a professed Marxist and the man charged officially with the assassination 48 hours earlier of the 35th President of the United States.

The state called the crime murder with malice. Wade described Ruby as a glory seeker, and told the jury he hoped to gain materially as the killer of an accused presidential assassin. State testimony quoted Ruby as saying he killed Oswald "to show the world that Jews do have guts."

The defense pleaded temporary insanity. Their witnesses told of youthful head injuries which they said led to Ruby's suffering psychomotor epilepsy. This was described as a rare form of the disease, characterized by violent rages, and blackout seizures. It was during such a robot period, Belli insisted, that Ruby killed Oswald, not knowing what he was doing in advance and without any clear memory afterwards of what he had done.

Six Wells Completed In District

Ouachita Parish accounted for half of the six completed wells last week in the Monroe Oil & Gas District, recording three gas finals in the Monroe Field.

Rapides, Caldwell and Union Parishes each reported one completion.

The figures were included in a weekly report by District Manager Duncan S. Cook which otherwise reflected generally lackadaisical activity, the lull before an expected spring spurt.

Nineteen rigs were actively drilling or testing in eight of the district's 15 parishes, and 10 new locations were staked in six parishes.

Two recompletions during the week were described by Cook as follows:

CONCORDIA PARISH, Lake St. John Field — The California Company's Louisiana State 476 No. 2, recompleted at 4650 feet in section 13-8-10E.

RAPIDES PARISH, Big Island Field — Union Producing & M. H. Marr's Hudson Unit No. 1, recompleted at 10,223 feet in section 11-4-3E.

LaSalle Parish had nine of the 19 active rigs, followed by three in Caldwell and two in Union. Avoyelles, Concordia, Franklin, Madison and Tensas Parishes each reported one.

The new locations included three in Concordia Parish, two each in Rapides and Catahoula and one each in Caldwell, Morehouse and Union Parishes.

Two wells were abandoned in the district, leaving 68 inactive sites.

Maj. Gen. Carlos Flores de Paiva Chaves of Brazil.

The Canadian force commander is Col. Edward C. Amy.

Lt. Col. Andrew Woodcock, 44, of Sarnia, Ont., a 22nd Regiment commander, was asked by newsmen if he thought the task of peacekeeping would be difficult.

"If we have the cooperation of Greek and Turkish Cypriots, I think it would go well," he replied.

He said in answer to another question that the Canadians hope they do not have to use their guns but said they would "To protect our arms, our lives."

The troops were wearing blue U.N. berets issued to them before boarding the plane for the 22-hour flight to Nicosia from Canada.

The Canadian forces will help British troops which have been policing Cyprus since the outburst of communal fighting in December.

Heavy gloom set led over the surrounded Turkish quarter here when it was learned there would be no immediate Turkish military landings.

Keating asked why there is so much opposition among New Yorkers and said the answer could be summed up in just two words — "misinformation and hysteria."

"Both have been engendered by racist propaganda which has been widely distributed in northern states," he said, referring particularly to the Coordinating Committee for Fundamental American Freedoms, Inc.

He said this is "really a front group for the Mississippi State Sovereignty Commission, an organization created by and financed by the Mississippi State Legislature."

Reading excerpts from his mail, Keating cited charges that the bill is Communist-inspired, would destroy union security and seniority systems, force persons to sell their homes to Negroes, interfere with private social activities, and cut off veterans pensions and Social Security payments if state officials engaged in any discriminatory action.

Keating called these allegations "patently false" and described them as nonsense and claptrap. He said "the hatemongers and the smear specialists are at work again."

Johnston, chief speaker for the Dixie forces, attacked the bill as "a legislative hydrogen bomb capable of destroying freedom."

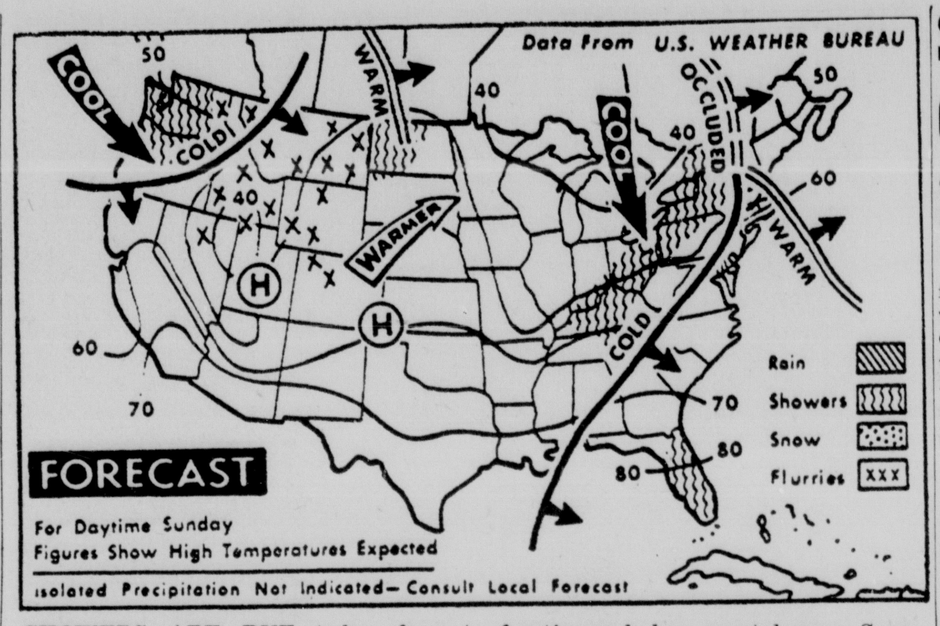

"It contains dictatorial authority for the president and the multi-armed branches of the federal government," he said in urging that the measure be subjected to Judiciary Committee hearings.

Bus Plunge Fatal

PASTO, Colombia (AP) — A bus loaded with about 40 school children headed for a three-day outing plunged down a 300-foot cliff into a river Friday and authorities Saturday listed 33 dead.

Two of the dead were said to have been teachers accompanying the group, from a school in the Ecuadorean border in the town of Ipiales.

Jury Votes Death For Ruby's Action

A portly, gray-haired San Francisco attorney, Belli was beside himself with rage in the courtroom in the instant after the verdict was returned at 12:22 p.m. He sprang to his feet. His face reddened. Judge Brown tried vainly to quiet him. But he shouted:

"This is a victory for bigotry. We'll appeal this to a court where we can get due justice and law."

Then as Ruby, still seemingly uncomprehending, was led past him in the custody of a phalanx of burly sheriff's deputies, the defense chief cried:

The packed courtroom was thrown into wild confusion immediately after the verdict, although Judge Brown had warned against any demonstrations. Network television cameras, admitted to the room for the verdict by a last-minute decision of the court, recorded the scene. It was believed to be the first time in the history of major American criminal trials that such a scene was televised.

Dist. Atty. Henry M. Wade, 50, a blunt-faced, gray-haired prosecutor who 24 times before has sent a defendant to the chair, said he anticipated it would be at least two years before Ruby can be executed, assuming the verdict stands. He said the appeal process would probably take at least that long.

Ruby was returned to the Dallas County Jail where he has been held without bond since the day he killed Oswald. Sheriff Bill Decker said he will remain there until his last appeal is exhausted. Then the actual date for execution would be set by Judge Brown.

Ruby, a paunchy, slight man with a few wisps of dark hair across a nearly bald head, stepped from a crowd in the basement of Dallas police headquarters at 11:21 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 24. With a single bullet, he cut down the 24-year-old Oswald, a loner, a professed Marxist and the man charged officially with the assassination 48 hours earlier of the 35th President of the United States.

The state called the crime murder with malice. Wade described Ruby as a glory seeker, and told the jury he hoped to gain materially as the killer of an accused presidential assassin. State testimony quoted Ruby as saying he killed Oswald "to show the world that Jews do have guts."

The defense pleaded temporary insanity. Their witnesses told of youthful head injuries which they said led to Ruby's suffering psychomotor epilepsy. This was described as a rare form of the disease, characterized by violent rages, and blackout seizures. It was during such a robot period, Belli insisted, that Ruby killed Oswald, not knowing what he was doing in advance and without any clear memory afterwards of what he had done.

Six Wells Completed In District

Ouachita Parish accounted for half of the six completed wells last week in the Monroe Oil & Gas District, recording three gas finals in the Monroe Field.

Rapides, Caldwell and Union Parishes each reported one completion.

The figures were included in a weekly report by District Manager Duncan S. Cook which otherwise reflected generally lackadaisical activity, the lull before an expected spring spurt.

Nineteen rigs were actively drilling or testing in eight of the district's 15 parishes, and 10 new locations were staked in six parishes.

Two recompletions during the week were described by Cook as follows:

CONCORDIA PARISH, Lake St. John Field — The California Company's Louisiana State 476 No. 2, recompleted at 4650 feet in section 13-8-10E.

RAPIDES PARISH, Big Island Field — Union Producing & M. H. Marr's Hudson Unit No. 1, recompleted at 10,223 feet in section 11-4-3E.

LaSalle Parish had nine of the 19 active rigs, followed by three in Caldwell and two in Union. Avoyelles, Concordia, Franklin, Madison and Tensas Parishes each reported one.

The new locations included three in Concordia Parish, two each in Rapides and Catahoula and one each in Caldwell, Morehouse and Union Parishes.

Two wells were abandoned in the district, leaving 68 inactive sites.

Cook's report included these data on the week's activity:

Running the Scales

By JOHN CALE

Some young singers from Texas and a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta loom on the musical horizon for the coming week. There are also some pleasant after-effects of events of the past weekend — in the line of musical observation, of course — which bear a few comments.

The Texas Boys' Choir under the direction of George Bragg will appear on the La. Tech Concert Association series Tuesday and Wednesday at 8 p.m. The Tuesday performance is designated for public membership while the subsequent concert is for students.

The program will include choral works from the 16th and 17th century English school all the way to Mozart, Wagner, Bizet and "Bury Me Not on the Lone Prairie," along with other popular folk ballads from the Lone Star State.

MIKADO

The cast includes leading roles played by Dr. John Goorley, Sidney Martin, W. J. Haddad, Claude Fuller, Frank Swindle, Marian Mann, Donna Barber, Dorothy Fortenberry and Barbara Addison.

Frankly, we're happy to see a turning away from the Broadway "hit" sort of thing, especially for college undertakings. Gilbert and Sullivan did a fine job of setting the English language to music. Even though their operettas are hardly profound, they do excel in the presentation of rollicking humor. When it comes to light opera composed in English, the team has never been surpassed. Northeast's presentation of "The Mikado" could turn out to be a true classic. Dr. Eloy Fominya will conduct the orchestra and George Brian is in charge of stage direction.

Speaking of student productions, Louisiana Tech's Music Department came forward last weekend with a first-rate "Marriage of Figaro." Anyone who has played or sung anything by this undisputed genius of the 18th century — from his little piano pieces written when he was about six on to the arias in "Figaro" and "Don Giovanni" — realizes he is treading on musically sacred ground.

The soloists, though young, delivered the necessary vocal goods. The choral work — particularly the number in Act IV — orchestra and sets, abbreviated but completely adequate, lent fine support.

Nancy Walker, a sophomore from Minden, came through with a voice and general bearing of one far more experienced on the operatic stage. Lee Davis and Mary Beth Williams, both of whom won top places in recent Metropolitan Opera district auditions in Shreveport, held down the leading roles of Figaro and Suzanna. Their voices were exceptional. But, perhaps better still for the overall performance, they showed none of the prima donna affectations which used to botch up so many school performances where better-than-average singers were involved.

In the supporting roles of the pageboy, the priest and the count, played by Jerlynne Lott, David Wylie and James Alexander, respectively, there was also vocal work in the soprano, tenor and baritone registers. Good tenors are rare, but Wylie's voice came through nicely in his last act aria.

One of the unexpected highlights in an evening full of surprises was Alexander's deep South accent in the recitative passages with harpsichord. This was no drawback, in fact the diction was as clear as his true baritone line in the vocal parts.

SYMPHONY

Another pleasant musical on a damp Monday evening was the concert of the Monroe Youth Symphony under the direction of Roger Di Guilian. This organization, which blends instrumental efforts of city and parish student musicians, has won a whole list of laurels in state festivals.

The whole body of tone comes through well from all sections, and the well disciplined attacks and bowing in the violin choir are particularly impressive. The program was well-balanced, ranging from a novelty "Waltzing Cat" by LeRoy Anderson to an intricate fugue featuring cellists Susan Martin, Mike Strausser and Will Reardon.

Robert Christmas, violinist, and Kay Odom, pianist, performed a concert piece, "Scene De Ballet," which had all the makings of a difficult concerto.

The students who've been playing with the group for several years appear to have forgotten all those rumors about lace collars and string music other than hillbilly type. In fact, the bass violin crew appeared to enjoy their part of it so much until we'd be willing to give up our Social Security cards and join 'em if we could.

ROTARY DISTRICT MEET

Argentine Speaker Urges Friendship

By SARAH LITTLE
World Staff Writer

"Argentina wants to establish a greater understanding, peace and friendship with America," Tristan Guevara of Cordoba, Argentina, told Rotary club members Saturday night at the close of their annual district conference.

Around 300 Rotarians and their wives were present for the governor's dinner at the Paragon Club which climaxed the two - day meet of the 619th Rotary District which comprises 24 clubs in Northeast Louisiana.

DESCRIBES NATION

Guevara, an Argentine attorney and Rotarian, was featured speaker at the banquet and gave a brief description of his country, located in South America. He pointed out that Argentina has many areas that closely resemble the natural terrain and resources of this area of the United States.

He said Argentina has a population of 21 - million and is rapidly advancing in technological progress and industrial expansion. He credited better understanding and friendship with the United States for much of this progress, pointing out that Argentina still offers "opportunities for great investment of American capital."

However, he added that Americans need to put themselves out a little more to learn about other countries customs and their languages, saying it was bad for countries to have language barriers barring the door to progress of "mutual peace, prosperity and friendship."

NEW GOVERNOR

Jack May, a Monroe Rotarian and governor of the 619th district, was emcee of the Saturday night closing session and introduced the new governor nominee elected at this conference — Paul Brown of Shreveport. Brown will take over the duties of governor of the district in July.

Special entertainment was provided the banquet by soloist Mrs. Elloise Temple Anspach accompanied at the piano by her husband, Leroy Anspach.

At the close of the banquet, Guevara and his wife, Maria, were presented a special gift from the Rotary Club by May's wife, who made the presentation in Spanish. A gift was also given to the Mays by the district. Past District Governor John Fox made the presentation.

Special recognition was given to many local and area Rotarians, including Grayson Guthrie, president of the Monroe Rotary Club, who hosted the conference; George Rorex, Stan Bagwell, Tommy and Harry Frazier, Henry Hayes, Ben Marshall, Shelby Hill, Mike Pickett, and many others.

Saturday's events included a president's and secretary's breakfast at the Virginia Hotel where the convention headquartered, several plennary sessions and a business luncheon for the men. The ladies had lunch at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club and toured the gardens and home of Miss Emylou Biedenharn and The Trend House.

Red Press Tones Down Spy Attack

BERLIN (UPI) — The Communist press toned down its spy charges Saturday against three U.S. airmen shot down over East Germany but American officials warned that the fliers may be in Communist hands for a long time.

Hopes for a speedy return faded because of the reported Soviet refusal to tell U.S. military liaison mission officers anything about the airmen who are reported in "investigative custody" before an expected "spy trial" in a Communist court.

The airmen are Capt. David I. Holland, 35, of Holland, Minn.; Capt. Melvin J. Kessler, 30, of Philadelphia and 1st Lt. Harold W. Welch 24, of Detroit. Their RB66 reconnaissance plane was shot down over East Germany Tuesday.

Rights Mail Flow Stirs Up Senator

measures.

Keating asked why there is so much opposition among New Yorkers and said the answer could be summed up in just two words — "misinformation and hysteria."

"Both have been engendered by racist propaganda which has been widely distributed in northern states," he said, referring particularly to the Coordinating Committee for Fundamental American Freedoms, Inc.

He said this is "really a front group for the Mississippi State Sovereignty Commission, an organization created by and financed by the Mississippi State Legislature."

Reading excerpts from his mail, Keating cited charges that the bill is Communist-inspired, would destroy union security and seniority systems, force persons to sell their homes to Negroes, interfere with private social activities, and cut off veterans pensions and Social Security payments if state officials engaged in any discriminatory action.

Keating called these allegations "patently false" and described them as nonsense and claptrap. He said "the hatemongers and the smear specialists are at work again."

Johnston, chief speaker for the Dixie forces, attacked the bill as "a legislative hydrogen bomb capable of destroying freedom."

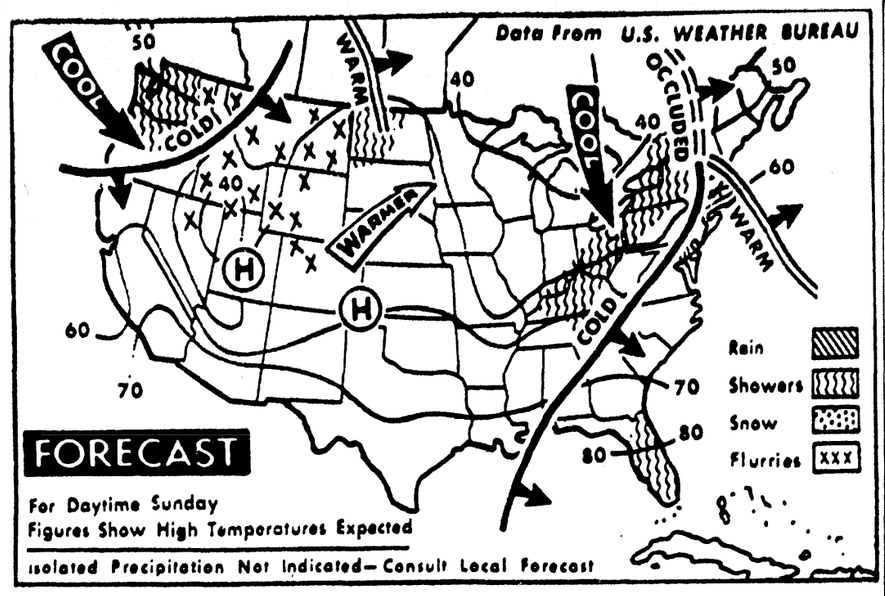

"It contains dictatorial authority for the president and the multi-armed branches of the federal government," he said in urging that the measure be subjected to Judiciary Committee hearings.

Bus Plunge Fatal

PASTO, Colombia (AP) — A bus loaded with about 40 school children headed for a three-day outing plunged down a 300-foot cliff into a river Friday and authorities Saturday listed 33 dead.

Two of the dead were said to have been teachers accompanying the group, from a school in the Ecuadorean border in the town of Ipiales.

The bus which crashed, one of three making the journey, apparently suffered some sort of mechanical failure 25 miles south of this capital of the state of Marino.

Jury Votes Death For Ruby's Action

A portly, gray-haired San Francisco attorney, Belli was beside himself with rage in the courtroom in the instant after the verdict was returned at 12:22 p.m. He sprang to his feet. His face reddened. Judge Brown tried vainly to quiet him. But he shouted:

"This is a victory for bigotry. We'll appeal this to a court where we can get due justice and law."

Then as Ruby, still seemingly uncomprehending, was led past him in the custody of a phalanx of burly sheriff's deputies, the defense chief cried:

The packed courtroom was thrown into wild confusion immediately after the verdict, although Judge Brown had warned against any demonstrations. Network television cameras, admitted to the room for the verdict by a last-minute decision of the court, recorded the scene. It was believed to be the first time in the history of major American criminal trials that such a scene was televised.

Dist. Atty. Henry M. Wade, 50, a blunt-faced, gray-haired prosecutor who 24 times before has sent a defendant to the chair, said he anticipated it would be at least two years before Ruby can be executed, assuming the verdict stands. He said the appeal process would probably take at least that long.

Ruby was returned to the Dallas County Jail where he has been held without bond since the day he killed Oswald. Sheriff Bill Decker said he will remain there until his last appeal is exhausted. Then the actual date for execution would be set by Judge Brown.

Ruby, a paunchy, slight man with a few wisps of dark hair across a nearly bald head, stepped from a crowd in the basement of Dallas police headquarters at 11:21 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 24. With a single bullet, he cut down the 24-year-old Oswald, a loner, a professed Marxist and the man charged officially with the assassination 48 hours earlier of the 35th President of the United States.

The state called the crime murder with malice. Wade described Ruby as a glory seeker, and told the jury he hoped to gain materially as the killer of an accused presidential assassin. State testimony quoted Ruby as saying he killed Oswald "to show the world that Jews do have guts."

The defense pleaded temporary insanity. Their witnesses told of youthful head injuries which they said led to Ruby's suffering psychomotor epilepsy. This was described as a rare form of the disease, characterized by violent rages, and blackout seizures. It was during such a robot period, Belli insisted, that Ruby killed Oswald, not knowing what he was doing in advance and without any clear memory afterwards of what he had done.

Six Wells Completed In District

Ouachita Parish accounted for half of the six completed wells last week in the Monroe Oil & Gas District, recording three gas finals in the Monroe Field.

Rapides, Caldwell and Union Parishes each reported one completion.

The figures were included in a weekly report by District Manager Duncan S. Cook which otherwise reflected generally lackadaisical activity, the lull before an expected spring spurt.

Nineteen rigs were actively drilling or testing in eight of the district's 15 parishes, and 10 new locations were staked in six parishes.

Two recompletions during the week were described by Cook as follows:

CONCORDIA PARISH, Lake St. John Field — The California Company's Louisiana State 476 No. 2, recompleted at 4650 feet in section 13-8-10E.

RAPIDES PARISH, Big Island Field — Union Producing & M. H. Marr's Hudson Unit No. 1, recompleted at 10,223 feet in section 11-4-3E.

LaSalle Parish had nine of the 19 active rigs, followed by three in Caldwell and two in Union. Avoyelles, Concordia, Franklin, Madison and Tensas Parishes each reported one.

The new locations included three in Concordia Parish, two each in Rapides and Catahoula and one each in Caldwell, Morehouse and Union Parishes.

Two wells were abandoned in the district, leaving 68 inactive sites.

Troops Fail To Dispell Turk Fears

Maj. Gen. Carlos Flores de Paiva Chaves of Brazil.

The Canadian force commander is Col. Edward C. Amy.

Lt. Col. Andrew Woodcock, 44 of Sarnia, Ont., a 22nd Regiment commander, was asked by newsmen if he thought the task of peacekeeping would be difficult.

"If we have the cooperation of Greek and Turkish Cypriots, I think it would go well," he replied.

He said in answer to another question that the Canadians hope they do not have to use their guns but said they would "To protect our arms, our lives."

The troops were wearing blue U.N. berets issued to them before boarding the plane for the 22-hour flight to Nicosia from Canada.

The Canadian forces will help British troops which have been policing Cyprus since the outburst of communal fighting in December.

Heavy gloom set led over the surrounded Turkish quarter here when it was learned there would be no immediate Turkish military landings.

measures.

Keating asked why there is so much opposition among New Yorkers and said the answer could be summed up in just two words — "misinformation and hysteria."

"Both have been engendered by racist propaganda which has been widely distributed in northern states," he said, referring particularly to the Coordinating Committee for Fundamental American Freedoms, Inc.

He said this is "really a front group for the Mississippi State Sovereignty Commission, an organization created by and financed by the Mississippi State Legislature."

Reading excerpts from his mail, Keating cited charges that the bill is Communist-inspired, would destroy union security and seniority systems, force persons to sell their homes to Negroes, interfere with private social activities, and cut off veterans pensions and Social Security payments if state officials engaged in any discriminatory action.

Keating called these allegations "patently false" and described them as nonsense and claptrap. He said "the hatemongers and the smear specialists are at work again."

Johnston, chief speaker for the Dixie forces, attacked the bill as "a legislative hydrogen bomb capable of destroying freedom."

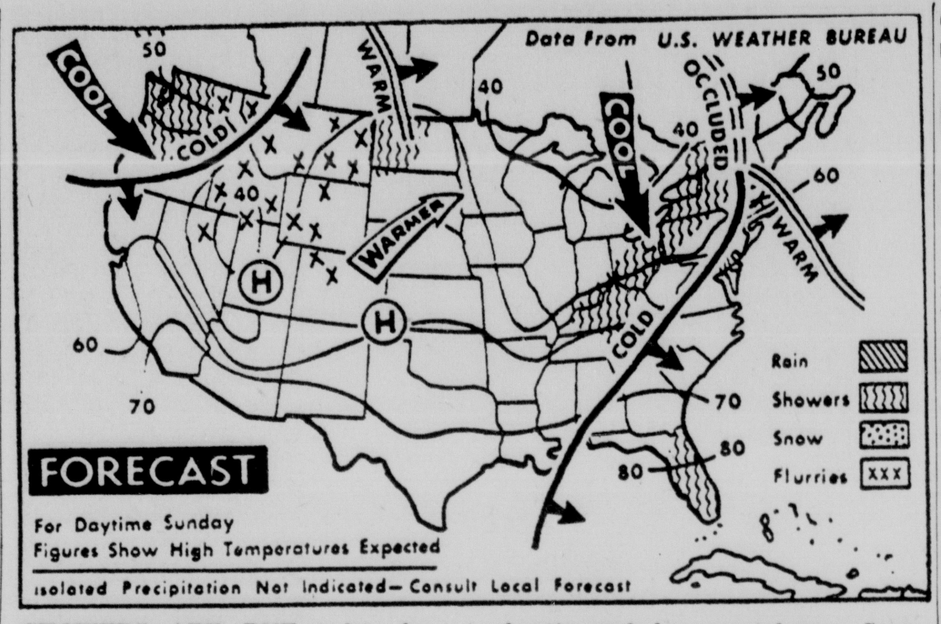

"It contains dictatorial authority for the president and the multi-armed branches of the federal government," he said in urging that the measure be subjected to Judiciary Committee hearings.

Bus Plunge Fatal

PASTO, Colombia (AP) — A bus loaded with about 40 school children headed for a three-day outing plunged down a 300-foot cliff into a river Friday and authorities Saturday listed 33 dead.

Two of the dead were said to have been teachers accompanying the group, from a school in the Ecuadorean border in the town of Ipiales.

The bus which crashed, one of three making the journey, apparently suffered some sort of mechanical failure 25 miles south of this capital of the state of Marino.

Jury Votes Death For Ruby's Action

A portly, gray-haired San Francisco attorney, Belli was beside himself with rage in the courtroom in the instant after the verdict was returned at 12:22 p.m. He sprang to his feet. His face reddened. Judge Brown tried vainly to quiet him. But he shouted:

"This is a victory for bigotry. We'll appeal this to a court where we can get due justice and law."

Then as Ruby, still seemingly uncomprehending, was led past him in the custody of a phalanx of burly sheriff's deputies, the defense chief cried:

The packed courtroom was thrown into wild confusion immediately after the verdict, although Judge Brown had warned against any demonstrations. Network television cameras, admitted to the room for the verdict by a last-minute decision of the court, recorded the scene. It was believed to be the first time in the history of major American criminal trials that such a scene was televised.

Dist. Atty. Henry M. Wade, 50, a blunt-faced, gray-haired prosecutor who 24 times before has sent a defendant to the chair, said he anticipated it would be at least two years before Ruby can be executed, assuming the verdict stands. He said the appeal process would probably take at least that long.

Ruby was returned to the Dallas County Jail where he has been held without bond since the day he killed Oswald. Sheriff Bill Decker said he will remain there until his last appeal is exhausted. Then the actual date for execution would be set by Judge Brown.

Ruby, a paunchy, slight man with a few wisps of dark hair across a nearly bald head, stepped from a crowd in the basement of Dallas police headquarters at 11:21 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 24. With a single bullet, he cut down the 24-year-old Oswald, a loner, a professed Marxist and the man charged officially with the assassination 48 hours earlier of the 35th President of the United States.

The state called the crime murder with malice. Wade described Ruby as a glory seeker, and told the jury he hoped to gain materially as the killer of an accused presidential assassin. State testimony quoted Ruby as saying he killed Oswald "to show the world that Jews do have guts."

The defense pleaded temporary insanity. Their witnesses told of youthful head injuries which they said led to Ruby's suffering psychomotor epilepsy. This was described as a rare form of the disease, characterized by violent rages, and blackout seizures. It was during such a robot period, Belli insisted, that Ruby killed Oswald, not knowing what he was doing in advance and without any clear memory afterwards of what he had done.

Maj. Gen. Carlos Flores de Paiva Chaves of Brazil.

The Canadian force commander is Col. Edward C. Amy.

Lt. Col. Andrew Woodcock, 44, of Sarnia, Ont., a 22nd Regiment commander, was asked by newsmen if he thought the task of peacekeeping would be difficult.

"If we have the cooperation of Greek and Turkish Cypriots, I think it would go well," he replied.

He said in answer to another question that the Canadians hope they do not have to use their guns but said they would "To protect our arms, our lives."

The troops were wearing blue U.N. berets issued to them before boarding the plane for the 22-hour flight to Nicosia from Canada.

The Canadian forces will help British troops which have been policing Cyprus since the outburst of communal fighting in December.

Heavy gloom set led over the surrounded Turkish quarter here when it was learned there would be no immediate Turkish military landings.

Running the Scales

By JOHN CALE

Some young singers from Texas and a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta loom on the musical horizon for the coming week. There are also some pleasant after-effects of events of the past weekend — in the line of musical observation, of course — which bear a few comments.

The Texas Boys' Choir under the direction of George Bragg will appear on the La. Tech Concert Association series Tuesday and Wednesday at 8 p.m. The Tuesday performance is designated for public membership while the subsequent concert is for students.

The program will include choral works from the 16th and 17th century English school all the way to Mozart, Wagner, Bizet and "Bury Me Not on the Lone Prairie," along with other popular folk ballads from the Lone Star State.

MIKADO

Frankly, we're happy to see a turning away from the Broadway "hit" sort of thing, especially for college undertakings. Gilbert and Sullivan did a fine job of setting the English language to music. Even though their operettas are hardly profound, they do excel in the presentation of rollicking humor. When it comes to light opera composed in English, the team has never been surpassed. Northeast's presentation of "The Mikado" could turn out to be a true classic. Dr. Eloy Fominya will conduct the orchestra and George Brian is in charge of stage direction.

Speaking of student productions, Louisiana Tech's Music Department came forward last weekend with a first-rate "Marriage of Figaro." Anyone who has played or sung anything by this undisputed genius of the 18th century — from his little piano pieces written when he was about six on to the arias in "Figaro" and "Don Giovanni" — realizes he is treading on musically sacred ground.

The soloists, though young, delivered the necessary vocal goods. The choral work — particularly the number in Act IV — orchestra and sets, abbreviated but completely adequate, lent fine support.

Nancy Walker, a sophomore from Minden, came through with a voice and general bearing of one far more experienced on the operatic stage. Lee Davis and Mary Beth Williams, both of whom won top places in recent Metropolitan Opera district auditions in Shreveport, held down the leading roles of Figaro and Suzanna. Their voices were exceptional. But, perhaps better still for the overall performance, they showed none of the prima donna affectations which used to botch up so many school performances where better-than-average singers were involved.

In the supporting roles of the pageboy, the priest and the count, played by Jerlynne Lott, David Wylie and James Alexander, respectively, there was also vocal work in the soprano, tenor and baritone registers. Good tenors are rare, but Wylie's voice came through nicely in his last act aria.

One of the unexpected highlights in an evening full of surprises was Alexander's deep South accent in the recitative passages with harpsichord. This was no drawback, in fact the diction was as clear as his true baritone line in the vocal parts.

SYMPHONY

Another pleasant musical on a damp Monday evening was the concert of the Monroe Youth Symphony under the direction of Roger Di Guilian. This organization, which blends instrumental efforts of city and parish student musicians, has won a whole list of laurels in state festivals.

The whole body of tone comes through well from all sections, and the well disciplined attacks and bowing in the violin choir are particularly impressive. The program was well-balanced, ranging from a novelty "Waltzing Cat" by LeRoy Anderson to an intricate fugue featuring cellists Susan Martin, Mike Strausser and Will Reardon.

Robert Christmas, violinist, and Kay Odom, pianist, performed a concert piece, "Scene De Ballet," which had all the makings of a difficult concerto.

The students who've been playing with the group for several years appear to have forgotten all those rumors about lace collars and string music other than hillbilly type. In fact, the bass violin crew appeared to enjoy their part of it so much until we'd be willing to give up our Social Security cards and join 'em if we could.

ROTARY DISTRICT MEET

Argentine Speaker Urges Friendship

By SARAH LITTLE
World Staff Writer

"Argentina wants to establish a greater understanding, peace and friendship with America," Tristan Guevara of Cordoba, Argentina, told Rotary club members Saturday night at the close of their annual district conference.

Around 300 Rotarians and their wives were present for the governor's dinner at the Paragon Club which climaxed the two - day meet of the 619th Rotary District which comprises 24 clubs in Northeast Louisiana.

DESCRIBES NATION

Guevara, an Argentine attorney and Rotarian, was featured speaker at the banquet and gave a brief description of his country, located in South America. He pointed out that Argentina has many areas that closely resemble the natural terrain and resources of this area of the United States.

He said Argentina has a population of 21 - million and is rapidly advancing in technological progress and industrial expansion. He credited better understanding and friendship with the United States for much of this progress, pointing out that Argentina still offers "opportunities for great investment of American capital."

However, he added that Americans need to put themselves out a little more to learn about other countries customs and their languages, saying it was bad for countries to have language barriers barring the door to progress of "mutual peace, prosperity and friendship."

NEW GOVERNOR

Jack May, a Monroe Rotarian and governor of the 619th district, was emcee of the Saturday night closing session and introduced the new governor nominee elected at this conference — Paul Brown of Shreveport. Brown will take over the duties of governor of the district in July.

Special entertainment was provided the banquet by soloist Mrs. Elloise Temple Anspach accompanied at the piano by her husband, Leroy Anspach.

At the close of the banquet, Guevara and his wife, Maria, were presented a special gift from the Rotary Club by May's wife, who made the presentation in Spanish. A gift was also given to the Mays by the district. Past District Governor John Fox made the presentation.

Special recognition was given to many local and area Rotarians, including Grayson Guthrie, president of the Monroe Rotary Club, who hosted the conference; George Rorex, Stan Bagwell, Tommy and Harry Frazier, Henry Hayes, Ben Marshall, Shelby Hill, Mike Pickett, and many others.

Saturday's events included a president's and secretary's breakfast at the Virginia Hotel where the convention headquartered, several plennary sessions and a business luncheon for the men. The ladies had lunch at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club and toured the gardens and home of Miss Emylou Biedenharn and The Trend House.

Red Press Tones Down Spy Attack

BERLIN (UPI) — The Communist press toned down its spy charges Saturday against three U.S. airmen shot down over East Germany but American officials warned that the fliers may be in Communist hands for a long time.

Hopes for a speedy return faded because of the reported Soviet refusal to tell U.S. military liaison mission officers anything about the airmen who are reported in "investigative custody" before an expected "spy trial" in a Communist court.

The airmen are Capt. David I. Holland, 35, of Holland, Minn.; Capt. Melvin J. Kessler, 30, of Philadelphia and 1st Lt. Harold W. Welch 24, of Detroit. Their RB66 reconnaissance plane was shot down over East Germany Tuesday.

New OPHS Library Among Most Modern For Schools

A MURAL, painted by art students at the school, hangs at the entrance to the new library at Ouachita Parish High School. The mural is painted entirely in enamels and portrays a lamp whose flame symbolizes the light in the darkness of ignorance. Smoke from the lamp encircles symbols of studies in the school curriculum including the sciences, the lively arts, sports, languages and scholarship. (Staff photo by Ben Bradford)

By SARAH LITTLE
World Staff Writer

The flame of learning gathered new impetus this week at Ouachita Parish High School with the opening of a modern, well-equipped new library.

Attention is drawn to the schools "well of knowledge" by an eye-catching mural at the front door of the library — portraying a lamp whose light is symbolic of the knowledge which dispels the darkness of ignorance. Smoke from the flame of the Aladdin-shaped lamp encircles and draws together symbols of the various categories of learning included in the school curriculum.

The modern, new library, with a book capacity of 15,000 volumes, is located in the new wing of OPHS and features interior decor of champagne and pale green with accents of flame.

The library, representing probably one of the most widely used and most frequented laboratories of knowledge, consists of a suite of five rooms including a large reading room, an office - workroom combination, a periodical and vertical files room, an audio-visual room and a library classroom.

Probably one of the most unique and distinctive spots in the suite to school librarians Gladys Ward and Mildred Lane is the library classroom or conference room. This particular room seats 30 students at group tables and may be entered without disturbing students in the main reading room. It will be used to hold classes instructing students on uses of the library and on how to find information and as a class conference room where classes working on a library project may come as a group and work. It is connected to the outside hallway by a door and has another door connecting it with the main reading room.

The main reading room is a well lighted area that will seat approximately 80 students and includes a professional area for teachers with separate display tables. The room is furnished with modern tables that seat four persons, designed to cut down on noise and avoid crowding. The reading room also features small, individual study tables which are placed around the room to provide a place for undisturbed study. The book stacks also found in this room, along with a magazine rack that will hold more than 80 periodicals, a card catalogue broken into three containers to avoid crowding around one catalogue container and an index table.

The periodical storage room is large enough to hold a five-year file of all indexed magazines which only include those magazines listed in Readers Guide. The audio-visual room can be used by both students and teachers and features a space to preview films or listen to records. It is also used as a storage room for projectors, record players and film strips. The office and work room is used by Mrs. Ward and Mrs. Lane, and next to the reading room, comprises the busiest place in the library.

Mrs. Lane said that approximately 60 students work in the library, and report to the work room for chores such as typing title cards for books, binding books, attaching jackets to books and other similar librarian duties. She pointed out that this is essentially a laboratory in which students learn useful things about libraries that can stand them in "good stead" for parttime library jobs in college, and may even "draw them into library science" as a career.

These students help with the work, freeing us to help students in the library find materials they need, both the librarians explained. They added, too, that handling volumes seems to be a "means of creating a love of books.

The librarians pointed out that none of the furniture from the old library was "wasted or thrown away," but "utilized" in the new suites in the conference rooms, the audio visual rooms, and throughout the main reading room.

Even though the new library has increased 3½ times in area over the old facilities, plenty of room has been left for further expansion. The old library, located in the old building on South Grand Street, contained only 1,932 square feet of space while the new facilities cover 6,840 square feet.

Ouachita Parish High can actually boast of having the oldest school library on record in Ouachita parish and now can probably boast of having one of the most modern.

The old library was created in 1909 with a collection of 250 volumes housed in a large bookcase in the auditorium of the school on South Grand. But the school grew by "leaps and bounds," and the inadequate facilities were enlarged in 1919 to include a library study hall with equipment consisting of a half - dozen sectional book cases and a few chairs and tables. A trained librarian was hired in 1923 and in 1926 a new high school building was constructed which included a then up-to-date library. In 1954, the book collection and school population had again outgrown the facilities but the new library could not be enlarged. Therefore, a separate classroom down the hall was equipped with a sink and shelves and was added to the library "suite." In 1958, the new high school was constructed on Kansas Lane and the library once again moved.

But the demands of a student body of 1,426 and a faculty numbering 62 made it necessary for the OPHS library to expand. The library facilities get a workout each year through curriculum required projects, research projects, and science projects which are encouraged at the school. Library instruction is also carried on throughout the four years of high school by cooperative effort of librarians and teachers. All students receive basic instruction in the use of the card catalog, the Readers Guide and in location of materials. In the past, librarians and teachers have either had to compromise in such instruction either by taking materials to the classroom or else disturbing the entire reading room by taking a class into that area. Henceforward, this will be elminated through use of the library classroom.

The library's long range projects include book reading discussion groups and a re-evaluation of the program of library instruction with a view to expanding and strengthening it.

Ouachita's library, of which faculty and students alike seem to be proud, includes equipment of some 72 magazines, approximately 12,000 books, five newspapers, an extensive collection covering a wide field range of pamphlets, six films, 310 filmstrips, 180 recordings, one television set, one filmstrip viewer, seven projector screens, five 16 millimeter movie projectors, six strip projectors with slide attachments, four record players and one tape recorder. The library also has access to films from the Northeast State College library, and various other record players and tape recorders located in other of the school's departments.

The mural at the entrance to the new library is painted entirely in enamels, and is the work of students from the OPHS art department. It incorporates the Latin hues of flame, yellow, green and blue and was designed by a committee. Artists include Kathy Cagle, Barbara Bass, Harry Stewart, Terry Alford and Charlie Elliott.

New OPHS Library Among Most Modern For Schools

A MURAL, painted by art students at the school, hangs at the entrance to the new library at Ouachita Parish High School. The mural is painted entirely in enamels and portrays a lamp whose flame symbolizes the light in the darkness of ignorance. Smoke from the lamp encircles symbols of studies in the school curriculum including the sciences, the lively arts, sports, languages and scholarship. (Staff photo by Ben Bradford)

The flame of learning gathered new impetus this week at Ouachita Parish High School with the opening of a modern, well-equipped new library.

Attention is drawn to the schools "well of knowledge" by an eye-catching mural at the front door of the library — portraying a lamp whose light is symbolic of the knowledge which dispels the darkness of ignorance. Smoke from the flame of the Aladdin-shaped lamp encircles and draws together symbols of the various categories of learning included in the school curriculum.

The modern, new library, with a book capacity of 15,000 volumes, is located in the new wing of OPHS and features interior decor of champagne and pale green with accents of flame.

The library, representing probably one of the most widely used and most frequented laboratories of knowledge, consists of a suite of five rooms including a large reading room, an office - workroom combination, a periodical and vertical files room, an audio-visual room and a library classroom.

Probably one of the most unique and distinctive spots in the suite to school librarians Gladys Ward and Mildred Lane is the library classroom or conference room. This particular room seats 30 students at group tables and may be entered without disturbing students in the main reading room. It will be used to hold classes instructing students on uses of the library and on how to find information and as a class conference room where classes working on a library project may come as a group and work. It is connected to the outside hallway by a door and has another door connecting it with the main reading room.

The main reading room is a well lighted area that will seat approximately 80 students and includes a professional area for teachers with separate display tables. The room is furnished with modern tables that seat four persons, designed to cut down on noise and avoid crowding. The reading room also features small, individual study tables which are placed around the room to provide a place for undisturbed study. The book stacks also found in this room, along with a magazine rack that will hold more than 80 periodicals, a card catalogue broken into three containers to avoid crowding around one catalogue container and an index table.

The periodical storage room is large enough to hold a five-year file of all indexed magazines which only include those magazines listed in Readers Guide. The audio-visual room can be used by both students and teachers and features a space to preview films or listen to records. It is also used as a storage room for projectors, record players and film strips. The office and work room is used by Mrs. Ward and Mrs. Lane, and next to the reading room, comprises the busiest place in the library.

Mrs. Lane said that approximately 60 students work in the library, and report to the work room for chores such as typing title cards for books, binding books, attaching jackets to books and other similar librarian duties. She pointed out that this is essentially a laboratory in which students learn useful things about libraries that can stand them in "good stead" for parttime library jobs in college, and may even "draw them into library science" as a career.

These students help with the work, freeing us to help students in the library find materials they need, both the librarians explained. They added, too, that handling volumes seems to be a "means of creating a love of books.

The librarians pointed out that none of the furniture from the old library was "wasted or thrown away," but "utilized" in the new suites in the conference rooms, the audio visual rooms, and throughout the main reading room.

Even though the new library has increased 3½ times in area over the old facilities, plenty of room has been left for further expansion. The old library, located in the old building on South Grand Street, contained only 1,932 square feet of space while the new facilities cover 6,840 square feet.

Ouachita Parish High can actually boast of having the oldest school library on record in Ouachita parish and now can probably boast of having one of the most modern.

The old library was created in 1909 with a collection of 250 volumes housed in a large bookcase in the auditorium of the school on South Grand. But the school grew by "leaps and bounds," and the inadequate facilities were enlarged in 1919 to include a library study hall with equipment consisting of a half - dozen sectional book cases and a few chairs and tables. A trained librarian was hired in 1923 and in 1926 a new high school building was constructed which included a then up-to-date library. In 1954, the book collection and school population had again outgrown the facilities but the new library could not be enlarged. Therefore, a separate classroom down the hall was equipped with a sink and shelves and was added to the library "suite." In 1958, the new high school was constructed on Kansas Lane and the library once again moved.

But the demands of a student body of 1,426 and a faculty numbering 62 made it necessary for the OPHS library to expand. The library facilities get a workout each year through curriculum required projects, research projects, and science projects which are encouraged at the school. Library instruction is also carried on throughout the four years of high school by cooperative effort of librarians and teachers. All students receive basic instruction in the use of the card catalog, the Readers Guide and in location of materials. In the past, librarians and teachers have either had to compromise in such instruction either by taking materials to the classroom or else disturbing the entire reading room by taking a class into that area. Henceforward, this will be elminated through use of the library classroom.

The library's long range projects include book reading discussion groups and a re-evaluation of the program of library instruction with a view to expanding and strengthening it.

Ouachita's library, of which faculty and students alike seem to be proud, includes equipment of some 72 magazines, approximately 12,000 books, five newspapers, an extensive collection covering a wide field range of pamphlets, six films, 310 filmstrips, 180 recordings, one television set, one filmstrip viewer, seven projector screens, five 16 millimeter movie projectors, six strip projectors with slide attachments, four record players and one tape recorder. THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK

English Cottage Answer To Today's Modern Living

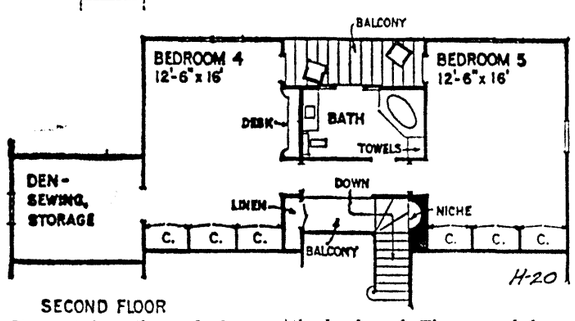

OLD ENGLISH FLAVOR: A massive stone chimney, bay window which has the suggestion of a lower turret, timber posts, leaded glass sidelights, shuttered windows and rugged siding give this house a distinctively comfortable look. It contains three bedrooms, with attic expansion space for two more.

FIRST FLOOR

FLOOR PLANS: The basic living area is 1,669 square feet. Expansion in attic adds 758 square feet for two future bedrooms and bath. Note the abundance of closets throughout the house. There is a full basement which can be developed as the owner sees fit.

SECOND FLOOR

All that's needed to complete the atmosphere of rugged warmth which surrounds this charming cottage is a wooded lot in a quiet neighborhood.

Probably the best word to describe the house is "comfortable" — and this house is all the more comfortable because its Old English flavor is imposed upon an up-to-date floor plan which boasts all the efficiency and convenience of modern living.

It massive stone chimney with chimney pots, bay window which has the suggestion of a lower turret, timber posts at the entry, leaded glass-sidelights flanking the door, shuttered windows surrounded by hand split shakes, and rough cut siding above the porch, all combine to give the home its distinctive personality.

The theme is carried through on the inside. A 10' by 12' foyer features a flagstone floor and a slanted beam ceiling which soars up to a sunken balcony at the head of the stair.

Architect Rudolph A. Matern designed the house as H-20 in the House of the Week series.

It contains three bedrooms and two full baths in a basic area of 1,669 square feet. However, there is expansion room upstairs for two more large bedrooms and a glamorous third bath.

The best thing about this sort of expansion is that it is built in; that is, adding an extra room (or, in this case, two extra rooms, as needed) doesn't require any structural changes. As a matter of fact, many husbands probably could do the finish work themselves.

A full study of this architect-designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK, c-o the Monroe Morning World, Monroe, La., and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan H-20.

The front stone chimneywall extends slightly beyond the side of the house and shields a private covered porch which could be screened if desired. Matern added a nice touch to the porch with a circular window in front which can be left open or perhaps fitted with leaded panes.

ADDITIONAL DETAILS

A nice thing about this style of decor is that it is attractive as well as easy to keep up. The flagstone foyer, for example, is plainly practical and also in keeping with the rugged flavor of the home. Similarly, wood paneling and wainscoting is designated for certain walls, especially those which get the most wear.

A bay window with a planter inside faces the kitchen sink, offering excellent supervision of the backyard besides its obvious esthetic benefit. Another up-to-the-minute feature of the kitchen is a built-in breakfast seat.

Adjoining the kitchen is a laundry-mud room ideally situated at the rear service entry.

The living room and dining room offer an ensemble rich in cozy comfort, but at the same time expansive enough for formal entertaining. Both rooms open to the 21-foot covered porch, which serves to join them and extend the function of both rooms. Note the built-in barbecue on the porch using the same chimney as the living room fireplace.

The three downstairs bedrooms are all nicely sized and all have copious closet space — at least two in each room. There also are two linen closets in the hall.

The family bathroom has two doors so it can be used conveniently during daylight hours from the kitchen area and from the backyard. The second downstairs bath adjoins the master bedroom, and is complete with a stall shower which has a seat. Upstairs, there is no worry about closet space whatsoever. One of the nicest features of the expansion area is the balcony porch in the dormer with access from both bedrooms and the luxurious bathroom.

All in all, it is a house which should appeal to those with an appreciation of old fashioned warmth, especially when it can be adapted to contemporary living needs.

Flood Drowns Six

Motorcycle Races Slated Here April 5

Motorcycle Tourist Trophy scramble races, sponsored by the Monroe Jaycees and the Twin City Ramblers, will be held Sunday April 5, at Selman Field.

Some 60 motorcycle enthusiasts from within a 100 - mile radius of Monroe are expected to participate.

Jerry Coleman, Jaycee chairman, said the race has the sanction of the American Motorcycle Association and is to be under observation by Barney Barker, AMA referee.

Admission will be $1, with proceeds going to the Jaycee community development fund. Riders under 21 must have notarized consent from parents. Time trials start at 1 p. m.,

The race, described as a "Sportsman's Race," will be run on a kidney - shaped track with right and left hand turns. There will be one jump and a long straightaway. The track was built on city property and donated to the two clubs for the races.

J. W. Jackson, Ramblers chairman, said there will be trophy races in five classes with three trophies per class. The classes will be zero to 175 cubic centimeters (CC) (2 stroke); zero to 200 CC (overhead valve —OHV); 201 to 250 CC OHV and two stroke; 251 to 500 CC and 501 to 1300 CC.

Louisiana Tech Student Voting Set For April

RUSTON (Special) — Student body elections at Louisiana Tech have been postponed and consolidated from two balloting dates to one.

Petitions for class officers and Student Senate positions are due on Tuesday, April 7. The primary will be held on April 14, and run-off voting on April 21.

Previously, the two elections, held separately, covered a span of two months. The Senate decided to handle the elections in this manner so the constitution committee could present proposed changes to the student body before the elections were held.

If the proposed constitutional changes go into effect, more Senate positions will be filled and student representation will be increased. The committee proposes that students elect two men and two women senators from each class instead of one man and one woman, thereby adding eight senators to the present number.

United States Man In Space Plan Named For Stars--'Project Gemini'

AN ARTIST'S conception of the two-man Gemini capsule approaching a docking with an Agena satellite high above the earth. Plans call for the Agena to be shot into a 185-mile-high orbit from Cape Kennedy, Fla., atop an Atlas rocket. After its orbit is established, a Titan II rocket will launch the Gemini spacecraft into orbit. The pilot will then determine the exact moment to fire the transitional rockets, with the aid of an aboard computer, radar, and ground help, to align the orbit of Gemini with Agena. Then, through a series of intricate maneuvers the Gemini pilot will approach and link up with the Agena. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

ONE OF THE pilot's seats in a mockup of a capsule of the two-man Gemini. This is the type of spacecraft that is expected to carry twin American astronauts into orbit before the end of 1964. Richard S. Johnson (top right), chief of crew systems at the NASA Manned Spacecraft Center near Houston, Texas, and his assistant Ted Hayes discuss details of the project with Associated Press Aerospace Writer Howard Bededict who is occupying the pilot's seat. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —Project Gemini, the United States' next man-in-space program, is named for a constellation with twin bright stars, Castor and Pollux.

By year's end, twin American astronauts may ride into space together in the Gemini spacecraft.

Eventually, Gemini astronauts will stay in orbit up to two weeks, join their craft with other orbiting satellites and step outside to see what it's like more than 100 miles above the earth. The flights will practice techniques necessary for rocketing men to the moon and planets.

Whether the Gemini spacemen will meet a first flight deadline in 1964 depends on results of two unmanned launchings. The first is scheduled late this month or early April from Cape Kennedy.

The initial flight will attempt to hurl a dummy model of the Gemini capsule into orbit. It will tell engineers many things: the structural compatibility of the spacecraft and booster, temperatures and pressures which will affect the combination, performance of the guidance system, and Titan 2's ability to place a payload in a precise orbit.

WATCH CLOSELY

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration will watch closely to see how well Titan 2 makes the transition from this nation's most pwerful military rocket to a role as a manned space booster.

More than a year ago, space agency specialists discovered that the 103-foot-tall rocket vibrated severely for about 30 seconds during the launching phase. The shuddering did not affect the missile's performance but it was feared it would prevent the Gemini pilots from reading their instrument panel during the critical liftoff phase.

Months of work by the Air Force and the Martin Co., Titan 2 prime contractor, reduced the shaking to an acceptable level.

The first full-scale Gemini spacecraft will be flown on the second unmanned test flight, scheduled for midsummer. The vehicle is to be fired on a brief up-and-down course, parachuting into the Atlantic Ocean several hundred miles southeast of Cape Kennedy. A "mechanical man" will be aboard to simulate oxygen consumption and output of carbon dioxide.

Success of this mission would open the way for a launching in November or December of the first manned Gemini.

Charles Matthews, project manager, reported the first astronaut flight will be relatively short, probably only three orbits lasting about five hours.

"If all works well, we will build up the program rapidly after that," he said.

Beginning in 1965, length of the flights will be increased to a week and then two weeks to gather data on the pilots' reaction to extended space weightlessness.

During the long flights, Gemini teams will conduct rendezvous experiments. This will be done by ejecting a 65-pound target satellite from the nose of the main spacecraft. The target will carry a radar and the crew will attempt to home-in on the radar beacon and approach the tiny satellite. No effort will be made to join with it.

Once confidence has been gained, a 22-foot Agena satellite will be fired into orbit. The Gemini team will be launched a day or so later in an attempt to catch the Agena. The first attempt is set for late 1965.

Maj. Virgil I. (Gus) Grissom, who made the second manned space flight, is a prime candidate to leave the craft as early as the second manned flight.

The pilots will be protected by pressurized space suits. One will wear a pack with a 30-minute supply of oxygen on his back, open a hatch and step outside. His only attachment to the ship will be a tether line or telescoping pole. Instruments and a radio transmitter will relay his reactions and physical conditions to earth stations.

Richard S. Johnston, chief of the crew systems division, reported:

TO BE BRIEF

"The first extra-vehicular effort will be brief. The astronaut probably will just tiptoe around the capsule, hanging onto metal rungs. He'll probably be outside just long enough to write 'Kilroy was here' and get back in."

Extra-vehicular jaunts eventually might test the Apollo suit, which will have to protect a man on the moon's surface. A man alone in space might be necessary for inspection and repair of spacecraft on long voyages, assembly of space stations, transfer from one craft to another and one-man expeditions into the Van Allen radiation belts or other space zones.

Medical men will monitor closely the physical condition of the men.

"The cardiovascular system is the prime subject for study," Johnston said. "Others are the maintenance of muscle tone through exercise, the problem of loss of calcium and minerals in the bone, and the question of how much sleep man requires in space."

Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Maj. Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr. developed pooling of blood in their lower legs after their 9-and 34-hour Mercury flights and the medics want to determine just how serious this problem might become on longer missions.

SPECIAL BODY

Johnston said special body clearning and waste removal materials are being developed for the long trips. To prevent whiskers floating about in the weightless cabin, an electric razor with a vacuum-like suction will be used. Tasty and attractive food made palatable by the addition of water, is planned.

Fifteen astronauts are training for Gemini flights. Fourteen others recently joined the program and none is expected to figure in early Gemini plans.

The first Gemini pilot and co-pilot may be selected this spring. The team will consist of one of the original Mercury astronauts and one man from the second group of nine astronauts named in 1962.

"The Agena is put into an 185-mile-high circular orbit, then its engines are shut down," Grissom said. "After its orbit has been established, the Titan 2 will launch the Gemini spacecraft approximately 24 hours later into an orbit ranging from 100 to 185 miles high.

"With the aid of an onboard computer and radar and with ground help, the pilot will determine the exact moment to fire the transitional thruster rockets to align the orbit of the Gemini so it will coincide with the Agena's orbit.

SMALL THRUST

"Then the pilot will perform the final overtake by applying small amounts of thrust. When the pilot is within 20 miles of the Agena, he should be able to see a flashing light. By visual reference and by using small pulse jets, the pilot will thread the nose of the Gemini into the docking collar of the agena and they will clamp together."

Once the two vehicles are locked, the astronauts could use the Agena fuel supply and engine to alter course, possibly scooting more than 2,000 miles into space or maneuvering over any spot on earth.

Space rendezvous will be a key element of Project Apollo. The plan calls for a three-man Apollo spaceship to orbit the moon late in this decade and for two of the crew to drop onto the moon's surface in a capsule. After a period of exploration, the two will take off in the capsule to rendezvous with the mother ship for the return trip to earth.

Extra-vehicular maneuverability — the ability of men to leave the ship and function usefully in space — is considered as essential as rendezvous to future space exploration. One member of a Gemini crew may attempt

United States Man In Space Plan Named For Stars--'Project Gemini'

AN ARTIST'S conception of the two-man Gemini capsule approaching a docking with an Agena satellite high above the earth. Plans call for the Agena to be shot into a 185-mile-high orbit from Cape Kennedy, Fla., atop an Atlas rocket. After its orbit is established, a Titan II rocket will launch the Gemini spacecraft into orbit. The pilot will then determine the exact moment to fire the transitional rockets, with the aid of an aboard computer, radar, and ground help, to align the orbit of Gemini with Agena. Then, through a series of intricate maneuvers the Gemini pilot will approach and link up with the Agena. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —Project Gemini, the United States' next man-in-space program, is named for a constellation with twin bright stars, Castor and Pollux.

By year's end, twin American astronauts may ride into space together in the Gemini spacecraft.

Eventually, Gemini astronauts will stay in orbit up to two weeks, join their craft with other orbiting satellites and step outside to see what it's like more than 100 miles above the earth. The flights will practice techniques necessary for rocketing men to the moon and planets.

Whether the Gemini spacemen will meet a first flight deadline in 1964 depends on results of two unmanned launchings. The first is scheduled late this month or early April from Cape Kennedy.

The initial flight will attempt to hurl a dummy model of the Gemini capsule into orbit. It will tell engineers many things: the structural compatibility of the spacecraft and booster, temperatures and pressures which will affect the combination, performance of the guidance system, and Titan 2's ability to place a payload in a precise orbit.

WATCH CLOSELY

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration will watch closely to see how well Titan 2 makes the transition from this nation's most pwerful military rocket to a role as a manned space booster.

More than a year ago, space agency specialists discovered that the 103-foot-tall rocket vibrated severely for about 30 seconds during the launching phase. The shuddering did not affect the missile's performance but it was feared it would prevent the Gemini pilots from reading their instrument panel during the critical liftoff phase.

Months of work by the Air Force and the Martin Co., Titan 2 prime contractor, reduced the shaking to an acceptable level.

The first full-scale Gemini spacecraft will be flown on the second unmanned test flight, scheduled for midsummer. The vehicle is to be fired on a brief up-and-down course, parachuting into the Atlantic Ocean several hundred miles southeast of Cape Kennedy. A "mechanical man" will be aboard to simulate oxygen consumption and output of carbon dioxide.

Success of this mission would open the way for a launching in November or December of the first manned Gemini.

Charles Matthews, project manager, reported the first astronaut flight will be relatively short, probably only three orbits lasting about five hours.

"If all works well, we will build up the program rapidly after that," he said.

Beginning in 1965, length of the flights will be increased to a week and then two weeks to gather data on the pilots' reaction to extended space weightlessness.

During the long flights, Gemini teams will conduct rendezvous experiments. This will be done by ejecting a 65-pound target satellite from the nose of the main spacecraft. The target will carry a radar and the crew will attempt to home-in on the radar beacon and approach the tiny satellite. No effort will be made to join with it.

Once confidence has been gained, a 22-foot Agena satellite will be fired into orbit. The Gemini team will be launched a day or so later in an attempt to catch the Agena. The first attempt is set for late 1965.

Maj. Virgil I. (Gus) Grissom, who made the second manned space flight, is a prime candidate for an early Gemini Mission.

"The Agena is put into an 185-mile-high circular orbit, then its engines are shut down," Grissom said. "After its orbit has been established, the Titan 2 will launch the Gemini spacecraft approximately 24 hours later into an orbit ranging from 100 to 185 miles high.

"With the aid of an onboard computer and radar and with ground help, the pilot will determine the exact moment to fire the transitional thruster rockets to align the orbit of the Gemini so it will coincide with the Agena's orbit.

SMALL THRUST

"Then the pilot will perform the final overtake by applying small amounts of thrust. When the pilot is within 20 miles of the Agena, he should be able to see a flashing light. By visual reference and by using small pulse jets, the pilot will thread the nose of the Gemini into the docking collar of the agena and they will clamp together."

Once the two vehicles are locked, the astronauts could use the Agena fuel supply and engine to alter course, possibly scooting more than 2,000 miles into space or maneuvering over any spot on earth.

Space rendezvous will be a key element of Project Apollo. The plan calls for a three-man Apollo spaceship to orbit the moon late in this decade and for two of the crew to drop onto the moon's surface in a capsule. After a period of exploration, the two will take off in the capsule to rendezvous with the mother ship for the return trip to earth.

Extra-vehicular maneuverability — the ability of men to leave the ship and function usefully in space — is considered as essential as rendezvous to future space exploration. One member of a Gemini crew may attempt to leave the craft as early as the second manned flight.

The pilots will be protected by pressurized space suits. One will wear a pack with a 30-minute supply of oxygen on his back, open a hatch and step outside. His only attachment to the ship will be a tether line or telescoping pole. Instruments and a radio transmitter will relay his reactions and physical conditions to earth stations.

Richard S. Johnston, chief of the crew systems division, reported:

TO BE BRIEF

"The first extra-vehicular effort will be brief. The astronaut probably will just tiptoe around the capsule, hanging onto metal rungs. He'll probably be outside just long enough to write 'Kilroy was here' and get back in."

Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Maj. Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr. developed pooling of blood in their lower legs after their 9-and 34-hour Mercury flights and the medics want to determine just how serious this problem might become on longer missions.

SPECIAL BODY

Johnston said special body clearning and waste removal materials are being developed for the long trips. To prevent whiskers floating about in the weightless cabin, an electric razor with a vacuum-like suction will be used. Tasty and attractive food made palatable by the addition of water, is planned.

Winnfield City Council Okays Water Contract

WINNFIELD (Special) — A contract to furnish Natchitoches Highway residents water has been agreed upon by the Winnfield City Council.

The area involved is about one mile west of the Winnfield City limti on U.S. Highway 84, where the citizens have been asking for city water for several years. The section is primaril yresidential, with only a few small business places and a bowling center.

A private corporation will be formed to build the complete system, including meters. Winnfield will read meters and send bills for the service. All the bills will be paid in one check from the corporation. The corporation will be responsible for collecting its own individual bills. It also must maintain the system.

This was the essence of the contract as outlined by attorney Mickey Simmons, representing the group. About 46-50 new customers will be added.

The new customers will pay Winnfield $2.50 minimum for 3,000 gallons, plus double the normal 50 cents per thousand gallons over that amount.

Winnfield City Council Okays Water Contract

WINNFIELD (Special) — A contract to furnish Natchitoches Highway residents water has been agreed upon by the Winnfield City Council.

The area involved is about one mile west of the Winnfield City limti on U.S. Highway 84, where the citizens have been asking for city water for several years. The section is primaril yresidential, with only a few small business places and a bowling center.

A private corporation will be formed to build the complete system, including meters. Winnfield will read meters and send bills for the service. All the bills will be paid in one check from the corporation. The corporation will be responsible for collecting its own individual bills. It also must maintain the system.

This was the essence of the contract as outlined by attorney Mickey Simmons, representing the group. About 46-50 new customers will be added.

The new customers will pay Winnfield $2.50 minimum for 3,000 gallons, plus double the normal 50 cents per thousand gallons over that amount.

BOOKS

Nonfiction About A 'Fabled Legion'

LA LEGION! By Geoffrey Bocca. Crowell. $5.95.

The French Foreign Legion, at its beginning in 1831, marched into Algeria. When it marched out again 131 years later, it was to be expected that books would appear telling the true story of this mysterious, contradictory, fascinating army which men joined for escape.

Both Mercer and Bocca write about the Legion mystique, which makes men bravely fight and die, not for home, loved ones or country, but for the Legion. They explain cafard (overwhelming madness or depression), shoot down some of the fables, tell of the Legion's heroes, its most famous battle, Camerone, and its most famous battle cry, "A moi, la Legion."

But there are differences in the two books. Mercer has written a history of the Legion, more consistent in tone, more detailed and somewhat longer than Bocca's book. Bocca, a war correspondent and magazine writer, has drawn heavily on "personal observations of the author between 1955 and 1962." He brushes a few high spots of early Legion history and arrives at the First World War on page 41.

He warms to his subject as he nears the present. Bocca's most interesting sections are about Dien Bien Phu and accounts of conversations he had with Legionnaires.

Mercer is generally the more colorful writer. As his vivid accounts of Legion marches or battles unfold, the reader can follow with mental pictures of the men in action.

The two writers do not agree on a number of facts and meanings.

Bocca blames Francois - Achille Bazaine, who had earlier led Legion forces in Mexico, for the Germans' taking Paris in the Franco-Prussian War and writes that thus Bazaine "joined the rogue's gallery of French generals."

Mercer finds the fall of Paris "an irony of war" and Bazaine falsely vilified.

They differ about the cause of death of a Legionnaire who also was a Danish prince and about why someone picked up Capt. Jean Danon's wooden hand at Camerone.

Mercer considers the choosing of Dien Bien Phu, as a place to make a stand, an error. Bocca says it was not as illogical as its critics have insisted.

And what song did the disgraced Legion paratroopers sing as they rode out of Algiers in 1961? Mercer says "La Boudin;" Bocca says, "Non, Je Ne Regrette Rein."

The fact that the two writers often do not agree does not fault the research of either. A great deal has been written about the Legion, some of it reflecting honest differences in reporting and opposite interpretations. And through the years there also has been an outpouring by former Legionnaires who laced their memoirs with potent exaggeration and some rare old lies.

Political Matching 'Game'

CONVENTION. By Charles W. Bailey II and Fletcher Knebel. Harper. $4.95.

Considering the huge success of "Seven Days in May," the logical question to ask about this novel was whether Messrs. Knebel and Bailey could do it again.

The opinion in this corner is that "Convention" probably won't match the sales of "Seven Days," but that as a smoothly written, well-paced novel, it should do well on its own.

And if it doesn't do anything else, it ought to tantalize many a political observer into wondering who the authors were thinking of as they put each character into the book.

Who, for instance, is the counterpart of Charles B. Manchester, the Midwestern banker-turned-politician who goes into the Republican convention with the nomination virtually assured, only to find himself fighting for survival because of an inadvertent remark at a press conference?

Or try to pick the alter ego of Gov. Bryan Roberts, the bulky Westerner whose cunning and preparation allowed him to capitalize on Manchester's bobble.

And how about Gen. Wesley Shaw, the hero of two wars whose seconding speech for one of the candicates had nationwide repercussions?

Not that everybody is mysterious — nobody would have any trouble recognizing Oscar, the well-oiled tenant of a walk-up suite near the convention center. But Oscar's role in the convention holds a surprise or two.

Perhaps the most effective thing about the book is its air of authenticity, from the newspapermen who type with only two fingers to the volunteer clerks who regard politics as a big lark, to the delegates who admit they aren't so interested in being on the right side as on the winning side. Any one who has attended or covered a political convention will run across plenty of people here that he has met before.

THE NAKED SOCIETY

Brother Brings '84 20 Years Too Soon

THE NAKED SOCIETY. By Vance Packard. McKay. $5.95.

THE PRIVACY INVADERS. By Myron Brenton, Coward-McCann. $4.95.

Is the Brave New World, in which Big Brother knows all, being translated out of the fiction of Huxley and Orwell into grim reality?

You'd almost think so after reading these books.

Packard's earlier explorations into the jungles of modern society and business touched sensitive nerve centers, and he has done a thorough job once again. This time it is in the field of privacy and the protections of the Bill of Rights, his thesis being that all of us are being subjected to multiple pressures from all sides—not just the governmental.

He tells about the rapidly growing business of selling surveilance equipment (hidden microphones and cameras, easily concealed tape recorders, wire - tapping devices) and the proliferation of investigative agencies (for banks, credit bureaus, loan companies, insurance companies and large corporations).

Packard describes the snooping of business organizations on their own executives, the spying and counterspying for trade secrets and market data, the use of polygraphs (so-called lie detectors) for prospective and current employes, the hidden questions in "personality" tests and the prying questions contained in school questionnaires.

He shows us bureaucrats at all levels, spying on citizens and each other; the compiling of lists by government and private agencies, as a hangover from the McCarthy era; the spreading of "national security" techniques far beyond normal necessities.

He also gets into the subject of noise intrusion by blaring loud speakers; the tricks used against captive audiences; the insistent pressure of telephone solicitors and the lucrative business of compiling and renting out mailing lists.

One of the most disturbing points that Packard makes is that there is a growing tendency among countless private, federal, state and local agencies to swap information. He tells about bribes, tips and under-the-table payments to moonlighting of public employes, all creating a situation in which even the most confidential information may be circulated.

It is no wonder that Packard's title seems justified by his material.

Brenton has been a private detective and an insurance inspector, so that he has had a personal background in collecting his information on what he calls "The Goldfish Age."

Human Side Of 'Terror' In France

PARIS IN THE TERROR. By Stanley Loomis. Lippincott. $6.95.

It is the human side of the chaotic, mad, guillotine period of the French Revolutions that Loomis writes about with such starkly graphic skill in this book—the period from June 1793 to July 1794.

He builds his narrative around three key figures.

First there is the sick, wildly fanatical Marat. Loomis traces the circumstances of his rise to power and describes at length the steps toward his murder by the well-meaning but misguided young woman from Calvados, Charlotte Corday.

Next there is Danton, and his story is told with the witch-like figure of Mme. Roland in the background. The author seems to have a warm spot in his heart for Danton; he spares nothing in the account of Danton's weaknesses and mistakes, but at least he gives the reader a feeling that this man who overthrew the monarchy possessed more decent human qualities than many of his contemporaries.

Finally there is Robespierre, who managed to send Danton to the knife and carry the period of Terror into its bloodiest months, until it was ended with the consummate politician Fouche sending Robespierre to execution.

Loomis sums up his book by saying that "History is made by men. So by studying the Terror on its human rather than its economic, political or military level one is able to discern certain causes of that upheaval which are often overlooked. The insanity of Marat, the ignorance of Charlotte Corday, the spite of Mme. Roland, the self-indulgence of Danton, the vanity of Camille Desmoulins contributed as much to the tragedy as the malice, and jealousy and ambition of Robespierre."

In this century, far more people died in the extermination camps of the Germans than in the butchery of the French Revolution, but there was an inhuman quality about the mass massacres of the Germans. In 18th Century France the violence of the Terror at least was understandable in terms of human weakness and hatred. This is the aspect of history which Loomis has chronicled.

Ruston Man Faces Wage, Hour Charge

M. John Kavanaugh of Ruston has been cited for violations of the federal wage and hour law in a suit filed in U. S. District Court here.

The defendant engages in business under the name of Kavanaugh Motor Frieght and operates establishments on West California Avenue in Ruston and on Jackwells Boulevard in Shreveport, according to the U. S. Department of Labor.

The complaint alleges that Kavanaugh paid workers at hourly wages rates below the minimum established by the wage and hour law, that he failed to compensate employees at legal overtime rates and that he is in violation of the record-keeping provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, plaintiff in the action, has asked the court to grant a permanent order restraining the defendant from future violations of the requirements of the act.

Robert L. Mosley, supervisor of the Shreveport Wage-Hour Office, said that 1961 amendments to the Fair Labor Standards Act established $1.25 an an hour as the minimum for persons engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce.

The law also provides that such covered workers be paid not less than one one-half times their regular rate for hours in excess of 40 in a workweek, Mosley said.

Brother Brings '84 20 Years Too Soon

THE NAKED SOCIETY. By Vance Packard. McKay. $5.95.

THE PRIVACY INVADERS. By Myron Brenton, Coward-McCann. $4.95.

Is the Brave New World, in which Big Brother knows all, being translated out of the fiction of Huxley and Orwell into grim reality?

You'd almost think so after reading these books.

Packard's earlier explorations into the jungles of modern society and business touched sensitive nerve centers, and he has done a thorough job once again. This time it is in the field of privacy and the protections of the Bill of Rights, his thesis being that all of us are being subjected to multiple pressures from all sides—not just the governmental.

He tells about the rapidly growing business of selling surveilance equipment (hidden microphones and cameras, easily concealed tape recorders, wire - tapping devices) and the proliferation of investigative agencies (for banks, credit bureaus, loan companies, insurance companies and large corporations).

Packard describes the snooping of business organizations on their own executives, the spying and counter-spying for trade secrets and market data, the use of polygraphs (so-called lie detectors) for prospective and current employes, the hidden questions in "personality" tests and the prying questions contained in school questionnaires.

He shows us bureaucrats at all levels, spying on citizens and each other; the compiling of lists by government and private agencies, as a hangover from the McCarthy era; the spreading of "national security" techniques far beyond normal necessities.

He also gets into the subject of noise intrusion by blaring loud speakers; the tricks used against captive audiences; the insistent pressure of telephone solicitors and the lucrative business of compiling and renting out mailing lists.

One of the most disturbing points that Packard makes is that there is a growing tendency among countless private, federal, state and local agencies to swap information. He tells about bribes, tips and under-the-table payments to moonlighting of public employes, all creating a situation in which even the most confidential information may be circulated.

It is no wonder that Packard's title seems justified by his material.

Brenton has been a private detective and an insurance inspector, so that he has had a personal background in collecting his information on what he calls "The Goldfish Age."

Human Side Of 'Terror' In France

PARIS IN THE TERROR. By Stanley Loomis. Lippincott. $6.95.

It is the human side of the chaotic, mad, guillotine period of the French Revolutions that Loomis writes about with such starkly graphic skill in this book—the period from June 1793 to July 1794.

He builds his narrative around three key figures.

First there is the sick, wildly fanatical Marat. Loomis traces the circumstances of his rise to power and describes at length the steps toward his murder by the well-meaning but misguided young woman from Calvados, Charlotte Corday.

Next there is Danton, and his story is told with the witch-like figure of Mme. Roland in the background. The author seems to have a warm spot in his heart for Danton; he spares nothing in the account of Danton's weaknesses and mistakes, but at least he gives the reader a feeling that this man who overthrew the monarchy possessed more decent human qualities than many of his contemporaries.

Finally there is Robespierre, who managed to send Danton to the knife and carry the period of Terror into its bloodiest months, until it was ended with the consummate politician Fouche sending Robespierre to execution.

Loomis sums up his book by saying that "History is made by men. So by studying the Terror on its human rather than its economic, political or military level one is able to discern certain causes of that upheaval which are often overlooked. The insanity of Marat, the ignorance of Charlotte Corday, the spite of Mme. Roland, the self-indulgence of Danton, the vanity of Camille Desmoulins contributed as much to the tragedy as the malice, and jealousy and ambition of Robespierre."

In this century, far more people died in the extermination camps of the Germans than in the butchery of the French Revolution, but there was an inhuman quality about the mass massacres of the Germans. In 18th Century France the violence of the Terror at least was understandable in terms of human weakness and hatred. This is the aspect of history which Loomis has chronicled.

Ruston Man Faces Wage, Hour Charge

M. John Kavanaugh of Ruston has been cited for violations of the federal wage and hour law in a suit filed in U. S. District Court here.

The defendant engages, in business under the name of Kavanaugh Motor Frieght and operates establishments on West California Avenue in Ruston and on Jackwells Boulevard in Shreveport, according to the U. S. Department of Labor.

The complaint alleges that Kavanaugh paid workers at hourly wages rates below the minimum established by the wage and hour law, that he failed to compensate employees at legal overtime rates and that he is in violation of the record-keeping provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, plaintiff in the action, has asked the court to grant a permanent order restraining the defendant from future violations of the requirements of the act.

Robert L. Mosley, supervisor of the Shreveport Wage-Hour Office, said that 1961 amendments to the Fair Labor Standards Act established $1.25 an an hour as the minimum for persons engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce.

The law also provides that such covered workers be paid not less than one one-half times their regular rate for hours in excess of 40 in a workweek, Mosley said.

She is bubbling with enthusism in all her undertakings; she is buoyant when speaking of her children and her versatility is expressed in the number of activitives which comprise her daily life.

The wife of Governor-Elect John J. McKeithen is equally at home at the kitchen range or at casting a fly rod in pursuit of her favorite pastime. Adept at the sewing machine where she makes many of the clothes worn by her daughters, she also displays better than average skill on the tennis court.

CENTER OF FAMILY

A homemaker in the true sense of the word, Marjorie McKeithen is the pivot around which her family revolves. The vivacious mother of six can rule with an iron hand when necessary, yet more often shares her family's interests and activities.

The former Marjorie Funderburk, she was born in Grayson and reared in Winnsboro, where she finished high school in 1936. She finished college in three years and summer sessions, graduating from Louisiana Tech in 1939. The daughter of a school teacher, she shared her father's interest in education and taught school at Jena, at Ward 5 in Caldwell Parish and at Grayson before her marriage to John J. McKeithen on June 14, 1942 at the Christian Church parsonage in Monroe. The couple was married while he was on a 10 day furlough from army service and like many war brides, she followed her husband for a time, returning to Winnsboro in 1943.

MARJORIE McKEITHEN displays better than average skill on the tennis court, located on the spacious grounds surrounding their home. She learned the game at an early age from her father, who was once a state tennis champion.

ENJOYED TEACHING

"I really enjoyed teaching and wanted to go on into higher education, like maybe junior college," she exclaimed. Although raising a family has deterred these plans she has "kept a hand in" by substitute teaching on occasion at schools in their community.

"There is a great need for remedial courses for students who have difficulty in certain subjects and I hope to be able to help some in this capacity when we come back from Baton Rouge," she said.

Home for the McKeithen family is a sprawling ranch style house located on a 2,200 acre farm overlooking Long Lake in Caldwell Parish. Without outside help the past year, she pointed out that housekeeping of the four-bedroom, three bath home with adjoining guest room and bath, was not really too difficult.

"Of course when I told the children to clean their rooms and they were finished in 15 minutes, I knew better than to look in the closets or under the beds," she laughed.

THE 'BROOD'

The McKeithen "brood" includes Jay, 20, presently farming with his grandfather, Jesse Jay McKeithen; Fox, 17, a senior at Caldwell high school and described by his mother as "one of their best athletes," but out this year because of knee surgery; Rebecca, 16, a sophomore at Caldwell high school and majorette in the band, whose "main love" is her horse which she raised from a colt; and the younger daughters, Melissa, 10, in the fifth grade; Pamela, 7, in the second grade and Jenny, 6; in the first grade at Columbia Elementary School, whose extra curricular activities include tap dancing and ballet lessons.

Fishing, sewing for her daughters and compiling scrapbooks are the next first lady's principal hobbies. The recent gubernatorial campaign of her husband kept her busy in the scrapbook department with the results being two huge books filled with clippings and photos, which are now among her prized possessions.

"I haven't taken up politics," she said in answer to a query about her role in the campaign. "My job was right here keeping a hand on the children. Of course I would go out a few days at a time, but felt I was needed more at home."

NOT DRUDGERY

Unlike many housewives of today, preparing meals for a large family is not considered drudgery by this untiring mother. "I do all my own cooking," she explained in describing that portion of her spacious kitchen which comprises the stove and cooking area as "no man's land." Here she spends many hours in a day preparing her family's favorite dishes. "I'm fortunate to have a husband who is really easy to cook for," she said.

The favorite menu of Governor-Elect McKeithen is creamed onions, meat loaf, turnips and cornbread, in true Southern tradition.

"His favorite dessert is banana ice cream, and between him and the children we keep the ice cream freezer going all summer long. In fact, friends who drop by during the summer often have to take their turn at the freezer," she said.

FAVORITE MENU

Also easy to please in the culinary department is Mrs. McKeithen, whose favorite menu is a baked potato and charcoal broiled steak. Her pet peeve, however, like many mothers, is when she has prepared a meal and the family doesn't get there on time and then takes trays to the family room to watch a favorite television program.

Speed and dexterity at which Marjorie McKeithen excells in homemaking is further exemplified in her summer activities. Despite a busy schedule she finds time for canning and explained she often pulled corn, which she shucked and canned all in the same day. Trips to the blackberry patch are turned into family outings to pick the luscious berries which are also canned by Mrs. McKeithen for future family consumption.

Cotton, corn and bermuda for cattle feed are the principal products grown on the McKeithen farm, where they hope later to exclusively raise cattle.

LEISURE ACTIVITIES

Water skiing, fishing and swimming comprise the family's leisure time during the summer. An all around sports enthusiast, the new first lady professes she doesn't ski, but prefers to ride a surf board. With a lake at the back door and a tennis court in front, the McKeithen family needn't venture far for shared entertainment, Mrs. McKeithen learned tennis from her father, a former state tennis champion.

Marjorie McKeithen's versatility extends to gardening. "I'm a good gardener, but a better cook," she declared in pointing out that she had planted every tree and shrub in the spacious yard which surrounds their home.

PROSPECTS DELIGHT

Informal gatherings have heretofore been her favorite means of entertaining, but with the impending move to the governor's mansion in Baton Rouge, her life will undoubtedly change.

"I plan to cooperate with various organizations for teas and receptions as long as it doesn't interfere with the family," she stated. I'm looking forward with great excitement, to living in the governor's mansion and the children are delighted with the prospects of each having a separate bedroom."

A shopping trip is also in the offing for Mrs. McKeithen for the selection of an ensemble to wear for her husband's inauguration as governor on May 12. Pink is the favorite color of the dark-eyed brownette, whose hair gleams with auburn tones in the sunlight.

SEWS FOR DAUGHTERS

Although she sews for her daughters and is a perfect size 12, Mrs. McKeithen professes she doesn't make her own clothes, because from past experience found she tired of the garment before its completion. Her "sewing room" is a closet off the family room, which houses the sewing machine, storage cabinets for patterns and material, as well as hanging space for garments to be mended. She prefers working inside the closet as it enables her, if interrupted, to simply close the sliding door and return later to the unfinished project which will remain as she left it with absence of clutter.

The McKeithen family belongs to the Methodist church in Columbia, where Mrs. McKeithen is a Sunday School teacher and member of the morning circle of the Women's Society of Christian Service. Further establishing her role as a wife and mother foremost, she explained she belonged to the morning group so that she can be home when her children arrive at 3:30 p.m. from school.

Despite the homey aura she creates, Marjorie McKeithen, with her vibrant personality, can don a chiffon gown and preside at the most formal affair with ease. While at the same time she characterizes a typical American housewife, as evidenced by a remark while proudly viewing her landscaped lawn. "I wasted a whole book of stamps on that bird feeder, and it's so fragile I don't believe it will hold up in the wind."

FAVORITE PLANTS

Her favorite shrubs and blooming plants are those which provide continuous growth with a minimum of care. The stately pine trees which dot the spacious yard fall in this category.

Marjorie McKeithen's vitality is only exceeded by her graciousness and charm combined with a natural friendliness, which will endear her to the hearts of all who visit the governor's mansion during the next four years.

During her husband's campaign she felt a personal obligation to answer mail from his supporters until the task became monumental and required additional help. She had a strong ally in her mother, Mrs. Katie Lee Howell Smart of Grayson, who lent a helping hand with the children while their mother was otherwise occupied.

The family plans to spend as many weekends as time will allow at their Columbia farm. A gracious hostess, Mrs. McKeithen is looking forward, however, to entertaining close friends at the governor's mansion during their four year tenure, so as not to lose contact with "home."

GARDENING, secondary to her cooking skills, also occupies the time of Marjorie McKeithen, pictured inspecting a hanging planter, suspended from a tree at the rear of the McKeithen home, where a glass wall of the family room overlooks Long Lake. Mrs. McKeithen personally planted all the trees and shrubs which surround their home.

Hoffa's Eight Years

Long regarded by many as the most dangerous labor leader in the United States and possibly the most dangerous man, James R. Hoffa, president of the International Teamsters Union, has been convicted of tampering with a jury and has been sentenced by a federal judge to serve eight years in the penitentiary.

This apparently sends his personal empire crashing to destruction. He has announced that he will appeal the conviction and that he will carry the case to the United States Supreme Court if necessary. There is scant doubt that his case will reach the highest court in the land, no matter what the rulings of the lower courts may be, but there is also little likelihood that any lower court will give him any surcease. The general opinion is that his fate is written and sealed.

One of the rules of the Teamsters Union is that no person who has ever been finally convicted of a felony can serve as an officer of that union. If the higher courts upon the conviction, Hoffa should be through as president of the Teamsters union.

In passing sentence, United States District Judge Frank W. Wilson not only declared Hoffa had been found guilty as charged but that, in reality, he was convicted of "having tampered with the very soul of the nation."

We concur completely in what the judge said concerning "tampering with the soul of the nation." The jury system in the United States is as near an approach to justice as has ever been devised. Tampering with the bribing jurors to bring in decisions contrary to the evidence would, of course, defeat the whole aim of the jury system, which is that every man shall be tried by his peers and that justice shall be given to all — the innocent and the guilty.

In five previous trials, Hoffa had escaped being sentenced to prison. In one or two cases in which there was no conviction it was alleged he escaped conviction by bribing jurors. The union boss faces another federal trial in Chicago, beginning April 27, on charges of misusing union pension funds.

Hoffa's conviction was looked upon as a victory for Attorney General Robert Kennedy, who vowed soon after taking office that he would bring the militant labor leader to justice. Hoffa has charged that a personal vendetta has been carried on against him by the attorney general.

Oddly, the outstanding characteristics of Hoffa and Kennedy have been virtually the same — to trample down and crush all opposition. Many think, because of his superior position in government and his determination to bring industry and the individual under the domination of the government, that Kennedy has been and is a more dangerous man than Hoffa, although he has stayed within the law and Hoffa, according to the conviction, has not. While on the subject of the country's most dangerous men, it would be almost impossible to forget Robert S. McNamara, secretary of defense, because of his determination to place his own judgement against that of all of our experienced military chieftains.

Hoffa openly and frequently boasted of his intention to put a strangle hold on the entire United States and hinted at eventual world control of every means of transportation, by land, sea and air. This would have enabled him to throw the United States into a position of starvation by tying up all transportation facilities. Recently he signed a contract for Teamsters which vastly increased his power.

Conviction of Hoffa had been looked upon by some as impossible because of his vast financial resources and the number of men at his command who could obtain information for him and who, reportedly, were able to find ways of contacting and influencing jurors.

An Associated Press news item said no union official had taken a hard stand on Hoffa's conviction but that one said "something will have to be done" if Hoffa goes to prison.

An editorial page cartoon showed that Hoffa had been driving a huge, 18-wheel truck that represented his transporation empire and that the truck had been knocked off the side of a mountain to crash to destruction in a valley far below. That looks like an accurate appraisal.

Fairy Godmother

Membership in the United Nations now stands at 113. This includes 77 "underdeveloped" or "new" nations, which were neither ready for independence nor able to take care of themselves.

Not only was it the idea of the United States to rush the creation of these new nations but the officials of this country decided to make it a fairy godmother, devoted to the cause of supporting the fledgling nations, although it was unable to discipline them.

There is an additional phase to consider. Beginning with the time of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, officials of this country carried on a campaign to make England, France and other nations of the West divest themselves of their colonies. This reduced Great Britain from a world power to a rather small island on which the pompous citizens still talk big but can do little. France and other nations were similarly affected by our mad desire to create new nations, although not to the same degree that England was hit.

Of the present $6 billion worth of United States farm exports, $4.2 billion is sold for hard currency. The remaining $1.8 billion is being given away as a part of the "food for peace" program. This largesse goes, in varying quantities, to 91 different countries, which are referred to as "underdeveloped," although some of them are on firmer footing financially than is the United States.

The theory is that, once having become "developed," these countries will become cash customers for the United States. The opposite has been found to be true. Giving things away too often creates only resentment on the part of the recipients because they do not like to be considered objects of charity, although they have no reluctance in taking the money. When they are able to buy, though, they buy from other countries rather than the United States. When they have become self-sufficient, they sell to other countries, thus taking away a part of the United States market.

But this monetary loss, added to the billions we give away, is not the only evil. In helping to establish 77 nations that are not ready for independence we have created a Frankenstein which could destroy us if we insist on staying in the United Nations. Most of these new nations were created in Africa and Asia. Most of them have been under Russian influence. Each of these tiny nations has a vote equal to that of the United States. Russia managed to "horn-swoggle" three votes in the United Nations but the United States has only one.

Our world do-goodism is wrecking us. If we let the United Nations tell us what to do we will be submerged by countries that are incapable of governing themselves.

At least three things we ought to do; quit helping to spawn new enemy countries; quit bankrupting ourselves by trying to play fairy godmother, by trying to feed the world free of charge and by killing our own markets; get out of the United Nations before it swallows us like the monster it has become.

Northwestern South America, one of the first New World regions explored by Spanish colonizers, still contains vast areas that are virtually unknown to outsiders.

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

In the past, your papers have carried articles on the establishment and growth of the Ouachita Valley Historical Museum, for which we are most grateful. On several occasions you have shown pictures of Mrs. Aline Banister, director of the museum, and paid tribute to her for her efforts.

Those of us who have been connected with this venture know better than anyone else possibly could just how much Mrs. Banister has given of herself, in time, energy and means to see that the museum was a success. Though she was not in the original group who drew up the first constitution, and set the wheels in motion, just as soon as she read of the project, she immediately joined the movement, for the sole purpose of doing something good for her community.

Needless to say, this effort has been painfully slow, but Mrs. Banister's persistence has paid off. Though there have been many who contributed in numerous ways to the establishment of an area museum, officers in the organization are all in agreement, that Mrs. Banister's efforts have been the most dedicated, and the most consistent.

It is with gratitude in our hearts that we join you in a tribute to her untiring efforts. There have been many in this area to have the dream of a museum, many as far back as thirty or more years ago, so we think it speaks well of our "Aline" that this one should be working out so well. In all fairness, if it were not for her and her two assistants, Mrs. R. N. Milling, and Mrs. Leila Crider, the doors of the museum could not have remained opened since last July 11. She somehow manages to keep going, when younger people are unable to keep up.

Some of us who know her best are certain she has tapped the fountain of youth, and wish that there were more Aline Banisters who had the spirit of public service which she has. Our world would be the better for it! Thank you for your splendid coverage of our efforts in the past.

Wants Tax Relief

West Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

During World War II congress placed taxes on many goods and services in order to finance wartime needs. We are still paying on some of these because the federal government sought new ways of spending these extra funds.

A few days ago the city of West Monroe paid out a financial obligation paid for by an undesirable garbage tax. Since that time there has been no effort to eliminate or even reduce this tax.

We will be called upon to vote or reject a bond issue to build a sewage treatment plant. A bond issue will be easier passed if there is a tax relief between now and June.

De Gaulle Given Some Admiration

IT SEEMS TO MOST Americans highly ungrateful on the part of France, after all that this nation has done for La Belle in the past 50 years, to suddenly become the principal stumbling block to what might have been partial achievement of U.S. dreams of a unified free western world.

In official circles, you will hear that General Charles DeGaulle, the autocratic French president has never liked this country and takes particular delight in spurning us. If this be true, it can only be described as petty, in view of our contribution of the balance of victory in two wars when France was on the ropes, and the vast sums given her for postwar rehabilitation under the Marshall plan.

However, some in government, both in the State Department and on Capitol Hill, while not enthusing about DeGaulle's doings, believe him correct in the assertion that his course is the only route by which France can again become a first class power. Some wonder privately whether there may not be some examples for the U.S. in his determination to build a new and independent France as a world power.

With these American rumors that DeGaulle is losing his eyesight and that he is increasingly influenced by younger extremists in his government carry no weight. American diplomats are impressed chiefly that he has restored France to an eminence she has not had since before World War I.

The friendship between the two nations is that of two bickering families which argue over the back fence, each having pride in its traditions, each owing a debt to the other from help in times of peril. History says that the United States could not have come into existence when it did if it had not been for the aid of French armed forces to George Washington and his army against bumbling British generals. There is no argument on the part of France that the debt has been repaid in full.

National gratitude, however, does not extinguish DeGaulle's bitter memories of the snub dealt him by President Franklin D. Roosevelt early in World War II when FDR recognized the Vichy government, which had sentenced DeGaulle to death, and rebuffed the Free French government, which DeGaulle headed. Winston Churchill sided firmly with the American president, so that DeGaulle's bitter memories include Britain as well.

In contrast to recent U.S. administrations, DeGaulle is a hard bargainer, except where it serves his own interests to show international friendship. For example, some U.S. financial authorities are uneasy because France, with her four billion dollar reserve balance could almost wipe out the emaciated U.S. gold reserve at any time by demanding gold for dollars.

He has risen to his present eminence, after emerging from 12 years of retirement while France went through a long period of political chaos after World War II, by ruthlessly combating the Algerian crisis and the period of terrorism in France which accompanied it, including an assassination attempt in August, 1962, when a blast of machine gun fire came within inches of killing him.

A Washington journalist, returning from France while DeGaulle was in seclusion, remarked that "There is nothing wrong with France except its politicians." That was an oversimplification, but one of DeGaulle's accomplishments has been to eliminate the influence of the politicians. Since his new emergency in 1958, he has reestablished the soundness of French currency, speeded up industrial expansion, and has given much of the power that the politicians once wielded to a young group of planners. Equally important he has reorganized the National Assembly, the equivalent of the U.S. Congress.

His remodeling of the government, not accomplished easily, made his power complete. Then he began the restoration of "the glory of France" as he describes it. He established France's version of the "New Frontier" which inevitably brought him into conflict with both Britain and the United States.

Much of France's economy is already government controlled — mainly utilities and transportation — and private industry has also come under government planning, with the result that economic expansion has averaged seven per cent for the last five years. Americans in Paris say that he has France under his thumb and that he determines French policy according to what he believes to be the republic's interests alone.

His recognition of Red China and his subtle advocacy for neutralization of Southeast Asia, where he believes no western power can defeat the Chinese Communists, hark back to the decisive defeat which drove his country out of her former Asiatic colonies.

The two governments have so many disparities that to liken them is hardly possibly, but at a time when the United States faces troubles in all directions, her companion republic is zooming ahead. It took a tough one man administration to do it.

CHARLES O. GRIDLEY

Lodge Is Unlikely To Hurry To U.S.

THE LESSONS IN political reluctance which he learned from General Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952, may now be useful to Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge in far away South Viet Nam.

When the general received word in March 1952 that he had defeated Senator Robert A. Taft in the New Hampshire primary and captured its delegates, he was Supreme Allied Commander in Europe, organizing the military forces of NATO. His campaign manager, who had persuaded him to permit his name to be used as a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, was Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts.

"Ike" knew he had a stiff fight for the nomination, as a steady stream of important Republicans visited his headquarters outside Paris, seeking to persuade him to return to the U.S. immediately and campaign for delegates. He explained then that he had to complete his task as he had promised President Truman. Not until June 1 did he return to the U. S., resign from the Army, and head for his old home at Abilene, Kansas to make the first political speech of his life.

LESS THAN SIX weeks later on July 11, he defeated Taft for the Republican nomination at Chicago. There is no indication whether Ambassador Lodge has a similar idea in mind. Scarcely anyone believes, however, that an immediate return to the U. S. figures in his plans — unless he should be recalled by President Johnson. Like Ike in '52, he has the perfect excuse—his duty to his country, to complete the job he accepted from the late President Kennedy.

If he left his ambassadorial post with the Viet Nam situation as critical as it is, with the U.S. apparently on the losing side, such Republican popularity as his New Hampshire victory may have indicated could be expected to evaporate over night.

Both Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller and Senator Barry Goldwater undoubtedly lost ground in the New Hampshire primary but the question asked here is whether Ambassador Lodge can be considered to have made a real start as a candidate for the Republican nomination.

IKE, WITH HIS tremendous postwar prestige, actually failed to make much political capital out of his New Hamsphire victory for some time. Taft carried Wisconsin, Nebraska and Illinois, though its 64 delegates were not pledged to him. But the general came back with victories in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts and was off and running.

Lodge is not entered in any of the big state primaries and unless some state conventions swing to him, which is questionable, he won't be making much progress beyond the New Hampshire upset. Meanwhile Rockefeller and Goldwater will pick up many more delegates than the 14 they lost in New Hampshire. Furthermore, their campaign organizations will be functioning in most all states.

The popular New Hampshire vote accorded Lodge may result in sizeable write-ins in other states, such as Eisenhower received in Minnesota in 1952, though Harold Stassen carried the state.

ROCKEFELLER AND Goldwater had substantially agreed before the New Hampshire affair that the California primary on June 2, where 64 delegates will be up for grabs only six weeks in advance of the opening of the Republican National Convention in San Francisco, would probably decide the nominee. Lodge won't figure there, unless by write-ins, of which there may be a substantial number for him.

Leading Republicans have concluded that the principal effect of the New England victory will be to put Lodge on a par with Richard M. Nixon, as a reserve or stand-by candidate; he might even be a notch or two ahead, as a result of the much larger write-in vote for him.

Most Republicans exhibit scant animation over the unexpected projection of Henry Cabot Lodge into the campaign for their party nomination. Some of them say that he dragged his feet in the 1960 campaign for Vice President, making a minimum number of speeches and few extensive campaign trips. There is also criticism that he accepted a difficult diplomatic post at the hands of a Democratic President, who had defeated him for the Senate in Massachusetts in 1952.

SOME VETERAN observers who were in New Hampshire have a different slant. They say that Goldwater and Rockefeller failed to click there, and that Lodge sentiment was latent, had only to be scratched. With no national enthusiasm thus far for any of the other possible nominees, they speculate that Lodge could become a popular choice, as Eisenhower was.

There are conspicuous differences though. One is that Lodge will attract little support in the South, where he was not popular in 1960. Another is that he had no record of success to point to in his exacting Viet Nam assignment. But to Republicans in general, life has become more exciting.

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR.

Rocky Is Crushed By New Hampshire

AN ELECTION IS a form of communication, in which the citizen-voters speak to their public leaders and to each other; and in our strange, drawn-out process of nominating candidates for our highest office, this communication is an intermittent six months' dialogue punctuated by the successive primaries. Still, this week the New Hampshire Republicans were the first to hold the floor. What, this time, have they been trying to say?

Chiefly, as I read them, that they remain as they were reported to be throughout the campaign, largely undecided. But does not the big sweep for Ambassador Lodge, like the 1952 Eisenhower write-in, mean that they have decided, and for him? Probably not. A solid victory for Rockefeller, Goldwater or even Scranton would have proved that they had decided. But this sweep for the absent Ambassador was really a way of not deciding. In the first place, Lodge was the nearest thing New Hampshire had to a favorite son; and, in the second, most New Hampshire voters are shrewd enough to realize that Lodge has the chance of a one-eared rabbit to win the nomination.

NEITHER ROCKEFELLER nor Goldwater succeeded, prior to March 10, in convincing a majority or even a plurality of New Hampshire Republicans. This is an irreducible fact. They were both defeated, and in view of the relatively huge sums of time, energy and money spent on each campaign, badly defeated.

But in my judgment, the Rockefeller and Goldwater defeats in New Hampshire were not identical in nature or consequence. Senator Goldwater was bruised; Governor Rockefeller was quite probably crushed. Rockefeller's setback would seem to be irreversible. Goldwater can and almost certainly will—the New Hampshire campaign itself offers the proof — not merely recover but move quickly up.

ROCKEFELLER IS probably finished in the first round — though he will go on flailing until the last bell, no doubt—because he hasn't anything in reserve. He shot his political wad on what should have been a promising bet, and he lost. His style of campaigning was perfected long ago, and his best wasn't good enough. It's hard to see how, physically, he could spend more money per voter. He was fighting on favorable terrain: a northeastern state, near neighbor to his own, where he has many ties of friends, school and largesse. The ideas he served up, all well polished with the familiar sheen of the reigning ideology, were easy and familiar. The national press, both newspaper and periodical, was friendly. He put an incredible personal energy into his drive. And he came in third.

Hoffa's Eight Years

Long regarded by many as the most dangerous labor leader in the United States and possibly the most dangerous man, James R. Hoffa, president of the International Teamsters Union, has been convicted of tampering with a jury and has been sentenced by a federal judge to serve eight years in the penitentiary.

This apparently sends his personal empire crashing to destruction. He has announced that he will appeal the conviction and that he will carry the case to the United States Supreme Court if necessary. There is scant doubt that his case will reach the highest court in the land, no matter what the rulings of the lower courts may be, but there is also little likelihood that any lower court will give him any surcease. The general opinion is that his fate is written and sealed.

One of the rules of the Teamsters Union is that no person who has ever been finally convicted of a felony can serve as an officer of that union. If the higher courts upon the conviction, Hoffa should be through as president of the Teamsters union.

In passing sentence, United States District Judge Frank W. Wilson not only declared Hoffa had been found guilty as charged but that, in reality, he was convicted of "having tampered with the very soul of the nation."

We concur completely in what the judge said concerning "tampering with the soul of the nation." The jury system in the United States is as near an approach to justice as has ever been devised. Tampering with the bribing jurors to bring in decisions contrary to the evidence would, of course, defeat the whole aim of the jury system, which is that every man shall be tried by his peers and that justice shall be given to all — the innocent and the guilty.

In five previous trials, Hoffa had escaped being sentenced to prison. In one or two cases in which there was no conviction it was alleged he escaped conviction by bribing jurors. The union boss faces another federal trial in Chicago, beginning April 27, on charges of misusing union pension funds.

Hoffa's conviction was looked upon as a victory for Attorney General Robert Kennedy, who vowed soon after taking office that he would bring the militant labor leader to justice. Hoffa has charged that a personal vendetta has been carried on against him by the attorney general.

Oddly, the outstanding characteristics of Hoffa and Kennedy have been virtually the same — to trample down and crush all opposition. Many think, because of his superior position in government and his determination to bring industry and the individual under the domination of the government, that Kennedy has been and is a more dangerous man than Hoffa, although he has stayed within the law and Hoffa, according to the conviction, has not. While on the subject of the country's most dangerous men, it would be almost impossible to forget Robert S. McNamara, secretary of defense, because of his determination to place his own judgement against that of all of our experienced military chieftains.

Hoffa openly and frequently boasted of his intention to put a strangle hold on the entire United States and hinted at eventual world control of every means of transportation, by land, sea and air. This would have enabled him to throw the United States into a position of starvation by tying up all transportation facilities. Recently he signed a contract for Teamsters which vastly increased his power.

Conviction of Hoffa had been looked upon by some as impossible because of his vast financial resources and the number of men at his command who could obtain information for him and who, reportedly, were able to find ways of contacting and influencing jurors.

An Associated Press news item said no union official had taken a hard stand on Hoffa's conviction but that one said "something will have to be done" if Hoffa goes to prison.

An editorial page cartoon showed that Hoffa had been driving a huge, 18-wheel truck that represented his transporation empire and that the truck had been knocked off the side of a mountain to crash to destruction in a valley far below. That looks like an accurate appraisal.

Fairy Godmother

Membership in the United Nations now stands at 113. This includes 77 "underdeveloped" or "new" nations, which were neither ready for independence nor able to take care of themselves.

Not only was it the idea of the United States to rush the creation of these new nations but the officials of this country decided to make it a fairy godmother, devoted to the cause of supporting the fledgling nations, although it was unable to discipline them.

There is an additional phase to consider. Beginning with the time of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, officials of this country carried on a campaign to make England, France and other nations of the West divest themselves of their colonies. This reduced Great Britain from a world power to a rather small island on which the pompous citizens still talk big but can do little. France and other nations were similarly affected by our mad desire to create new nations, although not to the same degree that England was hit.

Of the present $6 billion worth of United States farm exports, $4.2 billion is sold for hard currency. The remaining $1.8 billion is being given away as a part of the "food for peace" program. Some of them say that he dragged his feet in the 1960 campaign for Vice President, making a minimum number of speeches and few extensive campaign trips. There is also criticism that he accepted a difficult diplomatic post at the hands of a Democratic President, who had defeated him for the Senate in Massachusetts in 1952.

SOME VETERAN observers who were in New Hampshire have a different slant. They say that Goldwater and Rockefeller failed to click there, and that Lodge sentiment was latent, having only to be scratched. With no national enthusiasm thus far for any of the other possible nominees, they speculate that Lodge could become a popular choice, as Eisenhower was.

There are conspicuous differences though. One is that Lodge will attract little support in the South, where he was not popular in 1960. Another is that he had no record of success to point to in his exacting Viet Nam assignment. But to Republicans in general, life has become more exciting.

BASCOM TIMMONS

De Gaulle Given Some Admiration

IT SEEMS TO MOST Americans highly ungrateful on the part of France, after all that this nation has done for La Belle in the past 50 years, to suddenly become the principal stumbling block to what might have been partial achievement of U.S. dreams of a unified free western world.

In official circles, you will hear that General Charles DeGaulle, the autocratic French president has never liked this country and takes particular delight in spurning us. If this be true, it can only be described as petty, in view of our contribution of the balance of victory in two wars when France was on the ropes, and the vast sums given her for postwar rehabilitation under the Marshall plan.

However, some in government, both in the State Department and on Capitol Hill, while not enthusing about DeGaulle's doings, believe him correct in the assertion that his course is the only route by which France can again become a first class power. Some wonder privately whether there may not be some examples for the U. S. in his determination to build a new and independent France as a world power.

With these American rumors that DeGaulle is losing his eyesight and that he is increasingly influenced by younger extremists in his government carry no weight. American diplomats are impressed chiefly that he has restored France to an eminence she has not had since before World War I.

The friendship between the two nations is that of two bickering families which argue over the back fence, each having pride in its traditions, each owing a debt to the other from help in times of peril. History says that the United States could not have come into existence when it did if it had not been for the aid of French armed forces to George Washington and his army against bumbling British generals. There is no argument on the part of France that the debt has been repaid in full.

National gratitude, however, does not extinguish DeGaulle's bitter memories of the snub dealt him by President Franklin D. Roosevelt early in World War II when FDR recognized the Vichy government, which had sentenced DeGaulle to death, and rebuffed the Free French government, which DeGaulle headed. Winston Churchill sided firmly with the American president, so that DeGaulle's bitter memories include Britain as well.

In contrast to recent U.S. administrations, DeGaulle is a hard bargainer, except where it serves his own interests to show international friendship. For example, some U.S. financial authorities are uneasy because France, with her four billion dollar reserve balance could almost wipe out the emaciated U.S. gold reserve at any time by demanding gold for dollars.

He has risen to his present eminence, after emerging from 12 years of retirement while France went through a long period of political chaos after World War II, by ruthlessly combating the Algerian crisis and the period of terrorism in France which accompanied it, including an assassination attempt in August, 1962, when a blast of machine gun fire came within inches of killing him.

A Washington journalist, returning from France while DeGaulle was in seclusion, remarked that "There is nothing wrong with France except its politicians." That was an over simplification, but one of DeGaulle's accomplishments has been to eliminate the influence of the politicians. Since his new emergency in 1958, he has reestablished the soundness of French currency, speeded up industrial expansion, and has given much of the power that the politicians once wielded to a young group of planners. Equally important he has reorganized the National Assembly, the equivalent of the U.S. Congress.

His remodeling of the government, not accomplished easily, made his power complete. Then he began the restoration of "the glory of France" as he describes it. He established France's version of the "New Frontier" which inevitably brought him into conflict with both Britain and the United States.

Much of France's economy is already government controlled — mainly utilities and transportation — and private industry has also come under government planning, with the result that economic expansion has averaged seven per cent for the last five years. Americans in Paris say that he has France under his thumb and that he determines French policy according to what he believes to be the republic's interests alone.

His recognition of Red China and his subtle advocacy for neutralization of Southeast Asia, where he believes no western power can defeat the Chinese Communists, hark back to the decisive defeat which drove his country out of her former Asiatic colonies.

The two governments have so many disparities that to liken them is hardly possibly, but at a time when the United States faces troubles in all directions, her companion republic is zooming ahead. It took a tough one man administration to do it.

Rocky Is Crushed By New Hampshire

AN ELECTION IS a form of communication, in which the citizen-voters speak to their public leaders and to each other; and in our strange, drawn-out process of nominating candidates for our highest office, this communication is an intermittent six months' dialogue punctuated by the successive primaries. Still, this week the New Hampshire Republicans were the first to hold the floor. What, this time, have they been trying to say?

Chiefly, as I read them, that they remain as they were reported to be throughout the campaign, largely undecided. But does not the big sweep for Ambassador Lodge, like the 1952 Eisenhower write-in, mean that they have decided, and for him? Probably not. A solid victory for Rockefeller, Goldwater or even Scranton would have proved that they had decided. But this sweep for the absent Ambassador was really a way of not deciding. In the first place, Lodge was the nearest thing New Hampshire had to a favorite son; and, in the second, most New Hampshire voters are shrewd enough to realize that Lodge has the chance of a one-eared rabbit to win the nomination.

NEITHER ROCKEFELLER nor Goldwater succeeded, prior to March 10, in convincing a majority or even a plurality of New Hampshire Republicans. This is an irreducible fact. They were both defeated, and in view of the relatively huge sums of time, energy and money spent on each campaign, badly defeated.

But in my judgment, the Rockefeller and Goldwater defeats in New Hampshire were not identical in nature or consequence. Senator Goldwater was bruised; Governor Rockefeller was quite probably crushed. Rockefeller's setback would seem to be irreversible. Goldwater can and almost certainly will—the New Hampshire campaign itself offers the proof — not merely recover but move quickly up.

ROCKEFELLER IS probably finished in the first round — though he will go on flailing until the last bell, no doubt—because he hasn't anything in reserve. He shot his political wad on what should have been a promising bet, and he lost. His style of campaigning was perfected long ago, and his best wasn't good enough. It's hard to see how, physically, he could spend more money per voter. He was fighting on favorable terrain: a northeastern state, near neighbor to his own, where he has many ties of friends, school and largesse. The ideas he served up, all well polished with the familiar sheen of the reigning ideology, were easy and familiar. The national press, both newspaper and periodical, was friendly. He put an incredible personal energy into his drive. And he came in third.

Little Known Facts

PEOPLE WHO SHOULD know say the trip to South Vietnam by Defense Secretary Robert McNamara has very little to do with the decision on whether the U.S. carries the Vietnamese war into Communist North Vietnam. The main factor in such a decision is how deeply committed Washington feels the Soviet Union is to defend the North Vietnamese against any attack from the South. Washington policy makers say that if it were only the Chinese threat that the U.S. had to consider in a naval blockade of North Vietnam ports and air strikes against North Vietnam cities there would be little to fear. The danger would be from the Soviets and Washington is convinced that Russia would come to the aid of the Chinese and North Vietnamese in any showdown with the U.S. right now, European diplomats say Russia is doing its utmost to patch up its quarrel with China. Purpose of the McNamara trip was to pin down whether the U.S. can win under the Vietnamese war ground rules. And before leaving to return home, McNamara said the U.S. would have to increase its aid. . .

IF YOU ARE AN executive and snatching your son's chemistry set or model plane kit reguarly, a European psychiatrist would say you're really protecting your mental health. He feels executives should play with children's toys to relieve their tensions. La Snisse, a Geneva newspaper, reports that Dr. Max Ramseyer now advises executives to keep a supply of children's toys in their offices. Key organization men should allow one hour a day to creative play . . . .

THE U.S. CAN'T win for losing. Two notions cherished by many Americans are fast wilting under a shower of events. One is that the march of technology greatly benefits "have-not" nations by shortening their route to industrial prosperity. The other is that the have-not nations would, for many reasons, welcome any loosening of U.S. immigration quotas. The first has been called to question by a UN program to persuade U.S. companies to somehow restrain their research sorcers. Everytime a new, cheap substitute for a basic commodity comes on the market, the UN argues, it takes business away from some have-not nations. As a result, the have-nots have even less foreign exchange with which to buy goods, and so can't avail themselves of the products of the new technology. The other, the have-nots do not want immigration laws any easier because he draws away too many of their scientist and top businessmen . . .

FEAR OF BEING crowded off the earth in a relatively few years by too many of our own kind has caused unprecedented fascination with population control. Some experts on demography would like to see a world-wide birth control movement win acceptance in the areas where the birth rate is highest. Dr. John Durand, director of the UN population office, commenting on the fact that the current 3 billion people in the world will be 6 billion by the year 2000, said: "What everyone would like to see happen is a combination of actors that would bring about a great spontaneous birth control movement . . .

FROM SUNNY Italy comes news that the president of the Women's Peace League is sponsoring a "peaceful driving campaign" for motorists. Drivers, mostly male, have been attacking each other, physically as well as verbally. There have been a dozen deaths from such fights during the past year. Many Latin drivers, it seems, consider it an insult when their car is passed on the road. It becomes a matter of personal honor to catch the offending driver. This leads to further anger and occasionally to duels with fists, knives or guns . . .

Another Plane Downed

Another U.S. plane has been shot down in Germany by the Russians and still we do nothing but half-way apologize and take whatever the Soviets handout which is a lot in this case.

The plane was downed Tuesday, but its three-man crew parachuted safely. However, so far, the Soviets have refused to return the men and have blocked our efforts to reach the wreckage. In the initial exchange, the U.S. combined an apology with a protest in asking the Soviet Union to help speed the return of the men. On Thursday, American crash crews started for the wreckage, but were blocked by the Soviets. First inkling that the men were safe—but condition unknown—came from an East German nurse. Later in the day, the U.S. told Russia it expected the Soviets to return "without delay" the three U.S. airmen. The demand was made to Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin by the State Department in Washington. At the same time we denied Soviet contention that the 700-mile-an-hour RB66 reconnaissance bomber was on a military intelligence mission.

Meanwhile, the U.S. pointed out that Soviet violation of West German air space probably are more frequent than Western incursions into Communist East Germany. The Soviets prefer to shoot first and ask questions later, while Western Allies give Soviet pilots the benefit of doubt. Reports said there were 95 Communist violations from 1961 to 1963, but only 77 Western incursions.

Around The U.S.

NEW EVIDENCE of spreading discord between France and the U. S. cropped up in a new quarter the past week with the issue this time over a possible multimillion dollar deal with Belgium for Army tanks. The U. S. is trying to sell Belgium several hundred big medium tanks, designed at a price of $161,238 each. In a rival campaign, France is trying to persuade the Brussels government to buy the French tank, which officials say would cost about twice as much as the U. S. tank. Washington officials say that the French, in pressing their campaign, are arguing, in substance, that Belgium as a European country should buy European. In recent months, France has split with the U. S. over Red China, a policy of neutralization for Southeast Asia, and efforts to make the North Atlantic Treaty Organization increasingly independent of the U. S. .. .

SENATE DEMOCRATIC Leader Mike Mansfield reluctantly predicted the past week that the Robert G. Bobby Baker case would be a 1964 campaign issue, but said the Senate itself much accept much of the fault. His statement came as Senate Republicans and Democrats argued whether the investigation of Baker's far-flung activities while he was Senate secretary was really over. Mansfield said he thought the Senate investigators had done a good job. However. Republicans insist that more witnesses with relevant testimony should be called, while others said the committee had done a good job of whitewash. Baker was a protege of President Lyndon Johnson . . .

A MIRACLE OCCURRED in the House of Representatives, but probably the fear of election year had more to do with it than anything else. The House turned down a $10,000 a year pay raise for Congress members and killed with it salary increases for 1.7 million other federal employes. During the two days of debate, opponents of the bill hammered at the idea of members of Congress voting themselves a big pay boost in an election year and just after having passed a hefty tax cut and pledged themselves to economy in government. Besides members of Congress, cabinet officials and their top aides, Supreme Court justices and the vice president—all would have received $10,000 a year increases. For the career government worker and postal employes, raises would have ranged from three to 22.5 per cent . . .

THE U. S. SUPREME COURT surprisingly balanced the books a bit the past week when it gave newspapers more freedom than at any time in history in criticizing government officials' official conduct. The nine justices, in their unanimous opinion which was handed down in a $500,000 suit against the New York Times by an Alabama city police official, didn't give newspapers an absolute immunity against libel suits for damages by criticized officials, but they came close to it. As it now stands, a citizen or newspaper won't have to prove the total truth of a criticism. The court made allowance for error in fact or opinion, even though the official is defamed. Now a newspaper doesn't have to fear a damage suit unless the criticism can be proved to have come from actual malice — and that will take some proving. Ironically, public officials already had that much immunity against damage suits when they acted officially . . .

IN NEW YORK, more than 15,000 parents, mostly white, picketed city hall in protest against a school integration plan. Earlier, a parents' delegation had met with education officials to oppose a proposal to send children out of their neighborhoods to other schools by bus in order to end racial imbalance in classrooms. The board said it would not change its plans. What the plan amounts to is this—white students would be transferred to Negro schools—regardless of the distance—so an equal number of each would be in a particular school . . .

MEANWHILE, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, seems to be taking aim at the National Guard again. Informed sources say McNamara has shown increasing skepticism about the value of Guard and Reserve units that would not be ready for use in emergencies, but would be mobilized only in the event of a long war. If McNamara goes through with the plan — which would not be until after the November elections — it would put in jeopardy 15 National Guard infantry and armor divisions and six reserve infantry divisions which now have a lower priority . . .

THERE WAS SOME bad news for the nation's youth, too. President Johnson will ask Congress to lower the draft age from 18 to 17 to give his "war on poverty" a chance to aid needy youngsters a year earlier. These subjects for the war on poverty, a ranking source said, will be the 500,000 each year who fail the Army's General Classification Test. They will be given a chance to enter special work schools where they will take special education and vocational courses. By lowering the age to 17, officials claim, this will give them a year's head start . . .

THE NATIONAL AERONAUTICS and Space Administration reported Thursday that America's highest soaring earth satellite — Nicknamed IMP — has detected what may be a third Van Allen radiation belt still farther above the planet. However, a spokesman said, the radiation does not appear to hold any serious hazard for future space travelers. The 138-pound spacecraft, aloft only since November 26, has also confirmed theories that particles streaming from the sun create a continuous gigantic shockwave as they plow into the earth's magnetic field . . .

IN CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Teamsters President James Hoffa has been sentenced to eight years in prison and fined $10,000 on a charge of trying to fix a federal court jury. Hoffa could have received a maximum of 10 years in prison. U. S. District Judge Frank Wilson, who heard the long trial which resulted in Hoffa's conviction, imposed the sentence which could eventually mean loss of Hoffa's job as head of the world's largest labor union . . .

INVESTIGATING Senators have received testimony that one of the more outrageous attempts to bilk the elderly involves the promotion of such things as purported potency pills and bust builders. Irving Ladimir, a spokesman for the National Better Business Bureau, said the promoters appeal to women to buy skin rejuvenators, wrinkle removers, bust builders, reducing aids and vitamin preparations. He said men "are besieged by potency pills, drugs, various stimulators and devices." Authorities have estimated that hucksters of nutritional quackery fleece the elderly of hundreds of millions of dollars annually. . . . .

ANOTHER SURPRISE — which probably shouldn't be one — was disclosed the past week. A U.S. diplomat said to have bene a Soviet spy for 18 years was allowed to resign three years ago "for fear his prosecution would trigger a major State Department scandal." This was reported Wednesday by the New York Journal American. The newspaper said the man was allowed to disappear in Europe where he and his mistress are now reportedly operating freely. This was one of the reasons, the newspaper said, the CIA and State Department are making desperate attempts to keep Colonel Goleniewski, the former KGB Soviet Secret Police agent, from testifying before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee. Other reasons behind those attempts are said to be fear of his disclosure of 19 Americans working for the KGB, 12 in the State Department, four in the CIA and three in U. S. scientific laboratories . . .

Is There A Feud

Is there a feud going on between Attorney General Robert Kennedy and President Lyndon Johnson? Although both have denied it, there seems to be some evidence to support such a theory.

Rumors have become so widespread about the feud that statements are being issued in an effort to discount them. On Friday, Kennedy said he and President Johnson always have been and still are on friendly terms, adding, "I have the highest regard for him. He's been kind to me and my family and to Mrs. John F. Kennedy. There is no substance to these reports." Reports of the rift between the two developed in the wake of campaigns for write-in votes in New Hampshire and Wisconsin to promote Kennedy as Johnson's vice presidential running mate this fall. Kennedy received a large write in vote for that spot in New Hampshire, and a drive is now underway in Wisconsin on the same issue.

KENNEDY

After reports of the feud leaked out, the White House, after discounting the reports, did, however, take pains to play down the apparent value of any pro-Kennedy drive. It has been said that Johnson has been cool to Kennedy for the past three years because Kennedy allegedly opposed selection of the Texan as the 1960 Democratic vice presidential nominee.

On The Domestic Side

THE BIG surprise in politics the past week came when undeclared and absent Henry Cabot Lodge swept all the prizes in New Hampshire's leadoff primary with a write-in vote triumph that shuffled the Republican presidential cards. Lodge, U. S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, said in Saigon, however, that he would not resign his diplomatic post despite his victory. His write-in vote rolled over hard-running Sen. Barry Goldwater and New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller. Goldwater ran next to Lodge, but 10,000 votes behind. Republicans spent most of the week assessing value of the outcome. Goldwater backers felt the outcome would have little affect on the ultimate outcome . . .

CLOSER to home, the Louisiana Attorney General's office ruled the governor has authority to appoint school board members and police jurors in parishes with increased population. The opinion said the term of the additional police juror, will run until the next election for members of the jury. . .

MEANWHILE, at Baton Rouge the Legislative Budget Committee has received proposed budgets from six state agencies totaling $10,674,606, including requests for $2,105,000 in increased funds . . .

EARLIER IN THE week, Gov.-Elect John J. McKeithen indicated he plans to cut the governors' salary when he goes in office, and has also implied he would like to see the new legislature do the same . . .

IN ANOTHER report from Baton Rouge, state tax collections last month totaled more than $43 million — $3.8 million increase over February, 1963. Officials said the increase showed that "our state's economy is healthy and growing at a good rate." .. .

Irishman's Day Tuesday

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Come Tuesday next, around the shank end of the evening, Lyndon Baines Johnson, President of the United States, will celebrate St. Patrick's Day the way George Washington did.

He will lift his glass and toast Ireland's patron saint with the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick at a glittering five-wine banquet attended by the flower of the nation's Hibernian issue.

With his pipes thus lubricated, Johnson himself will respond to the toast: "To the President of the United States."

Other toasts also will be offered, but they won't be as many nor as magnificently worded as they were in Washington's day, when they ran to as many as 37 and included such remarkable gestures as:

"May the sons of liberty never want roast beef nor claret."

And: "May the enemies of Ireland never eat bread nor drink whisky, but be tormented with itching without benefit of scratching."

Token Toll

Time and temperance have taken their toll, even on the toasting capacities of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick and bar whisky no longer sells for three cents a glass, as it did in the early days of the republic. These hardships notwithstanding, the dinner this year is expected to live up to its nearly two-century-old reputation of being, as an early history of New York put it, "the most pleasant, witty and agreeable gathering of its kind in the city'."

By gracing the shamrock-strewn dais with his presence, Texas born and English-descended Lyndon Johnson will be carrying on a tradition that besides Washington, includes Thomas Jefferson, Ulysses S. Grant, Grover Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt, William Howard Taft, Woodrow Wilson, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry S. Truman and John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

As an organization, the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick antedates the republic. It was founded in Philadelphia on the 17th of March 1771, by Stephen Moylan, who was aide-de-camp to Washington at the siege of Boston and later quartermaster general of the Continental Army.

Chief Object

The chief object of the society was to supply immigrant Irishmen with reliable information on where to settle, help them find jobs, take care of them in sickness and want and, in general, to make smooth the process of Americanization.

Because of the notoriety given the Irish potato famine in the mid-1840s people tend to forget that the Irish were among the first immigrants to arrive in the new world in large numbers. Even before the Revolution, they left home at the rate of 3,000 a year and settled, for the most part, in the seaport cities. By 1754, New Yorkers were blaming the rising crime rate on Irish and German immigrants.

Alexander Hamilton, Thomas Jefferson, Robert Morris and others who held high rank in the Army, the Navy and the Cabinet were frequent guests at early meetings of the Friendly Sons. Washington, who attended fairly regularly, was unanimously adopted as a member of the Philadelphia society in 1781.

Washington signed the rules of the society on the same day as Dr. John Corcoran and William Constable, who two years later set about finding the New York Branch. Corcoran was surgeon general and director of hospitals for the Continental army. Constable was aide to Gen. Lafayette.

Another founder of the New York society, which eventually became the dominant one, was Hercules Mulligan, Washington's favorite spy. Mulligan was a fashionable New York tailor who catered to the upper crust Tory element and made uniforms for British officers during the long enemy occupation of the city. His fitting room became a listening post for information that greatly aided the Continental Army and twice saved Washington's life.

How Founded

When the war ended three days after St. Patrick's Day in 1783, Washington entered the city in triumph and had breakfast at the home of his friend, Hercules Mulligan. He did this to protect him from the acrimony mounting against businessmen who had remained in the city during the British occupation.

The New York branch of the society was founded at a time when the city's Irish population was in dire need of help. Seven years of British occupation had left the city a shambles: buildings were in ruins, churches wrecked, wharves falling to pieces, streets and roads torn up, and the whole town filled with filth and rubbish. Business was in confusion; continental money was plentiful but the shops would accept only "hard money." The city was filled with returning soldiers, exiles and newcomers, many of whom were Irish. Even the most conservative estimates put the number of Irish in the Continental Army at 38 per cent.

It was in these circumstances that the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick was founded in the city for "the relief of indigent natives of Ireland and their descendants."

The first post-Revolution governor of the state, George Clinton, and the first mayor of the city, James Duane, were Irish. Both were on hand for the New York society's first annual banquet at Cape Tavern, at the bottom of Broadway, on St. Patrick's Day, 1784.

The day and the evening were spent in festivity and mirth," reported the New York Packet the following day, "and a number of suitable toasts were drunk upon this joyful occasion. The greatest unanimity and conviviality pervaded this numerous and jovial company, and perhaps this great saint was never honored with a concourse of more generous and truly patriotic sons than this assembly afforded."

Gov. Clinton later was twice vice president of the United States, and his nephew, DeWitt Clinton, who joined the society in 1790, also became governor and lost the presidency to Madison in 1812. Not counting Grover Cleveland and Teddy Roosevelt, who were honorary members, two regular members of the society ran for president. Both lost. They were Charles O'Conor and Al Smith. O'Conor, a brilliant attorney who defended Jefferson Davis on treason charges after the Civil War, was nominated for president by a dissident faction of the Democratic party in 1872. He refused to run but received votes in 23 of 37 states anyway. Smith was the Democratic nominee in 1928.

After the adoption of the Constitution, the Friendly Sons began the custom of drinking 13 formal toasts to the 13 states in the union. An attempt was made to increase the number of toasts with the addition of new states, but a conservative element in the club beat down the proposal. In addition to the 13 formal toasts, the custom grew of having various "volunteer toasts," with the toaster standing at his place and phrasing his toast in ornate language, sometimes even in Gaelic.

These toasts included the governor, the mayor, the Army and Navy, "the day we celebrate," "charity," and, as long as the spirits held out, such improvisations as:

"The memory of George Washington."

"The memory of Andrew Jackson."

"The shamrock and the shillelagh—with the one we crown our mirth, with the other we drub our enemies."

Right from the start, the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick banned discussion of religion and politics at the meetings and banquets. Banning religious controversy was easy, since the society always included Catholics, Protestants, Quakers and Jews, among its membership. The only test for membership is being able to trace some degree of Irish descent. Banning political argument was something else again, especially where England was concerned.

Applauded

The Friendly Sons applauded the action of Col. Michael Corcoran, who resigned his command rather than parade the fighting 69th Regiment in honor of the visiting Prince of Wales in 1860. They refused to toast the memory of Queen Victoria when she died in 1901. Although the queen gave 5,000 pounds of her personal fortune to relieve sufferers in the potato famine, the Irish in New York never forgot that she also gave 5,000 pounds to the Brighton Cat & Dog Hospital so as not to seem partial.

Down through the years a number of famous men have attended the annual banquet of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick: Chief Justice John Jay, Baron von Steuben, Gen. Henry Knox, Oliver Hazard Perry, Henry Ward Beecher, Sir Thomas Lipton, William Tecumseh Sherman, Charles A. Dana, Eamon de Valera, etc.

None had a more difficult oratorical chore or faced a more hostile audience than Abram Hewitt. In responding to the toast, "the city," he set about explaining why he was the only mayor of New York ever to refuse to review the St. Patrick's Day parade. He had also refused to fly the Irish flag from City Hall.

Fairness

In fairness to Mayor Hewitt, it must be stated that he was merely giving the back of his hand to a churlish parade committee, which arrogantly insisted that he owed his election to the Irish and therefore had no choice in the matter.

But that was on St. Patrick's Day, 1888, six days after the famous blizzard, and like the snows of yesterday it is largely forgotten.

The Society of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick went on to happier, more harmonious affairs, especially after 1915, when Victor Herbert, the Irish-born operetta king, founded the society's justly famous glee club.

Today the society numbers 1,000 members and has a waiting list of more than 600. Some of them have been waiting for more than 20 years.

The other is that the have-not nations would, for many reasons, welcome any loosening of U.S. immigration quotas. The first has been called to question by a UN program to persuade U.S. companies to somehow restrain their research sorcers. Everytime a new, cheap substitute for a basic commodity comes on the market, the UN argues, it takes business away from some have-not nations. As a result, the have-nots have even less foreign exchange with which to buy goods, and so can't avail themselves of the products of the new technology. The other, the have-nots do not want immigration laws any easier because he draws away too many of their scientist and top businessmen . . .

FEAR OF BEING crowded off the earth in a relatively few years by too many of our own kind has caused unprecedented fascination with population control. Some experts on demography would like to see a world-wide birth control movement win acceptance in the areas where the birth rate is highest. Dr. John Durand, director of the UN population office, commenting on the fact that the current 3 billion people in the world will be 6 billion by the year 2000, said: "What everyone would like to see happen is a combination of actors that would bring about a great spontaneous birth control movement . . .

FROM SUNNY Italy comes news that the president of the Women's Peace League is sponsoring a "peaceful driving campaign" for motorists. Drivers, mostly male, have been attacking each other, physically as well as verbally. There have been a dozen deaths from such fights during the past year. Many Latin drivers, it seems, consider it an insult when their car is passed on the road. It becomes a matter of personal honor to catch the offending driver. This leads to further anger and occasionally to duels with fists, knives or guns . . .

Another Plane Downed

Another U.S. plane has been shot down in Germany by the Russians and still we do nothing but half-way apologize and take whatever the Soviets handout which is a lot in this case.

The plane was downed Tuesday, but its three-man crew parachuted safely. However, so far, the Soviets have refused to return the men and have blocked our efforts to reach the wreckage. In the initial exchange, the U.S. combined an apology with a protest in asking the Soviet Union to help speed the return of the men. On Thursday, American crash crews started for the wreckage, but were blocked by the Soviets. First inkling that the men were safe—but condition unknown—came from an East German nurse. Later in the day, the U.S. told Russia it expected the Soviets to return "without delay" the three U.S. airmen. The demand was made to Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin by the State Department in Washington. At the same time we denied Soviet contention that the 700-mile-an-hour RB66 reconnaissance bomber was on a military intelligence mission.

Meanwhile, the U.S. pointed out that Soviet violation of West German air space probably are more frequent than Western incursions into Communist East Germany. The Soviets prefer to shoot first and ask questions later, while Western Allies give Soviet pilots the benefit of doubt. Reports said there were 95 Communist violations from 1961 to 1963, but only 77 Western incursions.

Around The U.S.

NEW EVIDENCE of spreading discord between France and the U. S. cropped up in a new quarter the past week with the issue this time over a possible multimillion dollar deal with Belgium for Army tanks. The U. S. is trying to sell Belgium several hundred big medium tanks, designed at a price of $161,238 each. In a rival campaign, France is trying to persuade the Brussels government to buy the French tank, which officials say would cost about twice as much as the U. S. tank. Washington officials say that the French, in pressing their campaign, are arguing, in substance, that Belgium as a European country should buy European. In recent months, France has split with the U. S. over Red China, a policy of neutralization for Southeast Asia, and efforts to make the North Atlantic Treaty Organization increasingly independent of the U. S. .. .

SENATE DEMOCRATIC Leader Mike Mansfield reluctantly predicted the past week that the Robert G. Bobby Baker case would be a 1964 campaign issue, but said the Senate itself much accept much of the fault. His statement came as Senate Republicans and Democrats argued whether the investigation of Baker's far-flung activities while he was Senate secretary was really over. Mansfield said he thought the Senate investigators had done a good job. However, Republicans insist that more witnesses with relevant testimony should be called, while others said the committee had done a good job of whitewash. Baker was a protege of President Lyndon Johnson . . .

A MIRACLE OCCURRED in the House of Representatives, but probably the fear of election year had more to do with it than anything else. The House turned down a $10,000 a year pay raise for Congress members and killed with it salary increases for 1.7 million other federal employes. During the two days of debate, opponents of the bill hammered at the idea of members of Congress voting themselves a big pay boost in an election year and just after having passed a hefty tax cut and pledged themselves to economy in government. Besides members of Congress, cabinet officials and their top aides, Supreme Court justices and the vice president—all would have received $10,000 a year increases. For the career government worker and postal employes, raises would have ranged from three to 22.5 per cent . . .

THE U. S. SUPREME COURT surprisingly balanced the books a bit the past week when it gave newspapers more freedom than at any time in history in criticizing government officials' official conduct. The nine justices, in their unanimous opinion which was handed down in a $500,000 suit against the New York Times by an Alabama city police official, didn't give newspapers an absolute immunity against libel suits for damages by criticized officials, but they came close to it. As it now stands, a citizen or newspaper won't have to prove the total truth of a criticism. The court made allowance for error in fact or opinion, even though the official is defamed. Now a newspaper doesn't have to fear a damage suit unless the criticism can be proved to have come from actual malice — and that will take some proving. Ironically, public officials already had that much immunity against damage suits when they acted officially . . .

IN NEW YORK, more than 15,000 parents, mostly white, picketed city hall in protest against a school integration plan. Earlier, a parents' delegation had met with education officials to oppose a proposal to send children out of their neighborhoods to other schools by bus in order to end racial imbalance in classrooms. The board said it would not change its plans. What the plan amounts to is this—white students would be transferred to Negro schools—regardless of the distance—so an equal number of each would be in a particular school . . .

MEANWHILE, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, seems to be taking aim at the National Guard again. Informed sources say McNamara has shown increasing skepticism about the value of Guard and Reserve units that would not be ready for use in emergencies, but would be mobilized only in the event of a long war. If McNamara goes through with the plan — which would not be until after the November elections — it would put in jeopardy 15 National Guard infantry and armor divisions and six reserve infantry divisions which now have a lower priority . . .

THERE WAS SOME bad news for the nation's youth, too. President Johnson will ask Congress to lower the draft age from 18 to 17 to give his "war on poverty" a chance to aid needy youngsters a year earlier. These subjects for the war on poverty, a ranking source said, will be the 500,000 each year who fail the Army's General Classification Test. They will be given a chance to enter special work schools where they will take special education and vocational courses. By lowering the age to 17, officials claim, this will give them a year's head start . . .

THE NATIONAL AERONAUTICS and Space Administration reported Thursday that America's highest soaring earth satellite — Nicknamed IMP — has detected what may be a third Van Allen radiation belt still farther above the planet. However, a spokesman said, the radiation does not appear to hold any serious hazard for future space travelers. The 138-pound spacecraft, aloft only since November 26, has also confirmed theories that particles streaming from the sun create a continuous gigantic shockwave as they plow into the earth's magnetic field . . .

IN CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Teamsters President James Hoffa has been sentenced to eight years in prison and fined $10,000 on a charge of trying to fix a federal court jury. Hoffa could have received a maximum of 10 years in prison. U. S. District Judge Frank Wilson, who heard the long trial which resulted in Hoffa's conviction, imposed the sentence which could eventually mean loss of Hoffa's job as head of the world's largest labor union . . .

INVESTIGATING Senators have received testimony that one of the more outrageous attempts to bilk the elderly involves the promotion of such things as purported potency pills and bust builders. Irving Ladimir, a spokesman for the National Better Business Bureau, said the promoters appeal to women to buy skin rejuvenators, wrinkle removers, bust builders, reducing aids and vitamin preparations. He said men "are besieged by potency pills, drugs, various stimulators and devices." Authorities have estimated that hucksters of nutritional quackery fleece the elderly of hundreds of millions of dollars annually. . . . .

ANOTHER SURPRISE -- which probably shouldn't be one — was disclosed the past week. A U.S. diplomat said to have bene a Soviet spy for 18 years was allowed to resign three years ago "for fear his prosecution would trigger a major State Department scandal." This was reported Wednesday by the New York Journal American. The newspaper said the man was allowed to disappear in Europe where he and his mistress are now reportedly operating freely. This was one of the reasons, the newspaper said, the CIA and State Department are making desperate attempts to keep Colonel Goleniewski, the former KGB Soviet Secret Police agent, from testifying before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee. Other reasons behind those attempts are said to be fear of his disclosure of 19 Americans working for the KGB, 12 in the State Department, four in the CIA and three in U. S. scientific laboratories . . .

Is There A Feud

Is there a feud going on between Attorney General Robert Kennedy and President Lyndon Johnson? Although both have denied it, there seems to be some evidence to support such a theory.

Rumors have become so widespread about the feud that statements are being issued in an effort to discount them. On Friday, Kennedy said he and President Johnson always have been and still are on friendly terms, adding, "I have the highest regard for him. He's been kind to me and my family and to Mrs. John F. Kennedy. There is no substance to these reports." Reports of the rift between the two developed in the wake of campaigns for write-in votes in New Hampshire and Wisconsin to promote Kennedy as Johnson's vice presidential running mate this fall. Kennedy received a large write in vote for that spot in New Hampshire, and a drive is now underway in Wisconsin on the same issue.

KENNEDY

After reports of the feud leaked out, the White House, after discounting the reports, did, however, take pains to play down the apparent value of any pro-Kennedy drive. It has been said that Johnson has been cool to Kennedy for the past three years because Kennedy allegedly opposed selection of the Texan as the 1960 Democratic vice presidential nominee.

On The Domestic Side

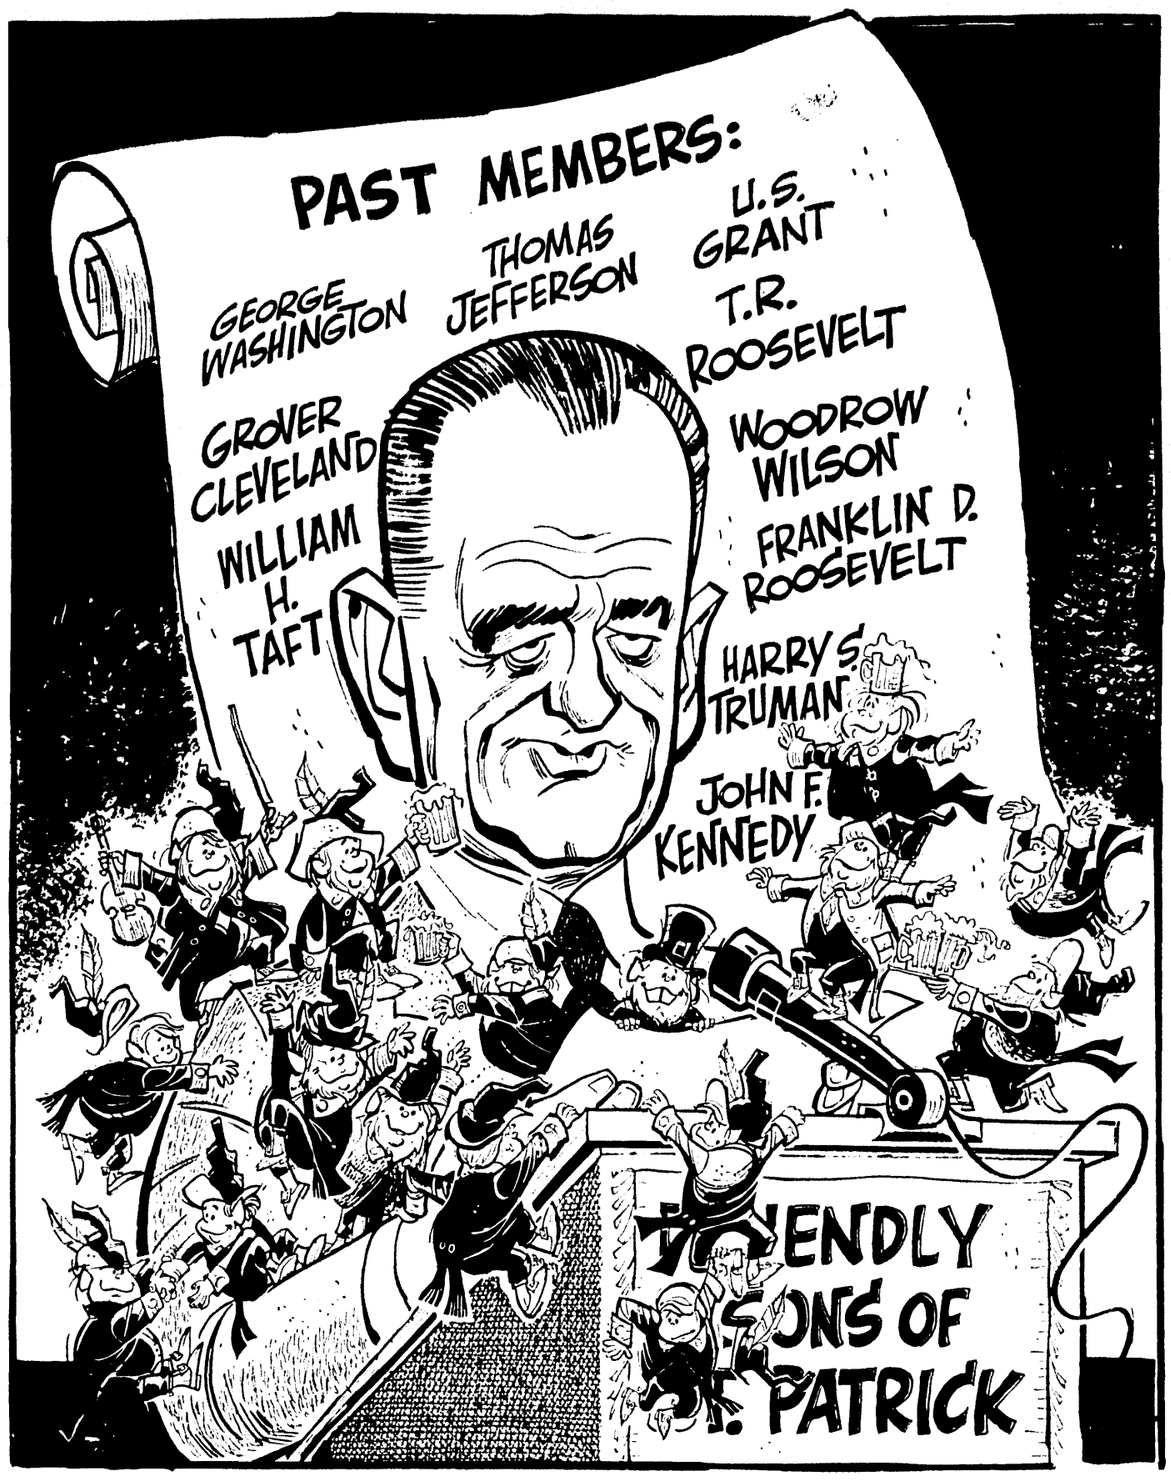

THE BIG surprise in politics the past week came when undeclared and absent Henry Cabot Lodge swept all the prizes in New Hampshire's leadoff primary with a write-in vote triumph that shuffled the Republican presidential cards. Lodge, U. S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, said in Saigon, however, that he would not resign his diplomatic post despite his victory. His write-in vote rolled over hard-running Sen. Barry Goldwater and New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller. Goldwater ran next to Lodge, but 10,000 votes behind. Republicans spent most of the week assessing value of the outcome. Goldwater backers felt the outcome would have little affect on the ultimate outcome . . .

CLOSER to home, the Louisiana Attorney General's office ruled the governor has authority to appoint school board members and police jurors in parishes with increased population. The opinion said the term of the additional police juror, will run until the next election for members of the jury. . .

MEANWHILE, at Baton Rouge the Legislative Budget Committee has received proposed budgets from six state agencies totaling $10,674,606, including requests for $2,105,000 in increased funds . . .

EARLIER IN THE week, Gov.-Elect John J. McKeithen indicated he plans to cut the governors' salary when he goes in office, and has also implied he would like to see the new legislature do the same . . .

IN ANOTHER report from Baton Rouge, state tax collections last month totaled more than $43 million — $3.8 million increase over February, 1963. Officials said the increase showed that "our state's economy is healthy and growing at a good rate." .. .

Irishman's Day Tuesday

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Come Tuesday next, around the shank end of the evening, Lyndon Baines Johnson, President of the United States, will celebrate St. Patrick's Day the way George Washington did.

He will lift his glass and toast Ireland's patron saint with the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick at a glittering five-wine banquet attended by the flower of the nation's Hibernian issue.

With his pipes thus lubricated, Johnson himself will respond to the toast: "To the President of the United States."

Other toasts also will be offered, but they won't be as many nor as magnificently worded as they were in Washington's day, when they ran to as many as 37 and included such remarkable gestures as:

"May the sons of liberty never want roast beef nor claret."

And: "May the enemies of Ireland never eat bread nor drink whisky, but be tormented with itching without benefit of scratching."

Token Toll

Time and temperance have taken their toll, even on the toasting capacities of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick and bar whisky no longer sells for three cents a glass, as it did in the early days of the republic. These hardships notwithstanding, the dinner this year is expected to live up to its nearly two-century-old reputation of being, as an early history of New York put it, "the most pleasant, witty and agreeable gathering of its kind in the city'."

By gracing the shamrock-strewn dais with his presence, Texas born and English-descended Lyndon Johnson will be carrying on a tradition that besides Washington, includes Thomas Jefferson, Ulysses S. Grant, Grover Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt, William Howard Taft, Woodrow Wilson, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry S. Truman and John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

As an organization, the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick antedates the republic. It was founded in Philadelphia on the 17th of March 1771, by Stephen Moylan, who was aide-de-camp to Washington at the siege of Boston and later quartermaster general of the Continental Army.

Chief Object

The chief object of the society was to supply immigrant Irishmen with reliable information on where to settle, help them find jobs, take care of them in sickness and want and, in general, to make smooth the process of Americanization.

Because of the notoriety given the Irish potato famine in the mid-1840s people tend to forget that the Irish were among the first immigrants to arrive in the new world in large numbers. Even before the Revolution, they left home at the rate of 3,000 a year and settled, for the most part, in the seaport cities. By 1754, New Yorkers were blaming the rising crime rate on Irish and German immigrants.

Alexander Hamilton, Thomas Jefferson, Robert Morris and others who held high rank in the Army, the Navy and the Cabinet were frequent guests at early meetings of the Friendly Sons. Washington, who attended fairly regularly, was unanimously adopted as a member of the Philadelphia society in 1781.

Washington signed the rules of the society on the same day as Dr. John Corcoran and William Constable, who two years later set about finding the New York Branch. Corcoran was surgeon general and director of hospitals for the Continental army. Constable was aide to Gen. Lafayette.

Another founder of the New York society, which eventually became the dominant one, was Hercules Mulligan, Washington's favorite spy. Mulligan was a fashionable New York tailor who catered to the upper crust Tory element and made uniforms for British officers during the long enemy occupation of the city. His fitting room became a listening post for information that greatly aided the Continental Army and twice saved Washington's life.

How Founded

When the war ended three days after St. Patrick's Day in 1783, Washington entered the city in triumph and had breakfast at the home of his friend, Hercules Mulligan. He did this to protect him from the acrimony mounting against businessmen who had remained in the city during the British occupation.

The New York branch of the society was founded at a time when the city's Irish population was in dire need of help. Seven years of British occupation had left the city a shambles: buildings were in ruins, churches wrecked, wharves falling to pieces, streets and roads torn up, and the whole town filled with filth and rubbish. Business was in confusion; continental money was plentiful but the shops would accept only "hard money." The city was filled with returning soldiers, exiles and newcomers, many of whom were Irish. Even the most conservative estimates put the number of Irish in the Continental Army at 38 per cent.

It was in these circumstances that the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick was founded in the city for "the relief of indigent natives of Ireland and their descendants."

The first post-Revolution governor of the state, George Clinton, and the first mayor of the city, James Duane, were Irish. Both were on hand for the New York society's first annual banquet at Cape Tavern, at the bottom of Broadway, on St. Patrick's Day, 1784.

The day and the evening were spent in "festivity and mirth," reported the New York Packet the following day, "and a number of suitable toasts were drunk upon this joyful occasion. The greatest unanimity and conviviality pervaded this numerous and jovial company, and perhaps this great saint was never honored with a concourse of more generous and truly patriotic sons than this assembly afforded."

Gov. Clinton later was twice vice president of the United States, and his nephew, DeWitt Clinton, who joined the society in 1790, also became governor and lost the presidency to Madison in 1812. Not counting Grover Cleveland and Teddy Roosevelt, who were honorary members, two regular members of the society ran for president. Both lost. They were Charles O'Conor and Al Smith. O'Conor, a brilliant attorney who defended Jefferson Davis on treason charges after the Civil War, was nominated for president by a dissident faction of the Democratic party in 1872. He refused to run but received votes in 23 of 37 states anyway. Smith was the Democratic nominee in 1928.

After the adoption of the Constitution, the Friendly Sons began the custom of drinking 13 formal toasts to the 13 states in the union. An attempt was made to increase the number of toasts with the addition of new states, but a conservative element in the club beat down the proposal. In addition to the 13 formal toasts, the custom grew of having various "volunteer toasts," with the toaster standing at his place and phrasing his toast in ornate language, sometimes even in Gaelic.

These toasts included the governor, the mayor, the Army and Navy, "the day we celebrate," "charity," and, as long as the spirits held out, such improvisations as:

"The memory of George Washington."

"The memory of Andrew Jackson."

"The shamrock and the shillelagh—with the one we crown our mirth, with the other we drub our enemies."

Right from the start, the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick banned discussion of religion and politics at the meetings and banquets. Banning religious controversy was easy, since the society always included Catholics, Protestants, Quakers and Jews, among its membership. The only test for membership is being able to trace some degree of Irish descent. Banning political argument was something else again, especially where England was concerned.

Applauded

The Friendly Sons applauded the action of Col. Michael Corcoran, who resigned his command rather than parade the fighting 69th Regiment in honor of the visiting Prince of Wales in 1860. They refused to toast the memory of Queen Victoria when she died in 1901. Although the queen gave 5,000 pounds of her personal fortune to relieve sufferers in the potato famine, the Irish in New York never forgot that she also gave 5,000 pounds to the Brighton Cat & Dog Hospital so as not to seem partial.

Down through the years a number of famous men have attended the annual banquet of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick: Chief Justice John Jay, Baron von Steuben, Gen. Henry Knox, Oliver Hazard Perry, Henry Ward Beecher, Sir Thomas Lipton, William Tecumseh Sherman, Charles A. Dana, Eamon de Valera, etc.

None had a more difficult oratorical chore or faced a more hostile audience than Abram Hewitt. In responding to the toast, "the city," he set about explaining why he was the only mayor of New York ever to refuse to review the St. Patrick's Day parade. He had also refused to fly the Irish flag from City Hall.

Fairness

In fairness to Mayor Hewitt, it must be stated that he was merely giving the back of his hand to a churlish parade committee, which arrogantly insisted that he owed his election to the Irish and therefore had no choice in the matter.

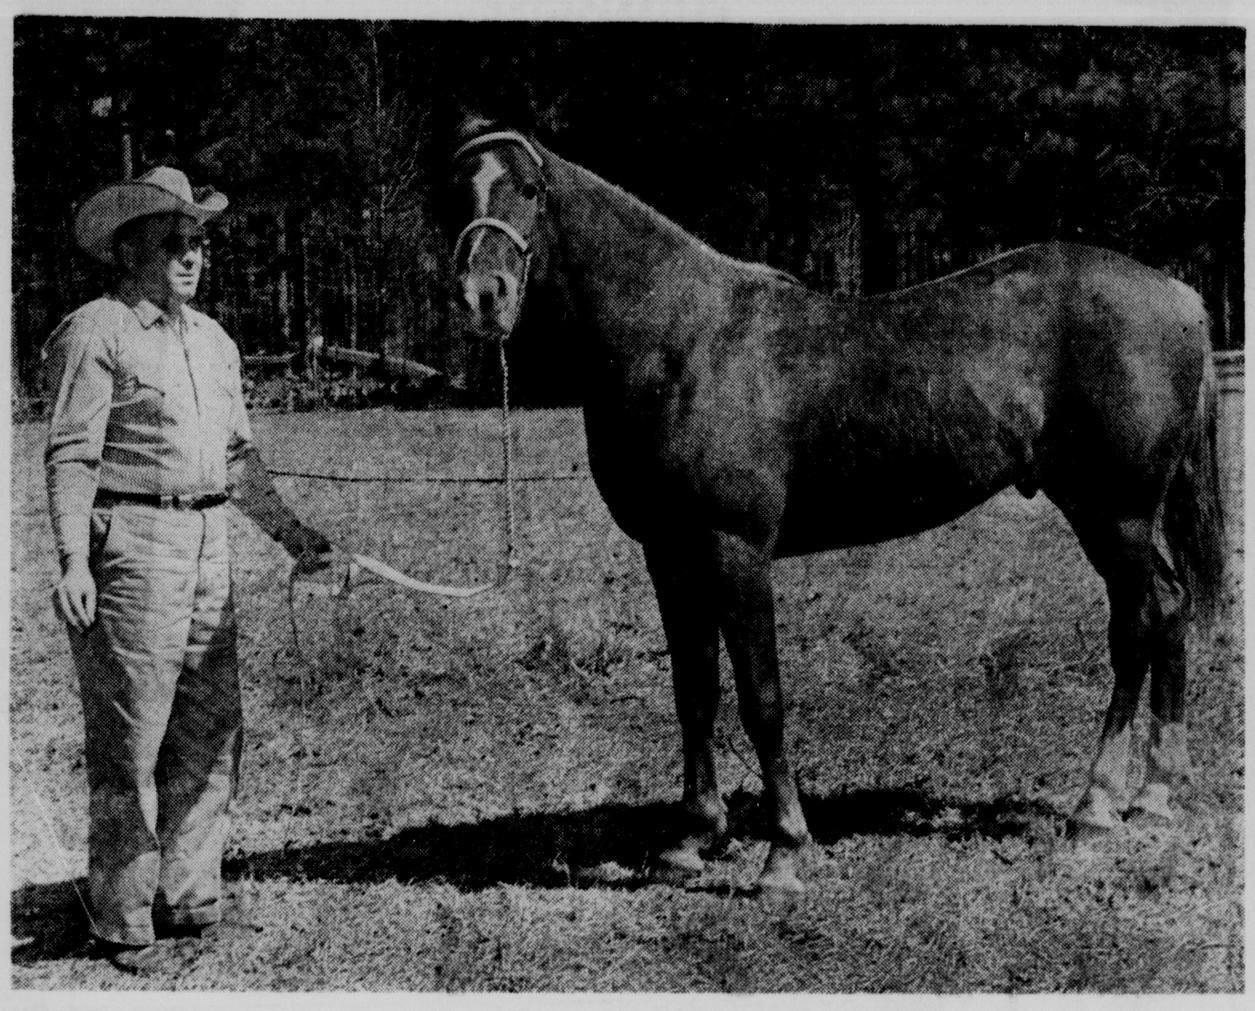

But that was on St. Patrick's Day, 1888, six days after the famous blizzard, and like the snows of yesterday it is largely forgotten.

The Society of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick went on to happier, more harmonious affairs, especially after 1915, when Victor Herbert, the Irish-born operetta king, founded the society's justly famous glee club.

Today the society numbers 1,000 members and has a waiting list of more than 600. Some of them have been waiting for more than 20 years.

Spirited Horses Gain New Following

PRIDE OF THE "Buck" Ganeys in Rocky Branch Community in Union Parish is the registered Arabian stallion, four-year-old "Gulsid," whose bloodlines combine the grand champion show winner several times, "Taboo," and "Abu Fawna," also grand champion and sire of many west coast champion Arabians. A SMALL COLT is a pet before it becomes a riding horse, and with Judy and friend, Beverly Albritton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Albritton of Farmerville, the month-old colt is no exception. The first son of "Gulsid," this baby has no name as yet, but the Ganeys have until the end of the year to name him. (Staff Photo by Ben Bradford)

A nine-year-old youngster's normal desire to own a horse of her own has changed the outlook for an entire family. Not only does the girl have "her horse," but the whole family is now talking about horses, and planning ahead — with horses the main topic.

But the pet is no longer just a horse for the teenager to ride. Rather the horse has expanded to a stable of registered Arabians, with plans for a much larger stable and even possibly a farm of the blooded and spirited horses within the next "six to ten years."

Judy Ganey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. I. (Buck) Ganey, Rocky Branch community in Union parish, several years ago wanted a horse to ride among the hills of the countryside. So a palimino horse was located and purchased, with the hopes that the riding would cure Judy's incessant talking about her horse.

But shortly after buying the horse, the animal threw the youngster and Ganey became concerned for his child's safety, for fear she would be hurt in one of the falls.

Confessing that he "wouldn't give a dime for all the horses in Union parish" at that time, Ganey said he decided if he had to have a horse for his daughter, he was going to get one that would not hurt her.

SEARCH FOR HORSE

So the search began for a gentle horse, or at least one that could be handled by the young girl, yet one that would be spirited and "well gaited." Since he knew nothing about horses, Ganey said, he had to rely on books and other materials, including the public libraries. He finally decided on an Arabian horse, but then had trouble finding where he could purchase one.

What appeared to be a passing fancy, caught on solidly with an entire family, and has developed into a stable of spirited horses seldom found on Louisiana farms.

About seven months after deciding on an Arabian, he located an Arabian farm near Bloomington, Illinois, and contacted the owner, a physician, who offered him a young stallion, since none of his mares was for sale. The doctor assured him that the stallion, properly handled, would be gentle enough for the daughter, who by then was 10, so Ganey and his daughter drove to Bloomington to look at the animal.

Shortly after they returned home, along with the stallion, Gulsid, he received a letter from another Arabian farm in Piedmont, Okla., saying a mare was available. The Oklahoma farm was one of 12 written in search for a mare.

The following day, Ganey left Rocky Branch for Oklahoma to bring the mare home.

'FELL IN LOVE'

From then on, both Mr. and Mrs. Ganey, as well as Judy, have handled and fallen in love with the Arabians, "the aristocrats of the horse world," he says.

Today, in addition to "Gulsid," which, incidentally, he says is the only registered Arabian stallion in Northeast Louisiana, the family owns two mares, a two-year-old filly, and two colts.

(Another fancier of Arabians, Col. Ralph Taylor, also has a "string" of the registered horses, but last year had to destroy his stallion because of a disease.)

Ganey, a genial person who works for Commercial Solvents Corporation in Sterlington and, along with his wife, operates a grocery store in the Rocky Branch community, is making plans for an Arabian farm. He recently bought 10 acres, which has been cleared and fenced and seeded for permanent pastures. Stables will be built later this year and the horses will be moved from his home to the acreage when the grasses are ready.

He plans to have about 10 or 12 mares with at least one more stallion "in addition to Gulsid," which he makes no bones about being one of the best he ever saw. Horse lovers watching the large stallion prance around the lot, readily agree.

LARGE BY STANDARDS

The pride of the Ganey holdings, Gulsid, is large by standards of the Arabian horses, standing 15 hands, two inches high — that's 62 inches — at the shoulder and weighs about 1,025 pounds now. And he still has another year to develop.

Arabians, Ganey says, take longer to develop fully, up to five and one-half years, but will also last longer, with some mares still in production at age 25.

And to mention the Arab breed is to have a full discourse about their gracefulness and beauty, in addition to the stamina and intelligence.

Because of the much larger lung capacity of the Arabians, they are able to withstand the hardships of rugged duty, such as long rides over rough terrain. In addition, their dense bone structure gives them more sturdiness. An Arabian has one less vertebra than other horses, making the back slightly shorter and gives the horse a more compact appearance.

Regardless of the color of the hair on Arabians, they have a dark, almost black skin. This accounts, Ganey points out, for the appearance of older Arabians, especially the lighter colored and white ones, of having black rings around the eyes.

ENDURANCE RACE

The nationally-known 100-mile endurance race held each year in Colorado and Utah, which features both high mountains and the steep valleys, has been won almost every time by Arabians, or by horses of largely Arabian extraction.

Many horsemen are now breeding the Arabians to riding, or saddle stock, with the results being a hardier and much tougher animal, but still retaining the disposition of the Arabians. The Arabian stallions are noted for transmitting their qualities in the colts, with the sire marking the colt about 65 per cent of the time. "Marking," Ganey explained, is having the colt turn out with similar, or very similar, coloring, stockings, and blaze on the face.

The Arabian Association is the only organization that has a category which will register half-breed animals. This class, which notes animals of one-half-up pure blood, is separate from the purebred association, but complete records are kept on both groups. In the case of the half-Arabian horses, the pureblood stock must be through the sire, or father of the colt. This particular group has its headquarters in Burbank California, while the registered purebreds' headquarters is in Chicago.

Also, at the Arabian horse shows, one class is devoted to the half-breeds, thus having qualified competition, but not against the purebreds.

FAMILY HORSES

The gentleness of the Arabians, Ganey says, has been bred into the animals over hundreds of years by the Arabs, who kept the mares and colts right in the tents with the families. The young colts would be raised with the children, and treated much the same. Throughout history, the roving tribes of the deserts of northern Africa and the Mid-East have been closely associated with the stamina and ability of the fine horses. During and following the Moorish invasion of southern Spain, the infusion of Arabian blooded horses spread through the Iberian pennisula, and later into all of Europe.

The thoroughbred racing horses of northern Europe, particularly England and France, can all be traced directly back to three Arabian stallions. This strain was later brought to America and is now the pride of the Blue Grass country of northern Tennessee and Kentucky, and parts of California, where the thoroughbred is making a strong bid for popularity.

RIBBON COLLECTION

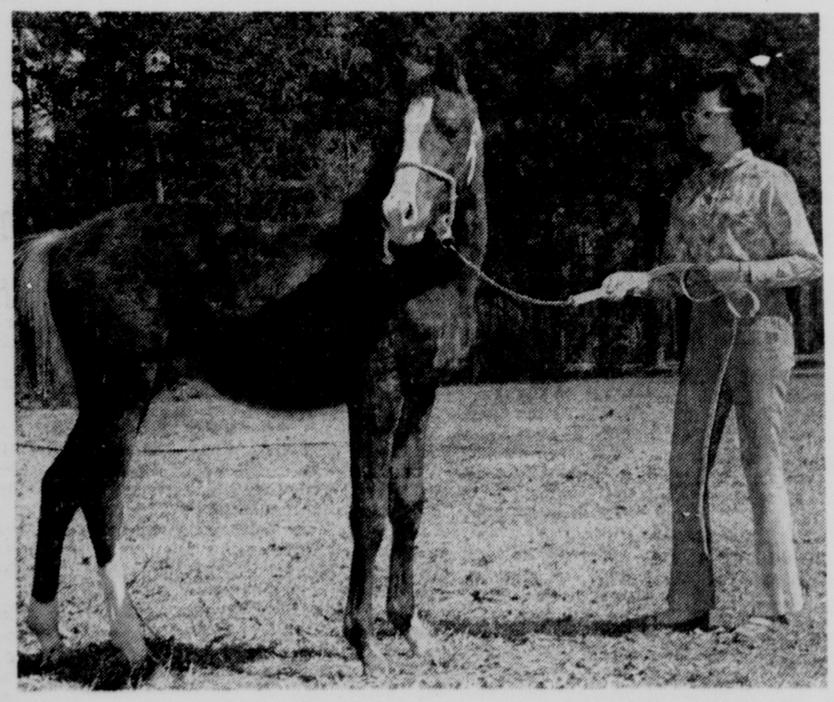

Although in the Arabian horse "business" for only a few years, Ganey has already begun his collections of ribbons for shows. "Gulsid" has placed second in the show in Baton Rouge, which featured Arabians from throughout the nation. His two-year-old filly, "Del Tonyia" when six months old, placed third in a show. Last year she placed third in her class at the Baton Rouge show, again competing with horses from all over the nation. "I left that show to keep from selling her, and after I got home, I had letters from people saying they wanted to buy her," he said, adding, "but she's not for sale."

With only 20,000 registered Arabians in the western hemisphere, it is no wonder that they are still rare in many parts of the country. California leads the other states with the number of the animals.

In addition to the six of Ganey's, the only other Arabians in northeast Louisiana belong to Col. and Mrs. Ralph Taylor who live just north of Monroe. There is another farm near Shreveport, and several in the south part of the state. But the largest Arabian farm in the state is at Natchitoches, where only 20-odd are at the present time.

But with time and good luck, "Buck" Ganey hopes to have another Arabian Farm on the map of registered horses. This, however, he says, will take "time to breed up to that, along with buying a few more good mares to get the best in bloodlines."

THE ARABIAN HORSES have become a family project and the pride of ownership is not confined to anyone of the group. Mr. and Mrs. Ganey and Judy are shown with "Redeana," who seems to know she is being watched by those around. (Staff photo by John Fogleman)

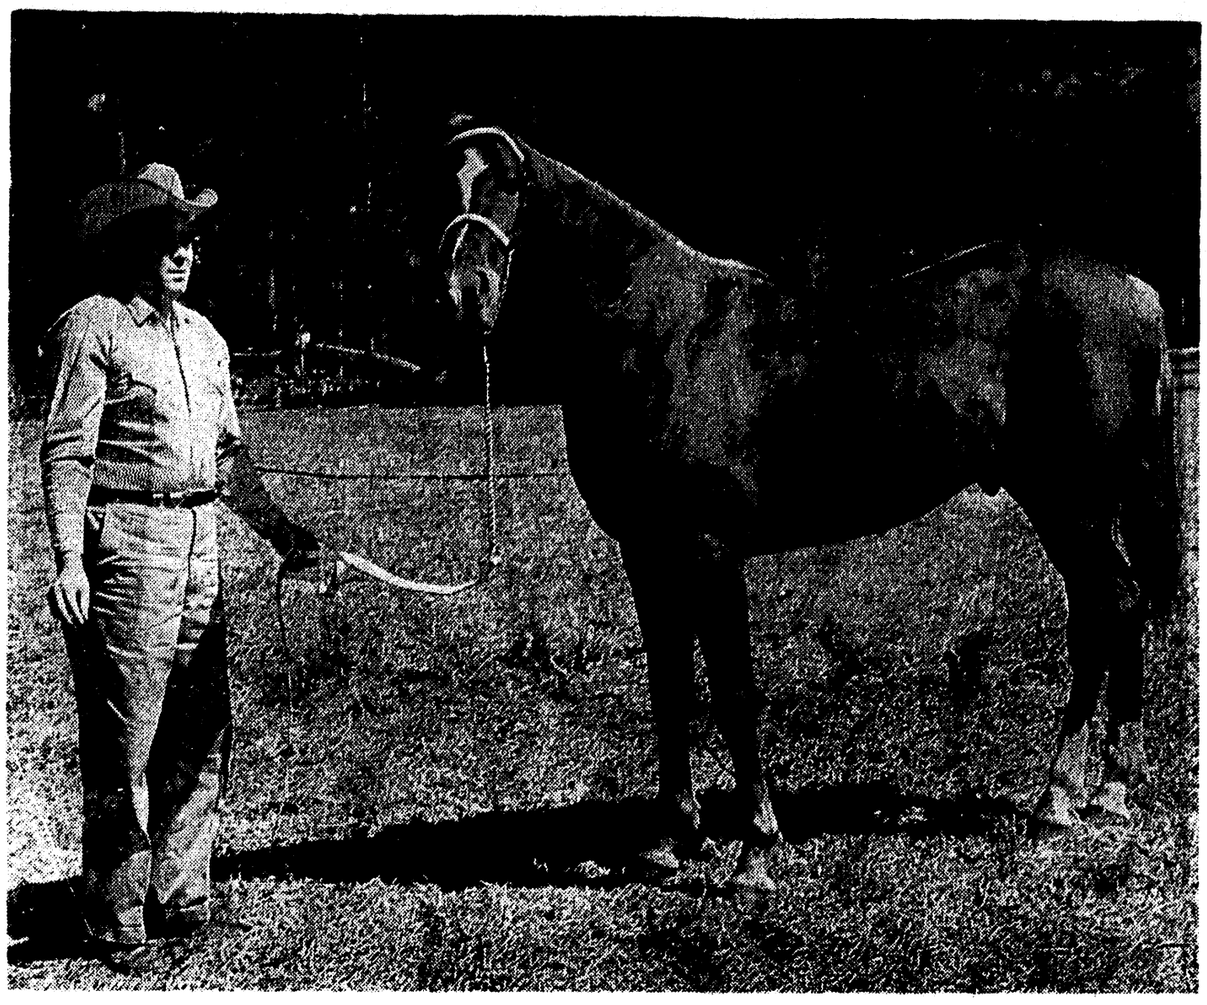

"DEL TONYIA," showing possibilities of becoming a show mare as well as a brood mare, enjoys a romp in a field of grass near Rocky Branch. The two-year-old filly still has her colt-like ways and despite her appearance, needs more training before entering the show rings.

"GULSID" enjoys a romp in the field after being confined to the stables for several days. The large chestnut stallion can stop as quickly as he starts — and the small run pen does not stop him from racing at full speed as he enjoyed the spring weather last week. (Staff photo by John Fogleman)

So a palimino horse was located and purchased, with the hopes that the riding would cure Judy's incessant talking about her horse.

But shortly after buying the horse, the animal threw the youngster and Ganey became concerned for his child's safety, for fear she would be hurt in one of the falls.

Confessing that he "wouldn't give a dime for all the horses in Union parish" at that time, Ganey said he decided if he had to have a horse for his daughter, he was going to get one that would not hurt her.

SEARCH FOR HORSE

So the search began for a gentle horse, or at least one that could be handled by the young girl, yet one that would be spirited and "well gaited." Since he knew nothing about horses, Ganey said, he had to rely on books and other materials, including the public libraries. He finally decided on an Arabian horse, but then had trouble finding where he could purchase one.

What appeared to be a passing fancy, caught on solidly with an entire family, and has developed into a stable of spirited horses seldom found on Louisiana farms.

About seven months after deciding on an Arabian, he located an Arabian farm near Bloomington, Illinois, and contacted the owner, a physician, who offered him a young stallion, since none of his mares was for sale. The doctor assured him that the stallion, properly handled, would be gentle enough for the daughter, who by then was 10, so Ganey and his daughter drove to Bloomington to look at the animal.

Shortly after they returned home, along with the stallion, Gulsid, he received a letter from another Arabian farm in Piedmont, Okla., saying a mare was available. The Oklahoma farm was one of 12 written in search for a mare.

The following day, Ganey left Rocky Branch for Oklahoma to bring the mare home.

'FELL IN LOVE'

From then on, both Mr. and Mrs. Ganey, as well as Judy, have handled and fallen in love with the Arabians, "the aristocrats of the horse world," he says.

Today, in addition to "Gulsid," which, incidentally, he says is the only registered Arabian stallion in Northeast Louisiana, the family owns two mares, a two-year-old filly, and two colts.

(Another fancier of Arabians, Col. Ralph Taylor, also has a "string" of the registered horses, but last year had to destroy his stallion because of a disease.)

Ganey, a genial person who works for Commercial Solvents Corporation in Sterlington and, along with his wife, operates a grocery store in the Rocky Branch community, is making plans for an Arabian farm. He recently bought 10 acres, which has been cleared and fenced and seeded for permanent pastures. Stables will be built later this year and the horses will be moved from his home to the acreage when the grasses are ready.

He plans to have about 10 or 12 mares with at least one more stallion "in addition to Gulsid," which he makes no bones about being one of the best he ever saw. Horse lovers watching the large stallion prance around the lot, readily agree.

LARGE BY STANDARDS

The pride of the Ganey holdings, Gulsid, is large by standards of the Arabian horses, standing 15 hands, two inches high — that's 62 inches — at the shoulder and weighs about 1,025 pounds now. And he still has another year to develop.

Arabians, Ganey says, take longer to develop fully, up to five and one-half years, but will also last longer, with some mares still in production at age 25.

And to mention the Arab breed is to have a full discourse about their gracefulness and beauty, in addition to the stamina and intelligence.

Because of the much larger lung capacity of the Arabians, they are able to withstand the hardships of rugged duty, such as long rides over rough terrain. In addition, their dense bone structure gives them more sturdiness. An Arabian has one less vertebra than other horses, making the back slightly shorter and gives the horse a more compact appearance.

Regardless of the color of the hair on Arabians, they have a dark, almost black skin. This accounts, Ganey points out, for the appearance of older Arabians, especially the lighter colored and white ones, of having black rings around the eyes.

ENDURANCE RACE

The nationally-known 100-mile endurance race held each year in Colorado and Utah, which features both high mountains and the steep valleys, has been won almost every time by Arabians, or by horses of largely Arabian extraction.

Many horsemen are now breeding the Arabians to riding, or saddle stock, with the results being a hardier and much tougher animal, but still retaining the disposition of the Arabians. The Arabian stallions are noted for transmitting their qualities in the colts, with the sire marking the colt about 65 per cent of the time. "Marking," Ganey explained, is having the colt turn out with similar, or very similar, coloring, stockings, and blaze on the face.

The Arabian Association is the only organization that has a category which will register half-breed animals. This class, which notes animals of one-half-up pure blood, is separate from the purebred association, but complete records are kept on both groups. In the case of the half-Arabian horses, the pureblood stock must be through the sire, or father of the colt. This particular group has its headquarters in Burbank California, while the registered purebreds' headquarters is in Chicago.

Also, at the Arabian horse shows, one class is devoted to the half-breeds, thus having qualified competition, but not against the purebreds.

FAMILY HORSES

The gentleness of the Arabians, Ganey says, has been bred into the animals over hundreds of years by the Arabs, who kept the mares and colts right in the tents with the families. The young colts would be raised with the children, and treated much the same. Throughout history, the roving tribes of the deserts of northern Africa and the Mid-East have been closely associated with the stamina and ability of the fine horses. During and following the Moorish invasion of southern Spain, the infusion of Arabian blooded horses spread through the Iberian pennisula, and later into all of Europe.

The thoroughbred racing horses of northern Europe, particularly England and France, can all be traced directly back to three Arabian stallions. This strain was later brought to America and is now the pride of the Blue Grass country of northern Tennessee and Kentucky, and parts of California, where the thoroughbred is making a strong bid for popularity.

RIBBON COLLECTION

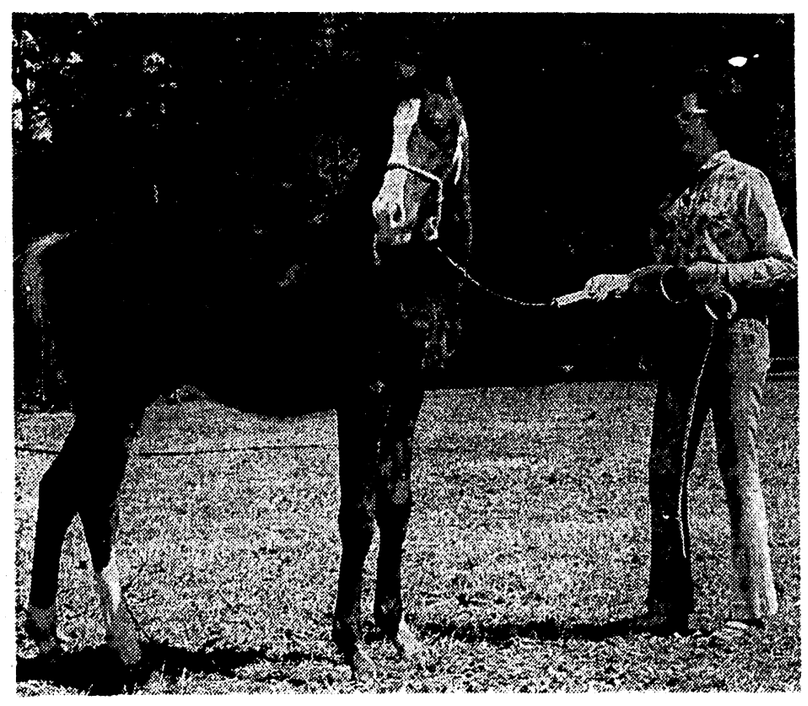

Although in the Arabian horse "business" for only a few years, Ganey has already begun his collections of ribbons for shows. "Gulsid" has placed second in the show in Baton Rouge, which featured Arabians from throughout the nation. His two-year-old filly, "Del Tonyia" when six months old, placed third in a show. Last year she placed third in her class at the Baton Rouge show, again competing with horses from all over the nation. "I left that show to keep from selling her, and after I got home, I had letters from people saying they wanted to buy her," he said, adding, "but she's not for sale."

With only 20,000 registered Arabians in the western hemisphere, it is no wonder that they are still rare in many parts of the country. California leads the other states with the number of the animals.

In addition to the six of Ganey's, the only other Arabians in northeast Louisiana belong to Col. and Mrs. Ralph Taylor who live just north of Monroe. There is another farm near Shreveport, and several in the south part of the state. But the largest Arabian farm in the state is at Natchitoches, where only 20-odd are at the present time.

But with time and good luck, "Buck" Ganey hopes to have another Arabian Farm on the map of registered horses. This, however, he says, will take "time to breed up to that, along with buying a few more good mares to get the best in bloodlines."

THE ARABIAN HORSES have become a family project and the pride of ownership is not confined to anyone of the group. Mr. and Mrs. Ganey and Judy are shown with "Redeana," who seems to know she is being watched by those around. (Staff photo by John Fogleman)

"DEL TONYIA," showing possibilities of becoming a show mare as well as a brood mare, enjoys a romp in a field of grass near Rocky Branch. The two-year-old filly still has her colt-like ways and despite her appearance, needs more training before entering the show rings.

"GULSID" enjoys a romp in the field after being confined to the stables for several days. The large chestnut stallion can stop as quickly as he starts — and the small run pen does not stop him from racing at full speed as he enjoyed the spring weather last week. (Staff photo by John Fogleman)

Duke Rips Connecticut To Take Eastern Title

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Duke demolished Connecticut with a 62 point first half Saturday night and went on to bury the Huskies under a 101-54 avalanche to retain its NCAA Eastern Regional basketball championship.

Duke will play the Mideast Regional champion in the national semifinals at Kansas City next Friday night.

Jeff Mullins hit 11 of 15 first half shots and scored 30 points before leaving the game with 6:30 to play, the last of the Duke starters to be pulled by Coach Vic Bubas.

Villanova clinched third place with a 54-62 victory over Princeton as Wally Jones scored 12 of his 34 points in the last seven minutes to lead the Wildcats, No. 7 in the nation from behind.

Villanova had a 42-30 halftime lead.

All-America Bill Bradley scored 30 points for Princeton, which outscored Villanova 16-3 in the first five minutes of the second half to take a 46-45 lead.

Mullins, who scored 43 points Friday night against Villanova, pumped in three baskets in less than three minutes and the Blue Devils, No. 3 in the country, were off and running 10-2.

If Mullins needed any help it came from Steve Vacendak, who spent three days in a hospital earlier in the week recovering from a lung injury. He hit four successive long shots in as many minutes to help Duke to a 62-27 halftime lead.

Duke hit a blazing 66.7 per cent for the Huskies.

With 6:30 left and Duke leading 87-48, reserves took over for the Atlantic Coast Conference champions and outscored Connecticut subs the rest of the way 14-6 to complete Duke's eighth straight victory and 25th against four losses.

Vacendak and Hack Tison scored 14 points and Jay Buckley 12 to help carry the Duke scoring load. Toby Kimball's 18 led the UConns.

State Wins

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Wondrous Willie Murrell and his Big Eight champion teammates from Kansas State ripped into Wichita's proud defense for a 94-86 triumph Saturday night and the NCAA Midwest Regional basketball championship.

The Wildcats' victory, their 13th straight, earned them a spot in the NCAA champions' ip semifinals in Kansas City next Friday against the winner of the Western Regional.

Murrell, a multiple talented 6-foot-6 corner man, scored 28 points, stole the ball at least four times and generally wrecked havoc on the nationally fifth-ranked Shockers, who were playing before a hometown crowd of 10,815 near hysterical supporters.

The key to the game came on the sustained Murrell push midway through the first half which propelled the Wildcats to a 46-33 halftime lead. The Shockers shouldn't catch up again.

Wichita, however, riding on the scoring heroics of All-America Dave Stallworth, twice stormed back to contention in the second half.

A Stallworth tip-in cut the margin to 60-54 about five minutes into the second period, but a pair of jump shots by Jeff Simons put Kansas State comfortably in front again.

Then, with less than two minutes to go and the Shockers trailing by 13, Stallwroth scored six straight points to cut it to 88-81.

Murrell broke the back of the drive when he picked up two points on a one-and-one foul situation and followed with a key steal of the ball.

Stallworth led all scorers with 37 points, and pulled down 16 rebounds.

Jim Barnes broke a tie with a free throw on a technical foul and started Texas Western on its way to victory.

Barnes' conversion of the key technical gave Texas Western a 48-47 lead late in the last half. It was the first time the Texans had led since the opening moments and climaxed a comeback from a 12-point deficit.

Referee Rudy Marich called the technical on Creighton Coach Red McManus after he had made repeated "choke" gestures toward the officials.

Little Bob Dibler dropped in a long jump shot for the Miners moments later and the Texans weren't headed again, outscoring Creighton 20-5 over the last 6½ minutes.

Dibler got a bloody nose early in the first half when struck in the face by Creighton's Charles Brown. Brown was not banished, but was taken out of the game and did not return.

Seattle, 88-78

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP) — Greg Vermillion led a rally that enabled Seattle University to defeat Utah State 88-78 for third place in the NCAA Western Regional basketball tournament Saturday night.

Vermillion scored 26 points, 14 of them in a late rally after Utah State had cut Seattle's lead to two points with seven minutes remaining. He received scoring help from 6-foot Charlie Williams in beating back State's challenge. Williams wound up with 14 points.

Michigan Wins

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Second-ranked Michigan led by Cazzie Russell's 25 points, shook off stubborn Ohio University 69-57 Saturday night to gain a semifinal berth against Duke in the NCAA basketball tourney.

Co-champion Michigan of the Big Ten had its hands full until the final five minutes against champion Ohio University of the Mid-American Conference in the title game of the NCAA Mideast regional.

Ohio University, fresh from a 85-69 upset of fourth-ranked Kentucky Friday night, lagged most of the time by only five points in the contest of bruising rebounding and close defensive play.

Michigan, making its first NCAA appearance since 1948, had more trouble controlling the boards against the Bobcats than they did in Friday night's 84-80 ousting of NCAA defending champion Chicago Loyola.

Russell, named on the Associated Press second All-America team, was the only Wolverine Ohio U was unable to shackle effectively.

Michigan's 250-pound 6-7 Bill Buntin met his match in Ohio's 225-pound 6-4 Don Hilt, in a man-to-man duel. Hilt outscored his taller opponent 18 to 15, but Buntin was hampered with four fouls midway in the second half.

Michigan, in running up its 22nd triumph against four defeats, led only 32-27 at halftime. It was not until little more than seven minutes remained that Russell finally nudged the Wolverines into their most comfortable lead at nine points, 54-45.

PICKED BY COACHES

Gammill And Ritter Make All-District 2-A

By DICK WRIGHT
World Sports Writer

Neither height nor scoring nor rebounding dominated the District 2-A coaches' voting when they singled out the 10-school league's basketball elite though good marks in all three categories were represented.

Joining Tannehill in the south are Ferriday's David James and Dan Richey, Skeeter Ritter of St. Matthew's, Daniel McCarty of Caldwell Parish and Charles Priest of Winnsboro.

Mike Gammill of Oak Grove, a last year all-district choice and all-state honorable mention, led the northern division and the whole district in point making with a 21.9 average.

IN THE SOUTH

St. Matthew's Ritter is the towering figure in the south at 6-2. As a well-rounded player for the Irish, the senior totaled 266 points for the season.

James and McCarty, both sophomores, stand 6-1 with James slightly edging McCarty in scoring. James averaged 14 points to McCarty's 13.7.

The littlest man, 5-9 Dan Richey, gained his spot with the best for his deft ballhandling and 5-10 Charles Priest proved himself a reliable defensive man.

THE NORTH HALF

Oak Grove's contribution, six-foot junior Mike Gammill, can be expected to donate heavily to another good year for his school which lost only two games this season.

Lake Providence added the rebounding skill in 6-3 Jimmy Gilfoil and 6-4 Tim Terral, both seniors, who pulled down an average of 15 rebounds per outing.

Don Morton, Tallulah's 6-2 junior, boasts 15.4 markers per game and 10.2 rebounds. Johnny Long of Farmerville tallied 15.2 points for his average. He is a six-foot junior.

Tallulah's other all - district boy, Donnie Ater, makes his second appearance on the 2-A elite. The 6-4 junior wrapped up 14.5 points per game.

The south division girls all-district included Yvonne Mays, Wanda Dunn and Hattie Harris, all of Caldwell; Jean Watson of Winnsboro, and Glenda Randall and Mary Sellers, both of LaSalle.

The north selections were Johnnie Green, Dianne Walker, Melba Lovell and Betty Marsh, all of Lake Providence, Regina Phelps of Farmerville and Sherry Hollingsworth of Oak Grove.

AT ST. PETERSBURG

Devlin Spreads Hold On Open

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Australian Bruce Devlin stretched his lead in the $25,000 St. Petersburg Open Saturday in a third round featuring a pair of holes-in-one.

Devlin shot a three-under-par 69 on a windy day when most of the scores were closer to par 72. It gave him a 54-hole total of 202, five strokes ahead of his nearest rival going into today's final round.

Joe Campbell and Dick Howell had the holes-in-one. Both hit five-iron shots on the 190-yard seventh hole that bounded into the cup.

PGA officials could not recall the time when two aces were recorded on the same hole in the same round of a tournament. They were the third and fourth recorded in 10 PGA tournaments this year.

Neither did the competitors much good. Howell came in with a 70 for a 212 total. Campbell had a 71 for 209.

Devlin had his good moments and his bad. His game suddenly went sour on the front nine when he bogied No. 8 and No. 9.

"I thought I had let it slip a bit," he said at the end of the round. But he birdied the 10th and had little trouble thereafter.

Five strokes back in second place was Rex Baxter Jr. of Amarillo, Tex., who shot a four-under-par 68 for a 207.

Tied at 208 were Dan Sikes, Jack Nicklaus and Don Fairfield. Nicklaus, the pre-tournament favorite, had a four-under-par 68.

Campbell, Butch Baird, Jacky Cupit and Terry Dill were tied at 209, seven strokes behind Devlin.

Race Horseman Reports Mate Getting Divorce

"For her protection as well as my own, this statement of our separation is being made, as neither of us is interested in a third party," said Du Pont, a great great grandson of the founder of E. I. du Pont de Nemours, the giant chemical company.

"It is better to be factual about such a matter than to allow gossip to arise. We are devoted to our 12 year old son Billy, and will jointly plan his future."

Four events were completed in the morning before the rains. Pat Arceneaux of university of Southwestern Louisiana won two titles, the shot put and the javelin. He threw 208-4 in the javelin and had a 50-foot toss in the shot put.

Gary Hobson (standing in the panel at left) of Kermit soared 14-feet, five and 3/4 inches to set an all-time Texas schoolboy high in the event. Kneeling is Larry Smith, Abilene High, who cleared 14-feet, but missed three tries at the record. Billy Pemelton (right) of Abilene Christian college, vaulted 15-feet, seven and a half inches to set a new meet record the same day. Surprising NYU Tops DePaul 79-66 To Enter Semifinals

NEW YORK (AP)—NYU, always full of surprises, staged a dramatic second-half comeback Saturday night for a 79-66 victory over top-seeded DePaul and advanced with Bradley to the semifinals of the National Invitation basketball tournament.

NYU, which lost to such teams as Wagner and Rider during the regular season, will play the winner of Tuesday's Drake-New Mexico quarter-final game.

Second-seeded Bradley nipped a determined St. Joseph's, Pa., team 83-81 in the opener of the evening doubleheader and will play the winner of Tuesday's other quarter-final game between Army and Duquesne.

Drake advanced with an 87-82 triumph over stubborn Pittsburgh behind the fantastic foul shooting of Gene West, and Army edged St. Bonaventure 64-62 on Joe Kosciusko's rebound shot at the buzzer in the afternoon doubleheader.

NYU, befuddled by alert and aggressive DePaul in the first half, was a completely different team in the final 20 minutes. The Violets scored almost at will and held the nation's ninth-ranked team to eight points in the final eight minutes, four in the last seven.

DePaul, sparked by scrappy Dennis Freund, repeatedly stole the ball from NYU in the first half and built up a 43-37 halftime lead.

But the aroused Violets battled ferociously, grabbing a 51-50 lead on Barry Kramer's tap-in. The lead then changed hands until Harold Hairston scored on a lay-up and Stan McKenzie put in two free throws giving the Violets a 64-62 lead.

Strawder's close shot gave the Braves an 82-81 lead in the see-saw battle. Levern Tart aded a free throw after St. Joseph's lost the ball on an errant pass.

Steve Courtin, who almost single-handedly drove the Hawks to their second triumph in the tournament, had tied the game 79-79 and put his team into the lead 81-80 on jump shots. He wound up with 31 points, 19 in the second half. He scored 30 against Miami, Fla. Thursday night.

Ouachita Gets 7-0 Shutout Over Rayville

Ouachita blazed to its second baseball victory of the spring in its second outing by shutting out Rayville, 7-0, on the Lions' diamond Saturday afternoon.

Rayville also was the victim in the first Ouachita victory in a contest played at Rayville.

The clubs spent the first two innings scoreless but the Lions smashed open in the third with a five - run barrage and clinched the victory in the fourth with two more.

Ouachita's Wally Rugg, Skeeter Boyd and Ronnie Bennett pelted the field with two hits each including a triple by Boyd and a double by Johnny Elmendorf.

Boyd's bat accounted for three Lion runs while Bennett brought in two more. Ken Peters tapped out one hit good for the other two scores.

Kenny Cupples stayed on the Ouachita mound all seven innings and confined Rayville success to five hits.

Ouachita rapped Rayville pitchers Coenen and Evans for 10 hits. Coenen was charged with the loss.

West Monroe Gets Victory By Home Run

The Twin Cities' first pitching duel of the new season unfolded in Confederate Park Saturday afternoon when Istrouma mound ace Richard Tucker allowed West Monroe one hit and the victory.

Jimmy Aulds slammed a home run in the fourth inning of the contest and gave the Rebels a 1-0 squeaker over the Baton Rouge Tribe.

The West Monroe victory evened the two day series after Istrouma won Friday, 4-3, in a home run battle.

Ray Alexander, the other side of the duel, thwarted the Indians with two-hit pitching. James Almond rapped out a single and Mac Culpepper got a double, the closest Istrouma came to the home plate.

Richard Anderson came within inches of delivering a devastating blow in the sixth inning when he rammed the ball into deep right field with the bases loaded. But James Almond leaned back over the fence and caught the ball with one hand to end the inning.

Alexander's win gives him a 1-1 mark so far and the Rebels 1-1 after the battle.

Veteran Driver Injured In Spill

Tisher, driving Patcheno Tass, was the only driver seriously injured. He was taken to Arcadia Methodist Hospital for X-rays of the injured arm.

A stewards' preliminary report of the accident said that Patcheno Tass, leading the field, made a quick bucking break, causing Snappy Tass, directly behind, to take up sharp.

Duke Rips Connecticut To Take Eastern Title

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Duke demolished Connecticut with a 62 point first half Saturday night and went on to bury the Huskies under a 101-54 avalanche to retain its NCAA Eastern Regional basketball championship.

Duke will play the Mideast Regional champion in the national semifinals at Kansas City next Friday night.

Jeff Mullins hit 11 of 15 first half shots and scored 30 points before leaving the game with 6:30 to play, the last of the Duke starters to be pulled by Coach Vic Bubas.

Villanova clinched third place with a 54-62 victory over Princeton as Wally Jones scored 12 of his 34 points in the last seven minutes to lead the Wildcats, No. 7 in the nation from behind.

Villanova had a 42-30 halftime lead.

All-America Bill Bradley scored 30 points for Princeton, which outscored Villanova 16-3 in the first five minutes of the second half to take a 46-45 lead.

Mullins, who scored 43 points Friday night against Villanova, pumped in three baskets in less than three minutes and the Blue Devils, No. 3 in the country, were off and running 10-2.

If Mullins needed any help it came from Steve Vacendak, who spent three days in a hospital earlier in the week recovering from a lung injury. He hit four successive long shots in as many minutes to help Duke to a 62-27 halftime lead.

Duke hit a blazing 66.7 per cent for the Huskies.

With 6:30 left and Duke leading 87-48, reserves took over for the Atlantic Coast Conference champions and outscored Connecticut subs the rest of the way 14-6 to complete Duke's eighth straight victory and 25th against four losses.

Vacendak and Hack Tison scored 14 points and Jay Buckley 12 to help carry the Duke scoring load. Toby Kimball's 18 led the UConns.

State Wins

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Wondrous Willie Murrell and his Big Eight champion teammates from Kansas State ripped into Wichita's proud defense for a 94-86 triumph Saturday night and the NCAA Midwest Regional basketball championship.

The Wildcats' victory, their 13th straight, earned them a spot in the NCAA champions' ip semifinals in Kansas City next Friday against the winner of the Western Regional.

Murrell, a multiple talented 6-foot-6 corner man, scored 28 points, stole the ball at least four times and generally wrecked havoc on the nationally fifth-ranked Shockers, who were playing before a hometown crowd of 10,815 near hysterical supporters.

The key to the game came on the sustained Murrell push midway through the first half which propelled the Wildcats to a 46-33 halftime lead. The Shockers shouldn't catch up again.

Wichita, however, riding on the scoring heroics of All-America Dave Stallworth, twice stormed back to contention in the second half.

A Stallworth tip-in cut the margin to 60-54 about five minutes into the second period, but a pair of jump shots by Jeff Simons put Kansas State comfortably in front again.

Then, with less than two minutes to go and the Shockers trailing by 13, Stallwroth scored six straight points to cut it to 88-81.

Murrell broke the back of the drive when he picked up two points on a one-and-one foul situation and followed with a key steal of the ball.

Stallworth led all scorers with 37 points, and pulled down 16 rebounds.

Jim Barnes broke a tie with a free throw on a technical foul and started Texas Western on its way to victory.

Barnes' conversion of the key technical gave Texas Western a 48-47 lead late in the last half. It was the first time the Texans had led since the opening moments and climaxed a comeback from a 12-point deficit.

Referee Rudy Marich called the technical on Creighton Coach Red McManus after he had made repeated "choke" gestures toward the officials.

Little Bob Dibler dropped in a long jump shot for the Miners moments later and the Texans weren't headed again, outscoring Creighton 20-5 over the last 6½ minutes.

Dibler got a bloody nose early in the first half when struck in the face by Creighton's Charles Brown. Brown was not banished, but was taken out of the game and did not return.

Seattle, 88-78

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP) — Greg Vermillion led a rally that enabled Seattle University to defeat Utah State 88-78 for third place in the NCAA Western Regional basketball tournament Saturday night.

Vermillion scored 26 points, 14 of them in a late rally after Utah State had cut Seattle's lead to two points with seven minutes remaining. He received scoring help from 6-foot Charlie Williams in beating back State's challenge. Williams wound up with 14 points.

Michigan Wins

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Second-ranked Michigan led by Cazzie Russell's 25 points, shook off stubborn Ohio University 69-57 Saturday night to gain a semifinal berth against Duke in the NCAA basketball tourney.

Co-champion Michigan of the Big Ten had its hands full until the final five minutes against champion Ohio University of the Mid-American Conference in the title game of the NCAA Mideast regional.

Ohio University, fresh from a 85-69 upset of fourth-ranked Kentucky Friday night, lagged most of the time by only five points in the contest of bruising rebounding and close defensive play.

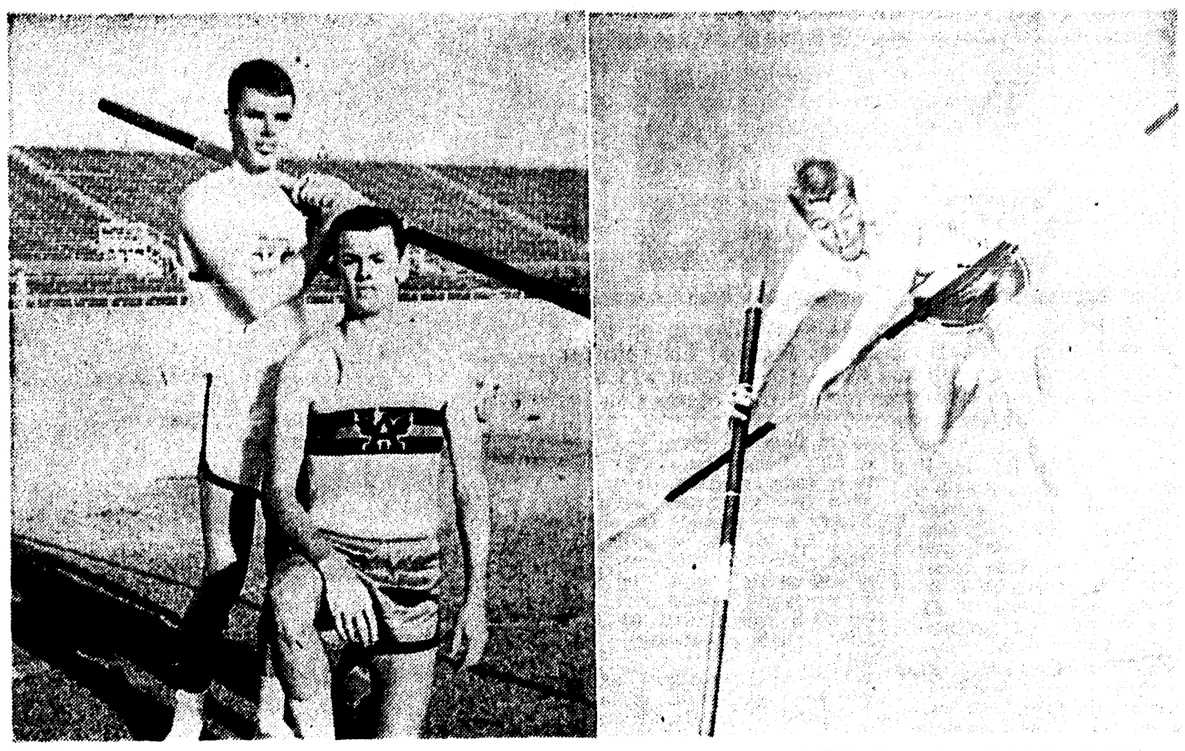

Michigan, making its first NCAA appearance since 1948, had more trouble controlling the boards against the Bobcats than they did in Friday night's 84-80 ousting of NCAA defending champion Chicago Loyola.

Russell, named on the Associated Press second All-America team, was the only Wolverine Ohio U was unable to shackle effectively.

Michigan's 250-pound 6-7 Bill Buntin met his match in Ohio's 225-pound 6-4 Don Hilt, in a man-to-man duel. Hilt outscored his taller opponent 18 to 15, but Buntin was hampered with four fouls midway in the second half.

Michigan, in running up its 22nd triumph against four defeats, led only 32-27 at halftime. It was not until little more than seven minutes remained that Russell finally nudged the Wolverines into their most comfortable lead at nine points, 54-45.

Gammill And Ritter Make All-District 2-A

By DICK WRIGHT
World Sports Writer

Neither height nor scoring nor rebounding dominated the District 2-A coaches' voting when they singled out the 10-school league's basketball elite though good marks in all three categories were represented.

Joining Tannehill in the south are Ferriday's David James and Dan Richey, Skeeter Ritter of St. Matthew's, Daniel McCarty of Caldwell Parish and Charles Priest of Winnsboro.

Mike Gammill of Oak Grove, a last year all-district choice and all-state honorable mention, led the northern division and the whole district in point making with a 21.9 average.

IN THE SOUTH

St. Matthew's Ritter is the towering figure in the south at 6-2. As a well-rounded player for the Irish, the senior totaled 266 points for the season.

James and McCarty, both sophomores, stand 6-1 with James slightly edging McCarty in scoring. James averaged 14 points to McCarty's 13.7.

The littlest man, 5-9 Dan Richey, gained his spot with the best for his deft ballhandling and 5-10 Charles Priest proved himself a reliable defensive man.

THE NORTH HALF

Oak Grove's contribution, six-foot junior Mike Gammill, can be expected to donate heavily to another good year for his school which lost only two games this season.

Lake Providence added the rebounding skill in 6-3 Jimmy Gilfoil and 6-4 Tim Terral, both seniors, who pulled down an average of 15 rebounds per outing.

Don Morton, Tallulah's 6-2 junior, boasts 15.4 markers per game and 10.2 rebounds. Johnny Long of Farmerville tallied 15.2 points for his average. He is a six-foot junior.

Tallulah's other all - district boy, Donnie Ater, makes his second appearance on the 2-A elite. The 6-4 junior wrapped up 14.5 points per game.

The south division girls all-district included Yvonne Mays, Wanda Dunn and Hattie Harris, all of Caldwell; Jean Watson of Winnsboro, and Glenda Randall and Mary Sellers, both of LaSalle.

The north selections were Johnnie Green, Dianne Walker, Melba Lovell and Betty Marsh, all of Lake Providence, Regina Phelps of Farmerville and Sherry Hollingsworth of Oak Grove.

The girls honorable mention list for the district includes Cecilia Nelson, Carol Flores and Bunkie Poole; all of Caldwell; Sandra Coln, Cherie Griffin and Ruby Polk, all of Winnsboro; Lee Ann Pullen of Ferriday; Delores Nethery and Barbara Ivy, both of LaSalle, and Sandra Ussery of St. Matthew's;

Rosemary Ball and Jean Ellington, both of Rayville; Elizabeth Ball and Carolyn Kirkpatrick, both of Tallulah; Ruth Richey, Sharon Dale Ainsworth and Marily Bradley, all of Oak Grove; Mary Ann Eldred, Lajoe Hayes and Rowlind Armstrong, all of Farmerville; Shevlyn Teer, Annette Teer, Shirley Dean, Bonnie Wilkes and Kay Donahoe, and Sherry Cheek and Peggy Freeman, both of Lake Providence.

Devlin Spreads Hold On Open

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Australian Bruce Devlin stretched his lead in the $25,000 St. Petersburg Open Saturday in a third round featuring a pair of holes-in-one.

Devlin shot a three-under-par 69 on a windy day when most of the scores were closer to par 72. It gave him a 54-hole total of 202, five strokes ahead of his nearest rival going into today's final round.

Joe Campbell and Dick Howell had the holes-in-one. Both hit five-iron shots on the 190-yard seventh hole that bounded into the cup.

PGA officials could not recall the time when two aces were recorded on the same hole in the same round of a tournament. They were the third and fourth recorded in 10 PGA tournaments this year.

Neither did the competitors much good. Howell came in with a 70 for a 212 total. Campbell had a 71 for 209.

Devlin had his good moments and his bad. His game suddenly went sour on the front nine when he bogied No. 8 and No. 9.

"I thought I had let it slip a bit," he said at the end of the round. But he birdied the 10th and had little trouble thereafter.

Five strokes back in second place was Rex Baxter Jr. of Amarillo, Tex., who shot a four-under-par 68 for a 207.

Tied at 208 were Dan Sikes, Jack Nicklaus and Don Fairfield. Nicklaus, the pre-tournament favorite, had a four-under-par 68.

Campbell, Butch Baird, Jacky Cupit and Terry Dill were tied at 209, seven strokes behind Devlin.

Race Horseman Reports Mate Getting Divorce

"For her protection as well as my own, this statement of our separation is being made, as neither of us is interested in a third party," said Du Pont, a great great grandson of the founder of E. I. du Pont de Nemours, the giant chemical company.

"It is better to be factual about such a matter than to allow gossip to arise. We are devoted to our 12 year old son Billy, and will jointly plan his future."

Surprising NYU Tops DePaul 79-66 To Enter Semifinals

NEW YORK (AP)—NYU, always full of surprises, staged a dramatic second-half comeback Saturday night for a 79-66 victory over top-seeded DePaul and advanced with Bradley to the semifinals of the National Invitation basketball tournament.

NYU, which lost to such teams as Wagner and Rider during the regular season, will play the winner of Tuesday's Drake-New Mexico quarter-final game.

Second-seeded Bradley nipped a determined St. Joseph's, Pa., team 83-81 in the opener of the evening doubleheader and will play the winner of Tuesday's other quarter-final game between Army and Duquesne.

Drake advanced with an 87-82 triumph over stubborn Pittsburgh behind the fantastic foul shooting of Gene West, and Army edged St. Bonaventure 64-62 on Joe Kosciusko's rebound shot at the buzzer in the afternoon doubleheader.

NYU, befuddled by alert and aggressive DePaul in the first half, was a completely different team in the final 20 minutes. The Violets scored almost at will and held the nation's ninth-ranked team to eight points in the final eight minutes, four in the last seven.

DePaul, sparked by scrappy Dennis Freund, repeatedly stole the ball from NYU in the first half and built up a 43-37 halftime lead.

But the aroused Violets battled ferociously, grabbing a 51-50 lead on Barry Kramer's tap-in. The lead then changed hands until Harold Hairston scored on a layup and Stan McKenzie put in two free throws giving the Violets a 64-62 lead.

Strawder's close shot gave the Braves an 82-81 lead in the seesaw battle. Levern Tart aded a free throw after St. Joseph's lost the ball on an errant pass.

Steve Courtin, who almost single-handedly drove the Hawks to their second triumph in the tournament, had tied the game 79-79 and put his team into the lead 81-80 on jump shots. He wound up with 31 points, 19 in the second half. He scored 30 against Miami, Fla. Thursday night.

Ouachita Gets 7-0 Shutout Over Rayville

Ouachita blazed to its second baseball victory of the spring in its second outing by shutting out Rayville, 7-0, on the Lions' diamond Saturday afternoon.

Rayville also was the victim in the first Ouachita victory in a contest played at Rayville.

The clubs spent the first two innings scoreless but the Lions smashed open in the third with a five - run barrage and clinched the victory in the fourth with two more.

Ouachita's Wally Rugg, Skeeter Boyd and Ronnie Bennett pelted the field with two hits each including a triple by Boyd and a double by Johnny Elmendorf.

Boyd's bat accounted for three Lion runs while Bennett brought in two more. Ken Peters tapped out one hit good for the other two scores.

Kenny Cupples stayed on the Ouachita mound all seven innings and confined Rayville success to five hits.

Ouachita rapped Rayville pitchers Coenen and Evans for 10 hits. Coenen was charged with the loss.

West Monroe Gets Victory By Home Run

The Twin Cities' first pitching duel of the new season unfolded in Confederate Park Saturday afternoon when Istrouma mound ace Richard Tucker allowed West Monroe one hit and the victory.

Jimmy Aulds slammed a home run in the fourth inning of the contest and gave the Rebels a 1-0 squeaker over the Baton Rouge Tribe.

The West Monroe victory evened the two day series after Istrouma won Friday, 4-3, in a home run battle.

Ray Alexander, the other side of the duel, thwarted the Indians with two-hit pitching. James Almond rapped out a single and Mac Culpepper got a double, the closest Istrouma came to the home plate.

Richard Anderson came within inches of delivering a devastating blow in the sixth inning when he rammed the ball into deep right field with the bases loaded. But James Almond leaned back over the fence and caught the ball with one hand to end the inning.

Alexander's win gives him a 1-1 mark so far and the Rebels 1-1 after the battle.

Veteran Driver Injured In Spill

Tisher, driving Patcheno Tass, was the only driver seriously injured. He was taken to Arcadia Methodist Hospital for X-rays of the injured arm.

Rick Bryan

Two Coaches

A lot of basketball coaches would like to be in Lenny Fant's shoes. He has just finished his third straight winning season and has a young team which should be a strong contender for the Gulf States Conference crown a year from now.

But Fant's lot in life may not be as blissful as it appears. And it's his own fault.

Fant has consistently done better than expected with his Northeast State teams and if he doesn't cut it out pretty soon, people are going to take his performances for granted.

There was once a day when the Indians were underrated. Soon the pendulum will swing the other way and Fant's five, like some other perpetually good units in the Gulf States Conference, will be expected to excel year in and year out. And when people think you have a built in winning system — you're in trouble.

This year's team was a fine example of Fant's coaching. His youngsters (only two seniors on the starting five) had trouble winning in their own gym at the start of the season, but they finished the campaign with one of the best units in the conference. Had the conference race started a month late, Northeast would have definitely been one of the three strongest contenders for the title.

Another illustration of Fant's coaching was the key man in the Tribe's system, center Jimmy Walker. There were obviously times when the Indians won without much help from Walker, when they got strong rebounding performances from big, strong people like Larry Butler or a surplus of points from the sharp eye of little Tommy Enloe. But there were numerous times when they got more from Walker than anybody else, when he was a one-man team offensively, defensively and on the boards. The 6-4 Jonesboro product was beyond a doubt the best all-around player in the conference.

Yet Walker, like many of the people Fant gets, did not come to Northeast a superstar. What he became, he accomplished under Fant's tutelage.

Having an unknown blossom into an unexpected star, if it happens consistently, must be considered one of the marks of a good coach. For Fant it's becoming routine.

The future, win - wise, looks bright for Fant. Northeast finished the season second in the league off the backboards, third in defense and third in offense. Despite being a relatively inexperienced club, the Indians had less fouls per game than any other team in the conference.

The only department where they fell down was in shooting percentage and this, like whiskey, will improve with age.

Next year Tommy Enloe, who can be one of the best guards in Northeast history, will be a junior and Fant will be able to call on a number of talented redshirts. If he can replace Walker on the backboards, and may be able to with Butler, the Indians will be tough customers.

Before His Time

Coach Cecil Crowley, it appears has left the jolly good ranks of the basketball coach a little before his time. It would seem that the genial veteran of 33 years in the profession has quite a few good coaching years left in him.

Since Crowley has decided to call it quits, however, one must admit he picked an excellent time to do it.

Winning all or a share of a conference championship has self-evident rewards. But for Crowley, this tie for the GSC title, the eighth one he took outright or shared in 21 seasons at Louisiana Tech, was something more.

In years past, Crowley fielded his share of teams which beat you on sheerly superior manpower. Jackie Moreland, who will be the speaker at the Techsters basketball banquet, was the prime ingredient on one team of this calibre. In college the Detroit Piston veteran played circles around most of the opposition he faced and did it while appearing to go at about three-quarters speed.

This last team of Crowley's, however, was a horse of a not even faintly similiar color. Remember three years ago, those short, young Bulldogs who couldn't play a road game without being at least 10 points behind at the foul line from the start? They couldn't rebound. They couldn't defense. In fact, about all they had in their favor was stubborness. They kicked off the season by losing eight straight games.

Yet Crowley often called them the finest group of people he had ever worked with. "They are more cooperative and easier to coach than any bunch I've ever had," he said, "and it hurts me worse to see them lose than any other team."

For two years Crowley hurt a lot, because his little people put together back-to-back losing seasons before tying with Southwestern for the title.

Even this year it was hard to see how they managed a share of the crown. Defense and rebounding still caused them trouble and they finished in the conference second division on both counts. Tall, rugged people like Northeast's Walker and Butler, gave them fits.

So the big thing for Crowley was the fact that he finished with a team he liked and that he won with them in what was one of his finest coaching performances. In this respect, it must have been much more satisfying that closing out with a team full of superstars that ran roughshod over their opponents.

The Quick People

One thing Tech did well was shoot. The Bulldogs led the conference in field goal percentage and were second from the foul line. The only other area where they surpassed their competitors was in quickness, a quality they exploited best with the fast break and full court press.

The maneuvers worked, it would seem, because three years of experience eliminated much of the foul miseries short arms had brought on in earlier years and enabled the none too tall or too husky Bulldogs to execute with finesse.

Because of unique difference in refereeing, the effectiveness of the speed was best seen in the last two home victories, games which gave Tech the tie for the crown.

In the Northeast game the officials treated their whistles like they'd been dipped in nicotine the day the cancer report came out. At times the game seemed on the verge of getting out of hand. In this one the Bulldogs overcame a 16-point deficit by halftime with the press.

Different officials called the Southeastern game and acted like the whistles came for Christmas and they were dying to try them out. Anytime two players touched the ball, even fleetingly, jump ball was called. The Bulldogs grabbed a 10-2 lead against the Lions, then offset some bad passing and poor shooting with the press the rest of the night.

Which game, if either, was called right is not the point. What does seem more than slightly significent is that the Bulldogs used the press to their advantage under two opposite sets of conditions, stealing the ball frequently, but without getting the short end of the foul situation in either game. This was something they couldn't come close to doing two years earlier.

Hayes Slowed By Strong Wind

MIAMI (AP) — Gusty winds slowed Bob Hayes, the world's fastest human, and he failed Saturday in his latest assaults on the world 100-and 220-yard dash records.

Running into breezes averaging more than seven miles an hour and gusting at 15, the broad shouldered, spindly-legged Florida A&M fullback was caught at 9.4 in the 100 and 21.5 in the 220. He won both events easily, however, in the Florida Athletic Club meet. The recognized world marks are 9.2 and 20.3.

Hayes, one of the top U.S. hopes for the Olympics, has twice run the 100 in 9.1 seconds, only to have the performances rejected.

His first mark in last year's National AAU meet was turned down because it was made on a rubber asphalt track. He equaled the time again in the Orange Bowl meet New Year's Day but again was denied the record because of a questionable crosswind.

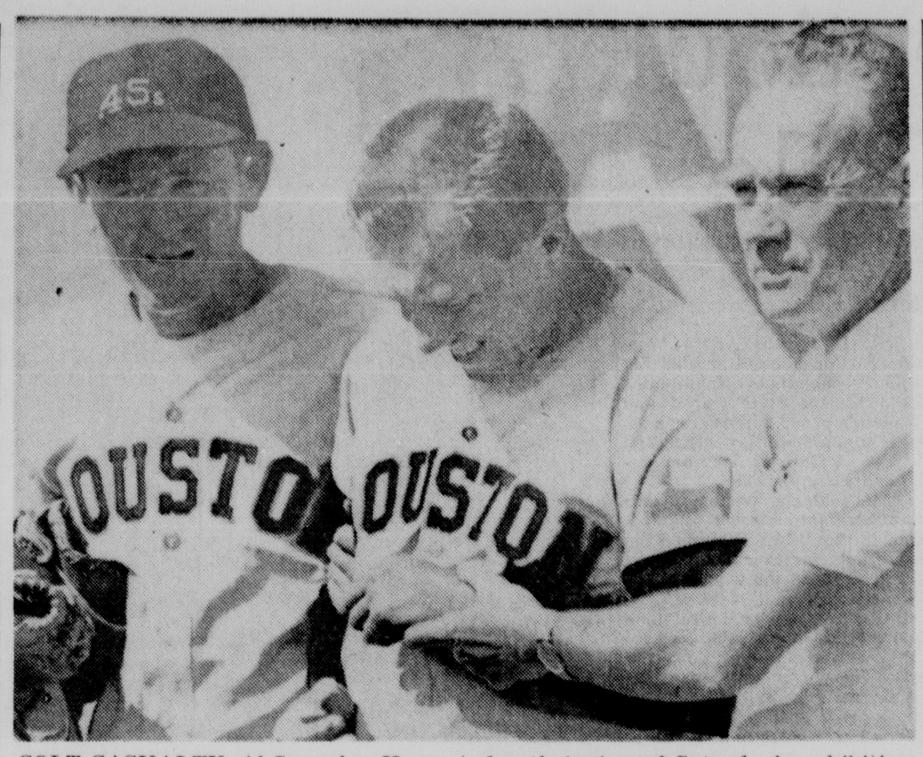

John Pennel, world record pole vaulter, withdrew from the meet because of a back injury. It was on this same field last Aug. 24 that Pennel broke the 17-foot barrier for the first time with a leap of 17 feet, ¾ inch.

Folley To Meet Unranked Boxer

HOUSTON (AP) — Heavyweight contender Zora Folley of Phoenix takes on unranked Tod Herring of Houston Tuesday night in a 10-round boxing match.

Senators Win Big

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Shortstop Ed Brinkman hit a grand slam home run and two singles Saturday as the Washington Senators defeated the Milwaukee Braves 8-0 in their opening exhibition game.

The Braves only hit was a single by Denis Menke in the sixth inning off Carl Bouldin, second of three Washington pitchers.

Claude Osteen started for the Senators and retired the nine batters he faced. Jim Hannan pitched the last three innings and walked one.

Cards Beat Mets

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals, held to one pop single for four innings, scored all their runs in the fifth for a 5-1 victory over the New York Mets Saturday in their Grapefruit League opener.

The Cards bunched six of their nine hits in the decisive inning when right-hander Tracy Stallard tired. Jack Fischer, who replaced Stallard, balked home the final run.

Ray Sadecki, Cardinal southpaw, who gave up an unearned run in the fifth, doubled home the first two Cardinal runs. He and Bob Gibson did not give up a hit after Ernie Broglio was touched for four safeties in the first three innings.

Coleman Leads Reds

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Gordon Coleman led the Cincinnati Reds to a 6-2 exhibition victory Saturday over the Chicago White Sox with two doubles and two singles.

The Reds hopped on starter Ray Herbert for four runs and added two more off rookie southpaw Frank Kreutzer.

The victory went to veteran Joe Nuxhall, who worked the first three innings and turned in five strikeouts.

Santo Hits Homer

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Third baseman Ron Santo's first spring home run climaxed a five-run fifth inning as the Chicago Cubs overcame a three-run deficit and defeated the Cleveland Indians 9-8 Saturday.

Pedro Ramos was the victim of the Chicagoans' biggest inning of the Cactus League season as the Cubs made it four straight victories for a 6-1 spring record.

Cleveland scored three runs in the first and two in the second as Max Alvis hit the first of two homers and Wally Post homered off rookie Wayne Carlander. Alvis' second homer was a three-run shot off Don Elston, third Chicago pitcher, in the seventh.

After picking up single runs in the second and third innings, the Cubs roughed Ramos as Billy Ott singled for one run and Billy Williams doubled for two more before Santo connected.

Yogi Loses Opener

FORT LAUNDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Yogi Berra's managerial debut was a failure Saturday as the New York Yankees dropped their exhibition baseball opener to the Baltimore Orioles 3-1.

The American League champions were held to six hits by three Baltimore right-handers in Hank Bauer's bow as Orioles manager.

Whitey Ford was the loser, giving up two runs in the third inning, one on a homer by Luis Aparicio.

The New York run, against starter and winner Milt Pappas in the third inning, was unearned.

Wally Bunker, 19 - year-old rookie, held the Yanks hitless over the middle three innings and Dick Hall allowed two hits over the last three.

Aparicio's homer followed by Sam Bowen's double and a single by Norm Siebern gave Baltimore its two runs off Ford.

A crowd 6,712 was present in windy, sunny weather. Berra played the Yankee regulars a maximum of four innings. Mickey Mantle started the game and was hitless in two tries but had no trouble with his legs.

HR's Power Colts

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Four home runs powered the Houston Colts to a 10-9 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Saturday as the teams opened their exhibition baseball season.

Each collected 12 hits. The Phillies also had three homers.

The other homers for the Colts came from Walter Bond, John Weekly and Jim Wynn.

Rookie third baseman Richie Allen was the hitting star for the Phillies with a homer and two singles.

Debut For Marichal

EL PASO, Texas (AP)—Juan Marichal, 25-game winner last season for the San Francisco Giants, made his debut a winning one Saturday as his National League baseball club beat Boston 4-3.

Marichal worked three innings, threw 26 pitches, faced a minimum of nine men and picked off Frank Malzone, the only Sox batter to get a hit off him.

The win was the Giants' sixth in seven outings. The Red Sox lost their sixth out of seven.

All three Boston runs came in the seventh off rookie Ron Herbel, who relieved Marichal in the fourth and pitched good ball up to the seventh. Carl Yastrzemski, Malzone and Dick Stuart singled and Bob Tillman doubled.

Tigers Over Twins

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Bill Roman, rookie first baseman, smashed a two-run double in the ninth inning that gave the Detroit Tigers a 3-2 victory over the Minnesota Twins in the Grapefruit League opener Saturday.

Roman, who drove in all three Detroit runs, slammed a drive to the right field wall off Chuck Nieson, third Minnesota pitcher, with the bases filled in the ninth.

The victory went to Fred Gladding, fourth Detroit pitcher, and Nieson was the loser.

Frank Lary pitched the first three innings for the Tigers, allowing just one scratch hit, striking out two and walking none.

Pirates Rout Athletics

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates opened their exhibition schedule with a bang Saturday, slamming 17 hits, including three homers, in a 14-1 rout of the Kansas City Athletics.

Gene Alley, Donn Clendenon and Willie Stargell each hit two-run homers. Alley and Clendenon drove in four runs apiece and Stargel accounted for three.

The Pirates held only a 2-0 lead after six innings but slammed Vern Handrahan, a rookie right-hander, for four runs in the seventh. Then they drove him from the mound with an eight-run assault in the eighth.

Bob Veale and Tom Butters pitched the first six innings for Pittsburgh and held the A's scoreless. Bob Blass yielded the A's lone run in the seventh.

Angeles Win In 10th

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) —The Los Angeles Angels came up with two runs in the bottom of the 10th inning to defeat the Cleveland Indians 4-3 Saturday.

Pinchhitters Frank Kostero and Jim Fregosi socked the singles that tied and won the game.

The Indians broke a 2-2 deadlock in the top of the 10th when Tommy Agee scored Al Smith with a sacrifice fly. Smith, who opened the inning with a single, moved to third base on a single by Leon Wagner. It was Wagner's first hit in two spring games against his former teammates.

Jay Fined By Reds

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Manager Fred Hutchinson of the Cincinnati Reds said he fined pitcher Joey Jay Saturday for taking an unauthorized leave from spring training camp.

Hutchinson would not say how much the fine was, but it was reportedly in excess of $200.

"If he wins 30 games for us this season, we'll refund the entire amount to him," Hutchinson said.

Jay still refused to say why he left the camp Thursday.

"I was forced to take leave for a personal reason," he said. He went to his home in Cincinnati, and flew back to Tampa Friday night.

DODGERS UNDER-MANNED

Alston Wants Power; Howard Might Play

VERO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Whether or not the Los Angeles Dodgers have to defend their world championship without slugger Frank Howard, Manager Walt Alston already is resigned to making the battle with a squad smaller than his rivals will have.

The final word on Howard may not be in yet.

The big outfielder says at his home he has "too many personal problems" to play baseball this year, but the suspicion lingers here that Howard still may be in uniform by opening day.

Be that as it may, Alston already knows that he will have to plan his battles this summer with only 21 men instead of the 25 allowed by baseball law.

"It's going to be tough," Alston admitted, noting that he will be saddled with four bonus youngsters who will count against the club's 25 - man player limit. But in the next breath he says he is banking on gilt - edged pitching to win for the Dodgers again.

"We might have more punch, too," he predicted.

"We had a lot of trouble scoring runs last year," Alston said. "And there's no question that pitching won it for us. But it would be nice if we could give those pitchers a little more working margin."

For one thing, Alston said, there's Willie Davis, who could "take up where he left off last season." And if 6-7 Howard, who had 28 homers playing on a platoon system last year, does come back, Alston plans to play him "every day" and thinks his batting fault of lunging at the ball "can be corrected."

After a slow start in 1963, Willie Davis came along fast and was a Dodger batting star in the World Series, which the Dodgers took from the Yankees in four straight.

"Willie has to learn to punch the ball more," Alston explained. "If he can start to hit to the opposite field once in awhile, it will help him a lot.

"He's been hitting everything to right and that means that despite his great speed he has little chance to beat out ground balls for hits. But he would keep the second baseman and third baseman playing honest if he crossed them up now and then. The way it has been, the second baseman can position himself perfectly and the third baseman can play in close to guard against bunt attempts."

Alston does not go along with those who think the Los Angeles pitching sluffs off after starters Sandy Koufax, Don Drysdale and Johnny Podres, relief ace Ron Perranoski and Bob Miller, a starter and a reliever.

Alston will shift Miller into a starting rotation if Larry Sherry, who saw limited service in 1963, regains his old form.

"It looks like Larry is going to come back," Alston continued. "If he does, he could be in the bullpen, freeing Miller for starts. Or Miller may stay in the bullpen and Sherry might start."

His other pitching candidates include Pete Richert, Joe Moeller, Phil Ortega, Nick Willhite and Dick Calmus, a bonus baby the Dodgers had to carry last year.

"I'm not concerned about finding a fourth starter for the potential is here," Alston said. "I'm more concerned about coming up with a little more power and the fact that we will not have the maneuverability we had last year because we have to count those four players against our player limit.

"But I see no reason why we shouldn't win again."

West Coast Will Offer Ample List Of Derby Colts

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—California-raced 3-year-olds, headed by Hill Rise, will not be lacking in numbers in the parade to the post for the Kentucky Derby May 2.

It appears that perhaps six or seven colts will be in the fabled run for the roses, including the Santa Anita Derby winner, Hill Rise.

Hill Rise's trainer, 73-year-old Bill Finnegan, and Pope have not decided on the colt's pre-derby program. Possibly Hill Rise will start preparations at Keeneland, but then again their candidate may go in the Stepping Stone or Derby Trial at Churchill.

Rex C. Ellsworth, whose Swaps won the derby in 1956, feels his newest hope, The Scoundrel, definitely needs more seasoning. The colt raced only twice this year but the stable thinks he is of derby caliber.

Lions Roar Over Nicholls State In 8-2 Victory

THIBODAUX, La. (AP) — First baseman Lamar Labauve Saturday socked a grand slam home run in the second to spark Southeastern Louisiana to an 8-2 victory over Nicholls State.

Kirt Chaisson, the starter who went six innings, got the victory—the first for SLC against one defeat. It was the season opener for Nicholls.

TO LAND BOUTON

Didn't Pull Trick, Says Ralph Houk

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Ralph Houk, general manager of the New York Yankees, denied Saturday that he tricked pitcher Jim Bouton into ending his holdout and said he, Houk, should be fired if he did.

The Yankee executive issued a formal statement in reply to a charge that he used unauthorized pressure to force Bouton into signing. He said his original ultimatum to Bouton of a $100-a-day penalty had been misinterpreted.

Dick Young, writing in the New York Daily News, said Houk's action was taken despite a warning from Commissioner Ford Frick that such a move was not legal.

Houk presented his position with a formal statement after the Yankees lost their first exhibition game of the year to the Baltimore Orioles, 3-1.

He said:

"I should be fired myself if I did anything like that. I called Commissioner Frick at Bel Air, Fla., and he told me I could not fine an unsigned player but that I could reduce the contract offer. That's what I did and the commissioner approved.

"I re-negotiated the contract, which Frick said I had a right to do. I explained this to Bouton and he understands exactly what happened."

The incident resulted from a holdout by Bouton, a 25-year-old right-hander who won 21 games and lost seven for the Yankees last season.

Bouton demanded a 100 per cent raise over his 1963 salary of $10,000. Houk refused to go higher than 80 per cent, or $18,000.

The general managed threatened to deduct $100 from the offer for every day that Bouton stayed away from camp after midnight last Wednesday.

Lion Cinder Squad Hosts 5 Team Meet

Ouachita High School's 1964 track schedule has the Lions competing in eight meets, including three at the new home facilities at Lion Stadium.

Kicking off the season will be a five team contest Tuesday with Neville, Winnfield, Minden, and West Monroe invading the Lion lair. The event will be the first of the year in the Twin Cities and the first ever at Ouachita.

Runway and pit construction at Lion Stadium has been delayed because of recent wet weather, forcing the pole vault, high jump, long jump, and hop-step-jump events to be held at the Northeast track.

These events will get under way at 12:30 p.m. The running contests will start at 2:10 on the Lion cinders.

Bo Herring, Ouachita track mentor, has adopted a "wait and see" attitude toward the coming season.

"We've had only a few boys out for any length of time, most have been involved in basketball or spring football, so we haven't had time to see how they're going to shape up," he said.

"I feel that the team will probably be weak, but here will be some events where we can run with the rest of the pack."

"This is the first year Ouachita has had its own track, so our program isn't as developed as most of the schools we'll be running against," Herring concluded.

At this stage the Lion relay team of Don Powell, Jerry and Perry Eppinette, and Kenneth Slusher appears to be the best bet for winning points according to Herring.

Lynn Artt, hurdler, Larry Lolly, discus, and Harry Carsey at shot-put appear to be the outstanding Lions at their specialties Herring said.

SCHEDULE

Mar. 17 — West Monroe, Neville, Minden, Winnfield, Home
Mar. 20 — Woodlawn Invitational, Shreveport
Apr. 4 — Fair Park Relays, Shreveport
Apr. 7 — Fair Park, Rayville, Home
Apr. 10 — Winnfield, Home
Apr. 17 — West Monroe Relays, West Monroe
Apr. 21 Twin-City Meet, Home
May 1 — District Meet, West Monroe

Innes Ireland Garners Early Roadway Prize

SNETTERTON, England (AP) — Innes Ireland, veteran Scottish auto race driver, won the first formula one race of the European season Saturday in a freezing rain that sent some of his rivals spinning off the track.

Ireland was driving for the first time since he crashed at Seattle five months ago. Because of the weather, the race was reduced from 50 to 35 laps of a twisting course.

Jo Bonnier of Sweden was second in a Cooper in 1:13:13.4 and Bruce McLaren of New Zealand, also driving a Cooper, was third in 1:13:56.4. Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Calif., was fourth in a Centrosud BRM in 1:14:29.6.

World champion Jim Clark of Scotland was forced out by mechanical troubles on the 20th lap. Former world champions Jack Brabham of Austrlia and Graham Hill of England spun off the track. American driver Peter Revson, son of a New York cosmetics manufacturer, spun out on the 23rd lap when he was in fifth place.

Tigers Near Relay Record With 40.3 Go

GRAMBLING (Special)— Grambling College relay teams reduced touted Southern University, Arkansas AM&N, and Alcorn foursomes to the status of serfs Saturday by zooming to one - sided victories in the 440, 880, and mile relays in spectacular times.

With rain falling in a fine steady mist, Coach Tom Williams' sensational 440 yard relay quartet of Don Meadows, Richard Stebbins, Vernus Ragsdale, and Don Owens lowered their best previous effort with a 40.3 clocking, three-tenths of a second off the world record around two turns.

Continuing the assault in the 880, Grambling flashed down the final straight - away in 1:24.9 with the same sprinters breaking the tape in full flight.

In an estimate of the quartet's potential, Williams said he is confident that they will crack the world 440 record this spring.

The event was run in a downpour with Southern and Arkansas in a determined chase. Melvin Bonds, Douglas Banks, Willie Lewis, and Owens ran an effortless race.

"Under ideal conditions we'll hit 3:10.2," Williams said thoughtfully after the race.

Relays over shadowed the other events, particularly in view of the national attention Grambling engendered by beating Texas Southern in the 440 and 880 relays Feb. 22 in the Gulf Federation Meet at Houston.

Tiger relay stars had to share the spotlight with high jumper Richard Ross of Southern. Participating coaches eyed him covetously as he leaped 6-10 and had a near miss at seven feet.

Ross was easily the most outstanding individual performer.

Southern won the mile, shot put, 100 and 880 yard dashes, the three mile, and the javline.

Addison Bijou, a rangy discus thrower, tossed the oval 160 feet for Grambling, Anthony Jones jogged to a 49.5 in the 440 yard dash, and the Tigers settled for a two way tie in the pole vault.

Arkansas took top honors in the long jump. Alcorn was completely shut out as the Indians failed to win a single event.

Rick Bryan

Two Coaches

A lot of basketball coaches would like to be in Lenny Fant's shoes. He has just finished his third straight winning season and has a young team which should be a strong contender for the Gulf States Conference crown a year from now.

But Fant's lot in life may not be as blissful as it appears. And it's his own fault.

Fant has consistently done better than expected with his Northeast State teams and if he doesn't cut it out pretty soon, people are going to take his performances for granted.

There was once a day when the Indians were underrated. Soon the pendulum will swing the other way and Fant's five, like some other perpetually good units in the Gulf States Conference, will be expected to excel year in and year out. And when people think you have a built in winning system — you're in trouble.

This year's team was a fine example of Fant's coaching. His youngsters (only two seniors on the starting five) had trouble winning in their own gym at the start of the season, but they finished the campaign with one of the best units in the conference. Had the conference race started a month late, Northeast would have definitely been one of the three strongest contenders for the title.

Another illustration of Fant's coaching was the key man in the Tribe's system, center Jimmy Walker. There were obviously times when the Indians won without much help from Walker, when they got strong rebounding performances from big, strong people like Larry Butler or a surplus of points from the sharp eye of little Tommy Enloe. But there were numerous times when they got more from Walker than anybody else, when he was a one-man team offensively, defensively and on the boards. The 6-4 Jonesboro product was beyond a doubt the best all-around player in the conference.

Yet Walker, like many of the people Fant gets, did not come to Northeast a superstar. What he became, he accomplished under Fant's tutelage.

Having an unknown blossom into an unexpected star, if it happens consistently, must be considered one of the marks of a good coach. For Fant it's becoming routine.

The future, win - wise, looks bright for Fant. Northeast finished the season second in the league off the backboards, third in defense and third in offense. Despite being a relatively inexperienced club, the Indians had less fouls per game than any other team in the conference.

The only department where they fell down was in shooting percentage and this, like whiskey, will improve with age.

Next year Tommy Enloe, who can be one of the best guards in Northeast history, will be a junior and Fant will be able to call on a number of talented redshirts. If he can replace Walker on the backboards, and may be able to with Butler, the Indians will be tough customers.

Before His Time

Coach Cecil Crowley, it appears has left the jolly good ranks of the basketball coach a little before his time. It would seem that the genial veteran of 33 years in the profession has quite a few good coaching years left in him.

Since Crowley has decided to call it quits, however, one must admit he picked an excellent time to do it.

Winning all or a share of a conference championship has self-evident rewards. But for Crowley, this tie for the GSC title, the eighth one he took outright or shared in 21 seasons at Louisiana Tech, was something more.

In years past, Crowley fielded his share of teams which beat you on sheerly superior manpower. Jackie Moreland, who will be the speaker at the Techsters basketball banquet, was the prime ingredient on one team of this calibre. In college the Detroit Piston veteran played circles around most of the opposition he faced and did it while appearing to go at about three-quarters speed.

This last team of Crowley's, however, was a horse of a not even faintly similiar color. Remember three years ago, those short, young Bulldogs who couldn't play a road game without being at least 10 points behind at the foul line from the start? They couldn't rebound. They couldn't defense. In fact, about all they had in their favor was stubborness. They kicked off the season by losing eight straight games.

Yet Crowley often called them the finest group of people he had ever worked with. "They are more cooperative and easier to coach than any bunch I've ever had," he said, "and it hurts me worse to see them lose than any other team."

For two years Crowley hurt a lot, because his little people put together back-to-back losing seasons before tying with Southwestern for the title.

Even this year it was hard to see how they managed a share of the crown. Defense and rebounding still caused them trouble and they finished in the conference second division on both counts. Tall, rugged people like Northeast's Walker and Butler, gave them fits.

So the big thing for Crowley was the fact that he finished with a team he liked and that he won with them in what was one of his finest coaching performances. In this respect, it must have been much more satisfying that closing out with a team full of superstars that ran roughshod over their opponents.

The Quick People

One thing Tech did well was shoot. The Bulldogs led the conference in field goal percentage and were second from the foul line. The only other area where they surpassed their competitors was in quickness, a quality they exploited best with the fast break and full court press.

The maneuvers worked, it would seem, because three years of experience eliminated much of the foul miseries short arms had brought on in earlier years and enabled the none too tall or too husky Bulldogs to execute with finesse.

Because of unique difference in refereeing, the effectiveness of the speed was best seen in the last two home victories, games which gave Tech the tie for the crown.

In the Northeast game the officials treated their whistles like they'd been dipped in nicotine the day the cancer report came out. At times the game seemed on the verge of getting out of hand. In this one the Bulldogs overcame a 16-point deficit by halftime with the press.

Different officials called the Southeastern game and acted like the whistles came for Christmas and they were dying to try them out. Anytime two players touched the ball, even fleetingly, jump ball was called. The Bulldogs grabbed a 10-2 lead against the Lions, then offset some bad passing and poor shooting with the press the rest of the night.

Which game, if either, was called right is not the point. What does seem more than slightly significent is that the Bulldogs used the press to their advantage under two opposite sets of conditions, stealing the ball frequently, but without getting the short end of the foul situation in either game. This was something they couldn't come close to doing two years earlier.

Hayes Slowed By Strong Wind

MIAMI (AP) — Gusty winds slowed Bob Hayes, the world's fastest human, and he failed Saturday in his latest assaults on the world 100-and 220-yard dash records.

Running into breezes averaging more than seven miles an hour and gusting at 15, the broad shouldered, spindly-legged Florida A&M fullback was caught at 9.4 in the 100 and 21.5 in the 220. He won both events easily, however, in the Florida Athletic Club meet. The recognized world marks are 9.2 and 20.3.

Hayes, one of the top U.S. hopes for the Olympics, has twice run the 100 in 9.1 seconds, only to have the performances rejected.

His first mark in last year's National AAU meet was turned down because it was made on a rubber asphalt track. He equaled the time again in the Orange Bowl meet New Year's Day but again was denied the record because of a questionable crosswind.

John Pennel, world record pole vaulter, withdrew from the meet because of a back injury. It was on this same field last Aug. 24 that Pennel broke the 17-foot barrier for the first time with a leap of 17 feet, ¾ inch.

Folley To Meet Unranked Boxer

HOUSTON (AP) — Heavyweight contender Zora Folley of Phoenix takes on unranked Tod Herring of Houston Tuesday night in a 10-round boxing match.

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Shortstop Ed Brinkman hit a grand slam home run and two singles Saturday as the Washington Senators defeated the Milwaukee Braves 8-0 in their opening exhibition game.

The Braves only hit was a single by Denis Menke in the sixth inning off Carl Bouldin, second of three Washington pitchers.

Claude Osteen started for the Senators and retired the nine batters he faced. Jim Hannan pitched the last three innings and walked one.

Cards Beat Mets

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals, held to one pop single for four innings, scored all their runs in the fifth for a 5-1 victory over the New York Mets Saturday in their Grapefruit League opener.

The Cards bunched six of their nine hits in the decisive inning when right-hander Tracy Stallard tired. Jack Fischer, who replaced Stallard, balked home the final run.

Ray Sadecki, Cardinal southpaw, who gave up an unearned run in the fifth, doubled home the first two Cardinal runs. He and Bob Gibson did not give up a hit after Ernie Broglio was touched for four safeties in the first three innings.

Coleman Leads Reds

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Gordon Coleman led the Cincinnati Reds to a 6-2 exhibition victory Saturday over the Chicago White Sox with two doubles and two singles.

The Reds hopped on starter Ray Herbert for four runs and added two more off rookie southpaw Frank Kreutzer.

The victory went to veteran Joe Nuxhall, who worked the first three innings and turned in five strikeouts.

Santo Hits Homer

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Third baseman Ron Santo's first spring home run climaxed a five-run fifth inning as the Chicago Cubs overcame a three-run deficit and defeated the Cleveland Indians 9-8 Saturday.

Pedro Ramos was the victim of the Chicagoans' biggest inning of the Cactus League season as the Cubs made it four straight victories for a 6-1 spring record.

Cleveland scored three runs in the first and two in the second as Max Alvis hit the first of two homers and Wally Post homered off rookie Wayne Carlander. Alvis' second homer was a three-run shot off Don Elston, third Chicago pitcher, in the seventh.

After picking up single runs in the second and third innings, the Cubs roughed Ramos as Billy Ott singled for one run and Billy Williams doubled for two more before Santo connected.

Yogi Loses Opener

FORT LAUNDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Yogi Berra's managerial debut was a failure Saturday as the New York Yankees dropped their exhibition baseball opener to the Baltimore Orioles 3-1.

The American League champions were held to six hits by three Baltimore right-handers in Hank Bauer's bow as Orioles manager.

Whitey Ford was the loser, giving up two runs in the third inning, one on a homer by Luis Aparicio.

The New York run, against starter and winner Milt Pappas in the third inning, was unearned.

Wally Bunker, 19 - year-old rookie, held the Yanks hitless over the middle three innings and Dick Hall allowed two hits over the last three.

Aparicio's homer followed by Sam Bowen's double and a single by Norm Siebern gave Baltimore its two runs off Ford.

A crowd 6,712 was present in windy, sunny weather. Berra played the Yankee regulars a maximum of four innings. Mickey Mantle started the game and was hitless in two tries but had no trouble with his legs.

HR's Power Colts

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Four home runs powered the Houston Colts to a 10-9 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Saturday as the teams opened their exhibition baseball season.

Each collected 12 hits. The Phillies also had three homers.

The other homers for the Colts came from Walter Bond, John Weekly and Jim Wynn.

Rookie third baseman Richie Allen was the hitting star for the Phillies with a homer and two singles.

Debut For Marichal

EL PASO, Texas (AP)—Juan Marichal, 25-game winner last season for the San Francisco Giants, made his debut a winning one Saturday as his National League baseball club beat Boston 4-3.

Marichal worked three innings, threw 26 pitches, faced a minimum of nine men and picked off Frank Malzone, the only Sox batter to get a hit off him.

The win was the Giants' sixth in seven outings. The Red Sox lost their sixth out of seven.

All three Boston runs came in the seventh off rookie Ron Herbel, who relieved Marichal in the fourth and pitched good ball up to the seventh. Carl Yastrzemski, Malzone and Dick Stuart singled and Bob Tillman doubled.

Tigers Over Twins

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Bill Roman, rookie first baseman, smashed a two-run double in the ninth inning that gave the Detroit Tigers a 3-2 victory over the Minnesota Twins in the Grapefruit League opener Saturday.

Roman, who drove in all three Detroit runs, slammed a drive to the right field wall off Chuck Nieson, third Minnesota pitcher, with the bases filled in the ninth.

Rookie Tony Oliva hit a home run with one on for the Minnesota runs.

The victory went to Fred Gladding, fourth Detroit pitcher, and Nieson was the loser.

Frank Lary pitched the first three innings for the Tigers, allowing just one scratch hit, striking out two and walking none.

Pirates Rout Athletics

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates opened their exhibition schedule with a bang Saturday, slamming 17 hits, including three homers, in a 14-1 rout of the Kansas City Athletics.

Gene Alley, Donn Clendenon and Willie Stargell each hit two-run homers. Alley and Clendenon drove in four runs apiece and Stargel accounted for three.

The Pirates held only a 2-0 lead after six innings but slammed Vern Handrahan, a rookie right-hander, for four runs in the seventh. Then they drove him from the mound with an eight-run assault in the eighth.

Bob Veale and Tom Butters pitched the first six innings for Pittsburgh and held the A's scoreless. Bob Blass yielded the A's lone run in the seventh.

Angeles Win In 10th

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) —The Los Angeles Angels came up with two runs in the bottom of the 10th inning to defeat the Cleveland Indians 4-3 Saturday.

Pinchhitters Frank Kostero and Jim Fregosi socked the singles that tied and won the game.

The Indians broke a 2-2 deadlock in the top of the 10th when Tommy Agee scored Al Smith with a sacrifice fly. Smith, who opened the inning with a single, moved to third base on a single by Leon Wagner. It was Wagner's first hit in two spring games against his former teammates.

Jay Fined By Reds

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Manager Fred Hutchinson of the Cincinnati Reds said he fined pitcher Joey Jay Saturday for taking an unauthorized leave from spring training camp.

Hutchinson would not say how much the fine was, but it was reportedly in excess of $200.

"If he wins 30 games for us this season, we'll refund the entire amount to him," Hutchinson said.

Jay still refused to say why he left the camp Thursday.

"I was forced to take leave for a personal reason," he said. He went to his home in Cincinnati, and flew back to Tampa Friday night.

Alston Wants Power; Howard Might Play

VERO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Whether or not the Los Angeles Dodgers have to defend their world championship without slugger Frank Howard, Manager Walt Alston already is resigned to making the battle with a squad smaller than his rivals will have.

The final word on Howard may not be in yet.

The big outfielder says at his home he has "too many personal problems" to play baseball this year, but the suspicion lingers here that Howard still may be in uniform by opening day.

Be that as it may, Alston already knows that he will have to plan his battles this summer with only 21 men instead of the 25 allowed by baseball law.

"It's going to be tough," Alston admitted, noting that he will be saddled with four bonus youngsters who will count against the club's 25 - man player limit. But in the next breath he says he is banking on gilt - edged pitching to win for the Dodgers again.

"We might have more punch, too," he predicted.

"We had a lot of trouble scoring runs last year," Alston said. "And there's no question that pitching won it for us. But it would be nice if we could give those pitchers a little more working margin."

For one thing, Alston said, there's Willie Davis, who could "take up where he left off last season." And if 6-7 Howard, who had 28 homers playing on a platoon system last year, does come back, Alston plans to play him "every day" and thinks his batting fault of lunging at the ball "can be corrected."

After a slow start in 1963, Willie Davis came along fast and was a Dodger batting star in the World Series, which the Dodgers took from the Yankees in four straight.

"Willie has to learn to punch the ball more," Alston explained. "If he can start to hit to the opposite field once in awhile, it will help him a lot.

"He's been hitting everything to right and that means that despite his great speed he has little chance to beat out ground balls for hits. But he would keep the second baseman and third baseman playing honest if he crossed them up now and then. The way it has been, the second baseman can position himself perfectly and the third baseman can play in close to guard against bunt attempts."

Alston does not go along with those who think the Los Angeles pitching sluffs off after starters Sandy Koufax, Don Drysdale and Johnny Podres, relief ace Ron Perranoski and Bob Miller, a starter and a reliever.

Alston will shift Miller into a starting rotation if Larry Sherry, who saw limited service in 1963, regains his old form.

"It looks like Larry is going to come back," Alston continued. "If he does, he could be in the bullpen, freeing Miller for starts. Or Miller may stay in the bullpen and Sherry might start."

His other pitching candidates include Pete Richert, Joe Moeller, Phil Ortega, Nick Willhite and Dick Calmus, a bonus baby the Dodgers had to carry last year.

"I'm not concerned about finding a fourth starter for the potential is here," Alston said. "I'm more concerned about coming up with a little more power and the fact that we will not have the maneuverability we had last year because we have to count those four players against our player limit.

"But I see no reason why we shouldn't win again."

West Coast Will Offer Ample List Of Derby Colts

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—California-raced 3-year-olds, headed by Hill Rise, will not be lacking in numbers in the parade to the post for the Kentucky Derby May 2.

It appears that perhaps six or seven colts will be in the fabled run for the roses, including the Santa Anita Derby winner, Hill Rise.

Hill Rise's trainer, 73-year-old Bill Finnegan, and Pope have not decided on the colt's prederby program. Possibly Hill Rise will start preparations at Keeneland, but then again their candidate may go in the Stepping Stone or Derby Trial at Churchill.

Rex C. Ellsworth, whose Swaps won the derby in 1956, feels his newest hope, The Scoundrel, definitely needs more seasoning. The colt raced only twice this year but the stable thinks he is of derby caliber.

Mira's Receiver Inks Boston Pact

BOSTON (AP)—Nick Spinelli, who was George Mira's favorite passing target at Miami of Florida for three seasons, has signed with the Boston Patriots of the American Football League, it was announced Saturday.

Spinelli, from Coraopolis, Pa., ranked seventh nationally in pass receptions last fall. He is a flanker back.

TO LAND BOUTON

Didn't Pull Trick, Says Ralph Houk

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Ralph Houk, general manager of the New York Yankees, denied Saturday that he tricked pitcher Jim Bouton into ending his holdout and said he, Houk, should be fired if he did.

The Yankee executive issued a formal statement in reply to a charge that he used unauthorized pressure to force Bouton into signing. He said his original ultimatum to Bouton of a $100-a-day penalty had been misinterpreted.

Dick Young, writing in the New York Daily News, said Houk's action was taken despite a warning from Commissioner Ford Frick that such a move was not legal.

Houk presented his position with a formal statement after the Yankees lost their first exhibition game of the year to the Baltimore Orioles, 3-1.

He said:

"I should be fired myself if I did anything like that. I called Commissioner Frick at Bel Air, Fla., and he told me I could not fine an unsigned player but that I could reduce the contract offer. That's what I did and the commissioner approved.

"I re-negotiated the contract, which Frick said I had a right to do. I explained this to Bouton and he understands exactly what happened."

The incident resulted from a holdout by Bouton, a 25-year-old right-hander who won 21 games and lost seven for the Yankees last season.

Bouton demanded a 100 per cent raise over his 1963 salary of $10,000. Houk refused to go higher than 80 per cent, or $18,000.

The general managed threatened to deduct $100 from the offer for every day that Bouton stayed away from camp after midnight last Wednesday.

Lion Cinder Squad Hosts 5 Team Meet

Ouachita High School's 1964 track schedule has the Lions competing in eight meets, including three at the new home facilities at Lion Stadium.

Kicking off the season will be a five team contest Tuesday with Neville, Winnfield, Minden, and West Monroe invading the Lion lair. The event will be the first of the year in the Twin Cities and the first ever at Ouachita.

Runway and pit construction at Lion Stadium has been delayed because of recent wet weather, forcing the pole vault, high jump, long jump, and hop-step-jump events to be held at the Northeast track.

These events will get under way at 12:30 p.m. The running contests will start at 2:10 on the Lion cinders.

Bo Herring, Ouachita track mentor, has adopted a "wait and see" attitude toward the coming season.

"We've had only a few boys out for any length of time, most have been involved in basketball or spring football, so we haven't had time to see how they're going to shape up," he said.

"I feel that the team will probably be weak, but here will be some events where we can run with the rest of the pack."

"This is the first year Ouachita has had its own track, so our program isn't as developed as most of the schools we'll be running against," Herring concluded.

At this stage the Lion relay team of Don Powell, Jerry and Perry Eppinette, and Kenneth Slusher appears to be the best bet for winning points according to Herring.

Lynn Artt, hurdler, Larry Lolly, discus, and Harry Carsey at shot-put appear to be the outstanding Lions at their specialties Herring said.

Innes Ireland Garners Early Roadway Prize

Ireland was driving for the first time since he crashed at Seattle five months ago. Because of the weather, the race was reduced from 50 to 35 laps of a twisting course.

Jo Bonnier of Sweden was second in a Cooper in 1:13:13.4 and Bruce McLaren of New Zealand, also driving a Cooper, was third in 1:13:56.4. Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Calif., was fourth in a Centrosud BRM in 1:14:29.6.

World champion Jim Clark of Scotland was forced out by mechanical troubles on the 20th lap. Former world champions Jack Brabham of Austrlia and Graham Hill of England spun off the track. American driver Peter Revson, son of a New York cosmetics manufacturer, spun out on the 23rd lap when he was in fifth place.

Lions Roar Over Nicholls State In 8-2 Victory

THIBODAUX, La. (AP) — First baseman Lamar Labauve Saturday socked a grand slam home run in the second to spark Southeastern Louisiana to an 8-2 victory over Nicholls State.

Kirt Chaisson, the starter who went six innings, got the victory—the first for SLC against one defeat. It was the season opener for Nicholls.

GRAMBLING (Special)— Grambling College relay teams reduced touted Southern University, Arkansas AM&N, and Alcorn foursomes to the status of serfs Saturday by zooming to one - sided victories in the 440, 880, and mile relays in spectacular times.

With rain falling in a fine steady mist, Coach Tom Williams' sensational 440 yard relay quartet of Don Meadows, Richard Stebbins, Vernus Ragsdale, and Don Owens lowered their best previous effort with a 40.3 clocking, three-tenths of a second off the world record around two turns.

Continuing the assault in the 880, Grambling flashed down the final straight - away in 1:24.9 with the same sprinters breaking the tape in full flight.

In an estimate of the quartet's potential, Williams said he is confident that they will crack the world 440 record this spring.

The event was run in a downpour with Southern and Arkansas in a determined chase. Melvin Bonds, Douglas Banks, Willie Lewis, and Owens ran an effortless race.

"Under ideal conditions we'll hit 3:10.2," Williams said thoughtfully after the race.

Relays over shadowed the other events, particularly in view of the national attention Grambling engendered by beating Texas Southern in the 440 and 880 relays Feb. 22 in the Gulf Federation Meet at Houston.

Tiger relay stars had to share the spotlight with high jumper Richard Ross of Southern. Participating coaches eyed him covetously as he leaped 6-10 and had a near miss at seven feet.

Ross was easily the most outstanding individual performer.

Southern won the mile, shot put, 100 and 880 yard dashes, the three mile, and the javline.

Addison Bijou, a rangy discus thrower, tossed the oval 160 feet for Grambling, Anthony Jones jogged to a 49.5 in the 440 yard dash, and the Tigers settled for a two way tie in the pole vault.

Arkansas took top honors in the long jump. Alcorn was completely shut out as the Indians failed to win a single event.

Other States Think Ahead

Plan For Outdoors

"America Needs Outdoor Recreation—Act Now To Provide For The Future."

That's the theme of National Wildlife Week, sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation, beginning today through March 21st throughout the nation.

Primarily, the National Wildlife Federation is trying to focus attention on what it considers one of the basic needs in America — plans for the outdoor explosion ahead.

In Louisiana, the Louisiana Wildlife Federation is sponsoring National Wildlife Week, proclaimed by Gov. Jimmie H. Davis. Locally, the Ouachita Wildlife Unit has an exhibit on DeSiard Street, placing the spotlight on the program.

Basically, sportsmen are trying to make the public realize that we need to plan ahead for the great pressure on the outdoors expected to come within the next few years.

Surveys show that by the year 2000 our population will double, yet the demand on over-all outdoor recreation is expected to triple. If Louisiana is to be in shape to cope with the demands of the future, we need to start planning now.

And it's important that Louisiana does plan ahead, because the outdoor business is a big business in our state. We have over 300,000 hunters and over a million fishermen.

Just think of what that represents in terms of dollars and cents. The Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission estimates that our outdoor industry is an $86-million industry annually.

That much money is spent on hunting and fishing in Louisiana each year.

Yet, Louisiana has not made plans for the future. Other states have.

For instance, New York passed a $75-million bond issue to finance a large - scale outdoor recreation land acquisition and development program including matching grants to local governments. That was in 1960. In 1962, New York voters approved an additional $25 million worth of bonds for outdoor recreation land acquisition.

In New Jersey, the voters in 1961 approved a $60-million bond issue for land acquisition and grants to local government. Wisconsin, in 1961, floated a $50-million bond issue for the outdoors.

Other states have followed suit. Pennsylvania has launched a comprehensive land acquisition program, calling for the investment of $70 million by 1970, including $40 million for regional parks near urban areas, $20 million for grants to local governments and $10 million for wildlife areas and hunting and fishing access.

And in Florida, the people recently approved Gov. Farris Bryant's outdoor recreation program, which established a recreation land acquisition trust fund, to be financed by a 5 per cent excise tax on outdoor recreation equipment, proceeds from sale or lease of state lands, motorboat license fees, recreation area user fees and any revenue bonds subsequently approved by Florida voters.

Minnesota, Connecticut, Ohio, Washington and California have programs going to provide recreation areas for the future.

Louisiana does not.

While the fisherman should be in good shape for a long time to come in Louisiana, the hunter of our state faces a serious problem — the loss of available land.

Everywhere we are seeing our swamplands converted into farmlands.

Fortunately, the state now has purchased its second wildlife management area — the 50,000 acres in LaSalle and Catahoula, preceeded by the Russell Sage Wildlife Management Area near Monroe.

In addition, Cheniere Lake, owned by Ouachita Parish, and Lake D'Arbonne, built by the state, are excellent examples of what can be done for the public. Their importance will really come into focus as our more money.

This is good, but what we need in this state is a study to develop a long-range plan for the outdoors — the study to be conducted by representatives of government, business, industry and labor.

We think this approach could be conducted by the Wild Life & Fisheries Commission, Department of Public Works, Parks & Recreation Commission, Louisiana Wildlife Federation, joined by business, industry and labor.

A program could be designed to determine our needs for hunting areas, fishing areas, water areas and park areas. This, of course would cost money, but chances are much of the revenue could be raised by correcting wrongs in our present system.

Louisiana needs to plan ahead for the outdoors. We can't think of a better time to start than right now.

Lake D'Arbonne Developing

Lake D'Arbonne at Farmerville is developing rapidly and by now the lake should be completely filled with water. It was 1.2 feet from being filled on Friday.

The D'Arbonne Lake Commission has appointed a committee to work with the Wild Life & Fisheries Commission on the establishment of hunting regulations on the lake.

About 250 sites for duck blinds will be set aside by the committee.

Naturally, land around the lake is selling at a premium, although there is an ample amount of property left for sale to persons insterested in building a camp on D'Arbonne.

However, there are two developments forthcoming in regards to the lake that are worthy of watching. For one thing, the commission members now serving will go off the commission when the new administration takes office in May in Baton Rouge.

Chairman Armand Raburn, who has done an outstanding job along with his fellow commission members, informs us the law provides for a brand new commission in personnel.

It will be of utmost importance that qualified men are appointed to succeed those presently serving.

In addition, Armand Raybun says a bill will be introduced in the Legislature permitting the commission to levy a one-mill tax in both Union and Lincoln parishes to provide about $250,000 annually for the development of the lake.

Funds are needed for the lake to be administered on a local level. The commission, under the law, does not have any money to spend.

With proper guidance in the future, Lake D'Arbonne will become the biggest asset in the immediate Monroe area.

Little Man's Corner

Despite the unpredictable weather the fishing has been good and the little men made news afield.

At Black Bayou, Johnny Danna of Monroe landed 36 specs while James Cummings repeated again, landing two big bass that went 5¼ pounds and 7½ pounds.

Darrell Johnson, a local sportsman, caught a 7½-pound bass on a pole with a shiner.

Tommy Burdeaux of Monroe caught 43 specs and Gene Hackett of West Monroe got 30. But Jerry Johnson topped them all with a catch of 50 crappie.

But the best story of the week comes from Otis Hassell of Winnsboro. Otis reports that following the big rains at Lake Bruin fish were moving from a bayou into the lake. So a black Cocker Spaniel owned by Elmer McConley went fishing on his own and caught two perch and a 5-pound German carp.

Also from Winnsboro, O. L. Todd got to go fishing and he and Donnie Smith landed 13 bass at Mean's Lake. The largest one weighed 6 pounds.

W. T. Faulkner and his son Mickey also got the limit of bass in Concordia.

At the Blue Hole, Warren Roden of Waterproof landed the limit of white perch while Jake Townsley of Monroe caught the limit of bream in Lake St. John.

But the biggest bass reported this week came from East Carroll where Robert Frith of Transylvania caught a 9-lb., 7-oz. bass with a cane pole and a minnow at Hollybrook.

WILL HELP WEAKER CLUBS

Ford Frick Seeking Draft Similar To Pro Football's

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Commissioner Ford Frick is touring the major league baseball camps, sounding out opinion on a uniform player draft roughly comparable to the pro football leagues' draft system.

When Frick completes his swing, he will attempt to draft a rule that will incorporate suggestions he has heard from general managers, owners and players.

"The purpose will be to help the lower clubs," said Frick in an impromptu interview in a dugout at the Philadelphia Phillies' training camp. "We must be sure that we do not deny any boy the right to negotiate or the right to advance freely.

"The club that drafts a player will have the right to negotiate for a limited time. What the limited time will be is the $64 question. There are many questions to be answered. But it can be done and it will be done somehow."

The rough draft of the plan would call for a draft of all high school graduates in May or June of their senior year. The number to be drafted still is to be decided. A subsequent draft of American Legion junior players and college boys would be held at a later date.

"Did you know that baseball now is paying the way for 180 boys in college," said Frick.

"These are boys who have signed professional contracts and are playing pro ball. They realize that they are ineligible for college sports but want to continue their education."

Under an agreement between the colleges and the majors, no club can sign an athlete who is playing college sports until after the close of his sophomore year. Eventually they make it the end of his senior.

Baseball subsidized a summer college league in Illinois last year and plans to back two similar leagues this year. With a $50,000 subsidy the pros take care of the team's deficits, uniforms and traveling expenses. The players, still eligible for care of the team's deficits, uniforms and traveling expenses.

In this way a boy can get solid baseball experience in the summer and still retain his eligibility while letting pro scouts look him over. Because of weather conditions most colleges run a very limited baseball program of their own in the spring.

147 NOMINATED

Top Field Slated For Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP) — Northern Dancer and Hill Rise, intersectional rivals for 3-year-old racing honors, head the list of 147 horses nominated Saturday for the 88th running of the Preakness at Pimlico Race Course May 16.

America's richest race for 3-year - olds is expected to be worth almost $200,000.

Windfield Farm's Northern Dancer, winner of the $138,200 Flamingo Stakes earlier this month, never has been out of the money, and has won eight of 11 starts.

Just as the Canadian - bred Northern Dancer has ruled the 3-year-olds in Florida, El Peco Ranch's Hill Rise been the class of the West Coast. He has won six races in a row, including the recent $132,400 Santa Anita Derby.

Both are currently idle, but other Preakness eligibles will be turning up in competition.

Calumet Farm's late-developing pair of Ky. Pioneer and Kentucky Jug been nominated. Calumet, the leading Preakness owner with six victories, also nominated Full Well and Real Change.

Rokeby Stable's Quadrangle, another nominee, is due to race in Bowie's $75,000 Governor's Gold Cup on March 21.

Roman Brother, the leading money-winning 2 - year - old of 1963, is one of three colts entered by Harbor View Farm. The others are Group Leader and Irvkup.

Rex C. Ellsworth, who won last year's Preakness with Candy Spots, has nominated The Scoundrel this year.

Tosmah, the champion 2-year-old filly last year and a daughter of 1958 Preakness winner Tim Tam, and Blue Norther were the only fillies nominated. Only four fillies have ever won the Preakness, and none since 1924.

Intercollegiate Golf Invitational Opens Thursday

LAKE CHARLES (Special) — Defending champion Paul (Buddy) Short of the University of Southwestern Louisiana leads a field of about 60 golfers into the sixth annual Lake Charles Intercollegiate Inviation tournament opening Thursday.

McNeese State is host school for the 54-hole event to be played at the Lake Charles Golf and Country Club through Friday. It's a par 72 course measuring 6365 yards.

Ellis R. Guillory, McNeese dean of students and tournament director, says play is scheduled to open at 8:30 a.m. Thursday with an 18-hole round. day. The final round, taking in the front nine holes, will start at 1:30 p.m.

Action resumes with another 18-hole round at 8:30 a.m. Friday. The final roond, taking in the back nine, is on tap for Friday afternoon.

Teams expected to enter are Louisiana Tech, McNeese, Northeast Louisiana, Northwestern State and USL of the Gulf States Conference, plus Centenary, Nicholls State and Tulane of Louisiana, along with East Texas State, defending champion Lamar Tech, Sam Houston, Southwest Texas and Stephen F. Austin of Texas.

Short edged Northeast's Jimmy Warren in the first extra hole of a playoff for the individual title last year. They had tied with seven-over par 223 totals for the 54 holes. Warren will be back to duel Short again this year.

With veterans Chip Lyman, one of the better players in the GSC, and Ken Renwick also on hand, Northeast could make a strong bid to become the tournament's first non-Texas team champion. The Indians placed second, 31 strokes behind Lamar's 908 team total last year.

CROWE DRILLS BASEBALLERS

Tribe Has Sluggers, Lack Pitching Depth

Northeast State Baseball Coach George Luffey began last season with a veteran pitching staff and a lack of proven hitters. This year he has the hitters but must rebuild his mound staff.

The Indian baseball team, now working out under Assistant Coach Dickie Crowe while Luffey is occupied with spring football practice, has last year's seven top hitters back in action but only one pitcher who hurled more than one inning in 1963.

All - Gulf States Conference pitcher Ed Quimby, Jerry Godwin, Bobby Lockwood and Lynn Causey — the 1963 team's top starters — plus Ronnie Davies and David Whitworth are missing this year.

However, Luffey believes he has the nucleus of a good staff in Bob Rachal, all-conference in 1962; Floyd Murry, the top returnee from last year; and Dean Bounds, a junior college mound star.

Rachal had a 5-2 record with an earned run average of 3.33 in 1962. Then the former Menard of Alexandria star was stricken by cancer, underwent an operation and was about to complete an amazing comeback last season when he broke an ankle and missed the entire campaign. Now recovered, he could be one of the league's best hurlers.

Murry was 1-0 last year as a freshman. The former Bastrop ace had control troubles but exhibited good stuff and, with a year's experience under his belt, could develop into a top-flight starter.

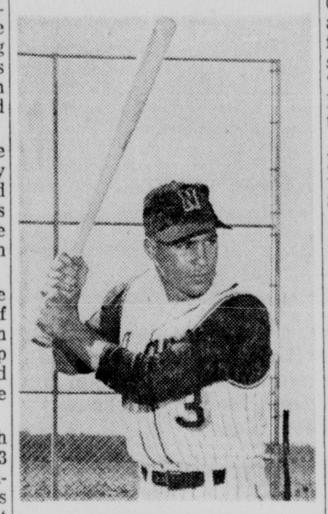

Bounds, former ace at Fair Park of Shreveport, won eight games and lost three at Panola (Tex.) Junior College last year. The lefthander is probably the hardest thrower on the squad.

The team's fourth starter could be Glynn Saulters, who was all-state in both basketball and baseball last year at Lisbon. Saulters, however underwent a knee operation recently and will be late rounding into shape.

Other contenders for the fourth starting job are Darryl Barnes, ex-Ouachita ace who has thrown well in practice; Mike Tinnerello and Butch McMillan—the only other southpaws on the squad besides Bounds — of last year's staff; and Mike Vining and Rich Bailey, both of whom can also play the outfield.

The team has three sophomores who batted over .300 last year and made the all-GSC team. They are outfielders Alton Thomas and Red Hall and catcher Eddie Kincaid.

Shreveporter Thomas, a football halfback, led the league in hitting with a .371 mark (he hit .404 in league play) and set a GSC record with 11 stolen bases in conference games. Hall, former Bolton star, led the circuit in home runs with nine and tied for first in RBIs with 28 and hit .302, while Kincaid, the Monroe catcher, batted. 303.

ALTON THOMAS
. . . All-GSC Soph

Charley Dykes of West Monroe, who boosted his averaged 82 points to .284, returns at third and versatile John Pace (.256) returns to the outfield after spending last season at first. Freshman Marvin Brossett, who hit .512 at Menard in '63, and Jim Caskey, former Kilgore (Tex.) J. C. player, are the top first base prospects.

At short, Fair Park all-stater David Worthington will open with Bobby Leake, all-state at St. Francisville, ahead of veterans Keith Prince, who started and hit .256 last year, and Joey McGinn at second.

Northeast opens its season March 23 at Auburn University and plays its first home game April 1 against the University of Arkansas.

The April 1 game with Arkansas, as well as a game the next day with the same club, will be played at Legion Stadium beginning at 7:30 p.m. Monroe Mayor Jack Howard will throw out the first ball before what is expected to be the largest crowd to see a Northeast baseball game in several years.

All other home games will be played on a new diamond behind the Wossman Recreation Center on Westminster Avenue and begin at 1:30 p.m.

Quarterbacks Shine In Tribe Scrimmage

Northeast State wound up its next - to - last week of spring football practice Saturday with a scrimmage that produced three touchdowns.

Quarterbacks had a hand in all three scores. Dee Faircloth of the Red unit tossed a nine-yard pass to end Charles Rohner to cap a 76 - yard drive that opened the scrimmage and later circled end for five yards and another.

Faircloth ran for two PATs and halfback Alton Thomas ran for the two - pointer after Garrison's TD.

The first touchdown came against the Whites, the other two were scored against the Gold unit.

Coach Dixie White said after the scrimmage that the team would spend its final week of workouts polishing up both offense and defense.

"We'd like to have two more weeks of work instead of one," White said. "We looked pretty sloppy the first half but better the second. I can't say I'm pleased or displeased—about 50-50 I suppose."

The Indians end spring work next Saturday afternoon with a 3:15 scrimmage that will also conclude the annual Northeast State Coaching Clinic for high school coaches. Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles and four members of his staff will be the guest lecturers.

LOUISIANA DERBY

Princess Nips Pride At Wire

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Grecian Princess, a filly and a 28-1 shot, caught favorite Whit's Pride at the wire and won the $47,300 Louisiana Derby by a neck Saturday.

The 39th running of the Derby signalled the end of the Fair Grounds racing meet.

Grecian Princess, a chestnut filly owned by Theodore B. Buhl, Detroit, returned a whopping $60 to $2 win bettors. She paid $12.40 to place and $5.80 to show.

Jockey Kelly Broussard guided the Hesion-Princess Lisa miss over the 1⅛ mile in 1:50 4-5.

Whit's Pride, ridden by Ismael Valenzuela who flew in especially to ride Mrs. Goldie Finkelstein's colt, and Susan's Gent, the second choice of the 15,109 bettors, dueled for the lead until the half-mile post when Susan's Gent broke down.

Grecian Princess moved up to second at the three-quarter pole and then caught Whit's Pride at the finish. I Owe was third.

Grecian Princess, picking up $33,300 for her victory, became the second filly to win Louisiana's "Run for the Orchids."

Caroline A won the Fair Grounds' top offering for 3-year-olds in 1947.

Grecian Princess had won only one other race this year. She took a 6-furlong allowance event at the New Orleans oval Feb. 1.

In 1963, the Filly won three of her 14 starts and picked up a total of $16,486.

The victory established Grecian Princess as a prime contender for top filly stakes at other tracks, including the Kentucky Oaks, the distaff counterpart of the Kentucky Derby.

Other States Think Ahead

With Sam Hanna

Plan For Outdoors

"America Needs Outdoor Recreation—Act Now To Provide For The Future."

That's the theme of National Wildlife Week, sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation, beginning today through March 21st throughout the nation.

Primarily, the National Wildlife Federation is trying to focus attention on what it considers one of the basic needs in America — plans for the outdoor explosion ahead.

In Louisiana, the Louisiana Wildlife Federation is sponsoring National Wildlife Week, proclaimed by Gov. Jimmie H. Davis. Locally, the Ouachita Wildlife Unit has an exhibit on DeSiard Street, placing the spotlight on the program.

Basically, sportsmen are trying to make the public realize that we need to plan ahead for the great pressure on the outdoors expected to come within the next few years.

Surveys show that by the year 2000 our population will double, yet the demand on over-all outdoor recreation is expected to triple. If Louisiana is to be in shape to cope with the demands of the future, we need to start planning now.

And it's important that Louisiana does plan ahead, because the outdoor business is a big business in our state. We have over 300,000 hunters and over a million fishermen.

Just think of what that represents in terms of dollars and cents. The Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission estimates that our outdoor industry is an $86-million industry annually.

That much money is spent on hunting and fishing in Louisiana each year.

Yet, Louisiana has not made plans for the future. Other states have.

For instance, New York passed a $75-million bond issue to finance a large - scale outdoor recreation land acquisition and development program including matching grants to local governments. That was in 1960. In 1962, New York voters approved an additional $25 million worth of bonds for outdoor recreation land acquisition.

In New Jersey, the voters in 1961 approved a $60-million bond issue for land acquisition and grants to local government. Wisconsin, in 1961, floated a $50-million bond issue for the outdoors.

Other states have followed suit. Pennsylvania has launched a comprehensive land acquisition program, calling for the investment of $70 million by 1970, including $40 million for regional parks near urban areas, $20 million for grants to local governments and $10 million for wildlife areas and hunting and fishing access.

And in Florida, the people recently approved Gov. Farris Bryant's outdoor recreation program, which established a recreation land acquisition trust fund, to be financed by a 5 per cent excise tax on outdoor recreation equipment, proceeds from sale or lease of state lands, motorboat license fees, recreation area user fees and any revenue bonds subsequently approved by Florida voters.

Minnesota, Connecticut, Ohio, Washington and California have programs going to provide recreation areas for the future.

Louisiana does not.

While the fisherman should be in good shape for a long time to come in Louisiana, the hunter of our state faces a serious problem — the loss of available land.

Everywhere we are seeing our swamplands converted into farmlands.

Fortunately, the state now has purchased its second wildlife management area — the 50,000 acres in LaSalle and Catahoula, preceeded by the Russell Sage Wildlife Management Area near Monroe.

In addition, Cheniere Lake, owned by Ouachita Parish, and Lake D'Arbonne, built by the state, are excellent examples of what can be done for the public. Their importance will really come into focus as our more money.

This is good, but what we need in this state is a study to develop a long-range plan for the outdoors — the study to be conducted by representatives of government, business, industry and labor.

We think this approach could be conducted by the Wild Life & Fisheries Commission, Department of Public Works, Parks & Recreation Commission, Louisiana Wildlife Federation, joined by business, industry and labor.

A program could be designed to determine our needs for hunting areas, fishing areas, water areas and park areas. This, of course would cost money, but chances are much of the revenue could be raised by correcting wrongs in our present system.

Louisiana needs to plan ahead for the outdoors. We can't think of a better time to start than right now.

Lake D'Arbonne Developing

Lake D'Arbonne at Farmerville is developing rapidly and by now the lake should be completely filled with water. It was 1.2 feet from being filled on Friday.

The D'Arbonne Lake Commission has appointed a committee to work with the Wild Life & Fisheries Commission on the establishment of hunting regulations on the lake.

About 250 sites for duck blinds will be set aside by the committee.

Naturally, land around the lake is selling at a premium, although there is an ample amount of property left for sale to persons insterested in building a camp on D'Arbonne.

However, there are two developments forthcoming in regards to the lake that are worthy of watching. For one thing, the commission members now serving will go off the commission when the new administration takes office in May in Baton Rouge.

Chairman Armand Raburn, who has done an outstanding job along with his fellow commission members, informs us the law provides for a brand new commission in personnel.

It will be of utmost importance that qualified men are appointed to succeed those presently serving.

In addition, Armand Raybun says a bill will be introduced in the Legislature permitting the commission to levy a one-mill tax in both Union and Lincoln parishes to provide about $250,000 annually for the development of the lake.

Funds are needed for the lake to be administered on a local level. The commission, under the law, does not have any money to spend.

With proper guidance in the future, Lake D'Arbonne will become the biggest asset in the immediate Monroe area.

Little Man's Corner

Despite the unpredictable weather the fishing has been good and the little men made news afield.

At Black Bayou, Johnny Danna of Monroe landed 36 specs while James Cummings repeated again, landing two big bass that went 5¼ pounds and 7½ pounds.

Darrell Johnson, a local sportsman, caught a 7½-pound bass on a pole with a shiner.

Tommy Burdeaux of Monroe caught 43 specs and Gene Hackett of West Monroe got 30. But Jerry Johnson topped them all with a catch of 50 crappie.

But the best story of the week comes from Otis Hassell of Winnsboro. Otis reports that following the big rains at Lake Bruin fish were moving from a bayou into the lake. So a black Cocker Spaniel owned by Elmer McConley went fishing on his own and caught two perch and a 5-pound German carp.

Also from Winnsboro, O. L. Todd got to go fishing and he and Donnie Smith landed 13 bass at Mean's Lake. The largest one weighed 6 pounds.

W. T. Faulkner and his son Mickey also got the limit of bass in Concordia.

At the Blue Hole, Warren Roden of Waterproof landed the limit of white perch while Jake Townsley of Monroe caught the limit of bream in Lake St. John.

But the biggest bass reported this week came from East Carroll where Robert Frith of Transylvania caught a 9-lb., 7-oz. bass with a cane pole and a minnow at Hollybrook.

WILL HELP WEAKER CLUBS

Ford Frick Seeking Draft Similar To Pro Football's

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Commissioner Ford Frick is touring the major league baseball camps, sounding out opinion on a uniform player draft roughly comparable to the pro football leagues' draft system.

When Frick completes his swing, he will attempt to draft a rule that will incorporate suggestions he has heard from general managers, owners and players.

"The purpose will be to help the lower clubs," said Frick in an impromptu interview in a dugout at the Philadelphia Phillies' training camp. "We must be sure that we do not deny any boy the right to negotiate or the right to advance freely.

"The club that drafts a player will have the right to negotiate for a limited time. What the limited time will be is the $64 question. There are many questions to be answered. But it can be done and it will be done somehow."

The rough draft of the plan would call for a draft of all high school graduates in May or June of their senior year. The number to be drafted still is to be decided. A subsequent draft of American Legion junior players and college boys would be held at a later date.

"Did you know that baseball now is paying the way for 180 boys in college," said Frick.

"These are boys who have signed professional contracts and are playing pro ball. They realize that they are ineligible for college sports but want to continue their education."

Under an agreement between the colleges and the majors, no club can sign an athlete who is playing college sports until after the close of his sophomore year. Eventually they make it the end of his senior.

Baseball subsidized a summer college league in Illinois last year and plans to back two similar leagues this year. With a $50,000 subsidy the pros take care of the team's deficits, uniforms and traveling expenses. The players, still eligible for care of the team's deficits, uniforms and traveling expenses.

In this way a boy can get solid baseball experience in the summer and still retain his eligibility while letting pro scouts look him over. Because of weather conditions most colleges run a very limited baseball program of their own in the spring.

Top Field Slated For Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP) — Northern Dancer and Hill Rise, intersectional rivals for 3-year-old racing honors, head the list of 147 horses nominated Saturday for the 88th running of the Preakness at Pimlico Race Course May 16.

America's richest race for 3-year - olds is expected to be worth almost $200,000.

Windfield Farm's Northern Dancer, winner of the $138,200 Flamingo Stakes earlier this month, never has been out of the money, and has won eight of 11 starts.

Just as the Canadian - bred Northern Dancer has ruled the 3-year-olds in Florida, El Peco Ranch's Hill Rise been the class of the West Coast. He has won six races in a row, including the recent $132,400 Santa Anita Derby.

Both are currently idle, but other Preakness eligibles will be turning up in competition.

Calumet Farm's late-developing pair of Ky. Pioneer and Kentucky Jug been nominated. Calumet, the leading Preakness owner with six victories, also nominated Full Well and Real Change.

Rokeby Stable's Quadrangle, another nominee, is due to race in Bowie's $75,000 Governor's Gold Cup on March 21.

Other leading eligibles include Chieftain, Roman Brother, Knightly Manner, Wil Rad and Mr. Brick.

Roman Brother, the leading money-winning 2 - year - old of 1963, is one of three colts entered by Harbor View Farm. The others are Group Leader and Irvkup.

Tosmah, the champion 2-year-old filly last year and a daughter of 1958 Preakness winner Tim Tam, and Blue Norther were the only fillies nominated, Only four fillies have ever won the Preakness, and none since 1924.

Intercollegiate Golf Invitational Opens Thursday

LAKE CHARLES (Special) — Defending champion Paul (Buddy) Short of the University of Southwestern Louisiana leads a field of about 60 golfers into the sixth annual Lake Charles Intercollegiate Inviation tournament opening Thursday.

McNeese State is host school for the 54-hole event to be played at the Lake Charles Golf and Country Club through Friday. It's a par 72 course measuring 6365 yards.

Ellis R. Guillory, McNeese dean of students and tournament director, says play is scheduled to open at 8:30 a.m. Thursday with an 18-hole round. day. The final round, taking in the front nine holes, will start at 1:30 p.m.

Action resumes with another 18-hole round at 8:30 a.m. Friday. The final roond, taking in the back nine, is on tap for Friday afternoon.

Teams expected to enter are Louisiana Tech, McNeese, Northeast Louisiana, Northwestern State and USL of the Gulf States Conference, plus Centenary, Nicholls State and Tulane of Louisiana, along with East Texas State, defending champion Lamar Tech, Sam Houston, Southwest Texas and Stephen F. Austin of Texas.

Short edged Northeast's Jimmy Warren in the first extra hole of a playoff for the individual title last year. They had tied with seven-over par 223 totals for the 54 holes. Warren will be back to duel Short again this year.

With veterans Chip Lyman, one of the better players in the GSC, and Ken Renwick also on hand, Northeast could make a strong bid to become the tournament's first non-Texas team champion. The Indians placed second, 31 strokes behind Lamar's 908 team total last year.

CROWE DRILLS BASEBALLERS

Tribe Has Sluggers, Lack Pitching Depth

Northeast State Baseball Coach George Luffey began last season with a veteran pitching staff and a lack of proven hitters. This year he has the hitters but must rebuild his mound staff.

The Indian baseball team, now working out under Assistant Coach Dickie Crowe while Luffey is occupied with spring football practice, has last year's seven top hitters back in action but only one pitcher who hurled more than one inning in 1963.

All - Gulf States Conference pitcher Ed Quimby, Jerry Godwin, Bobby Lockwood and Lynn Causey — the 1963 team's top starters — plus Ronnie Davies and David Whitworth are missing this year.

However, Luffey believes he has the nucleus of a good staff in Bob Rachal, all-conference in 1962; Floyd Murry, the top returnee from last year; and Dean Bounds, a junior college mound star.

Rachal had a 5-2 record with an earned run average of 3.33 in 1962. Then the former Menard of Alexandria star was stricken by cancer, underwent an operation and was about to complete an amazing comeback last season when he broke an ankle and missed the entire campaign. Now recovered, he could be one of the league's best hurlers.

Murry was 1-0 last year as a freshman. The former Bastrop ace had control troubles but exhibited good stuff and, with a year's experience under his belt, could develop into a top-flight starter.

Bounds, former ace at Fair Park of Shreveport, won eight games and lost three at Panola (Tex.) Junior College last year. The lefthander is probably the hardest thrower on the squad.

The team's fourth starter could be Glynn Saulters, who was all-state in both basketball and baseball last year at Lisbon. Saulters, however underwent a knee operation recently and will be late rounding into shape.

Other contenders for the fourth starting job are Darryl Barnes, ex-Ouachita ace who has thrown well in practice; Mike Tinnerello and Butch McMillan—the only other southpaws on the squad besides Bounds — of last year's staff; and Mike Vining and Rich Bailey, both of whom can also play the outfield.

The team has three sophomores who batted over .300 last year and made the all-GSC team. They are outfielders Alton Thomas and Red Hall and catcher Eddie Kincaid.

Shreveporter Thomas, a football halfback, led the league in hitting with a .371 mark (he hit .404 in league play) and set a GSC record with 11 stolen bases in conference games. Hall, former Bolton star, led the circuit in home runs with nine and tied for first in RBIs with 28 and hit .302, while Kincaid, the Monroe catcher, batted. 303.

ALTON THOMAS
. . . All-GSC Soph

Charley Dykes of West Monroe, who boosted his averaged 82 points to .284, returns at third and versatile John Pace (.256) returns to the outfield after spending last season at first. Freshman Marvin Brossett, who hit .512 at Menard in '63, and Jim Caskey, former Kilgore (Tex.) J. C. player, are the top first base prospects.

At short, Fair Park all-stater David Worthington will open with Bobby Leake, all-state at St. Francisville, ahead of veterans Keith Prince, who started and hit .256 last year, and Joey McGinn at second.

Northeast opens its season March 23 at Auburn University and plays its first home game April 1 against the University of Arkansas.

The April 1 game with Arkansas, as well as a game the next day with the same club, will be played at Legion Stadium beginning at 7:30 p.m. Monroe Mayor Jack Howard will throw out the first ball before what is expected to be the largest crowd to see a Northeast baseball game in several years.

All other home games will be played on a new diamond behind the Wossman Recreation Center on Westminster Avenue and begin at 1:30 p.m.

Quarterbacks Shine In Tribe Scrimmage

Northeast State wound up its next - to - last week of spring football practice Saturday with a scrimmage that produced three touchdowns.

Quarterbacks had a hand in all three scores. Dee Faircloth of the Red unit tossed a nine-yard pass to end Charles Rohner to cap a 76 - yard drive that opened the scrimmage and later circled end for five yards and another.

Faircloth ran for two PATs and halfback Alton Thomas ran for the two - pointer after Garrison's TD.

The first touchdown came against the Whites, the other two were scored against the Gold unit.

Coach Dixie White said after the scrimmage that the team would spend its final week of workouts polishing up both offense and defense.

"We'd like to have two more weeks of work instead of one," White said. "We looked pretty sloppy the first half but better the second. I can't say I'm pleased or displeased—about 50-50 I suppose."

The Indians end spring work next Saturday afternoon with a 3:15 scrimmage that will also conclude the annual Northeast State Coaching Clinic for high school coaches. Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles and four members of his staff will be the guest lecturers.

LOUISIANA DERBY

Princess Nips Pride At Wire

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Grecian Princess, a filly and a 28-1 shot, caught favorite Whit's Pride at the wire and won the $47,300 Louisiana Derby by a neck Saturday.

The 39th running of the Derby signalled the end of the Fair Grounds racing meet.

Grecian Princess, a chestnut filly owned by Theodore B. Buhl, Detroit, returned a whopping $60 to $2 win bettors. She paid $12.40 to place and $5.80 to show.

Jockey Kelly Broussard guided the Hesion-Princess Lisa miss over the 1⅛ mile in 1:50 4-5.

Whit's Pride, ridden by Ismael Valenzuela who flew in especially to ride Mrs. Goldie Finkelstein's colt, and Susan's Gent, the second choice of the 15,109 bettors, dueled for the lead until the half-mile post when Susan's Gent broke down.

Grecian Princess moved up to second at the three-quarter pole and then caught Whit's Pride at the finish. I Owe was third.

Grecian Princess, picking up $33,300 for her victory, became the second filly to win Louisiana's "Run for the Orchids."

Caroline A won the Fair Grounds' top offering for 3-year-olds in 1947.

Grecian Princess had won only one other race this year. She took a 6-furlong allowance event at the New Orleans oval Feb. 1.

In 1963, the Filly won three of her 14 starts and picked up a total of $16,486.

The victory established Grecian Princess as a prime contender for top filly stakes at other tracks, including the Kentucky Oaks, the distaff counterpart of the Kentucky Derby.

METHUSELAH'S METHOD

Spahn Gives Instructions For Winning Twenty Tilts

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — How does a baseball antique like Warren Spahn, who by all logic should have stopped pitching years ago, go on winning 20 or more games year after year with no sign of letting up?

"There really is no secret about it," said the indestructible southpaw. "It's hard work, it's maintaining top physical condition and it's desire.

"All three are terribly important," said the man who will celebrate his 43rd birthday April 23, "but I regard desire as the most important. If you have the desire, naturally you will strive to maintain the other two.

"Nature has a way of compensating for the loss of physical ability. If an athlete could maintain the same desire that he had when he was younger, I believe he could pitch until he's 50. Sure, it's tougher to get in shape than it was 10 years ago, sure, you have to push yourself harder than you did when you were a kid. But the actual difference is only about five to 10 days of training. That's how much longer it takes to get past the stage when you're stiff and sore.

"So many guys look for an excuse. What better excuse is there than old age? Each spring I say to myself I've got to make the starting staff. I've got to be as good, if not better, than anybody in camp. I never fall back on last year."

Although Spahn is starting his 19th year in the major leagues, all with the Braves, there isn't a better bet in baseball to win 20 games this season. He already has done it 13 times, more than any other left-hander in history.

"I see no reason why I shouldn't win 20 again," he said. "We all start even. Yet some guys win the most. The guys who do it are the guys who believe they can do it. First, of course, comes ability. Then, it's what you want. It comes back to the same thing—desire."

Spahn equaled his best victory total last year, although he missed six starts and pitched for a sixth-place team. He matched his 23-7 record of 1953, the Braves' first season in Milwaukee after the move from Boston.

Spahn said he was never better than last year. He attributes that to coming to camp at a lighter weight and a change in conditioning during spring training.

"I made a terrible mistake two years ago," Spahn said. "I came to camp weighing 194 pounds. That was some 12 to 14 pounds above my normal weight. It was like putting 10 pound weights around my waist. I paid for it. You may recall that I didn't win 20 that year.

"Last year I was smarter. I checked in a 178. I looked like a scarecrow, but I felt good. As I went along, my arms and legs came around. Two weeks after the season opened, I was up to 182 and I stayed there all season.

"I don't know if that was the reason I had a good season, but I'm going on that assumption. I weigh 182 now and I plan to stay that way. That's not an awful lot more than when I broke in. I weighed between 168 and 175 my first year with the Braves."

Spahn has a special incentive for wanting to duplicate his 23-victory total of last year. He has won 350 games. The big milestone ahead of him is the National League record of 373 victories, shared by Christy Mathewson and Grover Cleveland Alexander.

"If I don't have anything to shoot for," Spahn said, "I get sort of an empty feeling. A guy's got to have a challenge to keep going."

"ROCK 'N SOCK" BALL

Rebel Griders In Squad Game

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (Special) — It's a game that will be of primary concern only to the participants and rival coaches, but Saturday's initial unveiling of the 1964 Ole Miss football squad figures to attract upwards of 8500 of the Rebel faithful into Hemingway Stadium.

Promising nothing fancy, just plain, old - fashion "rock 'n sock" football, Coach Johnny Vaught will retire to the sidelines for this family finale to spring training, making the press box his vantage point. Concluding his 18th spring football program, Vaught has rated progress for a number of Reb veterans and rookies from "satisfactory to good."

Vaught has yet to set up positive team status for his varsity group, and probably will bypass unit ratings until September training is underway. "We've had a highly competitive training period," he reported Saturday, "and I want to keep things that way."

The Rebs will carry only three additional practice sessions into the final week of training, including the intra-squad battle. That one counts, too, as part of the 20 - practice course permitted by NCAA and SEC regulations.

The list of non-combatants into the windup week is not lengthy. Veterans John Maddox at end, Dave Jennings at tailback and Mike Dennis at tailback will not see action Saturday, nor will sophomore centers Buddy Lewis and Wilmer Mills.

Louisiana State Loses To Loyola In Crescent City

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Billy Darris blanked Louisiana State 7-0 on five hits Saturday to give Loyola of New Orleans the Crescent City Invitational baseball championship.

It was the third shutout in a row for Loyola which earlier defeated Rollins College and LSU.

LSU entered the finals with a 3-2 victory over Memphis State earlier Saturday.

Loyola took a 2-0 lead in the first inning. Lou Triche singled home Charlie Gray who had doubled and Bobby Schroeder, who reached first on a single, scored on a double steal.

Loyola scored in the third when Schroeder singled, stole second, was sacrificed to third and scored on a passed ball.

In the sixth inning Loyola broke the game open with four runs on five hits, including a triple by first baseman Larry Hoyt.

Darris was in little danger throughout, striking out four men and issuing no walks.

Schroeder, who had four hits in seven trips during the series, was voted most valuable player.

LSU eliminated Memphis State by rallying for two runs in the bottom of the seventh inning. John Breaud opened with a walk and Pat Screen hit a sacrifice bunt but both were safe when Memphis State first baseman Ken Murray threw wild.

Gene Achord then flied to centerfield, scoring Breaud to tie the score. After Don Chatelain was passed to fill the bases again, Bill Stewart singled to right field to score Screen with the winning run.

Spike Nail Wins Rebel Handicap At Hot Springs

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—C. O. Viar's Spike Nail was declared the winner Saturday of the $10,000 Rebel Handicap at Oaklawn Park after W. Hal Bishop's Floral Shop was disqualified for interference in the stretch.

A record crowd of 18,697 saw Jockey Robert Nono pilot Floral Shop, the even money favorite, to the front with ease as the field turned for home. Floral Shop then outgamed Spike Nail in a driving finish to score by a head.

J. L. Bearden's Lee's Fury finished third, 1½ lengths farther back.

Jockey Ronnie Campbell, rider of Spike Nail, lodged a foul claim, and after viewing films, stewards awarded Spike Nail first place and Floral Shop was dropped down to second.

Spike Nail returned $20.00, $5.20 and $2.60. Floral Shop paid $3.40 and $2.40 and Lee's Fury $2.60 to show.

Cards Face Futile Task Of Replacing Stan

NEW YORK (UPI) — Replace Stan Musial?

The St. Louis Cardinals have about as much chance of "replacing" their retired slugger as the New York Yankees had in their hunt for men to replace Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig.

Until some of those sweet memories of Musial subside, the Cards will have to get along with fill-ins in left field where Stan The Man operated for much of his later years.

For a start, it may be a platoon with Carl Warwick splitting the duty with rookie Doug Clemens. Charley James, Musial's alter ego in left when Stan needed rest, is required now in right field to replace the departed George Altman.

Retirements by potential Hall-of-Famers have caused plenty of chaos in the past and yet some like Ty Cobb, Joe DiMaggio, Bob Feller and Ted Williams weren't exactly indispensable at the end of the trail. Maybe Musial, at this point, isn't either.

Cobb, merely the greatest in the eyes of many who saw him, played out his last two seasons with the old Philadelphia Athletics. He hit .357 in 1927 and .323 in 1928. Then, his speed gone, he retired.

The A's promptly went on a three - year pennant spree with Al Simmons, Mule Haas and Bing Miller patrolling the outfield.

DiMaggio, long a fixture in center for the Yankees, left his slot to a ready - made successor — Mickey Mantle.

Feller was over the hill when he called it quits at Cleveland. Early Wynn, Bob Lemon and Herb Score were turning out 20 victories per at the time.

Williams, incomparable batsman of the modern era, departed from the Boston Red Sox at the end of the '60 season with his club next to last in the standings. It hasn't finished that low since, Pete Runnels (1962) and Carl Yastrzemski (1963) won batting titles for Boston.

Cobb, DiMag, Feller and Williams could not have been replaced in their prime years but as their departures were timed there was no great upheaval.

Other clubs weren't so lucky when their stars went away.

The Yankees had a parade of rightfielders after Ruth left the club at the end of the 1934 season. Tommy Henrich, a different type but eventually called "Old Reliable," finally provided an adequate answer.

When Gehrig came to an untimely career end early in 1939, the Yankees were utterly unprepared. The old vaudeville gag of "who's on first?" became a joke the Yanks never did learn to appreciate.

Among others whose retirements left serious problems for their employers were Bill Terry of the old New York Giants, Gabby Hartnett of the Chicago Cubs, Charley Gehringer and Mickey Cochrane of Detroit and Pie Traynor of Pittsburgh.

If the Cardinals are lucky they may be able to get along without Musial, the way he was playing at the age of 42.

They'll never forget him and maybe they'll never actually replace him until a new generation of fans comes along.

But Stan The Man's retire-Berra will have the same ones Houk did so the conclusion is rather obvious.

The first-line outfield will have Roger Maris in right, Mantle in center and Tom Tresh in left, and where can you find a better one in baseball?

Mantle, sidelined most of last season with knee trouble, looks fit again and for those with short memories, it should be recalled he hit .314 and bombed 15 homers even in the relatively few 65 games he played.

Maris, who belted 23 homers in an off year, appears fully recovered from the shoulder injury he suffered in the World Series against the Dodgers, a series of four games no one mentions around here, while Tresh easily can duplicate or better the 25 homers, 71 runs batted in and .269 average he posted last season.

If any of those three need help, it will be forthcoming promptly from Hector Lopez, one of the best utilitymen in the league; rookie Elvio Jimenez, who brings a .331 batting mark from Augusta; or even Johnny Blanchard.

Berra insists Blanchard will be strictly a catcher, backing up Elston Howard, the American League's most valuable player of 1963, but what's to prevent Yogi from installing Blanchard in the outfield occasionally just as Houk did when an emergency arose.

A burglar can break into your home much easier than anyone can break into the Yankee infield.

That's set with Joe Pepitone at first, Bobby Richardson at second, Tony Kubek at short and Clete Boyer at third. There are three capable extra men, too, in experienced Harry Bright, Phil Linz and Pedro Gonzalez.

One of them even may go in a deal because the Yankees have a pair of first year men who will count against their roster in Archie Moore, a fine looking left-handed hitting outfielder, and lanky Chet Trail, who could be the Yankee's next shortstop.

Berry is pretty happy about his pitching although that could develop into the Yankee weak spot if one ever does arise.

Yogi is counting on veteran Whitey Ford to approach his 24-7 slate of last season and few pitchers in the game, even when they're as good as Ford, put seasons like that back-to-back. He's also banking on Jim Bouton (21-7) and Al Downing (13-5) to improve. They should but there's no money-back guarantee they will.

Ralph Terry, the fourth starter, dipped to 17-15 in 1963 but has not reached his peak yet. Stan Williams (9-8) also will get spot starting assignments and Berra is keeping a close eye on three young pitchers—Tom Metcalf, who finished the season with the Yanks after winning nine and losing five at Richmond; southpaw Bob Meyer, who was 4-5 at Richmond, and Gil Downs, who was 13-3 with Sarasota.

Hal Reniff, who had a way of taking charge last year and wound up with a 2.63 earned run average, and big Steve Hamilton, almost sure death on left-handed hitters, head the bullpen brigade.

The two question marks are Bill Stafford and Bud Daley. Stafford allowed himself to get out of shape last season and turned in a disappointing 4-8 record. He has pared off more than 15 pounds and could return to the starting rotation.

Daley pitched only one inning in 1963 before undergoing a bone chip operation. If he's okay, he's got a job in the bullpen.

Regardless of whether the Yankees' pitching turns out to be exceptionally strong or merely adequate, they look like they have a lock on the AL Pennant again.

Neville Star Smith Signs With Bulldogs

Smith, a 6-3 155-pounder, was probably Neville's Best all-around player. He scored 17.2 points a game and averaged 14 rebounds.

In two years at Neville, Smith scored 1,137 points. During this time the Tigers won the state AA championship last year and advanced to the semi-finals this year.

After signing Smith, Scotty Robertson, who will take over as Tech's head cage coach in June, said, "I am extremely happy to sign Malcolm. He has a fine basketball background coming from Neville, especially because Coach (Benny) Hollis does such a good job defensively."

Smith was an all-district 2-AA selection this year and was named to the all-star team in the state tournament at Shreveport. He was a second team all-state selection last year and is considered a prime all-state candidate this year.

Earlier in the week, the Bulldogs signed George Stone from Ruston who was named the outstanding player in district 2-AA.

Hammer Speeds To First Place In Cycle Outing

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) —Dick Hammer of Lakewood, Calif., rode a Harley-Davidson to victory Saturday in the American Motorcycle Association 100-mile race for 250 cc machines.

Hammer averaged 88.455 miles per hour for the 27 laps over the 3.81-mile course at Daytona International Speedway.

The 24-year-old Californian led every lap but the first as he beat a field of 92 expert and amateur riders. Hammer is an expert.

Amateur Norris Rancort of Sacramento, Calif., finished second on a Parilla. He was 10 seconds behind the winner.

A trio of experts ran 3-4-5, trailing the two front runners by more than a half lap. Third place was taken by Al Gunter, Alhambra, Calif., on a Yamaha. He was followed by Neil Keen, Pasadena, Calif., Yamaha, and Jody Nicholas, Nashville, Tenn., on a Bultaco.

Ken Ridder of Covina, Calif., riding a Yamaha, was a distant third.

Long Season Will Kick-Off At Aqueduct

With Belmont Park still closed awaiting the construction of a new grandstand, the entire New York season will be run at Aqueduct except for 24 days, Aug. 3-29, at Saratoga Springs.

During the year, the sponsoring New York Racing Association will present 115 stakes carrying a value of $4,347,500 in added money. All stakes on the flat, except for some 2-year-old events, will have a minimum value of $25,000 added.

Since the NYRA didn't originally plan to open until March 20, no stakes will be raced until that date. The opening day feature, an overnight affair, will be the $15,000 Happy Gal Handicap for fillies and mares at six furlongs. It will serve as a prep for the $25,000-added Correction Handicap to be run April 1.

The series for 3 - year - olds leading up to the Kentucky Derby May 2, the Preakness May 16 and the Belmont Stakes June 6, get underway Friday with the $25,000-added Swift. Then comes the $25,000-added Bay Shore on March 27, the $50,000-added Gotham April 4 and the $75,000-added Wood Memorial April 18.

Quartered at either Aqueduct or Belmont and Elitible for the Swift are such promising Derby-age colts as Black Mountain, Irvkup, National, Traffic and Duel. The books have not closed for the other pre-Derby warmups but they are expected to attract most of the top Eastern colts hoping for a trip to Churchill Downs.

METHUSELAH'S METHOD

Spahn Gives Instructions For Winning Twenty Tilts

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — How does a baseball antique like Warren Spahn, who by all logic should have stopped pitching years ago, go on winning 20 or more games year after year with no sign of letting up?

"There really is no secret about it," said the indestructible southpaw. "It's hard work, it's maintaining top physical condition and it's desire.

"All three are terribly important," said the man who will celebrate his 43rd birthday April 23, "but I regard desire as the most important. If you have the desire, naturally you will strive to maintain the other two.

"Nature has a way of compensating for the loss of physical ability. If an athlete could maintain the same desire that he had when he was younger, I believe he could pitch until he's 50. Sure, it's tougher to get in shape than it was 10 years ago, sure, you have to push yourself harder than you did when you were a kid. But the actual difference is only about five to 10 days of training. That's how much longer it takes to get past the stage when you're stiff and sore.

"So many guys look for an excuse. What better excuse is there than old age? Each spring I say to myself I've got to make the starting staff. I've got to be as good, if not better, than anybody in camp. I never fall back on last year."

Although Spahn is starting his 19th year in the major leagues, all with the Braves, there isn't a better bet in baseball to win 20 games this season. He already has done it 13 times, more than any other left-hander in history.

"I see no reason why I shouldn't win 20 again," he said. "We all start even. Yet some guys win the most. The guys who do it are the guys who believe they can do it. First, of course, comes ability. Then, it's what you want. It comes back to the same thing—desire."

Spahn equaled his best victory total last year, although he missed six starts and pitched for a sixth-place team. He matched his 23-7 record of 1953, the Braves' first season in Milwaukee after the move from Boston.

Spahn said he was never better than last year. He attributes that to coming to camp at a lighter weight and a change in conditioning during spring training.

"I made a terrible mistake two years ago," Spahn said. "I came to camp weighing 194 pounds. That was some 12 to 14 pounds above my normal weight. It was like putting 10 pound weights around my waist. I paid for it. You may recall that I didn't win 20 that year.

"Last year I was smarter. I checked in a 178. I looked like a scarecrow, but I felt good. As I went along, my arms and legs came around. Two weeks after the season opened, I was up to 182 and I stayed there all season.

"I don't know if that was the reason I had a good season, but I'm going on that assumption. I weigh 182 now and I plan to stay that way. That's not an awful lot more than when I broke in. I weighed between 168 and 175 my first year with the Braves."

Spahn has a special incentive for wanting to duplicate his 23-victory total of last year. He has won 350 games. The big milestone ahead of him is the National League record of 373 victories, shared by Christy Mathewson and Grover Cleveland Alexander.

"If I don't have anything to shoot for," Spahn said, "I get sort of an empty feeling. A guy's got to have a challenge to keep going."

Neville Star Smith Signs With Bulldogs

Smith, a 6-3 155-pounder, was probably Neville's Best all-around player. He scored 17.2 points a game and averaged 14 rebounds.

In two years at Neville, Smith scored 1,137 points. During this time the Tigers won the state AA championship last year and advanced to the semi-finals this year.

After signing Smith, Scotty Robertson, who will take over as Tech's head cage coach in June, said, "I am extremely happy to sign Malcolm. He has a fine basketball background coming from Neville, especially because Coach (Benny) Hollis does such a good job defensively."

Smith was an all-district 2-AA selection this year and was named to the all-star team in the state tournament at Shreveport. He was a second team all-state selection last year and is considered a prime all-state candidate this year.

Earlier in the week, the Bulldogs signed George Stone from Ruston who was named the outstanding player in district 2-AA.

Spike Nail Wins Rebel Handicap At Hot Springs

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—C. O. Viar's Spike Nail was declared the winner Saturday of the $10,000 Rebel Handicap at Oaklawn Park after W. Hal Bishop's Floral Shop was disqualified for interference in the stretch.

A record crowd of 18,697 saw Jockey Robert Nono pilot Floral Shop, the even money favorite, to the front with ease as the field turned for home. Floral Shop then outgamed Spike Nail in a driving finish to score by a head.

Long Season Will Kick-Off At Aqueduct

With Belmont Park still closed awaiting the construction of a new grandstand, the entire New York season will be run at Aqueduct except for 24 days, Aug. 3-29, at Saratoga Springs.

During the year, the sponsoring New York Racing Association will present 115 stakes carrying a value of $4,347,500 in added money. All stakes on the flat, except for some 2-year-old events, will have a minimum value of $25,000 added.

Since the NYRA didn't originally plan to open until March 20, no stakes will be raced until that date. The opening day feature, an overnight affair, will be the $15,000 Happy Gal Handicap for fillies and mares at six furlongs. It will serve as a prep for the $25,000-added Correction Handicap to be run April 1.

The series for 3 - year - olds leading up to the Kentucky Derby May 2, the Preakness May 16 and the Belmont Stakes June 6, get underway Friday with the $25,000-added Swift. Then comes the $25,000-added Bay Shore on March 27, the $50,000-added Gotham April 4 and the $75,000-added Wood Memorial April 18.

Quartered at either Aqueduct or Belmont and Elitible for the Swift are such promising Derby-age colts as Black Mountain, Irvkup, National, Traffic and Duel. The books have not closed for the other pre-Derby warmups but they are expected to attract most of the top Eastern colts hoping for a trip to Churchill Downs.

MISS JULIA ANN WILHITE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wilhite, West Monroe, is crowned queen of the annual Military Ball on Northeast Louisiana State College campus by President George Walker. The ball, sponsored by Scabbard and Blade Society and the Fusiliers was held in Gunby Dining hall on the campus, using an Oriental theme for the decor.

Northeast Military Ball Held In Oriental Setting

The traditional affair featured originality, beauty and surprise elements, climaxed by announcement of the coed who was voted to wear the queen's crown.

Miss Julia Ann Wilhite of West Monroe was proclaimed queen, following the presentation of the finalists in competition for the title, and was crowned by President George T. Walker. The new queen was presented an arm bouquet of crimson roses and a large silver bowl by Cadet Col. A. W. Steed. She was wearing a long white formal accented with a lace embellished bodice and a shoulder orchid.

The sponsors who were finalists were presented gifts denoting their participation as sponsors in the Reserve Officers Training Corps.

As couples entered the foyer, they were greeted by the Japanese atmosphere. Artistic screens formed a background for the long bench featuring jade figurines and flowers. Scattered near it were colorful pillows and statuettes of oriental gods, while gay lanterns in varied hues swayed overhead.

Pink fluted parasols and blossoms enhanced the table holding dance programs embellished with the ROTC insignia. Another foyer attraction was a wall decor of pink pleated hats and gay lanterns.

Guests danced under a suspended ceiling of myriad lanterns in varied shapes and colors, and special lights played upon a fountain filled with lilies at one end of the dance floor. White trees with pink blossoms were placed at intervals, and a mammoth butterfly with spread wings served as a backdrop for the green bandstand for the LSU Playboys who furnished music throughout the evening.

The oriental theme was enhanced with table decors of candles which cast a soft glow over small pink parasols and flowers. As guests watched the merry dancers, they were served refreshments by cadets in the ROTC.

Miss Gayle Smith, president, called the meeting to order and members recited the collect in unison.

Those appearing on the program included Miss Kay Odom, who played Sonata in F Major by Mozart; Miss Ann McLemore who played Waltz by Brahms; Miss Maryanne Hayes, a violin solo, Perpetual Motion by Brahms; Miss Suzanne Keller, who sang My Johann by Grieg; Miss Martha Allen, who played Sonatina by Merkel; Miss Cherly La Dart, who played Arabesque No. 2 by Debussy; Miss Betty Heard, who played Rustle of Spring by Sinding; Miss Cheryl Sinclair, who played Nocturne Op. 92 by Chopin and Doris Shannon who played the first part of Beethoven's Contra Dance.

Refreshments were served to the members and sponsors, Mrs. H. G. McDonald and Mrs. Grayson Guthrie. The meeting closed with the club pledge and the group adjourned to meet Saturday, April 11 at 9:45 a.m. in the home of Miss Gayle Smith, 429 Bayou Oaks Drive.

MISS JULIA ANN WILHITE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wilhite, West Monroe, is crowned queen of the annual Military Ball on Northeast Louisiana State College campus by President George Walker. The ball, sponsored by Scabbard and Blade Society and the Fusiliers was held in Gunby Dining hall on the campus, using an Oriental theme for the decor.

Northeast Military Ball Held In Oriental Setting

The traditional affair featured originality, beauty and surprise elements, climaxed by announcement of the coed who was voted to wear the queen's crown.

Miss Julia Ann Wilhite of West Monroe was proclaimed queen, following the presentation of the finalists in competition for the title, and was crowned by President George T. Walker. The new queen was presented an arm bouquet of crimson roses and a large silver bowl by Cadet Col. A. W. Steed. She was wearing a long white formal accented with a lace embellished bodice and a shoulder orchid.

The sponsors who were finalists were presented gifts denoting their participation as sponsors in the Reserve Officers Training Corps.

As couples entered the foyer, they were greeted by the Japanese atmosphere. Artistic screens formed a background for the long bench featuring jade figurines and flowers. Scattered near it were colorful pillows and statuettes of oriental gods, while gay lanterns in varied hues swayed overhead.

Pink fluted parasols and blossoms enhanced the table holding dance programs embellished with the ROTC insignia. Another foyer attraction was a wall decor of pink pleated hats and gay lanterns.

Guests danced under a suspended ceiling of myriad lanterns in varied shapes and colors, and special lights played upon a fountain filled with lilies at one end of the dance floor. White trees with pink blossoms were placed at intervals, and a mammoth butterfly with spread wings served as a backdrop for the green bandstand for the LSU Playboys who furnished music throughout the evening.

The oriental theme was enhanced with table decors of candles which cast a soft glow over small pink parasols and flowers. As guests watched the merry dancers, they were served refreshments by cadets in the ROTC.

Miss May Read, program chairman, presented the guest speaker, Mrs. Walter C. Bentrup, whose topic was "Library."

Miss Johansson has chosen Miss Nancy Williams of Atlata, Georgia, as her maid of honor. Bridesmaids will be her future sister-in-law, Mrs. Virginia Edmiston of Columbia and Mrs. Barbara Scalia of Monroe. Flower girl and ring bearer will be Jackie and Tommy Horras of Washington, D. C.

James Edmiston of Columbia will serve his brother-in-law as best man. Groomsmen-ushers will include James Pohlman, brother of the prospective bridegroom; Richard Ringham and Phillip Goldman, all of Monroe. Serving as altar boys will be Joseph Bruscato and Jack Norman, both of Monroe.

Miss Johansson is a graduate of the Junior College of Uppsala, Sweden and spent two years in this country as governess to the children of Col. and Mrs. Lawrence Horras of Washington, D. C. At present Miss Johansson is a stewardess for an airlines company.

Mr. Pohlman is a graduate of St. Matthews high school and received his B. S. degree in Civil Engineering from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute in Ruston. Spring Tours Discussed By Daylily Society

Plans for spring tours were discussed at the March meeting of the Dixieland Daylily Society Tuesday evening in the Agriculture Building, West Monroe. Mrs. J. G. Haynes Sr., president conducted the business session.

Slides from out of state hybridizers were shown, featuring many of the new 1964 daylily introductions.

Mrs. Warren McGee and C. M. Eaker were hosts for the evening and at a late hour served a dessert course from a table, covered with a lace cloth and centered with a crystal epergne of spring blossoms.

Those attending the meeting were E. C. Cobb, C. M. Eaker, Mrs. Fred Cox, C. R. Clay, Mrs. Essie Garrison, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gates, Mrs. J. G. Haynes Sr., Mrs. Effie Horton, Mrs. Gladys M. Kulke, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kilpatrick, Mrs. Warren McGee, Raymond Moore, Mrs. Rowena Mulhearn, Mrs. Wiley Roach Sr., and Mrs. A. R. Robinson.

MISS MARTHA DIANE SANCHEZ

Spring Weddings Appear In Coordinated Colors

Spring's bride will walk down the aisle in a romantically feminine bouffant, princess or empire gown styled of soft fabrics such as silk, chiffon, organza and cotton lace.

Trims will be more luxurious than ever, with bridal fashions featuring a new heavy Swiss lace embroidery.

One newsworthy variation on the bridal white theme this spring will be the fully color coordinated wedding, with attendant's gowns, all the flowers and even the mother of the bride's gown in one color. The bride will set the color theme of the wedding by wearing traditional white with a touch of the prevailing shade, perhaps at the waist.

Also new for spring is the revival of the babushka or kerchief hood for both the bride and her attendants. There will be many beautiful headpieces such as the very short or very long mantilla, or a veil that puffs out from a frou-frou of fabric perching atop the head.

White bridal gowns and veils became a tradition early in 1800. Today, a white bouquet, white rice and wedding cake, and even the white diamond hiding beneath a white glove are time-honored customs with twentieth-century brides.

White flowers, such as lillies, orchids, roses and lilies-of-the-valley all signify beauty and purity. Orange blossoms also symbolize fruitfulness, since the blossom, bud and fruit are on the tree at the same time.

White rice, the symbol of health and wealth, means "May you have a full pantry."

White frosted wedding cakes once were made in sets of twos; one for the bride and one for the groom.

Ever since white satin slippers made fashion news on January 6, 1759, they have been popular and a part of "bridal white." On that day, Martha Washington wore large diamond buckles on her wedding slippers — a steal from men's buckled shoes!

Sleepwear Is Dreamy

Spring sleepwear can be both very feminine and, as a boon to those tight budgets, inexpensive. One especially pretty nighty in the under — $5 bracket is an elongated peasant blouse in broadcloth and appliqued with a big flower.

For daintier tastes is a smocked and ruffled baby-dress of pin dot cotton.

WHITE ORGANDY

Keep your eye on white organdie jackets for summer. Harper's Bazaar sees the start of an important new trend in the double-ruffled, double-breasted frosting that covers a Valentino navy blue dress. It could be the accessory of Summer, 1964.

April Wedding Planned By Diane Sanchez, Fiance

Engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Martha Diane Sanchez to Robbins Marshall Claypool Jr., Houston, Texas is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Sanchez of Monroe. Parents of the future bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Robbins Marshall Claypool Sr., of Houston.

Vows will be exchanged on April 18 at 5 p.m. in Jesus the Good Shepherd Church. Father Dave P. Dabria will perform the ceremony in the presence of family members and close friends.

Miss Sanchez will be attended by her sister, Miss Kay Sanchez as maid of honor and Miss Jean Shaughnessy, Monroe as bridesmaid.

Chosen to serve as best man is James L. Hart Jr. Ushers will be George S. Buckner Jr., James Wade Ingram III, Dale Mayes and Gilbert H. Frederick Jr.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mrs. Mittie Feazel of Monroe and Mrs. J. A. Sanchez of Lutcher, La. A graduate of Neville high school where she was a member of Delta Beta Sigma, she also graduated from Louisiana State University and is now teaching in Houston, Texas.

Grandparents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Westwood Blocker and Mrs. Thadius Hugh Claypool. He was graduated from Bellaire high school and Sam Houston State College in Huntsville. His fraternity is Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Not long ago I wrote a column about feminine characteristics men like and do not like. I invited the men who read "Why Grow Old?" to tell me more about the subject. I wish I could print all of the letters I have received. However, I can only publish a few quotations from some of them. The women who read my column can listen over my shoulder.

"I believe that most men like make-up if it is not overdone. Some women look as though they had accidentally gotten in front of a spraying machine."

"I simply hate those shoes women have been wearing. They are homely, and look more like canoes than shoes."

"We like women who are good company, but dislike one who is loud. We love that soft feminine voice."

"I like a feminine girl who does not try to compete with men, but is satisfied with being herself."

"A loud voice is good for a hog-caller, but not for a woman who wants to appeal to men."

Many young men like anything that wears skirts. More mature, sophisticated men want a woman to be a real feminine woman just like a woman wants a man to be a real man."

"Most of us men like to accord a woman the little courtesies we were taught to perform from childhood. We are embarrassed and made to feel awkward if we are thwarted in such matters."

"A woman who spends her time talking about other women is usually spiteful, and the good Lord help her husband."

"Very long nails are for scratching."

"I like a woman who makes me feel at ease and seems able to fit in with almost any group without calling attention to herself."

"Congratulations from a group of eight men who are writing you concerning your 10-point report on what men find attractive and unattractive in women. We concur in all — garish make-up is O. K. if one aims to clown through life. Slacks are not feminine. Give us gentle women who think of us as kings, thus inspiring us to respond with the love and loyalty due a queen."

If we read these comments thoughtfully it is more profitable than a course in how to be popular with the opposite sex would be. Tomorrow I will quote from a letter I received from 14 men, seven of whom are married and seven of whom are bachelors, and also give you an idea of how men feel about slacks.

If my feminine readers would like to have their chance to sound off" about what they think about men, I will be waiting for their letters. Just address them to Josephine Lowman in care of Monroe Morning World.

MRS. NEIL JOE YOUNG

Double Ring Vows Unite West Monroe Couple

White tapers in branched candelabra entwined with greenery and flanked by baskets of white gladioli formed a background for the wedding of Miss Suzonne Washer and Neil Joe Young on February 29 in Fair Park Baptist Church. Rev. Filer Seal performed the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Washer, Rt. 4, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Young, 109 Mauldin Drive, all of West Monroe.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Hebert Peterson, organist and Sonny Franks, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a full length gown of white peau de soie, styled with scoop neckline, long tapered sleeves and bell shaped skirt with chapel train. Her elbow length veil of illusion was attached to a rose headdress, encrusted with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white feathered carnations with removable corsage of a yellow-throated white orchid.

Miss Darlene Skipper served as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Janet Beard and Miss Rita Bolton. Their short gowns of yellow peau de soie featured full pleated skirts, accented by back bows. Circular shoulder veils attached to opened roses of matching peau de soie formed their headdresses and they carried crescent bouquets of yellow pompons with yellow and white ribbons.

Jewel McBroom attended Mr. Young as best man and serving as groomsmen-ushers were Dwight Ramsey and Steve Gilbert.

Candlelighters were Clyde Washer Jr. and Curtis Young, brothers of the bride and groom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church. The bride's table was covered with a yellow cloth, overlaid with yellow net with clusters of ribbon and net decorating the skirt. Large yellow bows and streamers were caught at the corners. A crystal compote holding a classic arrangement of yellow gladioli and pompons formed the central decor with yellow tapers in crystal holders on either side. Mrs. Dorothy Farley served the tiered wedding cake and Mrs. Ferron White presided at the crystal punch bowl at opposite ends of the table. Presiding at the guest book was Miss Jean Smith.

For travel when the couple left for Waco, Texas, where they will reside, the bride was wearing a gold double knit suit with a long sleeved crepe blouse, brown accessories and the orchid from her bouquet.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Young are graduates of West Monroe high school and attended Northeast Louisiana State College. He is presently in the air force, stationed at Waco, Texas.

Legs Featured In World Styles

The French and Americans may disagree on NATO and China, but they do agree on legs. They like them. In fact, all over the world men like to ogle long, pretty legs, which are accentuated by short skirts, open shoes, high heels and, most important, stockings.

Leg covering is vital. White, lace and plaid stockings are the rage among chic young Continentals.

MRS. DOUGLAS WAYNE CLEMENT

Clement-Peacock Vows Solemnized In Forest

The wedding of Miss Lavenda Peacock and Douglas Wayne Clement, both of this city, was solemnized Sunday, March 8 in Forest Church of God. Rev. Ellis Kendall performed the double ring ceremony at 4 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Peacock of Oak Grove and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Author Clement of Baton Rouge.

Vows were exchanged in a candlelight setting before an arch of greenery and carnations, against a background of palms and white stock. Candles also lined the white carpeted aisle. Traditional wedding music was provided by the organist, Mrs. Pat Rochelle Kendall and the soloist, Miss Carol Jones.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown of white satin, featured a fitted bodice overlaid with hand-clipped Chantilly lace, styled with bateau neckline, etched with pearls and sequins. Lace galloons enhanced the bouffant gathered skirt which terminated in a cathedral train. Long lace sleeves tapered to points over the hands. Her fingertip veil of imported scalloped illusion drifted from a Juliet tiara. She carried a white orchid in a bouquet with wedding bells, accented by white illusion and streamers of white satin ribbon.

Miss Sara Lewis, maid of honor, wore a gown of pale pink crystal taffeta, defined at the back waistline by a bow, centered with a crushed rose. A rosette of crystal taffeta accented with pearls formed her headdress and she carried a heart-shaped bouquet of American Beauty roses. Dressed identically to the honor attendant were the bridesmaids, Miss Renee' Bryant, Miss Sue Kelly and Miss Mattie Rae Miller.

The soloist's dress was fashioned on similar lines as the bridesmaid' gowns following the color scheme in a rose crystal taffeta.

Serving as best man for Mr. Clement was Ray Pommier and groomsmen-ushers were Lynn Mitchell, Jim Love and Billy Watts. Dwayne Anderson acted as ring bearer.

Mrs. Peacock chose for her daughter's wedding a gown of pink crepe with matching Chanel sweater, accented with rhinestones and iridescents. The bride groom's mother, Mrs. Clement, wore a pink silk suit and both wore white orchid corsages.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in Oak Grove. The white-lace covered bride's table was centered with an arrangement of pale pink and red carnations. Misses Vickie and LaGwen Rogers served the punch and wedding cake and Mrs. Bill Anderson, sister of the bride, presided at the guest book.

For a short wedding trip the bride changed into a pink crepe ensemble, styled with scoop neckline and French cuffs, and a slim line skirt. Her corsage was a white orchid. Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Not long ago I wrote a column about feminine characteristics men like and do not like. I invited the men who read "Why Grow Old?" to tell me more about the subject. I wish I could print all of the letters I have received. However, I can only publish a few quotations from some of them. The women who read my column can listen over my shoulder.

"I believe that most men like make-up if it is not overdone. Some women look as though they had accidentally gotten in front of a spraying machine."

"I simply hate those shoes women have been wearing. They are homely, and look more like canoes than shoes."

"We like women who are good company, but dislike one who is loud. We love that soft feminine voice."

"I like a feminine girl who does not try to compete with men, but is satisfied with being herself."

"A loud voice is good for a hog-caller, but not for a woman who wants to appeal to men."

Many young men like anything that wears skirts. More mature, sophisticated men want a woman to be a real feminine woman just like a woman wants a man to be a real man."

"Most of us men like to accord a woman the little courtesies we were taught to perform from childhood. We are embarrassed and made to feel awkward if we are thwarted in such matters."

"A woman who spends her time talking about other women is usually spiteful, and the good Lord help her husband."

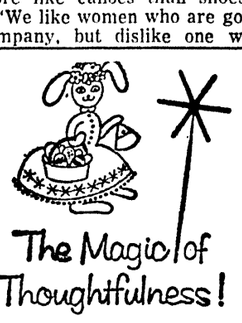

"Very long nails are for scratching."

"I like a woman who makes me feel at ease and seems able to fit in with almost any group without calling attention to herself."

"Congratulations from a group of eight men who are writing you concerning your 10-point report on what men find attractive and unattractive in women. We concur in all — garish make-up is O. K. if one aims to clown through life. Slacks are not feminine. Give us gentle women who think of us as kings, thus inspiring us to respond with the love and loyalty due a queen."

If we read these comments thoughtfully it is more profitable than a course in how to be popular with the opposite sex would be. Tomorrow I will quote from a letter I received from 14 men, seven of whom are married and seven of whom are bachelors, and also give you an idea of how men feel about slacks.

If my feminine readers would like to have their chance to sound off" about what they think about men, I will be waiting for their letters. Just address them to Josephine Lowman in care of Monroe Morning World.

MRS. NEIL JOE YOUNG

Double Ring Vows Unite West Monroe Couple

White tapers in branched candelabra entwined with greenery and flanked by baskets of white gladioli formed a background for the wedding of Miss Suzonne Washer and Neil Joe Young on February 29 in Fair Park Baptist Church. Rev. Filer Seal performed the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Washer, Rt. 4, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Young, 109 Mauldin Drive, all of West Monroe.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Hebert Peterson, organist and Sonny Franks, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a full length gown of white peau de soie, styled with scoop neckline, long tapered sleeves and bell shaped skirt with chapel train. Her elbow length veil of illusion was attached to a rose headdress, encrusted with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white feathered carnations with removable corsage of a yellow-throated white orchid.

Miss Darlene Skipper served as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Janet Beard and Miss Rita Bolton. Their short gowns of yellow peau de soie featured full pleated skirts, accented by back bows. Circular shoulder veils attached to opened roses of matching peau de soie formed their headdresses and they carried crescent bouquets of yellow pompons with yellow and white ribbons.

Jewel McBroom attended Mr. Young as best man and serving as groomsmen-ushers were Dwight Ramsey and Steve Gilbert.

Candlelighters were Clyde Washer Jr. and Curtis Young, brothers of the bride and groom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church. The bride's table was covered with a yellow cloth, overlaid with yellow net with clusters of ribbon and net decorating the skirt. Large yellow bows and streamers were caught at the corners. A crystal compote holding a classic arrangement of yellow gladioli and pompons formed the central decor with yellow tapers in crystal holders on either side. Mrs. Dorothy Farley served the tiered wedding cake and Mrs. Ferron White presided at the crystal punch bowl at opposite ends of the table. Presiding at the guest book was Miss Jean Smith.

For travel when the couple left for Waco, Texas, where they will reside, the bride was wearing a gold double knit suit with a long sleeved crepe blouse, brown accessories and the orchid from her bouquet.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Young are graduates of West Monroe high school and attended Northeast Louisiana State College. He is presently in the air force, stationed at Waco, Texas.

Oriental Tea Is Farewell Courtesy To Mrs. Clark

In farewell courtesy to Mrs. Leslie Carroll Clark, a group of hostesses entertained with an Oriental Tea Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Roy Colquette, 2121 Oliver Road.

Mrs. Clark, a recent bride, is leaving to join her husband at Fort Campbell, Kentucky, where he is stationed with the 101st Airborne Division.

Hostesses, who were dressed in Oriental costumes for the occasion, were Mrs. D. F. Dennis, Mrs. August Danti, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. John Tolar, Mrs. Loyce Stell and Mrs. Colquette.

Receiving the guests who called between the appointed hours of 2 until 5 p.m. were Mrs. Colquette, the honoree, Mrs. Roy L. Simmons Jr., her mother and Mrs. Leslie Clark, her mother-in-law. For her party Mrs. Clark was wearing an Oriental sheath dress of lavender brocade, styled with mandarin collar and frog braid fastenings. The mothers were also attired in colorful Oriental kimonas.

Oriental floral designs predominated appointments throughout the home, using white camellias, with peach and pear blossoms.

Mrs. Garnett and Mrs. Dennis presided at the tea table which was overlaid with an imported hand-drawn cloth. White camellias and pear blossoms arranged in a silver compote formed the centerpiece. Miss Ann Breard assisted the hostesses in serving.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Outward Appearance Could Be Poor Taste

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 15-year-old girl who needs your help. A family moved to this neighborhood about three weeks ago. They have a daughter my age. I will call her Brenda.

My mother says Brenda looks like a tramp. I agree that my mother is part-way right. Brenda wears a monster hair-do and piles on the make up. But this is just poor taste and has nothing to do with her morals. Brenda is actually one of the nicest girls I have ever known.

If mother got to know Brenda better she would like her. Don't you think it is unfair of my mother to judge my friend from her outward appearance? — DEFENDER

Dear Defender: They say "You can't judge a book by it's cover" and it's true, because some covers are misleading. But a cheap or shoddy cover on a good book is indefensible and stupid.

If you want to do Brenda a real favor, wise her up.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband pays income taxes hand over fist. He has no interest in anyone except himself, and no interest in anything but making money. I used to have guests over but he humiliated me by yawning in their faces and dozing when they spoke.

One night I invited three couples for dinner. At 10:30 p.m. he announced, "I'm tired. Good night." He turned out the lights and left us sitting in the dark. That was in 1957 and I have not asked anyone over since.

I've always wanted to travel and there is no reason why we shouldn't see the world and enjoy ourselves. We get as far as the brochures. He nods and lets me think he is serious. When it comes to buying the tickets he gives me ten reasons why he can't leave town.

Is it fair that I should be getting so little out of life just because my husband is a driven, money - made, stick-in-the-mud? — MRS. BLAH

Dear Mrs. Blah: No, it isn't, and you are a fool if you let him get away with it.

Plan a trip and buy the tickets yourself. Tell him if he will not go you will invite (as your guest) a woman friend or a relative in his place. (It would be lovely if you chose someone who could not afford a trip.) Then do it and send me a post card.

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think of people who call on the telephone and start the conversation like this: "Well, it's about time. I've been trying to get your line for over an hour." Or — "My but you have a busy telephone. This is the fifth time I've tried to reach you and your line has been tied up."

I always get the uncomfortable feeling that I must tell the caller to whom I have been speaking. When I give out the information I become annoyed with myself. After all, it's really nobody's business and I shouldn't have to make any apologies. My irritation is reflected in the tone of voice I use throughout the conversation and this makes me mad, too.

Please deal with this problem in the column. I am sure others are plagued, too.—A. K. W.

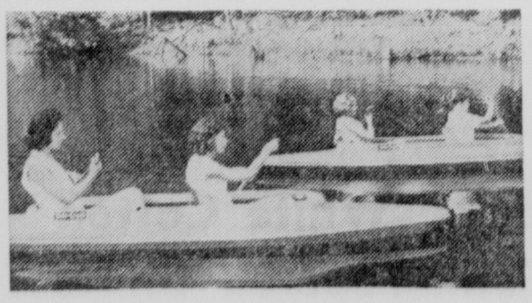

Dear A. K. W.: A busy signal can be frustrating and even maddening after a while. But the mature person copes with the frustration and doesn't get ugly with his friends.

Keep this simple answer by the phone and use when needed: "Yes, I certainly am long-winded. I guess I have no terminal facility . . . Beyond hope, you might say."

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Ferns Are Ideal Blenders With All Pot Plants

Ferns, as every florist knows, are ideal blenders. They are gracefully compatible with both flowering or foliage plants. And they can hold their own solo as individual pot plants.

Whether you use ferns in red clay pots as single plants, or plunge them, clay pot and all, in window sill or room-divider planters, you'll find these old favorites beautifully at home.

Reasonably good light, proper ventilation and drainage are three basic keys to the health of ferns. Like most other green plants they prefer diffused, or partially shaded light. If you'd like to place ferns where there isn't enough natural light, you can augment with fluorescent lighting. Ferns like anywhere from 100 to 1,000 foot candles of light, depending on their variety. It's good to ask your florist about lighting requirements.

You needn't worry about proper soil mixtures or containers if you select professionally grown ferns from your florist or garden center. They'll be in porous red clay pots, to give them the drainage and ventilation they need. And the professionally prepared soil mixture will have the right amount of humus materials and organic matter such as leaf mold and peat moss to help retain an even, but not too wet balance in the potting soil.

CURVE STEMS

Greater variety in arrangements using pussy willow can be attained if some of their stems are curved. To do this, the Society of American Florists suggests: Grasp the stem end firmly with thumbs underneath and fingers on top. Curve the stem over t he thumbs, gently softening figers with both thumbs. Continue this to the tips, working carefully between catkins.

At this time of year, the weather inspires greater interest in gardens and houses. Even though our winter is relatively short, we do have a time there when our people are tempted to remain indoors. And do so. Now blooming bulbs and flowering trees are calling even the lukewarm gardener to put his hand to the trowel.

Tomorrow Welcome Garden Club of the Twin Cities is to present an outstanding speaker, KATIE MAE BATTEN (Mrs. John T.) of Natchitoches. Katie Mae, who is a past president of the Natchitoches Garden club and state treasurer of the Louisiana Garden Club federation, is also nationally accredited flower show judge and a camellia judge. She is registered in Japan as a certified teacher under Josui Oshikawa, and is now teaching this in Alexandria and Baton Rouge as well as Natchitoches.

She has completed Sogetsu also, and is styding on a higher certificate in this and Ikenobo. Katie Mae is to speak at Julia Wossman Recreation center at 2 p.m. The meeting is open to all garden club members of the twin cities for a small entrance fee.

We had one spot of roaring March, on Monday last, the very day of Monroe Garden club's tour to Natchez. Two busses of ladies made the trip and completed the morning schedule of ante - bellum houses. One bus, with occupants eyeing the stormy skies, returned to Monroe immediately after lunch at the Carriage House.

Ladies on the second bus elected to visit some of the antique shops before heading for Monroe. The afternoon visit to Haphazard plantation near Vidalia had to be cancelled due to the storm which left parts of the garden under water. Those on the second bus arrived back in Monroe at the height of the early evening session of the storm. Some fifteen of the ladies went home with SARAH RHYMES, where they found all the lights out. Sarah's husband, RAY, and brother, JERRY HODGE, our candidates for Gallant Hosts of the Week, entertained the ladies at a candlelit song fest for about two hours, until the storm subsided.

This week we were privileged to visit the lovely new home of the IVY JORDANS on Pargoud boulevard. Constructed of colonial brick, the house is of Louisiana French design. Curving walls of brick laid in lattice design frame the hospitable paved courtyard at the main entrance. Copper lanterns hang at each side of the front door, which is recessed at the center of the street facade.

Straight ahead from the entrance is the living room, with its back wall consisting entirely of dozens of fixed panes of glass commanding a view of the bayou. Draperies of open weave linen draw across the entire wall. In the side walls are French doors which open onto the brick-floored porch. With its square brick columns and ceiling fans, the porch wraps around three sides of the living room. Brick walks lead to the terrace at the water's edge.

The family dining room adjoining the kitchen is panelled in cypress, with floor of travertine. Furniture is Italian country design. One entire wall is lined with storage each cabinet tailor made for its contents. In this room, too, French doors open onto the gallery which extends across the back of the house. Draperies are of theatrical gauze.

In the kitchen, appliances are built into maple cabinets. Above the panelling is wallpaper printed to resemble green-checked gingham. Curtains are made of a material matching exactly. The kitchen door gives onto a covered brick walk which leads to the garage and to the separate storage for barbecue and gardening equipment.

Across the hall is the guest room, with seafoam green carpet and wall paper in a print of browns and greens on white. Shutters at the window double for curtains. Bedspreads on the twin beds are of a material printed to match the wallpaper. Tile in the bath is of the same restful green as used in the guest room . . . In the master bedroom at the end of the house, blue bedspreads pick up a vibrant shade from the English sporting prints on the wall above. A pair of blue chairs face the French doors with their view of the bayou. On the opposite wall, a window commands a view of a tiny enclosed garden with fountain.

In response to numerous requests, today we repeat our collection of pithy sayings from the words of Mark Twain:

"Nothing so needs reforming as other people's habits."

"To be good is noble; but to show others how to be good is nobler and no trouble."

"Few things are harder to put up with than the annoyance of a good example."

"We know all about the habits of the ant, we know all about the habits of the bee, but we know nothing at all about the habits of the oyster. It seems almost certain that we have been choosing the wrong time for studying the oyster"

"Training is everything. The peach was once a bitter almond; cauliflower is nothing but cabbage with a college education."

"One of the striking differences between a cat and a lie is that a cat has only nine lives."

"Consider well the proportions of things. It is better to be a young June-bug than an old bird of paradise."

"She was not quite what you would call refined. She was not quite what you would call unrefined. She was the kind of person that keeps a parrot."

"Noise proves nothing. Often a hen who has merely laid an egg cackles as if she had laid an asteroid."

"It were not best that we should all think alike; it is difference of opinion that makes horse-races."

"Wrinkles should merely indicate where smiles have been."

"The proverb says that Providence protects children and idiots. This is really true. I know it because I have tested it."

"In my early manhood and in middle life, I used to vex myself with reforms every now, and then. And I never had occasion to regret these divergencies for, whether the resulting deprivations were long or short, the rewarding pleasure which I got out of the vice when I returned to it always paid me for all that it cost."

I have no objects to abstinence, as long as it does not harm anybody. I practice it myself, on occasion. I make it a rule never to smoke when asleep. Not that I care for moderation myself. I do it as an example to others, and to prove that I am not a slave to the habit. I can give up tobacco whenever I want to. I've done it a thousand times.

An elderly lady friend of mine had gone down and down to the point where medicines no longer had any helpful effect on her. I told her she must give up smoking and drinking and swearing, and by the end of the week she'd be on her feet. Why, she said, she couldn't give up smoking and drinking and swearing because she'd never done any of those things!

So there it was. She'd neglected her habits. She was a sinking ship with no freight to throw overboard. Why, just one or two little bad habits would have saved her.

"If you pick up a starving dog and make him prosperous, he will not bite you. This is the principal difference between a dog and a man."

"Man is the only animal that blushes. Or needs to."

Now I am 70. Seventy! I am old. I recognize it, but I don't realize it. I wonder if a person ever ceases to feel young? I mean for a whole day at a time?

I make it a point never to smoke more than one cigar at a time. I have no other restrictions. I have never taken any exercise except sleeping and resting. I could never see any benefit in being tired.

But the point I want to make is that you can't reach old age by another man's road. My habits protect my life but they'd probably assassinate you. You have to make up your own rules and then stick to them. That's not easy because there's bound to be somebody trying to reform you, trying to take all the pleasure right out of your life and replace it with dreariness. But don't let them! If you can't make 70 by a comfortable road, don't go.

MARCH 27 is the date chosen for the wedding of Miss Sallie Lou Taylor and Charles Pettit of Camden, Ark., whose forthcoming marriage is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Taylor of Spearsville. He is the son of Mrs. Nettie J. Pettit of Reader, Ark. Vows will be exchanged in Beech Grove Methodist Church at Spearsville.

Oak Grove Man Claims Bride In Alabama

Vows uniting in marriage Miss Rubie Mae Jones of Northport, Alabama, and Lafayette Ruffin of Oak Grove, were solemnized Saturday, February 29 in the Third Presbyterian Church in Birmingham, Ala.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grady A. Jones of Northport, Ala., and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Ercie Ruffin of Oak Grove.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony was the Rev. James S. Cantrell.

Mrs. Ruffin is a graduate of Tuscaloosa County high school and is now employed in Tuscaloosa, Ala. Mr. Ruffin was graduated from Oak Grove high school and from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute in Ruston. He is presently employed with a landscaping service at a nursery in Tuscaloosa.

After a short wedding trip to Lookout Mountain, Tennessee the couple is at home at 2304 18th St., Northport, Ala.

'WEARIN' THE GREEN

The "wearin' of the green" on March 17 is a command to all, no matter what the heritage. To get that certain touch of the luck of the Irish, the Society of American Florists recommends the use of green-tinted carnations. Women can wear them in the hair, men can pin them to their coat lapels and, of course, they are excellent for centerpieces.

How many ways does exercise help your child?

We're all aware of the more obvious benefits of exercise—to develop strength, skill, agility. But exercise has other important benefits. For instance, it is good for the heart and blood vessels. Indeed, daily, vigorous activity may be the most important factor in preventing or delaying heart disease. Moreover, the better a youngster's physical condition, the more likely he is to do well in his studies. And the physically fit boy or girl certainly measures up to challenging or competitive situations with a sureness that the under-developed child often lacks. Don't you agree that your child should have both the immediate and the long-range benefits of exercise? Won't you see to it that his school has a daily program that can improve every child's fitness? For more information, send for the free leaflet offered by the President's Council on Physical Fitness, Washington 25, D. C.

Reasonably good light, proper ventilation and drainage are three basic keys to the health of ferns. Like most other green plants they prefer diffused, or partially shaded light. If you'd like to place ferns where there isn't enough natural light, you can augment with fluorescent lighting. Ferns like anywhere from 100 to 1,000 foot candles of light, depending on their variety. It's good to ask your florist about lighting requirements.

You needn't worry about proper soil mixtures or containers if you select professionally grown ferns from your florist or garden center. They'll be in porous red clay pots, to give them the drainage and ventilation they need. And the professionally prepared soil mixture will have the right amount of humus materials and organic matter such as leaf mold and peat moss to help retain an even, but not too wet balance in the potting soil.

CURVE STEMS

Greater variety in arrangements using pussy willow can be attained if some of their stems are curved. To do this, the Society of American Florists suggests: Grasp the stem end firmly with thumbs underneath and fingers on top. Curve the stem over t he thumbs, gently softening figers with both thumbs. Continue this to the tips, working carefully between catkins.

At this time of year, the weather inspires greater interest in gardens and houses. Even though our winter is relatively short, we do have a time there when our people are tempted to remain indoors. And do so. Now blooming bulbs and flowering trees are calling even the lukewarm gardener to put his hand to the trowel.

Tomorrow Welcome Garden Club of the Twin Cities is to present an outstanding speaker, KATIE MAE BATTEN (Mrs. John T.) of Natchitoches. Katie Mae, who is a past president of the Natchitoches Garden club and state treasurer of the Louisiana Garden Club federation, is also nationally accredited flower show judge and a camellia judge. She is registered in Japan as a certified teacher under Josui Oshikawa, and is now teaching this in Alexandria and Baton Rouge as well as Natchitoches.

She has completed Sogetsu also, and is styding on a higher certificate in this and Ikenobo. Katie Mae is to speak at Julia Wossman Recreation center at 2 p.m. The meeting is open to all garden club members of the twin cities for a small entrance fee.

We had one spot of roaring March, on Monday last, the very day of Monroe Garden club's tour to Natchez. Two busses of ladies made the trip and completed the morning schedule of ante - bellum houses. One bus, with occupants eyeing the stormy skies, returned to Monroe immediately after lunch at the Carriage House.

Ladies on the second bus elected to visit some of the antique shops before heading for Monroe. The afternoon visit to Haphazard plantation near Vidalia had to be cancelled due to the storm which left parts of the garden under water. Those on the second bus arrived back in Monroe at the height of the early evening session of the storm. Some fifteen of the ladies went home with SARAH RHYMES, where they found all the lights out. Sarah's husband, RAY, and brother, JERRY HODGE, our candidates for Gallant Hosts of the Week, entertained the ladies at a candlelit song fest for about two hours, until the storm subsided.

This week we were privileged to visit the lovely new home of the IVY JORDANS on Pargoud boulevard. Constructed of colonial brick, the house is of Louisiana French design. Curving walls of brick laid in lattice design frame the hospitable paved courtyard at the main entrance. Copper lanterns hang at each side of the front door, which is recessed at the center of the street facade.

Straight ahead from the entrance is the living room, with its back wall consisting entirely of dozens of fixed panes of glass commanding a view of the bayou. Draperies of open weave linen draw across the entire wall. In the side walls are French doors which open onto the brick-floored porch. With its square brick columns and ceiling fans, the porch wraps around three sides of the living room. Brick walks lead to the terrace at the water's edge.

The family dining room adjoining the kitchen is panelled in cypress, with floor of travertine. Furniture is Italian country design. One entire wall is lined with storage each cabinet tailor made for its contents. In this room, too, French doors open onto the gallery which extends across the back of the house. Draperies are of theatrical gauze.

In the kitchen, appliances are built into maple cabinets. Above the panelling is wallpaper printed to resemble green-checked gingham. Curtains are made of a material matching exactly. The kitchen door gives onto a covered brick walk which leads to the garage and to the separate storage for barbecue and gardening equipment.

Across the hall is the guest room, with seafoam green carpet and wall paper in a print of browns and greens on white. Shutters at the window double for curtains. Bedspreads on the twin beds are of a material printed to match the wallpaper. Tile in the bath is of the same restful green as used in the guest room . . . In the master bedroom at the end of the house, blue bedspreads pick up a vibrant shade from the English sporting prints on the wall above. A pair of blue chairs face the French doors with their view of the bayou. On the opposite wall, a window commands a view of a tiny enclosed garden with fountain.

In response to numerous requests, today we repeat our collection of pithy sayings from the words of Mark Twain:

"Nothing so needs reforming as other people's habits."

"To be good is noble; but to show others how to be good is nobler and no trouble."

"Few things are harder to put up with than the annoyance of a good example."

"We know all about the habits of the ant, we know all about the habits of the bee, but we know nothing at all about the habits of the oyster. It seems almost certain that we have been choosing the wrong time for studying the oyster"

"Training is everything. The peach was once a bitter almond; cauliflower is nothing but cabbage with a college education."

"One of the striking differences between a cat and a lie is that a cat has only nine lives."

"Consider well the proportions of things. It is better to be a young June-bug than an old bird of paradise."

"She was not quite what you would call refined. She was not quite what you would call unrefined. She was the kind of person that keeps a parrot."

"Noise proves nothing. Often a hen who has merely laid an egg cackles as if she had laid an asteroid."

"It were not best that we should all think alike; it is difference of opinion that makes horse-races."

"Wrinkles should merely indicate where smiles have been."

"The proverb says that Providence protects children and idiots. This is really true. I know it because I have tested it."

"In my early manhood and in middle life, I used to vex myself with reforms every now, and then. And I never had occasion to regret these divergencies for, whether the resulting deprivations were long or short, the rewarding pleasure which I got out of the vice when I returned to it always paid me for all that it cost."

I have no objects to abstinence, as long as it does not harm anybody. I practice it myself, on occasion. I make it a rule never to smoke when asleep. Not that I care for moderation myself. I do it as an example to others, and to prove that I am not a slave to the habit. I can give up tobacco whenever I want to. I've done it a thousand times.

An elderly lady friend of mine had gone down and down to the point where medicines no longer had any helpful effect on her. I told her she must give up smoking and drinking and swearing, and by the end of the week she'd be on her feet. Why, she said, she couldn't give up smoking and drinking and swearing because she'd never done any of those things!

So there it was. She'd neglected her habits. She was a sinking ship with no freight to throw overboard. Why, just one or two little bad habits would have saved her.

"If you pick up a starving dog and make him prosperous, he will not bite you. This is the principal difference between a dog and a man."

"Man is the only animal that blushes. Or needs to."

Now I am 70. Seventy! I am old. I recognize it, but I don't realize it. I wonder if a person ever ceases to feel young? I mean for a whole day at a time?

I make it a point never to smoke more than one cigar at a time. I have no other restrictions. I have never taken any exercise except sleeping and resting. I could never see any benefit in being tired.

But the point I want to make is that you can't reach old age by another man's road. My habits protect my life but they'd probably assassinate you. You have to make up your own rules and then stick to them. That's not easy because there's bound to be somebody trying to reform you, trying to take all the pleasure right out of your life and replace it with dearniess. But don't let them! If you can't make 70 by a comfortable road, don't go.

Taylor of Spearsville. He is the son of Mrs. Nettie J. Pettit of Reader, Ark. Vows will be exchanged in Beech Grove Methodist Church at Spearsville.

'WEARIN' THE GREEN

The "wearin' of the green" on March 17 is a command to all, no matter what the heritage. To get that certain touch of the luck of the Irish, the Society of American Florists recommends the use of green-tinted carnations. Women can wear them in the hair, men can pin them to their coat lapels and, of course, they are excellent for centerpieces.

How many ways does exercise help your child?

We're all aware of the more obvious benefits of exercise—to develop strength, skill, agility. But exercise has other important benefits. For instance, it is good for the heart and blood vessels. Indeed, daily, vigorous activity may be the most important factor in preventing or delaying heart disease. Moreover, the better a youngster's physical condition, the more likely he is to do well in his studies. And the physically fit boy or girl certainly measures up to challenging or competitive situations with a sureness that the under-developed child often lacks. Don't you agree that your child should have both the immediate and the long-range benefits of exercise? Won't you see to it that his school has a daily program that can improve every child's fitness? GARDEN CENTER NOTES

6 Designs Of Spring

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

"Spring is here," could easily be the theme of Dr. John Wright's program given on the Garden Center T.V. program last Wednesday. Lovely arrays of garden flowers were used in the six designs made by Dr. Wright. Flowering branches combined with daffodils, roses and carnations made up some of the designs.

FROM GREEN HOUSE

The amazing thing about this design was the fact that the lovely carnations came from Dr. Wright's green house. In all he brought five different colors of the carnations, each a beautiful specimen. These were used in several of his lovely arrangements.

The variegated, peach color edged with deep pink, was placed in a gold container (usuabata) which contained a line of three levels of pussywillow. This was a lovely combination of color. A deep rose shade, four stems of carnations, were placed in tiered fashion in a ceramic candle holder. These were striking in this simple design.

One of the favorite designs was the shell pink roses, in half open bud stage, placed to form a vertical line in a low green footed container. The leaves of the roses formed a pleasing filler. These were the shell pink radiance roses that Dr. Wright recommended that we should have in our gardens. They are just perfect for tea arrangements, and easy to grow.

Red bud is about to bloom out. One of Dr. Wright's designs featured the budding branches of red bud placed in an olive green usuabata container. Two large, deep red amaryllis were placed in the lower part of the design. This created a striking, yet simple arrangement that would be so lovely to enjoy in the entrance hall or on a large, low, modern coffee table.

SPECIMEN ROSES

Dr. Wright brought a selection of his specimen roses. The shell pink, radiance, red Chrysler Imperial, and another lovely red rose, florabunda type, were featured in a large container. Some of these were buds, others were in full bloom stage. Dr. Wright explained that he had forced some of these to open by placing the stems in warm water after cutting. This is a good tip if you wish your roses to open sooner than normal. Sometimes we need some in this stage to achieve the graduation of size in our designs.

We all appreciate the wonderful programs brought to us by Dr. John Wright. This one was exceptionally good, and beautiful.

Date reminder: The Louisiana Garden Club Federation, Inc. presents its Sixteenth State Flower Show in Ruston, Friday and Saturday. "Flora Tourcade" is the theme of the show which will be staged in the Tech Memorial Gym. Time on Friday will be 6:00 p.m.—9:00 P.M.,and on Saturday, 9:00 a.m. — 9:00 P.M. — admission—adults fifty cents, students twenty-five cents.

Also, the LGCF, Inc. Thirtieth Annual convention meeting will take place Friday, Saturday and Sunday at Ruston. Headquarters for the convention will be Howard auditorium, Louisiana Tech.

This convention, in addition to the business session, will offer workshops and information that will help each garden club member to be a better member of a better federated garden club. Neely, Flower Show Chairman, and Mrs. C. J. Turpin, convention chairman, with Mrs. F. L. Jordan, president of the Louisiana Garden Club Federation extend a cordial welcome to these wonderful events.

The Welcome Garden Club of the Twin cities invites the public to its meeting next Monday, 2 p.m. at the Julia Wossman Recreation Center to hear Mrs. John Batten, famous flower demonstration arranger and lecturer, from Natchitoches. Her subject will be "Oriental Influence in Design." There will be a nominal fee to non-members of $1.

Use Pruning For Benefit Of Camellias

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles prepared by members of the Northeast Louisiana Camellia Club on various phases of the growing and showing of camellias in the Monroe area. Various articles discuss the different problems and aspects of camellia propagation.)

The very thought of pruning a camellia is likely to chill the souls of most camellia fans. They have learned to appreciate the value of every inch of wood and revolt at the thought of removing any. They may expertly prune their other plants, but they have no intention of cutting one twig from a camellia.

The camellia is not really fundamentally different from other plants and the basic principles of pruning apply to it. We, who grow camellias, use our knowledge to grow them better.

OBJECTIVE

The object of pruning in a broad sense, is to increase the value of the plant. Specifically, pruning should improve the flowers and maintain and improve the vigor of the plant. Camellia growers recognize the necessity of pruning out deadwood. Diseased wood, weakwood and suckers may profitably be removed by pruning.

Poor wood is only a liability to the plant and whether we prune to shape the plant or for the sake of the health of the plant we should take satisfaction in knowing that the plant is being doubly benefited, first in the removal of useless wood and second, in the increased flow of sap to the vigorous wood. Furthermore, the relationships of root system to top growth is improved, especially if, for any reason, the root system has not grown in proportion to the top.

The ideal time to prune is soon after the blooming season but pruning of undesirable growth may be done at any time during the year.

Occasionally we find the growth of a camellia so dense that spraying is not effective and so dense that blooms are crowded and cannot properly open. Thus, the thinning of the interior and the removal of crossing branches may be desirable.

REMEDY

Deadwood and diseased wood should be removed at its origin and large wounds should be painted with static asphalt or tree healing paint. Suckers arising from below the graft union should always be removed. When branches one quarter inch or larger in diameter are cut off, use a sharp knife to pare down the stub, then cover with the compounds mentioned above.

Long branches that hang close to the ground should be removed. Never worry about sacrificing wood in order to shape a plant. If the plant has a good root system it will soon replace this wood with fresh and vigorous growth that needs only to be directed in the way it should go. Removal of wood already budded may seem a real loss. Actually, the potentialities of the remaining buds are being increased to where prize winning blooms may be the result.

THEATER MEMORABILIA

NEW YORK (AP) — An exhibition, taining particularly to design and costume, has been added to the theatrical collection of the Museum of the City of New York.

Among the items are satin slippers worn by Sarah Bernhardt, original sketches for elaborate Ziegfeld Follies gowns and playbills of major stage events in the early 19th Century. The material was given to the museum by a costuming house (Dazian's, Inc.) which started serving show business in 1842.

Give Plants Feeding Now

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

With the coming of warm spring rains, "now is the time" to fertilize everything: trees, shrubs, perennials and bulbs. If you do not believe that most of us starve our plants, just take a ride around any town. Yellow green evergreen, especially hollies and magnolias, starved, yellow ligustrums and moth-eaten shrubs of many kinds meet the eye everywhere. All of us are guilty of keeping undernourished plants on our grounds that would be better off on the brush heap.

FEEDING METHOD

For the hole punching method of feeding trees and shrubs, everyone has his own favorite tool. One of the best is an old automobile axle sharpened by a blacksmith to a point. The weight of this iron instrument makes it easy to punch well into the soil on the first plunge. Then you can burrow deeper by simply going around and around in a circular motion until the hole is deep enough and wide enough for the amount of fertilizer you wish to put in.

HEAVY DRAIN

Spring rains usually keep the soil so wet that it is impossible to dig in the ground, and this is the very time to punch holes. The wet soil makes it easy to put down holes. If the ground is not wet when you start this operation, run the hose very slowly all night over the area to soften it up.

Most of us do not realize how much large trees take away from the soil. Camellia fans know that they have to feed their shrubs heavily when they are in competition with pines or oaks growing over them or nearby for shade. Azalea growers know this, too. Nevertheless, one sees handsome hollies, photinias, ligustrums, hemlocks, podocarpuses and many other small trees and shrubs that we grow in shade straving to death underneath big shade trees. Most of these greens were handsome specimens and cost a lot of money when they were set out. Failure to keep them fed along with the shade trees has starved them into ghosts of their former selves.

SEASON OR TWO

It does not take but a season or two to revive your starvelings. If they have dwindled nearly away, the best thing to do is to cut around them with a sharp-shooter to cut the tree roots. Use the sharp-shooter in a ring two to three feet away from the outmost branches of the specimen you wish to save. Then feed your specimen copiously in holes punched in one or two circles around it and inside the sharp-shooter circle.

Starved evergreens under trees often need to have their branches shortened back to some extent.

Prepare Good Soil Mixture

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

You, Mrs. Gardener, need to be making preparation for setting out bedding plants after danger of frost is passed. So now is an excellent time to prepare a good soil mixture before planting. A well drained soil which contains a high humus content is desirous for bedding plants. If you want early plants, you may sow the seeds indoors in flats. This will give you a supply of plants a little earlier. The danger of frost is not over usually in this area of the state until after the first week of April.

You can still plant dahlias and gladiolus. Seed that may be planted this month outdoors are: Sweet alyssum, Chinese forget-me-not, petunia, zinnas, phlox, blue and red salvia, verbena, and early cosmos.

Remember you are injuring your bulbs if you cut the foliage. The leaves of the bulb manufacture food to store in the bulb for next year's bloom. That's why we do not cut or mow the tops down after the bulbs quit blooming.

PLENTIFUL FOODS

The U. S. Department of Agriculture's Plentiful food list for March features eggs, peanuts, and peanut products.

Mrs. Homemaker plan to use eggs every way you can think of because they promote valauble protein for good health and strong bodies. Peanuts and peanut products are also a good source of protein. Four tablespoons of peanut butter is equivalent in protein value to two eggs or one cup cooked poultry or fish or two to three ounces of lean meat. This year's peanut crop tops the abundant 1962 harvest by 166 million pounds. That's just a little less than an extra pound for every man, woman and child in this country. So pass the peanut butter often.

OUT OF PARISH

Your Home Demonstration Agent and Donna Moore, the associate agent, will leave Wednesday for New Orleans to meet with agents from the other 63 parishes of Louisiana for their annual meeting.

We will also attend the annual meeting of Louisiana Home Economics Association which will begin Friday at noon and last session will be a luncheon Saturday. Speakers for the Home Demonstration Agents meeting will be Norvel Thames, associate director of LSU Agricultural Extension, who will address the group on "The Important Role of Women in Today's World."

Miss Marjorie Arbour, retired editor of LSU Extension, will speak on "Our Public Relations."

WOOLEN GARMENTS

There's quite a number of woolen garments and fabrics on the market that are washable, but Mrs. Homemaker, be sure you read the label. There are many woolen clothes that are not washable. A label marked "washable" means the woolen article can be successfully washed by hand. Also, check the label to see if the garment is machine washable and machine dryable, along with instructions for handling both operations. Some of the general procedures for machine washing woolens are: The water temperature must be warm for both the wash and rinse water, and it is necessary to use a mild detergent. Never use a soap or synthetic detergent marked "heavy duty."

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

"Spring is here," could easily be the theme of Dr. John Wright's program given on the Garden Center T.V. program last Wednesday. Lovely arrays of garden flowers were used in the six designs made by Dr. Wright. Flowering branches combined with daffodils, roses and carnations made up some of the designs.

FROM GREEN HOUSE

The amazing thing about this design was the fact that the lovely carnations came from Dr. Wright's green house. In all he brought five different colors of the carnations, each a beautiful specimen. These were used in several of his lovely arrangements.

The variegated, peach color edged with deep pink, was placed in a gold container (usuabata) which contained a line of three levels of pussywillow. This was a lovely combination of color. A deep rose shade, four stems of carnations, were placed in tiered fashion in a ceramic candle holder. These were striking in this simple design.

One of the favorite designs was the shell pink roses, in half open bud stage, placed to form a vertical line in a low green footed container. The leaves of the roses formed a pleasing filler. These were the shell pink radiance roses that Dr. Wright recommended that we should have in our gardens. They are just perfect for tea arrangements, and easy to grow.

Red bud is about to bloom out. One of Dr. Wright's designs featured the budding branches of red bud placed in an olive green usuabata container. Two large, deep red amaryllis were placed in the lower part of the design. This created a striking, yet simple arrangement that would be so lovely to enjoy in the entrance hall or on a large, low, modern coffee table.

SPECIMEN ROSES

Dr. Wright brought a selection of his specimen roses. The shell pink, radiance, red Chrysler Imperial, and another lovely red rose, florabunda type, were featured in a large container. Some of these were buds, others were in full bloom stage. Dr. Wright explained that he had forced some of these to open by placing the stems in warm water after cutting. This is a good tip if you wish your roses to open sooner than normal. Sometimes we need some in this stage to achieve the graduation of size in our designs.

We all appreciate the wonderful programs brought to us by Dr. John Wright. This one was exceptionally good, and beautiful.

Date reminder: The Louisiana Garden Club Federation, Inc. presents its Sixteenth State Flower Show in Ruston, Friday and Saturday. "Flora Tourcade" is the theme of the show which will be staged in the Tech Memorial Gym. Neely, Flower Show Chairman, and Mrs. C. J. Turpin, convention chairman, with Mrs. F. L. Jordan, president of the Louisiana Garden Club Federation extend a cordial welcome to these wonderful events.

Grows to about 15 feet. Especially lovely when three are planted together. You receive choice, hand selected 2 to 4 feet collected trees. SEND NO MONEY. CURTAIN CALL

Last Sunday "Once Upon A Mattress" closed its run of 11 performances in a blaze of glory. Total attendance edged past "Auntie Mame" to put this year's musical in second place behind "Birdie." Little Theatre membership hit the ceiling of 3,000 established by the board of directors last fall.

Of even greater meaning to the hard-working cast, crew and orchestra, audience enthusiasm was spontaneous and overwhelming and twice there were standing ovations. Cast and crew presented executive director Richard Clark, technical director Lonny Fraze, conductor Dick Steff, choreographer Bob Beard and rehearsal pianist Velma Willey with souvenirs of the show.

Bob Beard left Monroe right after the final curtain for a well deserved rest amid much acclaim for both the dance routines and his appearance as The Minstrel. His parents came up from Galveston for the last Saturday performance.

NEW MEMBERS

"Once Upon A Mattress" attracted new members from as far away as Pine Bluff and Hamburg, while former thespians Betty Bandy and Jim Nuckels journeyed here from Dallas to see it.

Among other nice things that have happened to Little Theatre lately, Weil Cleaners generously laundered the table cloths for the coffee service, city tax collector W. B. Evans punched out more than 100 new address plates and the R. M. Kettenrings brought some hats to add to our wardrobe.

Little Theatre members will want to see the forthcoming production of "The Mikado" at Northeast State College. Under the direction of George Brian who has often appeared on our stage, the cast includes quite a few veterans of Strauss Playhouse productions. John Goorley appears as The Mikado, Claude Fuller as Pooh Bah, Bill Haddad as Ko-Ko, Marian Mann as Yum Yum, Barbara Addison as Katisha and Sidney Martin as Nanki Poo.

"THE MIKADO"

Performances of "The Mikado" are scheduled for Friday and Saturday nights, the 20th and 21st, at 8 p.m. at Brown Auditorium, with admission $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for students. A revival of Gilbert and Sullivan in one of their most popular works should attract full houses both nights.

Last week we mentioned the visit of Marc Pettaway who directs the Lake Charles Little Theatre. It has a membership of about 2,000 at a charge of $6 for four shows which this season comprise "Carnival," "Everybody Loves Opal," "Once Upon A Mattress" and "The Seven Year Itch." Plays are given in a former opera house with a seating capacity of 850.

Another Little Theatre about which we have news is the one at Chattanooga. Its 3,000 members pay $10 for a season membership entitling them to six admissions which may be applied to any of their six shows, a method which has both advantages and disadvantages. Their 70 patron members consist of those who buy 10 season memberships.

Spectators outnumbered participants at try-outs last Tuesday and Wednesday. In one capacity or the other we noted Frances Albright, Jacque Biegenwald, Bill Blythe, Barbara Borgkvist, Sue Brooks, Murray Burford, Charles Cook, Wilma Covington, V. P. Dalrymple, Eula Davenport, Dee Doyle, Margaret Doyle.

Also Barbara Easterling, Carolyn Evans, Judy and Bob Evans, Beryl Franklin, Lonny Fraze, Arthur Griffith, Henry Haas Jr., Bill Haddad, Janet Mayeux, Floy McElroy, Gerry and Garland Moore, H. H. "Grandpa" Nobes, Dan Palser, Ronn Robinson, Jean and Maynard Sayles.

Also Betty Slakter, Marilyn Taylor, Al Troy, Paul Wank, Jennie Welch and James West. Even on sight reading, the lines from "Breath Of Spring" drew laughter from the audience. Executive director Richard M. Clark hopes to announce his cast and start rehearsals immediately.

STAMPS

A special memorial stamp featuring a portrait of the late President Yitzhak Ben Zvi will be issued by Israel in April, reports the Israel Philatelic Agency in America. Ben Zvi, the second president of Israel, succeeded the late Dr. Chaim Weizmann in the latter part of 1952. It was Ben Zvi who moved the office of the president from Tel Aviv to its permanent location in the capital city of Jerusalem. It was also announced that on the same day as the issuance of the Ben Zvi stamp, there will be a set of three commemorating the 16th anniversary of Israel's independence. The theme of this year's independence series will be "Contributions of Israel to Science."

The summer Olympic Games in Tokyo will be hailed with a set of four new stamps which will be released in June.

Norway will issue two new stamps honoring the centenary of the presentation of the "law of mass action" by Professors Cato M. Guldberg and Peter Waage in Oslo Scientific Society. The 38 ore olive green and 55 ore yellow brown stamps will depict a double portrait of the professors taken from their busts by sculptor Stinius Fredriksen. The law of mass action, as presented by Professors Guldberg and Waage, is a well-known theory used today for a variety of purposes in the field of chemistry and chemical engineering.

As reported lest year in this column, Great Britain will issue special stamps commemorating the 400th anniversary of the birth of William Shakespeare. Truman Family Meets Daughter

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Former President and Mrs. Harry S. Truman flew to Miami, Fla., Saturday.

In Miami they were to meet their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Daniel of New York. Aides said the Trumans and Daniels plan to vacation together at a private home in Key West, Fla.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

One of the exciting new developments unveiled at the recent trade show of photographic dealers in Chicago was Honeywell's self - focusing slide projector. A remarkable combination of optics and electronics, the machine instantaneously and continuously senses the correct focusing position for each slide in an assortment and automatically adjusts the lens — although the slides may be varied in size, mounting and condition.

The Honeywell 652 Auto-Sharp Projector permits the mingling of all slides from 35mm to 2¼ x 2¼ in the same slide tray no matter whether some are glass or cardboard-mounted or whether some are warped. In operation, it is necessary only to focus the first slide manually, after that the system's servo mechanism takes over to provide automatic, perfect focus on each succeeding slide. It is said to be more sensitive than the human eye and quicker than the human hand because it senses minute differences and eliminates the back - and - forth focusing which is normal in manual lens adjustments.

ANOTHER FIRST

For flash operation, a pistol grip is attached to the camera base. It provides convenient support and holds two "C" batteries which supply the power source. When the shutter speed is set to "Flash," a switch turns the power on and a glow lamp, visible in viewfinder and on top, signals when ready. The unit sets the correct aperture for the distance focused. The flash can be operated manually as well as automatically. The unit's guide number is 40 for ASA 50 color film and has a recycling time of 8 to 13 seconds according to type of battery used.

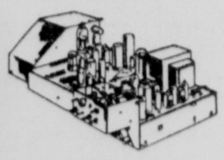

Bell & Howell - Canon's unusual offering was a "Dial 35" half-frame (or single - frame) camera. It is appropriately named since it resembles a telephone dial with 10 small condenser lenses mounted around the central f-2.8 wide-angle lens. The dial is rotated over the cadmium sulphide electric eye to change the ASA settings from 10 to 400 for automatic exposure operation. The camera has a motor drive which will click off 20 pictures in succession without rewinding at two - pictures - per - second if wanted.

Bell & Howell also introduced an 8mm cartridge-loading movie camera with a unique trigger - operated zoom lens which worked from a pistol grip: model 315PZ.

In Miami they were to meet their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Daniel of New York. Aides said the Trumans and Daniels plan to vacation together at a private home in Key West, Fla.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

One of the exciting new developments unveiled at the recent trade show of photographic dealers in Chicago was Honeywell's self - focusing slide projector. A remarkable combination of optics and electronics, the machine instantaneously and continuously senses the correct focusing position for each slide in an assortment and automatically adjusts the lens — although the slides may be varied in size, mounting and condition.

The Honeywell 652 Auto-Sharp Projector permits the mingling of all slides from 35mm to 2¼ x 2¼ in the same slide tray no matter whether some are glass or cardboard-mounted or whether some are warped. In operation, it is necessary only to focus the first slide manually, after that the system's servo mechanism takes over to provide automatic, perfect focus on each succeeding slide. It is said to be more sensitive than the human eye and quicker than the human hand because it senses minute differences and eliminates the back - and - forth focusing which is normal in manual lens adjustments.

ANOTHER FIRST

For flash operation, a pistol grip is attached to the camera base. It provides convenient support and holds two "C" batteries which supply the power source. When the shutter speed is set to "Flash," a switch turns the power on and a glow lamp, visible in viewfinder and on top, signals when ready. The unit sets the correct aperture for the distance focused. The flash can be operated manually as well as automatically. The unit's guide number is 40 for ASA 50 color film and has a recycling time of 8 to 13 seconds according to type of battery used.

Bell & Howell - Canon's unusual offering was a "Dial 35" half-frame (or single - frame) camera. It is appropriately named since it resembles a telephone dial with 10 small condenser lenses mounted around the central f-2.8 wide-angle lens. The dial is rotated over the cadmium sulphide electric eye to change the ASA settings from 10 to 400 for automatic exposure operation. The camera has a motor drive which will click off 20 pictures in succession without rewinding at two - pictures - per - second if wanted.

Bell & Howell also introduced an 8mm cartridge-loading movie camera with a unique trigger - operated zoom lens which worked from a pistol grip: model 315PZ.

Dr. Shive will speak following the dinner at 7 p.m. His topics will be "The Relationship of Techniques to Progress in Biochemistry," and "Biological Control Mechanisms."

The chemist was a recipient of the Eli Lilly and Company Award in Biological Chemistry in 1950 and the Foyt Award in 1951.

He is a member of the American Society of Biological Chemists, American Chemical Society, American Institute of Nutrition, Sigma Xi, Phi Lambda Upsilon, and Phi Kappa Phi.

All persons affiliated with the medical profession are invited to attend the session. No reservations are necessary for those who only attend the address.

Those who want to attend the dinner should contact R. H. Colvard, Columbian Carbon Development Center, P. O. Box 96, Swartz, telephone 373-0963.

Clinic For Area Choral Students Scheduled Here

High school choral students of this area will arrive in Monroe on March 20 to participate in a two-day choral clinic being sponsored by the Choral Directors in District I of the Louisiana Music Educators Association.

The All-District Chorus, comprised of 350 voices, will perform a concert for the public at the conclusion of the clinic in Neville High School Auditorium.

Mrs. Lloydelle Herring, Director of District I, announced that Professor R. Wayne Hugoboom of Tampa, Florida, will be the guest conductor.

Baskin, Caldwell Parish, Cotton Valley, Dehi, Dubach, Gilbert, Hico, Kilbourne, Minden, Neville, Newellton, Oak Grove, Ogden, Ouachita Parish, Pioneer, Rayville, Ruston, Simsboro, Springhill, Start, West Monroe, Winnsboro, and Wisner.

The choral directors of the schools in District I planned and initiated the non-profit venture in order to provide a greater majority of their better students an opportunity to gain valuable experience through participation in a large choral group conducted by a leading expert in the high school field.

Prizes Offered To Writers For Library Articles

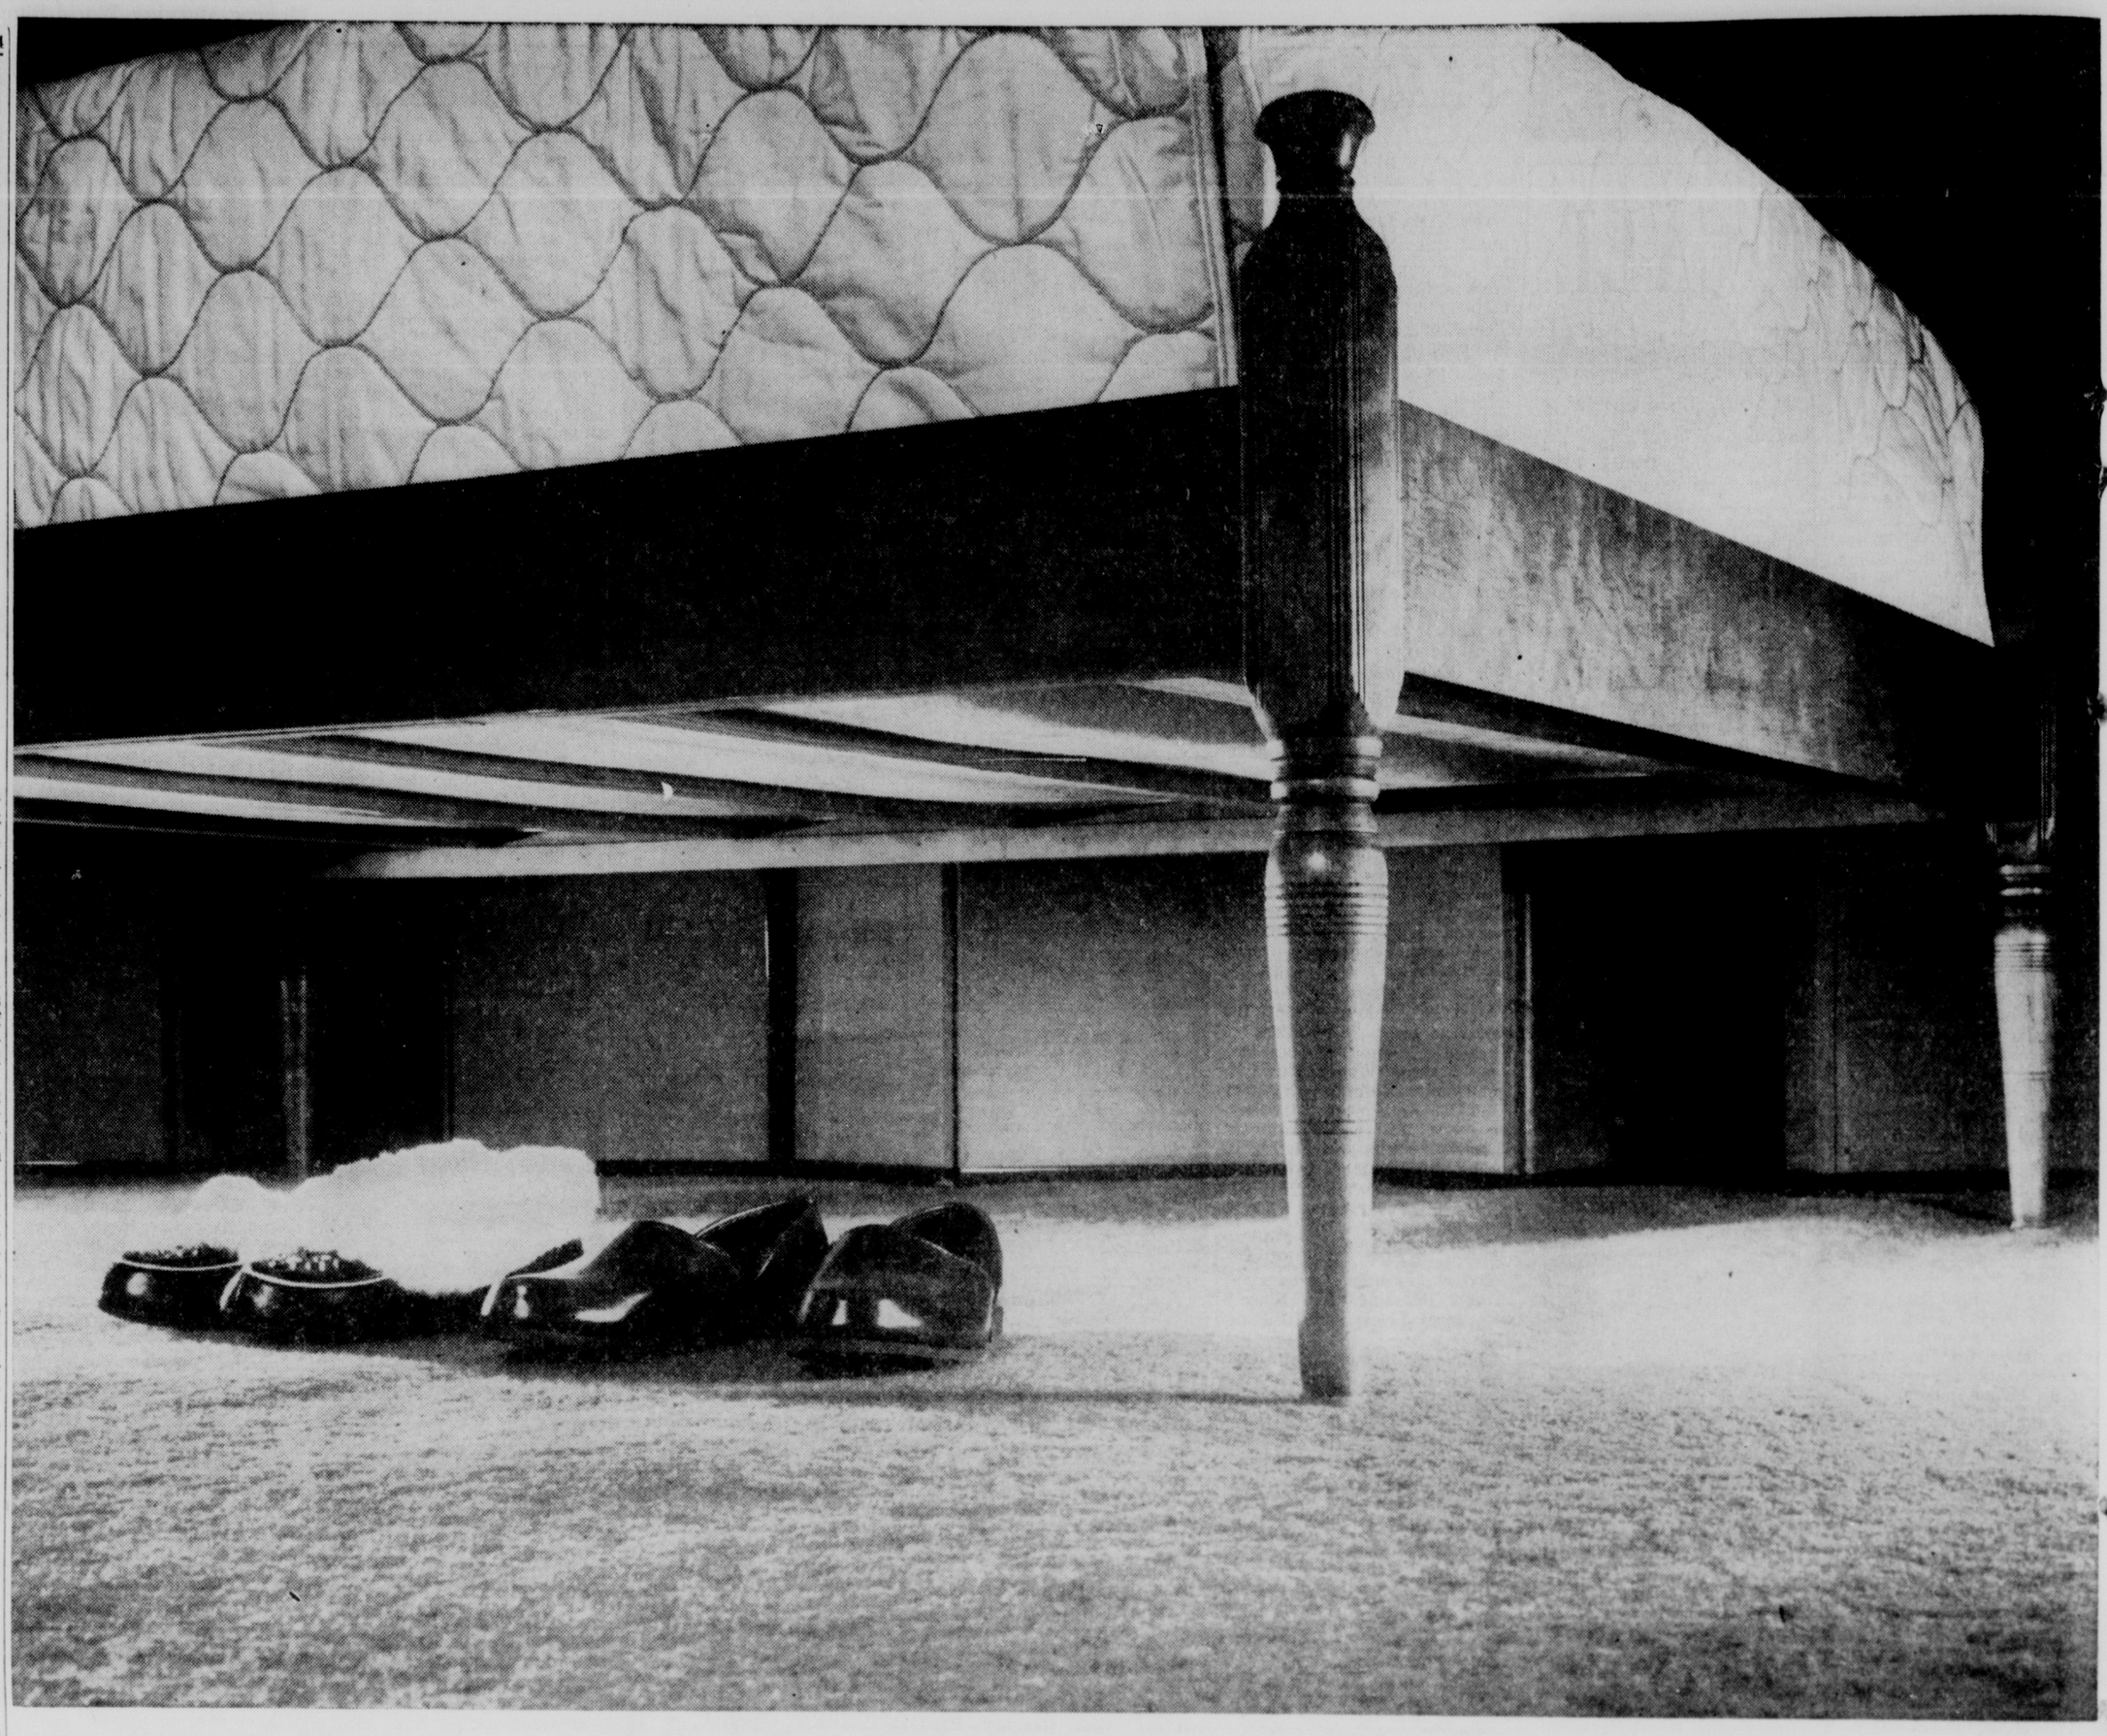

As part of the statewide program for National Library Week, April 12-18, the Deep South Writers Conference is offering monetary prizes for the best feature articles on the subject "What the Library Means to Me."

The Louisiana AFL-CIO is sponsoring the contest by providing the prize money which will be given to two adults and two high school students submitting the best feature articles in the Deep South Writers Conference.

First prize will be $15 and second prize $10 in both categories.

The winners will be announced during National Library Week and will receive recognition at the Deep South Writers Conference which will be held in Lafayette June 5-7 at the University of Southwestern Louisiana.

Anyone paying the Deep South registration fee of $3.00 is eligible to enter up to five manuscripts. An additional fee of $1 is required for each additional one. Fee and entries may be mailed to Peggy Winsor Garnett, 1606 N. Second Street, Monroe, by April 1. High school students are exempt from the entrance fee. The name and address of the school must be sent with a pupil's entry and entries must be anonymous. The deadline for submitting entries is April 1.

A bargain carpet will hold up forever...

There's a difference.

It can look good, feel strong, color okay. And if it's not the thickest pile in the world, you don't mind because you're saving money.

For awhile. Then watch your step.

A "bargain" carpet isn't safe anywhere except under your bed.

If the pile is skimpy, it will mat down fast.

If the dyes are weak, the color may blotch.

If the backs aren't firm, the carpet may buckle on the floor.

A "bargain" carpet just isn't worth it.

That's why we at Trend House just won't sell one.

We know that the manufacturers would have cut corners somewhere, forgetting the great wools and man-mades. They'd skimp on the piles...cheat on the backing...give up inspections and in general lower the standards we expect. We refuse. We only allow our name to be identified with first quality carpet...which will be no "bargain" as described above, but it will be carpet that gives you value...we think the best value available.

Stocks Keep High Levels; Gains Mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — The amazing 1964 stock market rise strung out its list of weekly advances to six straight last week.

Market averages once more were boosted to their highest levels in history.

But the advance, again, was irregular. As profits were taken on previously strong groups, other sections of the list moved in to the spotlight.

Analysts who expected the market to sell off when the Dow Jones industrial average reached the "magic" 800 level saw the indicator rise 10.19 this week to a new closing peak of 816.22.

It was a substantial gain but the over-all market showed only a moderate margin of gainers over losers, the score being 778 to 562 among the 1,509 issues traded.

Volume swelled to 28,204,421 shares from 26,048,470 the previous week. It was the largest since the week ended Jan. 18 when 30.6 million shares changed hands.

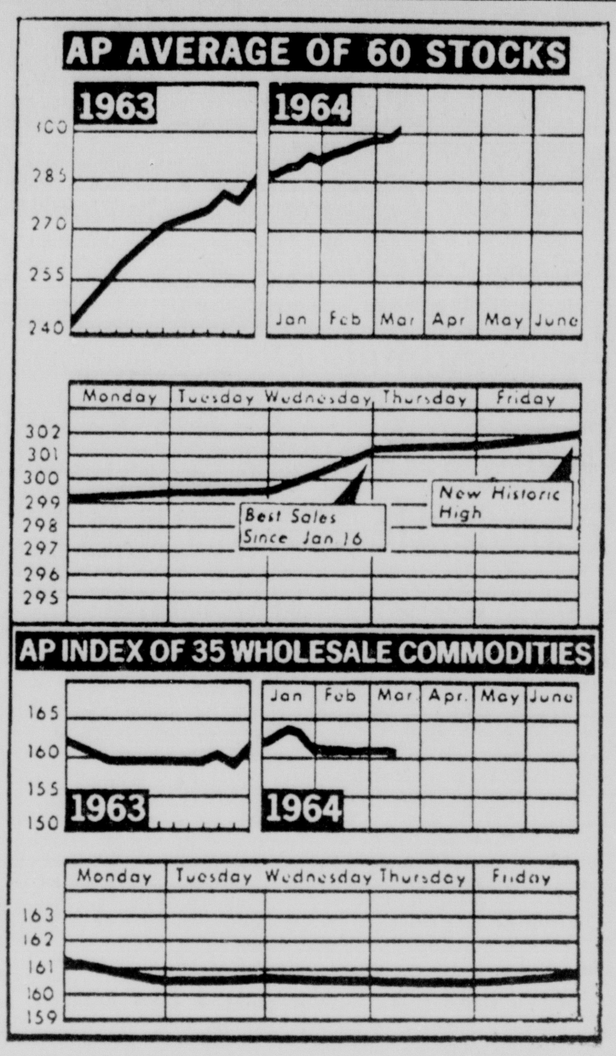

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 2.9 to a new closing record of 302.0.

The strongest rally of the week was on Wednesday when volume surged to 6.21 million shares, highest since Jan. 16. Most brokers and traders credited the tax cut and its multiplying effect on sales, profits and credit, for the bullish feeling.

Sample stock actions:

General Motors, "biggest" stock on the board, rose 2¾ to 84⅝...U.S. Steel gained 2¾, Crucible Steel 2¼, Bethlehem 2...Control Data sank 6½ to 60⅛...General Electric rose 3¼.

FOR THE SIXTH straight week the Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced, closing at a new high of 302.0 from 299.1 of a week ago. Led by livestock, the commodity index declined in the past week to 160.9 from 161.1 in the preceding period. (AP Wirephoto)

Quitman Bayou Field Sand Well Reported

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—The Wilcox sand country of southwest Mississippi claimed the interest of the states oil industry with 60 feet of oil sand logged in a well at Quitman Bayou Field in Adams County.

The big well is D. A. Biglane's No. 1, Board of Supervisors, sec. 1-8n-3w, third producer for the recently-found field.

The venture was drilled to 5,667 feet with the sandlogged in the Wilcox Formation at 3,918-78 feet.

The area has recorded the thickest oil sand section yet found from the Wilcox Formation in the state. The other two producers logged 38 feet and 48 feet of oil sand and created widespread attention. The field was discovered last November by Callon Petroleum Co. at its No. 1, sec. 28-4n-6e, after logging 22 feet of oil sand. The venture was drilled to 11,400 feet with lower Tuscaloosa oil sand logged at 11,064-86 feet.

MART SETS RECORD

Business Outlook Takes Rosier Hue

NEW YORK (AP)—The business outlook took on a rosier hue during the week.

It already was good but new estimates and reports enhanced it.

The stock market took note and advanced to a series of historic highs.

The major developments:

—A prediction that business will increase its investment in new plant and equipment by 10 per cent this year.

—A survey indicated that consumer confidence reached a seven-year peak in the past three months.

—Manufacturers expect a steady rise in sales through June.

—Retail sales in February increased 1 per cent over January and 4 per cent over a year earlier.

Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges said business capital spending was expected to hit a total of $43.2 billion this year, up $4 billion from 1963. This was more than double the increase from 1962 to 1963. It will be the third consecutive year that business investment has risen.

Hodges said the income tax cut was a factor in the plans of businessmen to boost their spending.

Business investment is considered a major indicator of the economy's course because it creates new jobs.

A University of Michigan survey disclosed that consumers are in a mood for spending. Automobiles may be a possible exception.

The university survey research center's index of consumer sentiment rose to 99.0 in January-February compared with 96.9 last November.

The study called the income tax cut "a positive factor."

However, the report said that last January consumers' plans to buy automobiles were lower than a year earlier.

"The new data suggest that the automobile market may receive a smaller share of the consumer dollar in 1964 than it did in 1962 and 1963," the report added.

The Commerce Department said a survey indicated that sales by manufacturers would increase $2.1 billion in the first half of this year.

Durable goods producers expect their sales to rise from $55.3 billion in the last quarter of 1963 to $55.9 billion in the current quarter and to $56.4 billion in the second quarter.

Retail sales in February rose to $18.5 billion. A Commerce Department survey indicated that manufacturing and trading businesses expect sales to increase 6 per cent this year.

The automobile business went ahead with high production as if it hadn't heard any indication that softness might develop in sales. It turned out an estimated 164,700 passenger cars during the week, up from 161,536 the previous week and 151,140 a year ago.

Assemblies for the year rose to 1,747,185 against 1,621,099 at this time last year.

Steel output ran into a minor setback during the week for the first time in 10 weeks. Mills produced 2,312,000 tons of ingots, off about 1 per cent from the previous week.

However, demand for steel remained strong and industry sources expected gains in production and shipments this month and probably through April.

U.S. Steel Corp. and five other firms were indicted by a U.S. grand jury on charges of rigging bids and allocating sales of steel and concrete water pipe in 10 Western states.

Attorney Seeks Writ To Stave Off Execution

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Attorneys for a condemned Negro, convicted for the 1954 slaying of a 71-year-old woman in her New Orleans French Quarter apartment, will seek a writ of habeas corpus in U.S. District Court here Monday.

The prisoner, Freddie Eubanks, 25, had been scheduled to die in the electric chair early Saturday morning.

Dist. Judge E. Gordon West signed a stay order after the habeas corpus writ was filed.

Eubanks was convicted of the murder of Mrs. Mabel Clarkson.

The petition alleges that Eubanks, 15, at the time of the slaying, made the confession after five hours of intensive questioning and he had no adult friend or lawyer present to give counsel.

Stocks Keep High Levels; Gains Mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — The amazing 1964 stock market rise strung out its list of weekly advances to six straight last week.

Market averages once more were boosted to their highest levels in history.

But the advance, again, was irregular. As profits were taken on previously strong groups, other sections of the list moved in to the spotlight.

Analysts who expected the market to sell off when the Dow Jones industrial average reached the "magic" 800 level saw the indicator rise 10.19 this week to a new closing peak of 816.22.

It was a substantial gain but the over-all market showed only a moderate margin of gainers over losers, the score being 778 to 562 among the 1,509 issues traded.

Volume swelled to 28,204,421 shares from 26,048,470 the previous week. It was the largest since the week ended Jan. 18 when 30.6 million shares changed hands.

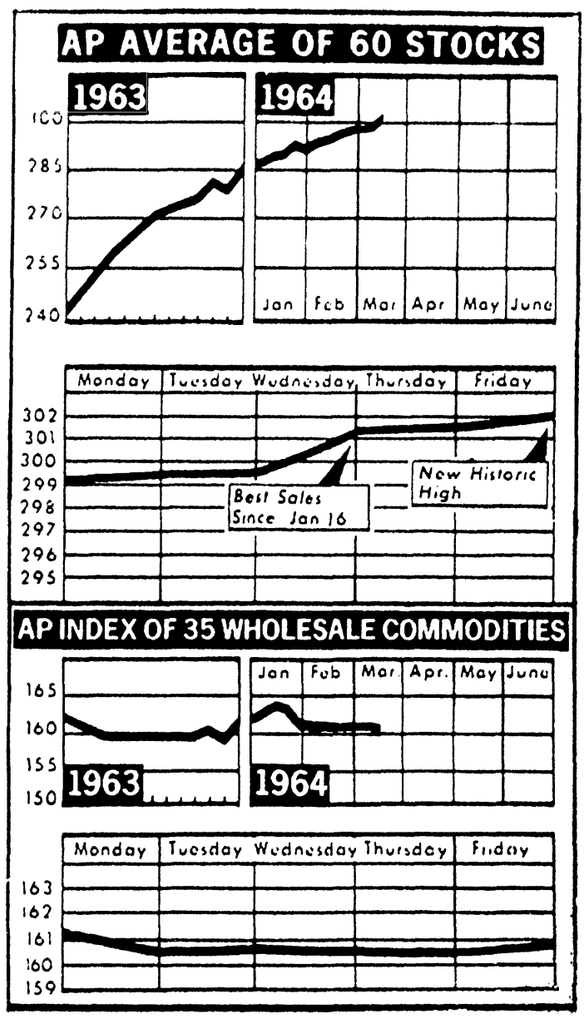

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 2.9 to a new closing record of 302.0.

The strongest rally of the week was on Wednesday when volume surged to 6.21 million shares, highest since Jan. 16. Most brokers and traders credited the tax cut and its multiplying effect on sales, profits and credit, for the bullish feeling.

Sample stock actions:

General Motors, "biggest" stock on the board, rose 2¾ to 84⅜...U.S. Steel gained 2¾, Crucible Steel 2¼, Bethlehem 2...Control Data sank 6½ to 60⅛...General Electric rose 3¼.

FOR THE SIXTH straight week the Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced, closing at a new high of 302.0 from 299.1 of a week ago. Led by livestock, the commodity index declined in the past week to 160.9 from 161.1 in the preceding period. (AP Wirephoto)

Quitman Bayou Field Sand Well Reported

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—The Wilcox sand country of southwest Mississippi claimed the interest of the states oil industry with 60 feet of oil sand logged in a well at Quitman Bayou Field in Adams County.

The venture was drilled to 5,667 feet with the sandlogged in the Wilcox Formation at 3,918-78 feet.

The area has recorded the thickest oil sand section yet found from the Wilcox Formation in the state. The other two producers logged 38 feet and 48 feet of oil sand and created widespread attention. The field was discovered last November by Callon Petroleum Co. at its No. 1, sec. 28-4n-6e, after logging 22 feet of oil sand. The venture was drilled to 11,400 feet with lower Tuscaloosa oil sand logged at 11,064-86 feet.

MART SETS RECORD

Business Outlook Takes Rosier Hue

NEW YORK (AP)—The business outlook took on a rosier hue during the week.

It already was good but new estimates and reports enhanced it.

The stock market took note and advanced to a series of historic highs.

The major developments:

—A prediction that business will increase its investment in new plant and equipment by 10 per cent this year.

—A survey indicated that consumer confidence reached a seven-year peak in the past three months.

—Retail sales in February increased 1 per cent over January and 4 per cent over a year earlier.

Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges said business capital spending was expected to hit a total of $43.2 billion this year, up $4 billion from 1963. This was more than double the increase from 1962 to 1963. It will be the third consecutive year that business investment has risen.

Hodges said the income tax cut was a factor in the plans of businessmen to boost their spending.

Business investment is considered a major indicator of the economy's course because it creates new jobs.

A University of Michigan survey disclosed that consumers are in a mood for spending. Automobiles may be a possible exception.

The university survey research center's index of consumer sentiment rose to 99.0 in January-February compared with 96.9 last November.

The study called the income tax cut "a positive factor."

However, the report said that last January consumers' plans to buy automobiles were lower than a year earlier.

"The new data suggest that the automobile market may receive a smaller share of the consumer dollar in 1964 than it did in 1962 and 1963," the report added.

The Commerce Department said a survey indicated that sales by manufacturers would increase $2.1 billion in the first half of this year.

Durable goods producers expect their sales to rise from $55.3 billion in the last quarter of 1963 to $55.9 billion in the current quarter and to $56.4 billion in the second quarter.

Retail sales in February rose to $18.5 billion. A Commerce Department survey indicated that manufacturing and trading businesses expect sales to increase 6 per cent this year.

The automobile business went ahead with high production as if it hadn't heard any indication that softness might develop in sales. It turned out an estimated 164,700 passenger cars during the week, up from 161,536 the previous week and 151,140 a year ago.

Assemblies for the year rose to 1,747,185 against 1,621,099 at this time last year.

Steel output ran into a minor setback during the week for the first time in 10 weeks. Mills produced 2,312,000 tons of ingots, off about 1 per cent from the previous week.

However, demand for steel remained strong and industry sources expected gains in production and shipments this month and probably through April.

U.S. Steel Corp. and five other firms were indicted by a U.S. grand jury on charges of rigging bids and allocating sales of steel and concrete water pipe in 10 Western states.

Attorney Seeks Writ To Stave Off Execution

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Attorneys for a condemned Negro, convicted for the 1954 slaying of a 71-year-old woman in her New Orleans French Quarter apartment, will seek a writ of habeas corpus in U.S. District Court here Monday.

The prisoner, Freddie Eubanks, 25, had been scheduled to die in the electric chair early Saturday morning.

Dist. Judge E. Gordon West signed a stay order after the habeas corpus writ was filed.

Eubanks was convicted of the murder of Mrs. Mabel Clarkson.

The petition alleges that Eubanks, 15, at the time of the slaying, made the confession after five hours of intensive questioning and he had no adult friend or lawyer present to give counsel.

Smart Parakeet Knows Phone Number In "Lost" Ad

When Mrs. Charles Barnes of Flint, Mich., found a parakeet it was saying "CE 3-5776". She checked the "Lost" Classified Ads in the Flint Journal and there was one for a lost parakeet listing the phone as "Cedar 3-5776". A call quickly got the bird back to its owners Mr. & Mrs. Saul Pittsley who had taught the bird their phone number.

Smart Parakeet Knows Phone Number In "Lost" Ad

When Mrs. Charles Barnes of Flint, Mich., found a parakeet it was saying "CE 3-5776". She checked the "Lost" Classified Ads in the Flint Journal and there was one for a lost parakeet listing the phone as "Cedar 3-5776". A call quickly got the bird back to its owners Mr. & Mrs. Saul Pittsley who had taught the bird their phone number.

With large ranch house. Fenced and cross-fenced. Included is the town house in Saltillo, Old Mexico.
ONLY $10 PER ACRE
LOCATED on a double highway, 265 miles south of the U.S. border. ABUNDANT WATER SUPPLY — In Mexico, this alone is worth the price asked for this entire property. 35 ft. depth to the water. THE PRESENT 2 WELLS supply to 300 acres of irrigated alfalfa. Would return first year 5 cuttings, producing 1 ton per acre. Total 5 tons per acre. Alfalfa in Mexico average market price $50 per ton. A return of $250 per acre annually. This alone is intriguing for only 300 acres of this vast ranch. ADDITIONAL 5 WELLS would irrigate a seeded 1500 acres, fenced and cross-fenced, to total cattle grazing. 1000 lean cattle purchased in Mexico at an average of $14.50 per hundred wt., sold in Mexico when fattened, at an average of $25.50 per hundred wt. This is a spread of $11 in addition to the weight gained. First year turnover expected to net for 1000 head, $47,000. WINTER WHEAT for winter grazing. Stock removed at early spring, then harvest at an average of $2.20 per bushel. This is hard mountain wheat. UNLIMITED POTENTIAL CHICKEN BROILER BUSINESS. Chicks purchased from Mexico's government hatcheries at 4 cents each, marketed when mature at 51 cents per pound average. LABOR —daily common labor 80 cents per day. Maids are paid 25 cents to 50 cents a day. American vision and hustle under this ownership would permit purchaser to begin immediately to bale his operation profits. For further information, call us.

hints from Heloise

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:
Have you ever tried mending wool garments with human hair?

It is quite an old method but usually new to those who have not tried it.

This works very well on men's suits as well as sweaters. Just darn as you would a stocking and count yourself lucky if you find some hair that is quite long. Thread the hair through the needle and start mending.

Do not worry about the color of the hair as it will blend into the wool. Human hair is elastic and extremely durable.

Suits I have mended this way have undergone numerous dry cleanings without affecting the mended area. Those little snags and small holes in sweaters can be done easily this way without worrying about matching the color of the yarn.

Mrs. Bert Skutt

Heloise

INDOOR MAILBOX

DEAR HELOISE:

When we first moved into our present home I found that I had a porch mailbox (the type that hangs outside the door) which I could not use because our mail is delivered in rural mailboxes . . . I did not throw it away. I just attached it to the inside of our front door.

Now when my husband comes home he just reaches in and finds all the day's mail without searching all over the house while I try to remember what came and where I put it.

It is also a good place to keep your outgoing mail until you are going to post it.

Carolyn Dillinger

FLYING DUST

DEAR HELOISE:
When I sweep my concrete cellar floor and the garage floor the cement dust starts flying . . . I eliminate the dust, etc., by saving all my old coffee grounds and letting them dry out thoroughly.

When it comes time for that clean-up job I dampen all the coffee grounds with cold water, sprinkle them around on the floor, and then sweep. This gets up lots of dust particles that I ordinarily would miss. It also cuts down on the flying dust while sweeping.

Larry S.

CIGARETTE HOLDERS

DEAR HELOISE:
Do not throw away that small baby cup after baby is older. Use it to hold cigarettes on a coffee table or dinner table. It's quite charming and a wonderful conversation piece.

Grandmother

BAKE IN SHAPE

DEAR HELOISE:

Have you ever tried baking apples, stuffed peppers or tomatoes in your muffin tins? They certainly keep their shape beautifully!

When peeling oranges for a salad, pour boiling water over them and let stand for about five minutes. The white covering between the orange peel and the orange will come off with the skins!

L. R. H.

PIN-UP LINE

DEAR HELOISE:
Here is a suggestion for those who use clotheslines and clothespins . . .

When you run out of clothespins and have a few more things to hang . . . use safety pins. If you have dainty things such as slips, panties, etc., use small safety pins. For things like sheets, etc., use large ones. This idea is especially good on windy days because no matter how hard the wind blows, the clothes will not blow off the line!

To pin the clothes to the line, just stick the pin through the clothes and over the line so that when the safety pin is closed the top part of it will rest on the line.

Gail Clark

OUTDOOR GRILL GUN

DEAR HELOISE:
I have learned that an ordinary squirt gun filled with water (the kind children play with) is excellent to extinguish the blaze when grease drips down in our outdoor grill when cooking hamburgers, etc.

The gun may be aimed at the blaze directly without getting too much of the charcoal wet, and it also avoids excessive steam that could burn the cook.

Mrs. John Bargo

ONIONS ARE ONIONS!

DEAR HELOISE:

Have you ever peeled an onion, wearing rubber gloves? They keep the odor off your hands!

Mrs. H. L. Hirsch

LOOSE HINGES

DEAR HELOISE:
When the hole in a kitchen cupboard door got too big for the hinge screw, I wrapped the screw with a little scrap of cloth and saturated the whole thing with glue and screwed it back in.

It has held for a year now with no signs of loosening.

ODDS AND ENDS

DEAR HELOISE:
I drop a marble in the finger of a glove when mending a small tear. The marble acts as a darning egg.

I also use my vacuum cleaner attachment to clean the lint trapped in trouser cuffs, inside the pockets, and under pleats.

J. L. L.

SOCKS APPEAL

DEAR HELOISE:
In my laundry room over the washing machine I had my husband fix the very gadget needed for socks. Guess what? Mouse traps!

He bought the smallest mouse traps he could find, removed the tongue part from the traps and left the spring. These are all neatly nailed up on the wall. As I remove the socks from the washing machine, I reach up and pull up the spring and insert pairs of mated socks under it. This keeps the toe of a sock from being folded over, which my husband does not like.

When these are not in use for socks we hang all kinds of things on them for quick drying, such as wash-rags, Johnny's wet bathing suit, etc.

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:

Have you ever tried mending wool garments with human hair?

It is quite an old method but usually new to those who have not tried it.

This works very well on men's suits as well as sweaters. Just darn as you would a stocking and count yourself lucky if you find some hair that is quite long. Thread the hair through the needle and start mending.

Do not worry about the color of the hair as it will blend into the wool. Human hair is elastic and extremely durable.

Suits I have mended this way have undergone numerous dry cleanings without affecting the mended area. Those little snags and small holes in sweaters can be done easily this way without worrying about matching the color of the yarn.

Mrs. Bert Skutt

Thank you for this hint. It works! Many tailors, dressmakers and seamstresses use this method, especially on expensive materials. And you're right about the color.

DEAR HELOISE:

When we first moved into our present home I found that I had a porch mailbox (the type that hangs outside the door) which I could not use because our mail is delivered in rural mailboxes . . . I did not throw it away. I just attached it to the inside of our front door.

Now when my husband comes home he just reaches in and finds all the day's mail without searching all over the house while I try to remember what came and where I put it.

It is also a good place to keep your outgoing mail until you are going to post it.

DEAR HELOISE:

When I sweep my concrete cellar floor and the garage floor the cement dust starts flying . . . I eliminate the dust, etc., by saving all my old coffee grounds and letting them dry out thoroughly.

When it comes time for that clean-up job I dampen all the coffee grounds with cold water, sprinkle them around on the floor, and then sweep. This gets up lots of dust particles that I ordinarily would miss. It also cuts down on the flying dust while sweeping.

DEAR HELOISE:

Have you ever tried baking apples, stuffed peppers or tomatoes in your muffin tins? They certainly keep their shape beautifully!

When peeling oranges for a salad, pour boiling water over them and let stand for about five minutes. The white covering between the orange peel and the orange will come off with the skins!

DEAR HELOISE:

Here is a suggestion for those who use clotheslines and clothespins . . .

When you run out of clothespins and have a few more things to hang . . . use safety pins. If you have dainty things such as slips, panties, etc., use small safety pins. For things like sheets, etc., use large ones. This idea is especially good on windy days because no matter how hard the wind blows, the clothes will not blow off the line!

To pin the clothes to the line, just stick the pin through the clothes and over the line so that when the safety pin is closed the top part of it will rest on the line.

DEAR HELOISE:

I have learned that an ordinary squirt gun filled with water (the kind children play with) is excellent to extinguish the blaze when grease drips down in our outdoor grill when cooking hamburgers, etc.

The gun may be aimed at the blaze directly without getting too much of the charcoal wet, and it also avoids excessive steam that could burn the cook.

EYE-CATCHING is the word for this pale pastel T-strap, newly opened to a spring afternoon.

Take Steps To Protect Young Feet

Properly fitted shoes are as vital to a child's health routine as fresh air and vitamins. The importance of proper fit begins as soon as a baby pulls up to a standing position for the first time.

Remember that a baby's foot is a soft structure, the bones of which have not yet hardened to true bone, and that it is easily distorted by pressure and strain.

Parents know that active youngsters are on the go during nearly every waking moment, giving their shoes a workout. If the shoes are not properly fitted, the young feet will be punished each time the child leaps, skips, jumps or runs.

TIPS GIVEN

Since these young, pliable feet can suffer lasting harm without the child experiencing any discomfort, the National Shoe Institute gives some tips on preventive measures, including the proper buying and fitting of children's shoes.

From the toddler years through the age of six, a child's feet must be carefully checked by a qualified shoe salesman at least every six weeks.

Children from six to ten years can go for two or three months between shoe size changes. Ten to 12 year olds need their feet measured every three to four months, and youngsters 15 and over every six months. (Clip the chart shown here for easy reference.)

SPECIALTY

It is a good idea to find a store that specializes in children's shoes, and to make a friend of the salesman who fits your youngster's shoes. Go back to him again and again. A good salesman, trained in fitting children and aware of your child's special needs, can frequently stop foot trouble before it begins.

A good rule of thumb, say shoe specialists, is that a child's shoe should extend three-quarters of an inch beyoung the longest toe and an extra quarter of an inch across the ball of the foot.

The widest portion of the foot must rest in the widest portion of the shoe. Another important area which a shoe salesman checks is the little toe. If it lies straight without curving toward the other toes, it is an indication that the last is the proper shape and size for the child.

Remember that a shoe that is too large is almost as dangerous to the child's foot as one that is too small.

RARE SHOES from the collection of [illegible] the Costume Institute of the Metropolitan Museum display features currently found in women's footwear styles. Top row, left to right: one-eyelet tie (Directoire, circa 1790) of parchment thin leather with black silk binding and baby Louis heel. High rising strapped dress shoe (early 18th cent.) of white linen with blue silk stitching. Maroon moroccan leather (early 18th cent.) with silk binding and cut steel buckles. Powder blue silk (Louis XV, [illegible]15-17[illegible] with trimming of metallic lace. Bottom row, left to right: black [illegible] oxfords (American, 1875-1880) with trimming of gold kid. Lavender kid with criss-cross straps (early 20th cent. American). Heel-less white kid slide shoe (mid-19th cent. American). Black kid boot (French, circa 1867) with [illegible] gusset top, curved leather heel and shaped topline. Side-laced bottine (American, 1830-40) of beige silk twill.

FOR MEN

Change Emerges Gently In Shoes

The winds of change blow gently in the world of men's shoes. Nevertheless, they blow.

A dark leather shoe — black, cordovan or brown — for street wear is still the choice of most American men, but the variations in this theme for spring and summer 1964 are many.

There are 2, 3, 4 and 5 eyelet ties, with toe shapes that range from rounded conservative to crescent and definitely narrowed tapers. Some few slipons have even taken to conservative ways so they, as well as the ties, can get down to business.

Fine grained leather goes to town with assurance, for the whole shoe or in combination with smooth leather. It may be a sleek bal tie with a grained, shaped saddle, or pebble texture for the tongue and vamp of a blucher with a narrow, walled toe.

SHAPE REFINEMENT

In general, look for a refinement of shape, a leaning to something softer and slightly narrower, a feeling for lightness and airiness.

This is not to say that rugged types will eschew their beloved brogues. Never. But those sturdy standbys are likely to be unlined and their perforations real.

As a further example of the air-conditioned concept, self color basket-weave vamps make a breezy appearance on otherwise pragmatic oxfords. Woven shoes, in combinations of black or brown with white are uniquely adapted to lightweight, light colored summer slacks.

It's all part of the all-long last male realization that it's neat to have cool feet when the thermometer is anything but. To this end, men's shoes in all categories are apt to have featherweight linings, partial linings, or none at all, whether or not any cooling features are outwardly visible.

Handstitching is well liked. So is the simplicity of the closed seam look and the sleek lines of the low-laced boot. Teen-agers in particular have a fondness for oxfords with toplines that are notched or angled, and for side-gored boots and hand-stitched saddle ties.

Black, according to the National Shoe Institute, is still the favorite color, but brown is big in the cordovans and lively shades, the reddened and antiqued mid-tones, and the true red brown mahoganies.

Bleached beiges and chinos are favorites for casual wear. So are the rusts and grey-greens in brushed pigskins and sturdy suedes.

GLOSSY

Glossy, waxy and variously grained finishes appear in combination as well as solo. Creeping in and definitely worth watching are animal textures such as llama, python, alligator and lizard, both natural and simulated.

So precise are the imitations that their lack of defects is virtually the only way to distinguish them from natural leathers.

Kiltie Steps Out On Style Scene

The kiltie is back after an absence of 25 years from the fashion scene, reports the National Shoe Institute.

For those who are too young to remember its previous incarnation, the kiltie can be identified by the fringed flap covering a laced vamp.

Sometimes the flap (also called an apron or shawl tongue) comes with a snap, making it detachable from the shoe.

THE POINT of spring color contrast is interpreted in white dazzled with black.

Footnotes To History Spur Styling

Nowhere is this more of a truism than in the world of shoe fashions, where designers reach back to the limits of recorded history for style inspiration.

Yet their endless variations are so ingenious, so perfectly adapted to the needs of present day fashion, that they appear always new and exciting.

The oldest shoe on record (2,000 B.C.) was a crude sandal. Sandals are still [illegible] among, although [illegible] them in the [illegible] years ago Queen Elizabeth I wore buskins, a form of riding boot very high. And, of course, boots are in the forefront of fashion today.

In the 14th and 15th centuries, rosettes or pompons were worn by both men and women as a political compliment to England's ruling house of Lancaster. Remember the Wars of the Roses? Lancaster's rose was red; York's was white. Rosettes have never since been out of style as shoe and slipper decorations.

Napoleon's Empress Josephine had bottines (bootlets) and [illegible]rpins (square-toed ballet slippers with bows) to match every one of her hundreds of costumes. The ballet slipper was perhaps the [illegible] influence in the development of our popular flat.

As for heel shapes, the Louis and museum heels, so evident in any historic shoe collection, appear over and over in this season's newest designs.

FOR MEN

Choice Is Wide In Casual Shoes

Men's summer casual [illegible] according to the National Shoe Institute, cover consider[illegible] ground, from vacation sightseeing and National Park camping to yacht and country club activities and just plain home loafing.

A few devil-may-care individuals wear border-line casuals into the blistering city with thin slacks or even . . . shorts.

As in the case of men's slippers, many of which go indoors and out, the casual shoe category borders and overlaps that of "porch and patio" on one side and "street" on the other.

STYLE SENSE

Hence, depending of course on his style sense, his way of life and his clothes budget, a man's non-dress wardrobe might include: a colorful slip-on with a fabric top such as hopsacking, duck or denim; a neutral blucher tie in brushed pigskin; a two tone leather oxford with ripple sole; an oxford or slipon with a basket weave forepart; a classic, penny moccasin; a tough chukka boot in waxy rawhide; a slim side gore slipon with low riding moc stitching such as actor Robert Preston wears with slacks and sport jacket in his new Broadway play.

As for casual shoe shapes, they seem to diverge as much as political philosophies, particularly among the younger crowd.

The "teen man" likes the more tapered taper toe, the shaped and lowered topline, exaggerated elastic insets, the V line bal, novelty boots to accent his cuffless pants. In [illegible] he likes "fast" [illegible] Jaguer, by contrast, [illegible] with a rounded or crescent toe, a conventional back and top line, a non-sensational last. He is a great one for hand stitching.

OLDER MALES

Older males will be influenced to some extent in either direction by the young blades in their own families. No father wants to be out of step.

There is agreement, however, in one area of men's casuals—color. Fabric ties, espadrilles and slipons are a riot of gay plaids and stripes and two color combinations such as rust and yellow.

If white, they sport colored stitching or piping.

Footnotes To History Spur Styling

Nowhere is this more of a truism than in the world of shoe fashions, where designers reach back to the limits of recorded history for style inspiration.

Yet their endless variations are so ingenious, so perfectly adapted to the needs of present day fashion, that they appear always new and exciting.

The oldest shoe on record (2,-000 B.C.) [illegible] crude sandal. Sandals are [illegible]ong, al-[illegible]om [illegible] years ago [illegible] Elizabeth I wore b[illegible] kins, a form of riding boot [illegible] high. And, of course, boots [illegible]re in the forefront of fashion today.

In the 14th and 15th centuries, rosettes or pompons were worn by both men and women as a political compliment to England's ruling house of Lancaster. Remember the Wars of the Roses? Lancaster's rose was red; York's was white. Rosettes have never since been out of style as shoe and slipper decorations.

Napoleon's Empress Josephine had bottines (bootlets) and [illegible]rpins (square-toed ballet [illegible] with bows) to match [illegible]ery one of her [illegible]ndreds of costumes. The ba[illegible] slipper was perhaps the [illegible] fluence in the de[illegible] [illegible]

As for heel shapes, the Louis and museum heels, so evident in any historic shoe collection, appear over and over in this season's newest designs.

FOR MEN

Choice Is Wide In Ca[illegible]pes

Men's sum[illegible]er casual[illegible] according t[illegible] the National [illegible] Institute, [illegible]over consi[illegible] ground, fr[illegible]m vacation sig[illegible] ing and N[illegible]tional Park ca[illegible] to yacht a[illegible]d country cl[illegible] activities and just plain home loafing.

A few [illegible] devil-may-care individuals [illegible] border-line casuals into [illegible] blistering city with thin sla[illegible] or even . . . shorts.

As [illegible] the case of men's slippers, many of which go indoors an[illegible]out, t[illegible]e casual shoe category borders and overlaps that [illegible] "porch and patio" on one side and "street" on the other.

STYLE SENSE

Hence, depending of course on his style sense, his way of life and his clothes budget, a man's non-dress wardrobe might include: a colorful slip-on with a fabric top such as hopsacking, duck or denim; a neutral blucher tie in brushed pigskin; a two tone leather oxford with ripple sole; an oxford or slipon with a basket weave forepart; a classic, penny moccasin; a tough chukka boot in waxy rawhide; a slim side gore slipon with low riding moc stitching such as actor Robert Preston wears with slacks and sport jacket in his new Broadway play.

As for casual shoe shapes, they seem to diverge as much as political philosophies, particularly among the younger crowd.

The "teen man" likes the more tapered taper toe, the shaped and lowered topline, exaggerated elastic insets, the V line bal, novelty boots to accent his cuffless pants. In [illegible]he likes "fast" [illegible]aguer, by con-[illegible] with a rounded or crescent toe, a conventional back and top line, a non-sensational last. He is a great one for hand stitching.

OLDER MALES

Older males will be influenced to some extent in either direction by the young blades in their own families. No father wants to be out of step.

There is agreement, however, in one area of men's casuals—color. Fabric ties, espadrilles and slipons are a riot of gay plaids and stripes and two color combinations such as rust and yellow.

If white, they sport colored stitching or piping.

Spring Women Showing Less Shoe In Fashions

Shoes for spring are lightweight, breezy and beautiful. They tell fashion's story in terms of opened silhouettes, graceful shelled-out shapings, new ways with texture and color.

There is no sudden departure this spring. Rather there is further development of sound ideas that have been in the fashion picture before.

Thus dipped sides, opened shanks and backs, plunging throatlines have appeared in other seasons, but never with such eye-catching variety and never with such an air of absolute rightness, reports the National Shoe Institute.

Sides are bared in every way that fancy dictates and specialized shoe engineering permits. Openings here may be long arcs that curve from shelled-out toe to barely covered heel. They may run to inverted pyramids or curving commas, or they may be uncompromising rectangles, strong ovals, solid squares.

Latticework sides take on serpentine shapings or run to half moons or Greek key designs. One afternoon pump of iced raspberry suede has a fan shaped burst of cantilever strappings over its completely opened outer edge.

HEELS OPEN

Heels are open in sling back, halter and completely sandalized shapes. Even where the back is closed it might be only a slender column to support the narrow topline band, leaving the remainder of back and sides completely opened. Called a spindle back, it is greatly favored in a spring that is wide open to new ideas.

Straps are used in countless other ways. There are T-straps, criss-cross, horizontal and sunburst straps. There are side-buttoned, open-shanked straps for day, lacy webbings for evening, thongs and broad bandings for anywhere the far side of a suntan.

The mule is back, this time with all the aplomb and good looks of a thoroughbred. It appears in a softly rounded, sturdily strapped and heeled little softy in cinnamon and black leather.

It appears also in the new wedgelings and higher heeled concepts. One backless shaping for the nighttime hours is all glitter from barely covered toe to shapely, curved heel.

Heels tell a story all their own this spring, and they tell it in terms of the lowered look. This season, it is a lowered look that is graceful, often curvy, always lightened to match spring's airy mood.

This looks of lightness is accomplished by new shapings to the heels. There are slim waisted curves, inverted pyramids, grooved gauchos. Baby Louis and museum heels are in solid. So are spool shapes, stacked cones, sturdy commas.

When heels take to these more solid designs, the rest of the shoe is lightened, pared down, or opened up so that the overall look is delicate.

HIGHER HEELS

Somewhat higher heels are receiving new attention. Long recognized as the ultimate in flattery for a pretty leg and foot and never out of the after dark picture, they will bear watching too for the daytime hours.

One daytime shoe shows fashion's light hand with strapping on the newly higher heel. A "T" for town in iced lemon kid, it is opened from scooped out vamp to barely covered heel.

Toes are gentle this spring, which means that there are no extremes in their shaping. They range from the slender crescent to the softly rounded concepts.

Gone are the rigid requirements that relegated a narrow toe to evening, a broadened toe to day. Variations there are, from slightly shortened and broadened concepts to more narrow, slender looks, but the word is definitely in that excesses are out.

In the low heel casual category and in flats the open toe is firmly established. A word to the fashion wise: watch for open toes on higher heels. There is a sprinkling of them in every spring collection.

Open Your Shoe

"Barefoot girl with streak of tan,
Your foot's in style, and it's a plan;
The open look is fashion news.
So buy a pair of open shoes."

So says Shirley Davis, of the Davenport Morning Democrat.

COLOR STRUCK: This airy little shape is cool as in comfort, light as in linen, and all paisley.

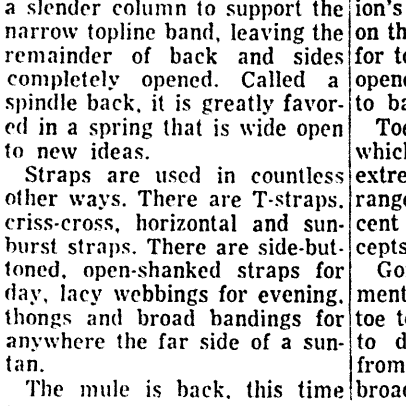

Proper Care Adds To Shoe Looks, Wear

Shoes wear longer and look better when they are properly cared for. The National Shoe Institute suggests a few basic rules to follow:

1. Change your shoes as often as you can, and give each pair at least a day's rest between wearings.
2. Use a shoe horn to retain the shape of the back of the shoe.
3. Polish your shoes after each wearing.
5. Have your shoes repaired at the first sign of wear.

This year of the costume look could be the greatest fashion year on record. There is a shoe for every costume, every fashion look.

FASHIONABLE

New Walking Shoes Key Modern Movement Trend

The new season's walking shoes endorse the new move to movement. The National Shoe Institute reports that designers have turned their attention to this newly important area of American life, with the happy result that shoes strictly for walking have never been more beautiful.

Heels in this category span a rather broad area from medium high to the all-but-lows. What they have in common is a sturdiness that makes motion sheer pleasure. And what the new lightweight walking shoes have in common is the sort of well-tailored zingy good looks that make pure comfort pure fashion.

TAILORED TIES

Straps and little tailored ties have a special affinity for walking, but all the best of the season's news is here, from open heels and toes to bared shanks, slender shapings, stitchings, inlays, bows. Downright flats are causing a fashion flurry, with dashing kiltie tongues, ghillie ties, oxford lacings, all the spring excitements.

The new walker might be a cut down shaping in celery stalk kid with a sturdily set back heel. It might be a dapper patent with wide open shank cutout and a proper dancing class heel, a style that is clearly cut out for town. Or it might head for the country in a grainy camel with sturdy lacings and gaucho stacked heel.

For a walk on the mild side, there are batches of walkers in the paled neutrals. Try a boot look here. This could be an ankle topper in natural colored straw on a medium heel, or a high fronted, bare-backed suede in chalky tan.

DON'T DISCOUNT

Don't discount the importance of the sandal for walking. Broadly banded vamps and T-straps are favorites here. So are the open-backed shapes which may take to closed or open toes. Shanks might be bared completely or they may have strategic openings in almost any shape.

For the coolest walk in town try a mule, which is entering the season as an odds-on favorite. When the mule takes to walking it is usually broadly strapped across the instep or rises to a high throated look for added support.

Whatever their own personal signature, says the National Shoe Institute, the new season's styles insure that every woman can walk in beauty.

Walking as pleasure, walking as pastime, walking for the sheer joy of it, is giving new dimensions to the lives of many Americans. And not least among these dimensions is the one of a long and healthy life.

MAN-ABOUT-TOWNER: A three eyelet blucher in grainy, nautral brown Llama. Hand stitched, very posh.

SPRING'S SOFTENED LOOK is interpreted in a taupey grosgrain for afternoon - into-evening.

APPEARANCE

Footwear Holds Key To Costume

This is good news for the fashion-conscious woman who buys with taste and authority and has her own ideas about the individual look she wants to create. This season she can stamp each costume she assembles with her personal fashion signature.

The shoes that key the costumes will provide the punctuation to the point of fashion this season, says the National Shoe Institute. There is a crop of shoes that are lightweight, supple, comfortable and completely beautiful. And completely coordinated to all of fashion's spring ideas.

COORDINATE

Here, coordinate is the key word. To do it properly, with flair and imagination, it is necessary to understand the ideas fashion believes in. As nearly every woman knows, all she needs is a picture in her mind to simplify shopping. Here, then, is a word about the picture for spring.

In general, clothes will have an easy, natural look. They will be soft, and so cleverly fitted they almost seem to be unfitted. Waistlines can't be pinned down — or up! Some are high in front, dipping in back. Some are very long and low. Others hesitate at the natural feminine middle.

Hemlines will stay short for spring and summer and they flounce and flare and toss their panels around.

Suit jackets will be longer and little overcoat jackets will still make news. A trend to watch is toward broader, rounded, possibly padded shoulders.

Kerchiefs, floating ostrich boas, stoles, dangling heavy chains and medallions will be in accessory evidence.

Now, to be specific about the shoes that will bring these costumes into fashion focus.

Spring's fashion ideas demand a less shoe look, even for wear with tailored clothes. For day, remember the lowered heels. They give the swingy stride that the newly eased fashions like. With a belted suit try a down to earth little strapped shoe with an open back, or one of the softened spectators with extension soles and set back heels.

Spring's high waisted or softly fitted dresses demand shoes that are lightweight, elegant, simple. Consider the deep throated look or any of the shelled out shapings.

Or try an open shanked afternoon shoe with a slightly higher heel. Choose it in one of the new colors that mix or make a match with the costume you have in mind. Decorate it with a bow or spat it in a contrasting color. And step into the forefront of fashion.

There are countless colors to combine with every costume for every fashion function. Try ivory or the new straw and wheat colorings. Try them with the pongees and creamy beiges that will show up for resort wear and later. Or try them as an accent for all of spring's dark, singing colors.

Later on, to wear with prints and with cool monotone linen dresses, bright, Mexicano colors will be afoot, the oranges, lemons, parrot greens and screaming hot pinks.

JUST FOR FUN party styles should be as well constructed as sturdy playground shoes. The boys' flexible two-eyelet tie with moccasin toe; the girl's patent strapper is full of new open-up ideas.

What's Afoot For Children In Slippers

Slipper designers haven't forgotten the youngsters this season, says the National Shoe Institute. Their sunny weather styles include little terry loafers in sunstruck colors and shells of striped denim or citrus colored hopsacking, trimmed with beading, fringe or flowers.

Specially for the sugar 'n' spice set are pearlized calf mules in powered pastels and graceful little leather thongs.

For the toddler group there are animal-trimmed booties in sleepy-soft flannel or terry, and for the gun-toting crowd there are Indian moccasins, leather strapped sandal styles, or slippers that are shaped just like Dad's.

Colors Walk Away With Honor Afoot

Fashions believes in color this season, and the colors it believes in are the most beautiful within memory. Every season, says the National Shoe Institute, the range of shades is increased, frontiers of dyeing methods are pushed back, new sources of inspiration yield variations of tone not dreamed of a season or two ago.

This summer, white is a primary dazzler. Alone, it has new interest in a whole range of pebbled, grooved and grainy finishes, the reptiles and ostrich textures, the buttery suedes.

It carries enough fashion weight to assume a role long reserved for black, that of the single important accent for a costume.

WHITE BLAZING

White blazing on black is better than ever, making some of the two toned black and white snakeskins natural beauties. It also frosts spring's favorite pastel and kid in every summer-bright shade.

The new season takes to the bleached tones too, the sandy shades, the popcorns, the pale pongees. The white raisins are absolutely right for the bare-toed, bare-heeled look of summer, specially smashing with a tan.

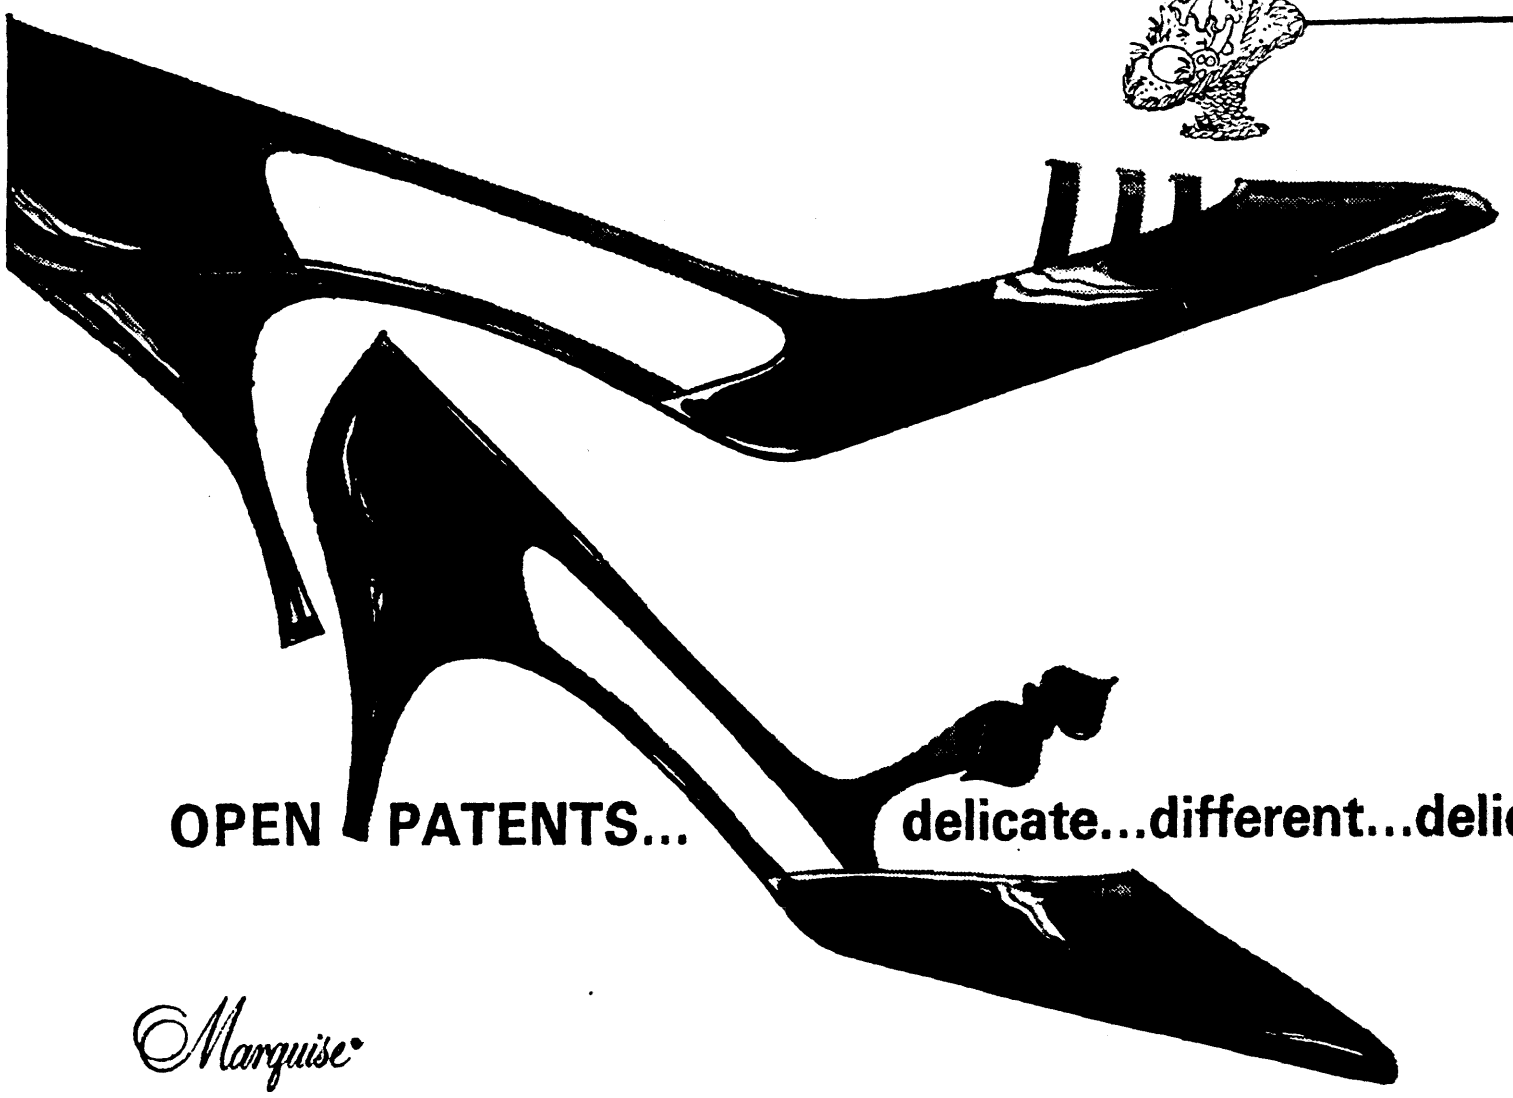

Look for pastels of sun-washed orange and yellow. They'll turn up in patent and suede and will have a natural affinity for fabrics in the weathered-wood neutrals. They'll make conversation, too, teamed with carefully chosen pinks and lilacs.

Sun-struck or green-tinted beige shows the direction the new neutrals are taking. Taupes have tapered off. The deepened neutrals are warmer and best exemplified by the camels, the canes, the sweet caramels and the sun warmed sycamores. Medium browns are most often washed, ashy, sometimes slightly greyed.

Greens are on the go this season, with shades that race from the yellowed tones through the pure acids to the cool, elegant aspens and jades.

Boys' shoes are designed for rough and tumble wear. Dress shoes are often brogues, but slipons are favorites too. In every style the trend is toward lightweight construction.

Hush puppies, alpine boots and chukkas lead the race to summer's playground. Rugged glove leathers, brushed pigskins and suedes are invitations for lively youngsters to live it up.

APPEARANCE

Footwear Holds Key To Costume

This spring, fashion is making a point of the easy look, the look of gentled fit and breezy motion. The costume look is in.

This is good news for the fashion-conscious woman who buys with taste and authority and has her own ideas about the individual look she wants to create. This season she can stamp each costume she assembles with her personal fashion signature.

The shoes that key the costumes will provide the punctuation to the point of fashion this season, says the National Shoe Institute. There is a crop of shoes that are lightweight, supple, comfortable and completely beautiful. And completely coordinated to all of fashion's spring ideas.

COORDINATE

Here, coordinate is the key word. To do it properly, with flair and imagination, it is necessary to understand the ideas fashion believes in. As nearly every woman knows, all she needs is a picture in her mind to simplify shopping. Here, then, is a word about the picture for spring.

In general, clothes will have an easy, natural look. They will be soft, and so cleverly fitted they almost seem to be unfitted. Waistlines can't be pinned down — or up! Some are high in front, dipping in back. Some are very long and low. Others hesitate at the natural feminine middle.

Hemlines will stay short for spring and summer and they flounce and flare and toss their panels around.

Suit jackets will be longer and little overcoat jackets will still make news. A trend to watch is toward broader, rounded, possibly padded shoulders.

Kerchiefs, floating ostrich boas, stoles, dangling heavy chains and medallions will be in accessory evidence.

Now, to be specific about the shoes that will bring these costumes into fashion focus.

Spring's fashion ideas demand a less shoe look, even for wear with tailored clothes. For day, remember the lowered heels. They give the swingy stride that the newly eased fashions like. With a belted suit try a down to earth little strapped shoe with an open back, or one of the softened spectators with extension soles and set back heels.

Spring's high waisted or softly fitted dresses demand shoes that are lightweight, elegant, simple. Consider the deep throated look or any of the shelled out shapings.

Or try an open shanked afternoon shoe with a slightly higher heel. Choose it in one of the new colors that mix or make a match with the costume you have in mind. Decorate it with a bow or spat it in a contrasting color. And step into the forefront of fashion.

There are countless colors to combine with every costume for every fashion function. Try ivory or the new straw and wheat colorings. Try them with the pongees and creamy beiges that will show up for resort wear and later. Or try them as an accent for all of spring's dark, singing colors.

Later on, to wear with prints and with cool monotone linen dresses, bright, Mexicano colors will be afoot, the oranges, lemons, parrot greens and screaming hot pinks.

JUST FOR FUN party styles should be as well constructed as sturdy playground shoes. The boys' flexible two-eyelet tie with moccasin toe; the girl's patent strapper is full of new open-up ideas.

What's Afoot For Children In Slippers

Slipper designers haven't forgotten the youngsters this season, says the National Shoe Institute. Their sunny weather styles include little terry loafers in sunstruck colors and shells of striped denim or citrus colored hopsacking, trimmed with beading, fringe or flowers.

Specially for the sugar 'n' spice set are pearlized calf mules in powered pastels and graceful little leather thongs.

For the toddler group there are animal-trimmed booties in sleepy-soft flannel or terry, and for the gun-toting crowd there are Indian moccasins, leather strapped sandal styles, or slippers that are shaped just like Dad's.

Colors Walk Away With Honor Afoot

Fashions believes in color this season, and the colors it believes in are the most beautiful within memory. Every season, says the National Shoe Institute, the range of shades is increased, frontiers of dyeing methods are pushed back, new sources of inspiration yield variations of tone not dreamed of a season or two ago.

This summer, white is a primary dazzler. Alone, it has new interest in a whole range of pebbled, grooved and grainy finishes, the reptiles and ostrich textures, the buttery suedes.

It carries enough fashion weight to assume a role long reserved for black, that of the single important accent for a costume.

WHITE BLAZING

White blazing on black is better than ever, making some of the two toned black and white snakeskins natural beauties. It also frosts spring's favorite patent and kid in every summer-bright shade.

The new season takes to the bleached tones too, the sandy shades, the popcorns, the pale pongees. The white raisins are absolutely right for the bare-toed, bare-heeled look of summer, specially smashing with a tan.

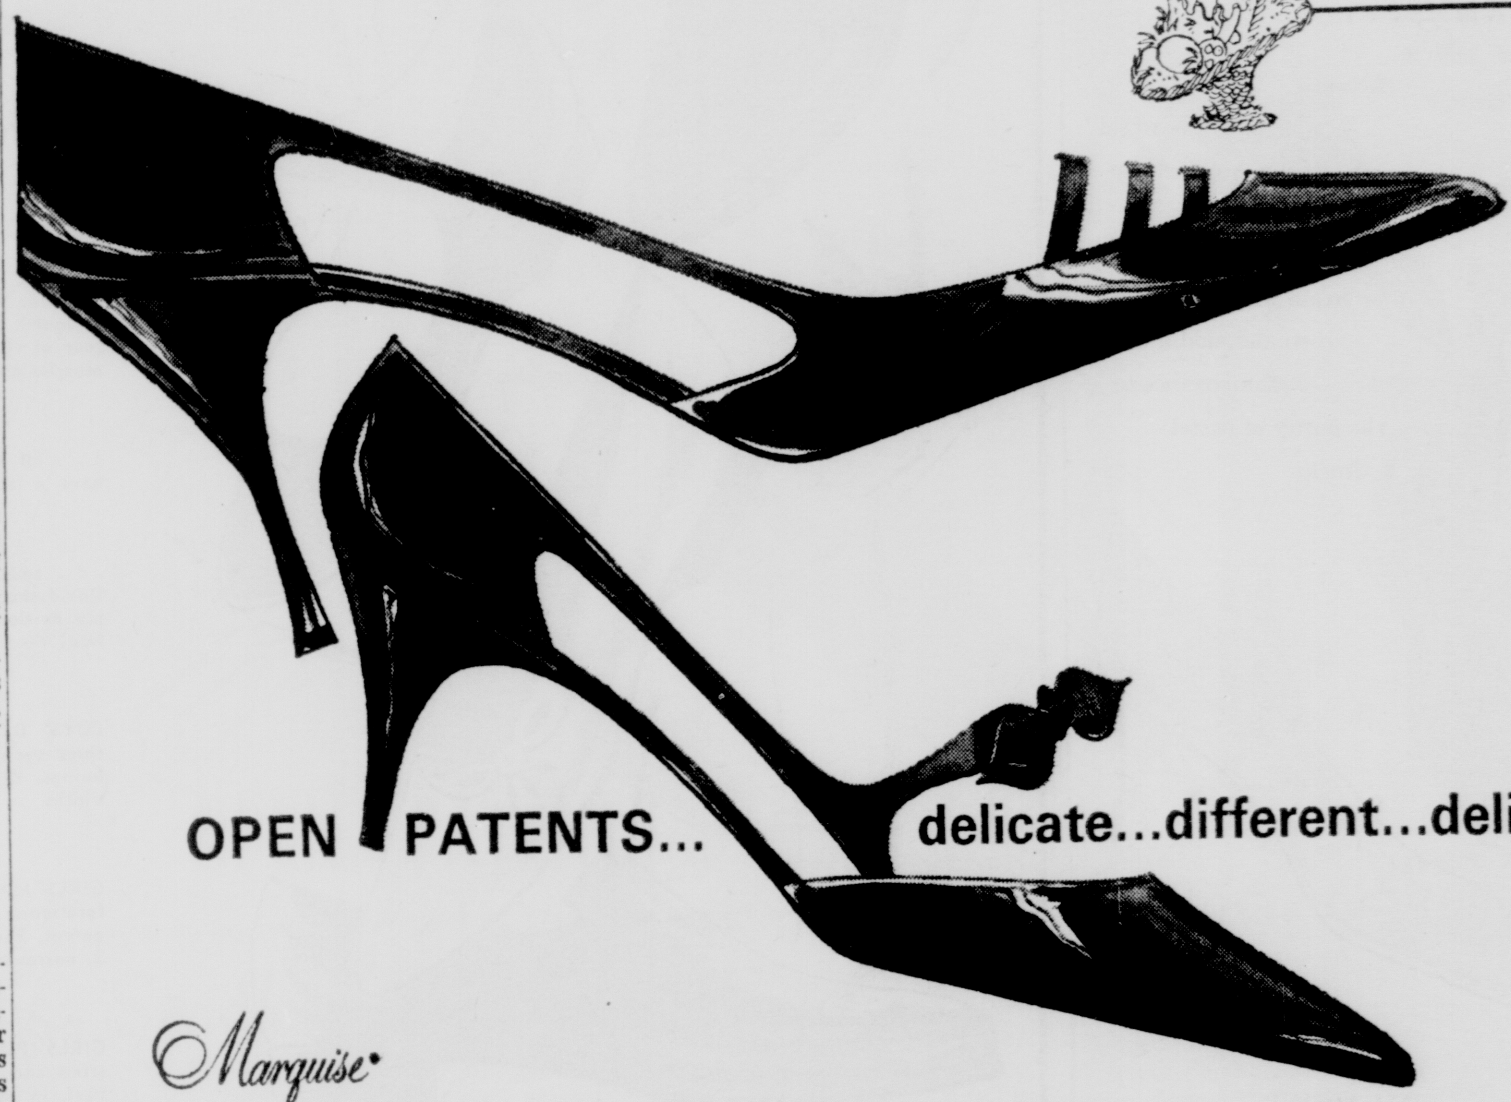

Look for pastels of sun-washed orange and yellow. They'll turn up in patent and suede and will have a natural affinity for fabrics in the weathered-wood neutrals. They'll make consersation, too, teamed with carefully chosen pinks and lilacs.

Sun-struck or green-tinted beige shows the direction the new neutrals are taking. Taupes have tapered off. The deepened neutrals are warmer and best exemplified by the camels, the canes, the sweet caramels and the sun warmed sycamores. Medium browns are most often washed, ashy, sometimes slightly greyed.

Greens are on the go this season, with shades that race from the yellowed tones through the pure acids to the cool, elegant aspens and jades.

Walk Helps Put An End To Fatigue

Planning to do the New York World's Fair? You may walk as many as ten miles each day you're there, says the National Shoe Institute.

But don't let it worry you and don't say you're tired because you are walking so much. On the contrary, according to Dr. Harry Johnson of the Life Extension Foundation, exercise (including walking) is one of the best antidotes for fatigue.

In Dr. Johnson's opinion, you cannot overdo walking as an exercise, so start a daily regimen now to get in shape for the Fair.

MIGHT SURPRISE

You might even surprise yourself with an extra dividend in the form of some needed weight loss.

The consensus of a recent symposium on the Prevention of Obesity was that walking could supply the amount of regular exercise required to maintain normal weight.

Walking, it was pointed out, involves the whole body. A man driving a car consumes 97 calories over a distance of two miles, but a man walking that same distance uses up 210 calories!

When compared to sports, walking scores again, because in walking the body moves constantly: in most sports, intermittently.

As an example, for an hour of tennis, a player may be in motion about a third of the time and standing the rest of the time. Thus, his or her metabolism will burn up an average of 3.5 calories a minute. The same person walking outdoors will use 3.7 calories per minute with much less strain on the heart.

ADVICE

(1) Try a walk at least 15 minutes three times a day.

(2) As you walk, make every step count. Don't walk so fast that you become short of breath; go just briskly enough so that after you're finished you feel as if you have accomplished something.

(3) Breathe deeply as you walk.

(4) Walk erect, with arms swinging. Walking, properly done, exercises every muscle of the body including the arms and back.

If you're a man, make it a rule, when you're tired after a long day's work, to walk home from the office or from the station. If that's too far, get off the bus several blocks from home and let your body recuperate in the most healthful, natural way: through physical exercise.

Try walking as you do your rounds of neighborhood errands. Or walk just for the pleasure of it and see what a new source of energy and enjoyment this habit can be.

Feet Deserve Best Of Care, Say Experts

Your feet will carry you approximately 7½ miles today. If that sounds like a great deal, a little figuring will show that they will take you on a lifetime journey of about 65,000 miles. And if you happen to weigh 165 pounds, your feet take a daily load equivalent to 2 million pounds!

The American Podiatry Association, which believes that these marvelously efficient workers deserve the best of care, has announced that its annual Foot Health Week will take place between May 15th and 22nd this year. The objective of Foot Health Week is to impress upon the public the importance of preventing and treating foot disorders.

NO VACCINE

Earl G. Kaplan, DSC, president of the American Podiatry Association, points out that there is no vaccine or pill which can prevent foot disorders. The only way is to take great care in the purchase and fitting of shoes and to make a visit to a podiatrist part of the regular health routine.

Parents can prevent many foot problems by including an examination by a podiatrist in their children's regular check-ups and by teaching (and learning) good foot health habits.

As in the formation of any other good habit, the earlier the easier. That lifetime journey of 65,000 miles can be virtually carefree if the right steps are taken with the first steps.

FASHIONABLE

New Walking Shoes Key Modern Movement Trend

The new season's walking shoes endorse the new move to movement. The National Shoe Institute reports that designers have turned their attention to this newly important area of American life, with the happy result that shoes strictly for walking have never been more beautiful.

Heels in this category span a rather broad area from medium high to the all-but-lows. What they have in common is a sturdiness that makes motion sheer pleasure. And what the new lightweight walking shoes have in common is the sort of well-tailored zingy good looks that make pure comfort pure fashion.

TAILORED TIES

Straps and little tailored ties have a special affinity for walking, but all the best of the season's news is here, from open heels and toes to bared shanks, slender shapings, stitchings, inlays, bows. Downright flats are causing a fashion flurry, with dashing kiltie tongues, ghillie ties, oxford lacings, all the spring excitements.

The new walker might be a cut down shaping in celery stalk kid with a sturdily set back heel. It might be a dapper patent with wide open shank cutout and a proper dancing class heel, a style that is clearly cut out for town. Or it might head for the country in a grainy camel with sturdy lacings and gaucho stacked heel.

For a walk on the mild side, there are batches of walkers in the paled neutrals. Try a boot look here. This could be an ankle topper in natural colored straw on a medium heel, or a high fronted, bare-backed suede in chalky tan.

DON'T DISCOUNT

Don't discount the importance of the sandal for walking. Broadly banded vamps and T-straps are favorites here. So are the open-backed shapes which may take to closed or open toes. Shanks might be bared completely or they may have strategic openings in almost any shape.

For the coolest walk in town try a mule, which is entering the season as an odds-on favorite. When the mule takes to walking it is usually broadly strapped across the instep or rises to a high throated look for added support.

Whatever their own personal signature, says the National Shoe Institute, the new season's styles insure that every woman can walk in beauty.

Walking as pleasure, walking as pastime, walking for the sheer joy of it, is giving new dimensions to the lives of many Americans. And not least among these dimensions is the one of a long and healthy life.

SPRING'S SOFTENED LOOK is interpreted in a taupey grosgrain for afternoon - into-evening.

ROLE CITED

Slippers Popular In Home Styles

The new importance of entertaining at home has given slippers front-ranking fashion status, reports the National Shoe Institute, and designers have created new shapes that can assume a public or private role for "at home" or merely quietly at home.

For party giving or patio sitting, for backyard, bath and boudoir the new at home styles are adding fresh sparkle to this season's private lives.

THONGS

There are thongs hung with jingling golden bells, straw and fabric flats with pancake heels and jungle-printed linings. There are patent slippers with the shape of an authentic toe dancing shoe.

There are flag-striped kid softies, wildly printed canvas creations, harem-toed flats or spiderweb mesh.

The open-end concept, the new-again mule, is on familiar ground here. At is entertaining best when heels are in the middling to high range, the new backless shape might also take a lowdown approach to patio or poolside.

One fancy little flat is all floppy, dottde swiss bow from toe to where the tan takes over. Another, in creamy china silk, has a high buttoned throat, bare back, and a slender heel that soars straight into sorcery.

Tortoise shell patent trims a number of the new designs. So do flowers, grosgrain bows, beading, and reptile prints.

Brocades and gold-shot silks, coarse linen weaves and pearlized kid, kitten-ear suedes and metallic patents, all are part of the story for the sunny season.

All these little nothings are worth everything for spring.

Footwear Adds New Glamour

Decorative shoes with scroll overlay, up front design or a narrow strap just above a pared down throatline add drama to sportive daytime costumes, according to the National Shoe Institute.

SHINING UP SHOES

Carnauba wax, which comes from a Brazilian palm tree, does a first rate job of conditioning leather and putting a shine on shoes, according to the National Shoe Institute.

Fresh Designs Enhance Shoes

Spring is traditionally the time for growth, and the fashion world is not immune to this persuasive force. Ideas conceived in the fall are given further development. New ones are expressed. Here are three of the new ideas that are giving fashion spring fever.

New designs in leather are the prettiest idea ever to add a fling to fashion, says the National Shoe Institute. They may be in a color that contrasts with the rest of the shoe or they may take the most subtle tone-on-tone variations.

Springlings of black geometrical shapings add drama to an alabaster shoe. Half moons or leaf designs in muted pastels give a sense of spring softness to a town shoe in celery stalk kid.

BRAIDED ROPE

They may run to braided or rope designs, or gay Matisse flowers in every sunstruck color. They appear as bittersweet swirls on shoes of milk chocolate suede, or deep navy flowers on kid shells of a brighter blue.

Corfam, a new-man made material, will debut this spring. Presented in a sleek, smooth finish, several richly grained textures and a velvety napped finish, its impeccable look is causing a flurry of excitement in the fashion world. It takes to all the springtime colors and has a remarkable resistance to fading.

FABRICS

Fabrics for the coming season have a special flair for fashion. Linens and laces, twills and tweeds, silks and straws, every fabric that takes to color is in the swatchbook for spring. All the prints that fit the news are here. Prints on the wild side, soft flower designs, art nouveau and art African motifs, dark jungle blooms, all are contributing to a truly exciting new season.

Adult Designs Set The Pace For Children

Children's shoes are once again playing follow the leader with adult designs. The happy result is a batch of young styles that are lightweight, simple and modified and graceful in shape.

Following the firm commitment to good fit, which should be every parent's first concern in shopping for children's shoes, solid construction and style are the prime requisites. The National Shoe Institute reports that children's shoes this season have been designed with all of these considerations in mind.

FOR LITTLE GIRLS

Shoes for little girls are opened for the season. Shanks are bared in latticework designs or swoopy serpentines. Sometimes the cut out section is disciplined into rectangular or square shaping. Usually, to insure firm support, the cut out is confined to the outer edge of the shoe.

For school and play there are patent saddles, oxfords, ghillies and sandals with an authentic Italian flavor. These are favorites in bronzes, off-whites, tans and delicious malt flavorings as well as black and red. Their

Boys' shoes are designed for rough and tumble wear. Dress shoes are often brogues, but slipons are favorites too. In every style the trend is toward lightweight construction.

Feet Deserve Best Of Care, Say Experts

Your feet will carry you approximately 7½ miles today. If that sounds like a great deal, a little figuring will show that they will take you on a lifetime journey of about 65,000 miles. And if you happen to weigh 165 pounds, your feet take a daily load equivalent to 2 million pounds!

The American Podiatry Association, which believes that these marvelously efficient workers deserve the best of care, has announced that its annual Foot Health Week will take place between May 15th and 22nd this year. The objective of Foot Health Week is to impress upon the public the importance of preventing and treating foot disorders.

NO VACCINE

Earl G. Kaplan, DSC, president of the American Podiatry Association, points out that there is no vaccine or pill which can prevent foot disorders. The only way is to take great care in the purchase and fitting of shoes and to make a visit to a podiatrist part of the regular health routine.

Parents can prevent many foot problems by including an examination by a podiatrist in their children's regular check-ups and by teaching (and learning) good foot health habits.

As in the formation of any other good habit, the earlier the easier. That lifetime journey of 65,000 miles can be virtually carefree if the right steps are taken with the first steps.

PATENTLY delicate, this inky afternoon shoe is cut out in a swooping serpertine.

Walk Helps Put An End To Fatigue

Planning to do the New York World's Fair? You may walk as many as ten miles each day you're there, says the National Shoe Institute.

But don't let it worry you and don't say you're tired because you are walking so much. On the contrary, according to Dr. Harry Johnson of the Life Extension Foundation, exercise (including walking) is one of the best antidotes for fatigue.

In Dr. Johnson's opinion, you cannot overdo walking as an exercise, so start a daily regimen now to get in shape for the Fair.

MIGHT SURPRISE

You might even surprise yourself with an extra dividend in the form of some needed weight loss.

The consensus of a recent symposium on the Prevention of Obesity was that walking could supply the amount of regular exercise required to maintain normal weight.

Walking, it was pointed out, involves the whole body. A man driving a car consumes 97 calories over a distance of two miles, but a man walking that same distance uses up 210 calories!

When compared to sports, walking scores again, because in walking the body moves constantly; in most sports, intermittently.

As an example, for an hour of tennis, a player may be in motion about a third of the time and standing the rest of the time. Thus, his or her metabolism will burn up an average of 3.5 calories a minute. The same person walking outdoors will use 3.7 calories per minute with much less strain on the heart.

ADVICE

The doctors advise, therefore:

(1) Try a walk at least 15 minutes three times a day.

(2) As you walk, make every step count. Don't walk so fast that you become short of breath; go just briskly enough so that after you're finished you feel as if you have accomplished something.

(3) Breathe deeply as you walk.

(4) Walk erect, with arms swinging. Walking, properly done, exercises every muscle of the body including the arms and back.

If you're a man, make it a rule, when you're tired after a long day's work, to walk home from the office or from the station. If that's too far, get off the bus several blocks from home and let your body recuperate in the most healthful, natural way: through physical exercise.

Try walking as you do your rounds of neighborhood errands. Or walk just for the pleasure of it and see what a new source of energy and enjoyment this habit can be.

ROLE CITED

Slippers Popular In Home Styles

The new importance of entertaining at home has given slippers front-ranking fashion status, reports the National Shoe Institute, and designers have created new shapes that can assume a public or private role for "at home" or merely quietly at home.

For party giving or patio sitting, for backyard, bath and boudoir the new at home styles are adding fresh sparkle to this season's private lives.

THONGS

There are thongs hung with jingling golden bells, straw and fabric flats with pancake heels and jungle-printed linings. There are patent slippers with the shape of an authentic toe dancing shoe.

There are flag-striped kid softies, wildly printed canvas creations, harem-toed flats or spiderweb mesh.

The open-end concept, the new-again mule, is on familiar ground here. At is entertaining best when heels are in the middling to high range, the new backless shape might also take a lowdown approach to patio or poolside.

One fancy little flat is all floppy, dottde swiss bow from toe to where the tan takes over. Another, in creamy china silk, has a high buttoned throat, bare back, and a slender heel that soars straight into sorcery.

Tortoise shell patent trims a number of the new designs. So do flowers, grosgrain bows, beading, and reptile prints.

Brocades and gold-shot silks, coarse linen weaves and pearlized kid, kitten-ear suedes and metallic patents, all are part of the story for the sunny season.

All these little nothings are worth everything for spring.

Footwear Adds New Glamour

Beautiful shoes, like fascinating wigs, work wonders in making a woman more feminine and more glamorous.

Decorative shoes with scroll overlay, up front design or a narrow strap just above a pared down throatline add drama to sportive daytime costumes, according to the National Shoe Institute.

SHINING UP SHOES

Carnauba wax, which comes from a Brazilian palm tree, does a first rate job of conditioning leather and putting a shine on shoes, according to the National Shoe Institute.

LEATHERS, FABRICS

Fresh Designs Enhance Shoes

Spring is traditionally the time for growth, and the fashion world is not immune to this persuasive force. Ideas conceived in the fall are given further development. New ones are expressed. Here are three of the new ideas that are giving fashion spring fever.

New designs in leather are the prettiest idea ever to add a fling to fashion, says the National Shoe Institute. They may be in a color that contrasts with the rest of the shoe or they may take the most subtle tone-on-tone variations.

Springlings of black geometrical shapings add drama to an alabaster shoe. Half moons or leaf designs in muted pastels give a sense of spring softness to a town shoe in celery stalk kid.

BRAIDED ROPE

They may run to braided or rope designs, or gay Matisse flowers in every sunstruck color. They appear as bittersweet swirls on shoes of milk chocolate suede, or deep navy flowers on kid shells of a brighter blue.

Corfam, a new-man made material, will debut this spring. Presented in a sleek, smooth finish, several richly grained textures and a velvety napped finish, its impeccable look is causing a flurry of excitement in the fashion world. It takes to all the springtime colors and has a remarkable resistance to fading.

FABRICS

Fabrics for the coming season have a special flair for fashion. Linens and laces, twills and tweeds, silks and straws, every fabric that takes to color is in the swatchbook for spring. All the prints that fit the news are here. Prints on the wild side, soft flower designs, art nouveau and art African motifs, dark jungle blooms, all are contributing to a truly exciting new season.
